PLUMBING

T. F. BURNS

WOMAN'S APPAREL STORE, NEW LONDON, LOOTED OF GARMENTS WORTH $3,000

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 3—Burglars made their biggest haul in New London in a long time last night or early this morning, probably the latter, at the woman's apparel shop kept by Jacob Tarnapol, 130 Bank street. They got away with apparel of the estimated value of $3,000. The loot included cloth coats, fur coats and dresses, of small or medium sizes.

The break was discovered at 8 o'clock this morning when Tarnapol opened the store for business. There was ample evidence of the burglary once the proprietor had opened the door and entered the store for the interior was littered with disturbed stock. The police were notified and Sergeant John Cavanaugh and Patrolman Braxton Hill were assigned to the case, the latter because of the burglary having been perpetrated on his beat. The officer conducted a systematic investigation, but other than determining the method the thieves used in committing the burglary, nothing was revealed that would tend to lead to a capture. The crooks forced a rear window and upon entering the basement removed one of two hot-air pipes leading from the furnace to a register in the floor and which led to the store proper. The register was then removed and one of the crooks climbed to where the large assortment of stock was stored. The coats and dresses were assembled and passed to the second crook in the basement who placed the loot either in an automobile, it is believed, or carried it to a boat moored at the waterfront less than 200 feet away from the store.

It is believed that the burglars were familiar with the interior of the store and the movements of the police and that the break occurred immediately after the night shift of police went off duty at 3 o'clock. After that hour there are but four officers on duty and they are centered in the vicinity of State and Bank streets. No officer patrols Bank street after 3 o'clock, so that burglars would be almost sure to proceed about their work undetected after that hour. There work in forcing an entrance would also be made without detection for theer are trains almost constantly passing the rear of the building within 100 feet of where the thieves forced entrance, so that any noise the crooks might make would be overcome by the rumbling of cars or the puffing of locomotives.

Two Waterford men recovered automobiles that had been stolen from them today. The Hartford police notified the New London police that they had been informed by the New Bedford police that they had recovered an automobile owned by Hoffman Bailey, of Waterford. The automobile was stolen from Waller street Sept. 29th when Bailey, who is employed as janitor by the Y. M. C. A. parked it there two hours. The other automobile recovered is owned by Walter Scott, of Quaker Hill, and was found secreted in a secluded spot in Waterford. Th eautomobile had been painted in an endeavor to prevent identification, or at least make identification more difficult. Lynn Watrous, of Waterford, was arrested by Constable Chester H. Brigham charged with the theft. Watrous denies stealing the automobile, but he was in possession of it when arrested.

The funeral of Leah E., wife of Capt. George H. Crandall, was held this afternoon at 3:30 o'clock at the Methodist Episcopal church and was attended by a large gathering of mourners. The services were conducted by Rev. Charles F. Spaulding. The bearers were William H. Crawford, Frank Webber, Everett Winslow, Alonzo McKown, David Sheehan and Arthur Winslow. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

The funeral of Peter Tulley, of Palmertown, was held this morning at 9 o'clock at St. John's church, Montville and was attended by a large assemblage of mourners. A mass of requiem was celebrated by Rev. Fr. Barry, of Hartford. The bearers were John Doyle, Daniel Devine, Thomas Doyle, Patrick Monahan, Timothy Shea and John Aeveek. Burial was in St. Patrick's cemetery, Montville.

The funeral of Ada R., wife of Capt. David A. Weed, held this afternoon at 3 o'clock at the Methodist church, was attended by many mourning friends. The services were conducted by Rev. Charles F. Spaulding. The bearers were Cecil Beebe, William Reed, Eugene Kent and Walter Reed. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Mrs. Rosanna Young, wife of James Young, died this morning at her home in Waterford, after a lingering illness. Mrs. Young, besides her husband, is survived by a son, Peter Young and a daughter, Mrs. Paul Schargues, both of Waterford and by two brothers, Patrick and Luke Daly, of Holyoke, Mass.

Edward Cuddy, about 65, died this morning at his residence 42 Prest street, after an illness of several months. He is survived by his wife and five daughters, Misses Lena and Marguerite Cuddy; Mrs. Dennis Hesney, Mrs. John L. Brown and Mrs. Harold Aldrich, all of this city and by a son, Edward Cuddy, also of New London. Mr. Cuddy was born in Ireland, but had resided in New London practically his entire life. He had been employed in the city's highway department during the greater part of his residence here.

Mrs. Ruby Chapman and infant son, of Groton; Mrs. Michael White, 6 Union street; Mrs. Leroy Forsythe, Waterford; Mrs. James R. Meuse and infant daughter, Mystic; Mrs. Edward Robinson, Blackhall street, and Mrs. Herbert Johnson, of Montauk avenue, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged Saturday and Sunday.

Josephine Santicelli has sold a house and lot on Mountain avenue to Charles Benanti.

Chester L. and Jessie Howe have sold to Edward H. and Phyllis Z. Sueswith a house and lot on Montauk avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray Patten, of Groton street; Mrs. Harold Cruise and father, John Austin, Beckwith street and Miss Elizabeth T. Roath, Montauk avenue, returned Sunday night after a motor trip over the Mohawk Trail, returning to New London over the Storm King highway and Bear Mountain.

Mrs. Addie Champion, of Groton, has returned home, having spent a fortnight with friends in South Norwalk.

The Town and County branch of the New London Y. M. C. A., is making plans for the season. A meeting of the Committee of Management was held recently but the attendance did not reach a quorum. A number of matters, however, were put in form of recommendations for action at a special meeting of the Board of Managers to be held this month. The physical work of the branch is a big item, and it was decided that a commitee representing the various groups which would come into the physical work of the branch should be called together soon, to investigate the possibility of the formation of an athletic association. Bowling, basketball, volleyball and baseball claim the interest of many in the area, and it is felt that one athletic association, as a part of the branch organization, might well handle all details of the formation of such leagues, as well as the details of the aquatic, indoor and outdoor meets, both local and state, in which the branch participates. The baseball league, sponsored by the branch this past spring, was in difficulties because of the lack of such machinery. Executive Secretary H. W. Hicks was asked to appoint members of this committee and call a meeting as soon as possible that the matter might be discussed. Representation on the State physical education committee has been granted the branch, and the appointment of someone to represent the branch was discussed, and it is expected the member will be appointed at the special meeting of the board. The branch is to be represented by one adult member, one secondary school boy, one employed boy and the executive secretary on the State Boys' council which acts upon various matters of interest to the work of the Y. M. C. A. of the state with regard to the boy life. The special meeting is being called for Tuesday, October 11th, with supper in the New London Y.

YANTIC MAN COMPLAINS AGAINST RECKLESS DRIVER

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 3—Harold B. Hale, a colored man, of 49 Hempstead street was in the Groton town court this morning charged with speeding. He was fined $10 and costs, amounting to $17.55. The case was continued a week to permit Hale, who is a garage employe to make payment. Hale was arrested last evening in Groton by Patrolman Edmund Griswold upon complaint of George B. Gaskell, of Yantic. Gaskell made complaint to Patrolman Griswold, saying that both automobiles were headed toward New London and on Griswold Hill, that Hale, in passing Gaskell caused the latter auto to be forced off the highway. Gaskell overtook Hale at Mitchell street, Groton and demanded of Hale that the latter show his license. This the New Londoner refused to do. Patrolman Griswold was found at School and Thames streets and he followed the auto to the approach of the Thames river bridge, where Hale was held up and his license taken from him. Hale was arrested on a charge of reckless driving, but the complaint was amended today. Hale wil be prosecuted in the New London police court tomorrow ona charge of driving without a license for he was arrested here a half hour after the accident when his car collided on Howard street with an automobile owned by William Buckley, of Mohegan avenue.

MYSTIC FISH TRUCK BUMPS CAR OF WILLIAM BEATRICE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 3—An automobile diven by William Beatrice, 56 Shaw street, was wrecked tonight and Beatrice narrowly averted serious injury when it was struck by a five-ton truck, owned by H. J. Mariole, of Mystic, proprietor of a fleet of Arrow Line trucks, operating between Mystic and New York, and driven by Ernest (Slim) Coe, of this city, tonight. The truck, laden with fish and bound for New York, was passing through New London at 8 o'clock and on Bank street, was being driven at an estimated speed of 20 miles an hour. As the truck approached Pearl street, the auto driven by Beatrice and headed in the opposite direction to that which the truck was traveling, turned in an effort of the driver to reach Pearl street before the truck passed the intersection. Beatrice was unsuccessful, for the pleasure auto was struck with terrific force and was dragged about 75 feet before the truck was brought to a stop.

A United States Coast Guard sailor, state pier, was found drunk on Green street tonight by the shore patrol and when the guard appeared the sailor retreated to the entrance of the sailors' locker room on that street. He entered the building and ascended a flight of stairs. When one of the patrol appeared the sailor hurled a bottle at the former, but it did not reach its mark. The sailor was arrested and when approaching police headquarters he started to battle the guard, but he was taken to a cell.

Milton Miller, 13 1-2 Tilley street, who says he is a retired merchant, but whose name does not appear in the city directory, was arrested this afternoon by Traffic Officer Clyde Murphy and Patrolman Ernest Opperman charged with failing to send his daughter, Marian Miller, 8, to attend a public school regularly. Miller, who was arrested on a warrant issued by Acting Prosecuting Attorney Perry J. Hollandersky on complaint of school authorities, will be in the police court tomorrow. Miller does not act as if he is of entirely sound mentality.

Alex Formay, alias Fournier, was arrested this afternoon by Sergeant Nelson Smith for safe keeping. Formay was about the streets and acting queerly. He may be examined to determine his mentality.

Patrolman Albert Iverson this afternoon reported at police headquarters that an automobile owned by Mrs. R. C. Dinmore, 58 Howard street, had been parked on Woodbridge street, more than 24 hours, which is a violation of the city's parking laws. The auto was removed to a garage and placed in storage.

Mrs. Isadore Sarinsky, and infant son, of 65 Denison avenue; Edward Buzenski, 8 Hill street; Mrs. Edward McEnaney and infant son, 32 Grand street; Mrs. John Morgan, Old Lyme and Ronald Morgan, Old Lyme, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Announcement has been received in New London of the marriage at Los Angeles, Cal., of Miss Lois E. Rogers, daughter of Mrs. Emma Rogers, 24 Linden street this city, to Asby McGraw, Los Angeles. Mr. McGraw is the son of Rev. John A. McGraw of Newberry, S. C.

Walter Charbonneau, of High street, Groton, was fined $25 and costs, the latter amounting to $11.70 when presented before Judge Cornelius C. Costello in the Groton town court on a charge of breach of the peace. Charbonneau pleaded not guilty, but he was convicted upon the evidence of his wife, Mary, to whom he administered a severe beating a short time before he was arrested on Thames street by Patrolman Fay Chapman, at 2:45 o'clock today. Chapman was attracted to Thames street by Charbonneau and his wife and approaching them he observed that the woman was severely bruised. When questioned she declared that her husband had inflicted the wounds. He was in his stocking feet and had but a comparatively short time before taken Mrs. Charbonneau for a ride.

Also Panceria, of Westerly, charged with speeding, was fined $10 and costs, the latter amounting to $22.55. The case had been continued several times. Panceria was arrested Aug. 26 on the Old Mystic road after his car had collided with another auto. At the time, Panceria was charged with reckless driving, but today the amended complaint was demurred to by counsel for Panceria. The demurrer was overruled and Panceria was fined.

TWO ACCIDENTS TO CAR— BOTH DUE TO HEAVY FOG

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 3—An automobile driven by William Crocker, colored, of Shaw street, and occupied by Mrs. Crocker and friends, was wrecked between Westerly and Stonington this morning and as a result of the crash Mrs. Crocker is a patient in Lawrence-Memorial hospital suffering from lacerations and contusions. The auto was being driven toward New London and a fand fog interfered with the vision of the driver. The auto ran off the highway and overturned, throwing the occupants out and damaging the top and windshield of the car. The auto was righted and the trip was resumed to this city. The fog element again figured in the accidents for the auto crashed against a tree when the brakes that had become defective through the previous accident, refused to function. This time the occupants were hurled out and Mrs. Crocker was painfully injured. The automobile was towed to a garage and a passing motorist brought the occupants to New London and Mrs. Crocker was taken to the hospital. The others sustained only slight injuries.

When the police court convened today there were about 40 cases to claim the attention of Judge Victor Prince. Most of the cases were for intoxication, breach of the peace, in some instances both and violations of the city's traffic and parking ordinances. About a dozen cases of intoxication were disposed of, a minimum fine being imposed or the accused being given suspensions of judgment. As many more cases of violations of the traffic and parking laws enriched the city treasury somewhat, for none of the violators presented themselves in court and the usual nominal bond required at the time of arrest, $2, was declared forfeited in each case. Tony Ripoli, 82 Woodbridge street, charged with breach of the peace in creating a disturbance at the Empire theatre Sunday night, was in court, but a continuance of the case was ordered until the 5th inst. Ripoli is accused of gathering there with other boys, making a nuisance of himself and causing annoyance to patrons. The case of Frank Perry, a youth charged with the theft of tickets from the Lyceum theatre, did not come to trial, the case going over until Wednesday.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today ordered the return of the drivers' licenses of Tony Caldrella, 821 Bank street and Sam Martin, 187 Main street.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theater

What a treat is in store for patrons of the Palace. With vaudeville such as you rarely see you will be entertained with a real big time stuff. The Lovenberg Sisters and Neary revue is just the sort of act that everyone likes to see. Seven people comprise the cast and we wish to go on record as saying that they are the best act of it's kind seen for many a day. Mack and Stenton the tramp comedians are a howl, their material is refreshingly funny and the act clever all through. Walter Kelly and company, the "Western Union" skit is perfect and as good as anything in it's line. Ben Ross, that personality kid, with a voice as smart as himself is right there with the punch. Boyd and Wallen, two acrobats of exceptional talent open the bill with neat balancing stunts. Truly a wonderful show and we say see it by all means.

You won't mind staying out all night to see "Out All Night." Universal's production by that name, with as great a cast of clever comedians as you ever saw assembled in one picture, opened an engagement of three days at the Palace.

Reginald Denny, the brilliant farceur, already well-known to screen fans throughout the world for his work in "I'll show You the Town," "Skinner's Dress Suit," "Fast and Furious," and other pictures, gives a performance in the leading role of "Out All Night" which should long be remembered.

Star though he is, Mr. Denny has to troupe to dominate the picture, for the supporting cast contains such capable plays as Marian Nixon, Ben Hendricks, Jr., Dorothy Earle, Dan Mason, and Wheeler Oakman. The work of these add much to the merriment of the whole show.

Denny, as the man about town who marries a cute little ballet dancer, is delightful always, and the story injects him into all manner of strange and embarrassing situations. The complications that involve Denny provide more sidesplitting mirth than has been screened for some time.

Masquerading as a ship's physician, he embarks with his newly-wed wife who is a show trouper, and their trip to London is a series of embarrassing maneuvers so that he may see her. The wedding must be kept secret because of a clause in Molly O'Day's contract which calls for a forfeit of $100,000 if she should marry. It all ends in a mad farce in mid-ocean, chuck full of laughs and entertainment.

Some gazellies of the Far East and llamas of Patagonia never feel the pangs of thirst; they are so constituted that drink is unnecessary to them.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theater

Spectacular, entertaining and convincing! Never has the screen offered anything to compare with "The Parade," King Vidor production for Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starring John Gilbert, which opened last night at the Broadway theater. It is a picture that will haunt the memory forever.

To see this amazing film is to live through the period of the great conflict as only those who reached the front lived through it. The hundreds of tales told by the veterans themselves and the thousands of books written about the war pale into insignificance before these vital, glowing, richly dramatized scenes of an American doughboy's adventures in France.

Director Vidor and Laurence Stallings, author of "The Big Parade," himself a veteran who contributed a leg to the cause, have created at least four authentically human characters in telling his story: Jim Apperson, the film's central figure, superbly played by John Gilbert; Slim and Bull, his buddies, irresistibly brought to life by Karl Dane and Tom O'Brien, and Melisande, a French peasant girl delightfully portrayed by Renee Adoree. These four characters move through the maelstrom of the war in scenes that, whether comic or tragic, are always profoundly fascinating.

The spectacular scenes at the front in the succeeding half of the film begar description. Jim's pals are killed, he himself is wounded; he returns home minus a leg, finds his girl engaged to his brother and returns to France to seek Melisande.

This in bare outline is "The Big Parade," the finest and greatest of all big pictures. It must be seen to be appreciated.

Coming Thursday for three days, "Stark Love" a thrilling story of the primitive mountaineers of North Carolina filmed in their native nooks.

Breed Theater

"The Tender Hour," George Fitzmaurice's initial production for First National, which closes tonight at the Breed theater, is proving one of the most poular screen offerings shown in this city in months.

With Billie Dove and Ben Lyon heading the cast of prominent players, "The Tender Hour" is one of the director's most spectacular efforts. The story is laid in Paris and Russia before the war, and the picture is rich in colorful scenes.

John McCormick, general manager of West Coast production for First National, has given Fitzmaurice everything possible in rich settings and costumes, and the director, long noted for his picturesque and colorful work, has surpassed all his previous efforts in "The Tender Hour."

In addition to Miss Dove and Mr. Lyon, the large cast includes Alec B. Fracis in a featured role. Montagu Love, Laska Winter and other players. The picture is based on an original story by Carey Wilson.

"The Secret Studio," a romance of artists and models and their gay lives, is a fascinating revelation of the Latin Quarter of Greenwich Village. It will have a two day showing at the Breed theater commencing tomorrow, Wednesday.

CLEAN SWEEP MADE BY WINDHAM REPUBLICANS

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 3—The republicans swept their candidates into office in the town elections of Windham today by polling an average majority of over 400 votes in a slow day of balloting that brought by 94 over half of the total voting list of the township. With the bi-ennial town elections coming into effect in the fall of 1928 all offices today were for one year with the exception of two members of the town school committee which were fr three years. The use of voting machines was inaugurated here today and proved quite satisfactory from a standpoint of expediency. As rear as politicians could figure out their outstanding detriment was in keeping from the polls such persons who had not taken previous opportunity to familiarize themselves with their operations. Due to inexperience in their handling, final returns were not announced until shortly after 7 o'clock, over two hours after the closing of the polls but this is an improvement of several hours over the Australian ballot and a condition which will be further improved in time. The voting machines were rented for the elections and will also be used in the city elections th 5th of December.

With the exception of the third ward which has always been normally democratic, the republican majority was decisive in the remaining three wards. Alfred P. Abbe, candidate for second constable, ran ahead of his ticket with a majority of 586 against Joseph Peck, his opponent. Of 6106 names on the lists, 2100 voted. The list by wards and the number who voted follows: 1st, 1073, 474; 2nd, 2214, 1124; 3rd, 1327, 651; 4th, 1492, 833. Frank P. Fenton, democrat, candidate for both parties for the positions of town clerk and town treasurer drew a republican majority of 433 and 440 for these respective offices.

A force of 41 men was necessary to conduct the elections. Town clerk Frank P. Fenton was by law official custdian of the voting machines; James J. Lee official democratic mechanic and Herbert Green official republican mechanic. Other officers for the elections were: First district, George E. Gifford, chief moderator; William Piche and Richard Mosely, voting machine tender; John C. Barstow and William V. Palmer, checkers; W. F. Jacobs and William F. Lennon, challengers; Patrick Connell and Elmer M. Young, registrars.

Second district—Patrick J. Twomey, moderator; Anthony Herrin, John O'Neill, H. O. Eccleston and C. Howard Chaffee, voting machine tenders; Lewye G. Gerry and William O'Brien, checkers; Frank M. Lincoln and William S. Congdon, challengers; Gilbert P. Flynn and John Harvey, challengers.

Third district—Charles R. Cone, moderator; Thomas Tennant and William B. Grady, voting machine tenders; Russell A. Andrews and James Casey, checkers; William B. Sweeney and G. Leroy Howlett, challengers; William Meehan and John Boss, registrars.

Fourth district—Robert O. Snow, moderator; E. F. Ellsworth and Joseph P. Cotter, voting machine tenders; Frank H. Foss and J. Benoit, checkers; John A. McKenna and Arthur E. Taylor, challengers; William A. Dawson and James F. Twomey, registrars.

Final returns were compiled by first district checkers, John C. Barstow and William V. Palmer. Candidates were declared elected by Moderator-in-Chief George E. Gifford and the annual meeting then adjourned until two o'clock next Saturday afternoon when the business will be conducted.

GREENEVILLE ARMS CO. SEEKS TO HAVE DANGER AT CROSSING MINIMIZED

At the October meeting of the court of common council Monday evening at the council chamber Clifford Crary was appointed a member of the regular police force, being moved from the supernumerary list to the regular list. Mayor Milo R. Waters called the meeting to order at 8:15 o'clock and the minutes of the previous meeting were accepted without reading, according to custom. Petitions were received and disposed of as follows:

For a grade for a sidewalk on the northerly side of Ripley street, from W. R. Balcolm, et al., referred to the public works department.

For a street light on the westerly side of School street about opposite the houses at numbers No. 26 and No. 38, from Wm. H. Shields, Jr., et al., referred to the police committee with power.

For a street light on McKinley avenue, near upper end, from Mrs. Harriet P. Tufts, et al., referred to the police committee with power.

From Roy B. Clarke, et al., asking that Shetucket street be properly cleaned of rubbish and papers in front of their places of business; referred to the public works committee.

A letter from the Davis-Warner Arms Corp., asking the city to take some action in minimizing the danger to travellers at the 12th street railroad crossing was referred to the finance committee. The letter follows:

Gentlemen :

We are much concerned about the inherent dargers attendant upon the use of the private way at the Twelfth street crossing leading to our property. As you are doubtless aware, one of our employes, George Blatherwick, was instantly killed at this crossing a few weeks ago. A few years ago Mr. C D. Chester, was killed at this crossing. Since these fatalities two other of our employes have very nearly met the same fate at precisely this same grade crossing.

The crossing is particularly dangerous from the fact of the curve at the west and the high embankments covered with brush which obscure approach of trains from view of traffic pasing westerly, next to the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad property.

We understand, of course, that the way leading to Twelfth street across the property of the railroad to our property is a private way, but we also know that the city has occasionally made repairs at or near this crossing. We assume that little or no change has been made in regulations for speed of trains or the blowing of whistles since Greeneville was made a part of the city of Norwich.

With a view to public safety, we are writing you in the hope that you will be sufficiently interested in our appeal so that some method may be followed whereby the dangers to travelers at this crossing may be at least materially minimized.

Thanking you for whatever consideration you may feel warranted in giving our appeal, we remain

Very respectfully yours,
The Davis-Warner Arms Corporation,
L. G. ANDREWS, Pres.

Mayor Waters stated that he had received a similar letter from the Davis-Warner Arms Corp., some time ago and had taken the matter up with Divisional Supt. Smith of the railroad who informed him he would look into the matter and see what could be done. The crossing is a private way and therefore the city has no authority to act. The council referred the communication to the finance committee who will again take the matter up with Mr. Smith.

The monthly reports of the street commissioner and the city treasurer and the quarterly reports of the fire marshal, cash statement of the water department and chief of police were received and accepted. The public works committee recommended that the street running from Cliff street to St. Joseph's church, and also that Ore, Copper and Silver streets be accepted by the city after the proper deeds have been presented. The recommendations were adopted by the council.

The police committee reported that the following petitions for lights have been granted. Petition of Samuel Taylor, et al., for a light northerly of the junction of Yantic and Washington streets; petition of the Callahan Oil Co., for a light on Thames street; petition of D. Sadinski for a light opposite 220 1-2 West Main street. The reports were accepted.

On recommendation of the police committee Clifford Crary was appointed a regular member of the police department. Officer Crary has been a supernumerary police officer for some time. The council authorized the city clerk to cast one ballot for Mr. Crary's election.

Settlement of Claim

On recommendation of the finance committee, the council authorized the city treasurer to pay to counsel for Louis Zimmerman the sum of $200 in full settlement of Mr. Zimmerman's claim against the city for a fall on Franklin street, December 6, 1926.

The council voted to accept the survey and plan for the city's new public playground and recreation field and to file the survey and plan in the land records of the city.

Invitation to Common Council

An invitation from the Terlizzessi, local Italian organization, to attend their dedication of colors at the state armory on October 12th was accepted. Machines will be provided to convey the council members to the exercises.

A claim from Mrs. Mary E. Murdock for $100 damages for a fall she sustained in a ditch on the New London turnpike near the corner of Otrabando avenue, was referred to the finance committee.

A second claim, for $250 damages, from Harry J. Schatz, was referred to the finance committee. Mr. Schatz brings the claim on the grounds that water from a clogged sewer on Church street, backed into his store at No. 14 Main street and damaged his stock.

LEADER OF REVOLUTION IN MEXICO HAS BEEN EXECUTED

General Serrano, Candidate For the Presidency, Was Shot, Together With Thirteen of His Most Prominent Followers—Government Reports That Plans Have Been Prepared to Crush the Rebellion—Rebels are Reported to Be Returning to Mexico City in Droves.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 4—(AP)—The iron hand of President Calles has already fallen upon the alleged instigators of the military revolt, less than 24 hours after the uprising started in Mexico City. General Francisco Serrano, candidate for the presidency, former war minister and once close friend of General Obregon, declared to be the main leader in the attempt against the government, was captured, court martialed and executed. Thirteen of his most prominent followers also paid the supreme penalty.

With the mutiny of three companies of the twenty garrisons in Mexico City at midnight Sunday, and reports of threatened risings in various parts of the republic, President Calles and General Obregon, whose aspirations for another term in the presidential chair are believed to have brought about the widespread movement of revolt immediately prepared plans for crushing the rebellion. General Obregon declared that he would withdraw his candidacy, if necessary, and take the field against the anti-Calles forces.

The names of those executed together with Serrano were given out as follows:

General Carlos A. Vidal, governor of the state if Chiapas; Generals Miguel and Daniel Peralta, Rafael Martinez Escobar, attorney and prominet political leader and supporter of General Arnolfo Gomez in the present presidential campaign; Alonso Capetilli, Augusto Pena, Antonio Jauregui, Ernesto Noriega Mendez, Octavio Almada, Jose Villa Arce, Attorney Otolio Gonzales, Enrique Monteverde and former General Carlos W. Ariza.

The revolt of the Torron garrison, which was admitted yesterday by President Calles, proved a sanguinary affair. There was a short sharp battle between the loyal troops and the rebellious officers and soldiers, which ended in victory for the government.

Lieutenant Colonel Augusto Manzanilla, in command of the Sixteenth battalion of the Torron garrison and all the officers of his staff were executed. The mutineers in the rank and file were disarmed. On this affair an official bulletin stated:

"Lieutenant Colonel Augusto Manzanilla and all the officers of the Sixteenth battalion were executed after their connection in the attempted revolt had been established.

"The general situation in Thelaguna district is satisfactory. Quiet prevails and adhesions to the government have been received.

(Signed) "General Jose Alvarez, Chief of the presidential staff."

The government declares that the mutineers who deserted the Mexican City garrison numbered only 800. Federal scout airplanes located them near Texcoco this morning, whereupon 2,500 federals were dispatched to that place from Mexico City to give battle. Federal airplanes meanwhile were preparing to bomb the rebels out of their positions.

President Calles is personally directing the military campaign from Chapultepec castle, where Secretary of War Amaro and General Alvarez, chief of the presidential staff, together with the highest army officers, are his active aides.

REBELS ARE RETURNING TO MEXICO CITY IN DROVES

NOGALES, Ariz., Oct. 4—(AP)—Rebels are returning to Mexico City in droves to throw themselves on the mercy of the government, said General Alvaro Obregon, ex-president and again a candidate, in a telephone conversation from Mexico City to Nogales, Sonora, late today.

General Obregon's statement, made over the telephone to his wife, Senora Maria Tapia de Obregon, living in Sonora, came on the heels of advices from other quarters of wholesale executions of captured enemies of the Calles government.

Senora Obregon reported her husband as saying that Mexico City was peaceful following the revolutionary flurry of Sunday and Monday.

Although the telephone wires between the border and the Mexican capital were open for the Obregon family conversation, they were closed tight against news messages from the interior.

Unconfirmed reports today to the Herald told of trouble in the southern portion of the state of Sinaloa, Mexico, and of a bandit attack at Laquemada, state of Tepic.

The trouble in Sinaloa was said to have been the outgrowth of political agitation over the race for the presidency.

ECONOMIC MEASURES TO COPE WITH REVOLT

EL PASO, Texas, Oct. 4—(AP)—Economic as well as military measures are being taken by the Calles government of Mexico against those involved in the military revolt that broke in Mexico City Sunday night with rebel manifestations in other parts of the republic.

Advices received here today said Mexican telegraph lines were carrying orders issued by the federal judicial department to its agents in various sections of the country to confiscate rebel property.

The judicial department was said to be acting under the law that makes the property of rebels revert to the government to be sold to raise money for defense against uprisings.

A dispatch from Mexico City said the Agrarist national party in session yesterday agreed to procure arms and ammunition for 10,000 ranchers who are members of the party. Sonto Gama, president of the party, asserted the Agrarians were ready to defend the government against any uprising in case of need

Vito Alesio Robles, prominent member of the anti-reelectionist party was arrested today at his home in Mexico City, dispatches said, and headquarters of the party have been abandoned.

A battle was reported taking place at Texcoco but no details have been received. Traffic between Mexico City and Puebla has been suspended because of the blowing up of a bridge at Ixtla.

All trains were reported as running on schedule with the exception of the Inter-Oceanic railway which is being held open for military trains moving toward Texcoco.

All roads to Puebla, Huachata and Cuernavaca are guarded by military forces and all vehicles are being searched.

GEN. GOMEZ AT HIS OLD HOME IN VERA CRUZ

NOGALES, Ariz., Oct. 4—(AP)—General Pablo E. Macias, who yesterday was made commandant of military in the state of Sonora, Mexico, late today received a telegram from Mexico City in which it was stated that General Arnulfo R. Gomez, presidential candidate and one of the alleged leaders in the revolt, was at his old home at Parote, Vera Cruz, Mexico.

KILLED HIS WIFE TO PUT HER OUT OF HER MISERY

MINNEAPOLIS, Oct. 4.—(AP)—Because his wife, who was ill, begged him to "put her out of her misery," Adolph Dyplina told police today that he killed her by beating her over the head with a lead pipe.

When she was dead, he said, he carried her to the bathroom and bathed her and then returned her to her bed. After taking a walk, he called an undertaker, saying his wife had died after a long illness.

Undertaker's assistants noticed traces of blood on the woman's head and notified the coroner's office. Investigation led to Dyplina's arrest today and his subsequent confession.

Dyplina, who is employed as a laborer by the Minneapolis Park board, said his wife had been ill for a long time and in great pain.

"She asked me, 'put me out of my misery,'" the statement read. "She even told me to hurry up, so I let her have four or five over the head."

Dyplina led police to the basement of his home and picked up a piece of lead pipe which he had behind the furnace. He said he had used the pipe in killing his wife.

When the undertaker's men arrived, Dyplina was washing dishes in the kitchen.

PROVIDENCE MAN SUES IN BRIDGEPORT FOR DIVORCE

BRIDGEPORT, Oct. 4—(AP)—Joseph Shaevitz, of Providence, R. I., is within his legal rights in bringing to the courts of this state his divorce action against Eva Kurlansky Shaevitz, of this city, Judge Alfred G. Baldwin rules in a memorandum of decision returned in superior court today. Through the decision a plea of abatement as to jurisdiction raised by counsel for Mrs. Shaevitz is overruled.

The action brought by Shaevitz is based upon an allegation of misconduct. Jack P. Segall, of Brooklyn, recently sentenced to a term of from three to five years in state's prison when convicted of a charge of statutory arson is named as co-respondent. Mrs. Shaevitz was at one time employed as forelady in Segall's Reduso Rubber Products company, of this city, and is herself soon to face trial upon a charge of being an accomplice in a fire of incendiary origin which swept through the factory on the night of May 3.

IOWA COAL STRIKE WAS SETTLED YESTERDAY

DES MOINES, Ia., Oct. 4—(AP)—The Iowa coal strike was settled late this afternoon and miners who have been out since April 1 last will return to work tomorrow.

Settlement was made following a meeting of the Iowa coal operators' association at which the operators agreed to settle on a plan similar to the one formulated last Saturday in Illinois.

Immediately following the operators' meeting Joe Morris, president of district 13, and other United Mine Workers of America officials were called in. They agreed to accept the settlement.

Morris and George Heaps, Jr., president of the operators, both confirmed the settlement and said: "Everything is ready to start digging tomorrow." The settlement will send approximately 9,000 union men back to work.

NEW ADMISSIONS MADE BY MRS. A. W. LILLIENDAHL

HAMMONTON, N. J., Oct. 4.—(AP)—Police, investigating the slaying of Dr. A. William Lilliendahl, near here September 15, were today again abruptly balked in their efforts to clear up the case when Mrs. Marguerite Lilliendahl, the widow, refused to do her part in re-enacting the scene in which her husband was shot and killed.

Mrs. Lilliendahl, at first agreeable to the plans of the police, refused to go through with her part on the advice of counsel.

Then in a desperate effort to glean something from the widow in order to help clear up the case, Chief of Detectives Frank J. Harrold, of Atlantic county, launched into a long examination in which he brought forth some things not before given him by Mrs. Lilliendahl.

Sitting in a red rocker in the living room of her home in South Vineland, Mrs. Lilliendahl, under the eye of her counsel, admitted to Harrold that she had received letters addressed to "Peggy Anderson" from William Beach, now a fugitive charged with being an accessory to the killing of the physician.

She also admitted that her husband had quarreled with Beach because of gossip.

Mrs. Lilliendahl also said she received the letters with the knowledge of her husband.

Quizzed about details of the killing which she had told detectives in her previous examinations had been done by two negroes, Mrs. Lilliendahl today was not certain that her husband's alleged assailants were negroes, adding that their hats were pulled down well over their faces and their hands might have been sunburned.

AKRON, OHIO, MAN BECAME LOST IN NEW YORK CITY

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—(AP)—This roaring metropolis, with a reputation for hard heartedness and indifference toward the stranger within its gates, graciously gave three hours of a policeman's time and a police car today to assist a bewildered old man in distress.

John Ealdkirk, 60, a retired railroad engineer of Akron, Ohio, came to the city with his wife on a second honeymoon. He ventured out of his hotel alone, lost his way and forgot the name of the hotel. He appealed to the police.

Patrolman Stephen Devine, armed with a list of hotels, took Waldkirk in a police car and began the rounds. Three hours of canvassing brought them to the Hotel Braztell where the clerk assured Waldkirk that he was registered.

As final act of friendliness the patrolman helped the engineer explain his absence to his wife.

Republicans Studying Presidential Timber

National Committee is Considering Available Candidates.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 4—(AP)—Conferences between Chairman William M. Butler and members of the Republican National committee were continued here today with consideration of available candidates apparently coming in for serious consideration.

As is usually the case when politicians gather to disucss national party affairs, there were various reports and rumors, among them one that the names of Charles Evans Hughes and Herbert Hoover were most frequently heard in the discussions.

It is evident that most of the republican leaders have accepted the president's Rapid City statement as definitely eliminating him from the 1928 race.

Friends of all of those who have been mentioned in connection with the nomination are actively engaged in promoting the fortunes of their favorites. An organization for former Governor Lowden, of Illinois, is actively engaged in many states, and, while their names may not be heard as frequently as some others, advocates of Vice President Dawes and Speaker Longworth insist that they occupy strategic positions at this time.

RORABACK KNOWS NOTHING OF WASHINGTON CONFERENCE

HARTFORD, Oct. 4—(AP)—Republican National Committeeman J. Henry Roraback, knows only what he has read in the newspapers of the conference of members of the republican national committee with National Chairman William M. Butler, in Washington, he said today. He received no invitation to the gathering held Monday, but today received a telegram from Chairman Butler asking him to a breakfast tomorrow morning at the White House. Business engagements in Hartford forced Mr. Roraback to decline the breakfast invitation.

Mr. Roraback has not committed himself on his preference for the city in which the republican national convention is to be held, he said today, although he has received many requests for his support from the cities which hope to be selected as the convention site.

Selection of the next convention city was one of the topics which is attracting the interest of the gathering in Washington according to despatches from that city. Final choice will not be made until a meeting of the national committee which will probably be held in January, although, Mr. Roraback pointed out today, there will be increasing talk of the convention city choice from now on. Mr. Roraback is a member of the executive committee of the national committee.

Mrs. Michael said her daughter had not been seen since she was deserted 2 years ago by her husband, George D. Yarrow, of Barnsboro, N. J., confessed slayer of 16-year-old Rose Sarlo. Should the body be exhumed, Mrs. Michael said she would ask a Harrisburg dentist to make an examination of the teeth, as dental work of the Camden murder victim who was never identified, was reported to resemble that of Mrs. Yarrow.

ABANDONING OF FORT McKINLEY IS ASSURED

PORTLAND, Maine, Oct. 4—(AP)—The abandonment of Fort McKinley, on Great Diamond Island, in Casco Bay, with its $8,000,000 worth of government buildings, the withdrawal of the Frst battalion of the Fifth U. S. infantry and atached troops, and the enlargement of Fort Williams into a self contained infantry post to accommodate an entire regiment, is practically assured, the Evening Express stated tonight.

Withdrawal of the Fifth infantry troops and the virtual abandonment of Fort McKinley, so far as the garrison is concerned, is in keeping with the war department policy of eliminating all island posts in Continental America and concentrating troops in mainland stations, it adds.

WATERBURY, Oct. 4—(AP)—Mayor Francis P. Guilfoile, democrat, was elected mayor for the fourth successive time in today's city election defeating ex-Mayor John P. Elton, the republican candidate by 700 majority. The election was the briskest in many years and resulted in rolling up the heaviest vote of any city election. Mayor Guilfoile's total vote was 12,955 and ex-Mayor Elton's, 12,255. Mayor Guilfoile led his ticket with the exception of the candidate for town clerk, Dora Egan, who received a vote of 13,461 to 11,966 for her opponent, John Barr.

REICHSBANK RAISES ITS REDISCOUNT RATE

BERLIN, Oct. 4—(AP)—The Reichsbank raised its discount rate today from 6 to 7 per cent. Many bankers, economists and industrialists expressed the opinion that Dr. Schacht's abrupt move will be harmful. As a reflex of the discount increase, all the banks and public institutions promptly raised their interest rate.

At a meeting of the Reichsbank today, Dr. Schacht stated that the discount raise was warranted by the startling increase in money circulation, which has reached the record of 615,000,000,000 marks, while the Reichsbank's bank note reserves were now reduced to 832,000,000 marks.

Dr. Schacht's statement is criticized by the Deutsche Allgemeine Zeitung, which declares that the Reichsbank, because of its "propaganda against foreign loans" is responsible for the present congestion of currency, making the discount increase necessary.

FUNERAL OF REV. JOHN D. COYLE IN NEW HAVEN

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Oct. 4—(AP)—Before the altar in St. John's church upon which he had served for many years the body of Rev. John D. Coyle, the pastor, lay in state this morning while a solemn high mass of requiem was celebrated by Rt. Rev. John J. Nilan, bishop of the diocese, and afterwards it was borne to St. Lawrence's cemetery for interment.

The great throng which sought entrance to the church numbered many whose religious belief is other than Roman Catholic, for Fr. Coyle in his many years of priestly service had had much to do with the civic life of the community. The respect also was accorded to the dead priest by many business men, who closed their places at noon for an hour which coordinated with the time Fr. Coyle's body was taken to its final resting place.

Bishop Nilan was assisted by many prominent priests upon the altar while some two hundred from parishes all over the state chanted the responses. Prior to the high mass a mass for the children of the parish was celebrated by Rev. William H. Coyle, S. J., brother of the dead pastor.

Many priests from other dioceses also were in the sanctuary. The body of mourners was so large that hundreds stood outside the church throughout the services. The guard of honor which had served while the body of the priest had lain in state in the church while thousands viewed it was from the Fourth Degree of the Knights of Columbus.

PASSING OF THE CRAMP SHIP BUILDING YARD

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 4—(AP)—With the delivery today of the passenger and freight steamship Evangeline, the long and historic career of the William Cramp and Sons Ship and Engine Building company came to an end.

When the Evangeline, built for the Eastern Steamship company of Boston and the 524th craft constructed at the plant since it was founded 97 years ago by William Cramp, slipped down the Delaware on her trial trip, all activities at the yard ceased. Eight deserted ways and a glaring "For Sale" sign on the 9-story office building told the story.

Officials attributed the passing of the famous plant to the inactivity of shipbuilding during peace times.

The yard saw the passing of the wooden ship and the birth of the ironclad when it constructed for the United States navy during the Lincoln administration the new Ironsides. It had built many battleships and other war craft for the navy. During the World war more than 11,000 men were employed at the yard.

FEAR FOR SAFETY OF GLOUCESTER SCHOONER

GLOUCESTER, Mass., Oct. 4—(AP)—On the eve of the day set as the outside limit for the return to port of the schooner Columbia, pride of Gloucester's fishing fleet, hope for the vessel's safety tonight had dwindled almost to the vanishing point. The owners of the Columbia, which sailed on a salt fishing cruise early in July, had allowed her until October 5 to make port with her fare of fish. News from the coast guard cutter Tampa, which is searching the banks off Nova Scotia for the missing fishermen, served to intensify the gloom among the Gloucestermen. The Tampa reported that she had searched the middle ground and all the other banks up to Scatterie, the northernmost bank off Nova Scotia, without sighting a trace of the vessel. Search would be continued until all hope was lost, the message said.

The Columbia, in command of Captain Lewis Wharton, carried a crew of 20 men, all but six of whom were shipped in Nova Scotia.

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 4.—John Sadlon of 339 East Seventy-fifth street, New York city, charged with attempt to defraud an insurance company by attempted arson, changed his plea to one of guilty at the ajourned criminal session of the Windham county superior court held here today. Judge L. P. Waldo Marvin was on the bench. The change of plea came after a conference with State's Atorney Howard C. Bradford by Sadlon's attorneys. The case was to have been heard by jury today. Sadlon is charged with having attempted to burn down a farmhouse owned by him in Ashford on June 2. He was arrested in New York city and it was necessary to secure extradition papers for his return to Ashford where he was arraigned in the town court on June 27. He was bound over to the September term of the Windham county superior court under bonds of $5,000. The bond was reduced to $3,000 after the accused had spent seven weeks in jail. Sadlon pleaded guilty today on condition of a jail sentence. At the request of his attorneys that he be allowed time to arrange his business in New York city the court deferred imposition of sentence until Friday, October 28. The same bonds were continued. Judge Marvin then summoned the jury panel and after roll call had been taken dismissed the talesmen until Thursday morning.

The case of F. Ward Rosebrooks of this city, charged with manslaughter on the afternoon of July 3, 1926, will be heard Thursday morning. A motor truck driven by Rosebrooks figured in a collision with a touring car owned by Arthur M. Nye on upper Jackson street on the date mentioned. Two people were killed in the accident.

The case of Fred Gardiner of New London, charged with the theft of $115 from the home of Mrs. Lucy Davis of Canterbury on September 28, was disposed of in superior court today. One of the two counts was dropped and the accused pleaded guilty to theft through County Protector Charles L. Torrey. Protector Torrey called attention to the fact that Gardiner was a young man above the average and had no court record other than a minor motor vehicle law infraction. State's Attorney Bradford stated that restitution had been made. Mrs. Davis appeared in court to request leniency for the young man. Judge Marvin admonished Gardiner for his mistake and imposed a sentence of six months in jail, suspending execution of sentence and placing the accused in charge of Probation Officer Mansfield of New London. Court adjourned until Thursday morning at ten o'clock.

Apparently unperturbed by defeat in the town elections Monday, democratic leaders here today turned with confidence to the work of marshaling their forces for the city elections in December. Current reports that Attorney E. Frank Bugbee is the logical choice of that party for the mayoralty give the democrats an optimistic outlook for the next elections. As far as can be determined the prominent attorney and bank director has not as yet committed himself on his proposed candidacy and while he hesitates from making the statement that "he does not choose to run" the democrats here are building up a formidable ticket to carry along with their prospective standard bearer. While the names of still other well known democrats are being mentioned that of Robert O. Snow looms largely. Mr. Snow has taken an active part in the interest of democracy here for several years and he reiterates his intention of seeking the nomination for mayoralty at the caucus.

How Often Should Bobbed Hair Be Shampooed?

As often as a man's, say authorities, that is, about once a week. Use a good soap to banish germs with the dirt—the pine tar in Packer's Tar Soap (the standard shampoo soap for 55 years) is antiseptic. Use two latherings and rinse thoroughly with HOT water. Massage, too, is helpful. You can get Packer's at any good store.

DANIELSON

DIFFICULTY OVER SAYLES' ELECTION DUE TO VOTERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 4—That Alcott D. Sayles is not, without quibble or question, first selectman of the town of Killingly today, is due to the fact that many of his supporters fell down in their effort to vote for him for that place, as they had intended to do, and they erred because they are not fully familiar with the use of the so-called Australian ballot that has been in use here for many years. And as these voters erred, so would many others who did not vote for Mr. Sayles for first selectman had they tried it. The fact is that the form of ballot in use here is, under certain circumstances, as snary and tricky a bit of paper to tamper with as a cross word puzzle. Supporters of the plan to introduce voting machines in Killingly chuckled today when they considered the Sayles case and one argument that was used against the machines—that they are too complicated for many voters to use with the certainty of their doing what they would like to do with them in registering a "split" ticket.

On every official ballot that was passed out to electors participating in yesterday's annual town election in Killingly there was printed, on the stub, this bit of information:

"If you wish to vote a 'split' ticket for selectmen, designate your choice for first selectman by placing the figure '1' in the voting space at the left of such candidate's name, and place a cross-mark 'X' in the voting space at the left of the name of the other candidate for selectman for whom you vote.

"Any other mark than the cross-mark 'X' used for the purposes of voting (or the figure '1' used for the purpose of designating choice for first selectman) will render this ballot void."

There you are.

Vote after vote for Mr. Sayles did not carry any figure "1" opposite his name on split tickets. That this would happen was talked of, sub rosa, during the course of the voting and while the ballots were being counted, for all the time it was realized that Mr. Sayles was destined to poll an exceptionally heavy vote, following an active campaign of many weeks. That many of these voters, including numbers of republicans, would slip up on the marking was taken for granted and it worked out just that way, though those who looked for the tripping up on the technicality were careful to say nothing about it. The voters, it appears, were not cautioned about it in the interest of the Sayles candidacy, or, if they were, failed to pay proper heed.

Today the subject was one of general discussion throughout the town of Killingly, and many were the explanations that had to be made to clarify the minds of many voters on Moderator Harry E. Back's ruling that notwithstanding Mr. Gilbert's smaller vote, he was declared elected first selectman over Mr. Sayles, who had more votes than any of the other three candidates for places on the board.

Also included in the aftermath of election talk today was the matter of the tie vote between William A. Reddy and James J. Corcoran, fellow democrats, for places on the town school committee. One of them was destined to win. It so happens that a statute dealing with tie votes in elections designates in numbers of cases, but not including candidates for town school committee, that, in case of a tie, the one first named on the ticket shall be declared elected. For some reason, probably through an oversight, this provision was not extended to include candidates for a school committee. So neither was declared elected.

This situation leaves a vacancy on the town school committee, which the committee may fill by appointment, if it sees fit to do so. And today, there was talk among democrats of filing a formal petition with the board for the appointment of Mr. Reddy, in view of the fact that his name appears first on the ticket in the school committee secion, democratic column.

This morning information was received here of the death of Byron S. Martin, 58, in New Bedford, where he had been a resident for a long time. Mr. Martin's condition has been so critical the past fortnight as to forecast the approaching end.

He was a native of the town of Killingly, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Silas Martin, and lived here and hereabouts for a long term of years. He leaves his wife and a daughter, Elsie, and two brothers, Charles and William. The body is to be brought to the home of his brother, Charles, here in Danielson.

This morning the funeral of Paul Caron was held from the home of his son-in-law, Louis Gendron, in Moosup, with services at All Hallows church at 9 o'clock. Rev. Joseph E. McCarthy, Rev. Oscar Norman and Rev. J. H. Quinn, Wauregan, being the officers of the solemn high mass of requiem. Burial was in All Hallows cemetery on the Green Hollow road. The bearers were Joseph Dalbec, Alphonse Allard, Joseph Goyette, Harmidas Jette, Joseph M. Beausoliel and Louis Viens, representing the court of the Independent Order of Foresters at Moosup. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Following a funeral service at Moosup, the body of Matilda Tubman, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dixon Tubman of that place, was brought to Dayville for burial in St. Joseph's cemetery. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Frank Harney, 65, long resident here and engaged for many years as a mill worker, is dead at his home on Water street. Mr. Harney has been in a critical condition for several months. He was a native of Natick, R. I. Mr. Harney leaves his wife, a son, resident in Fall River, and an adopted daughter.

Wednesday afternoon of this week the newly elected members of the board of selectmen—John A. Gilbert, Napoleon P. Gingras, Alcott D. Sayles—are to meet at the rooms of the board in the town hall building here for organization.

A deluge of rain came in a southerly storm that continued until early this morning, after breaking late last night.

Abel Bernier has the honor of being the first to trp for snap shot pictures of Danielson while flying over the borough with a pilot in the Alanson Colvin plane.

The 10-day penitential period incident to the opening of the Jewish New Year will be concluded here on Thursday with the observance of Yom Kippur, the day of Atonement.

The Killingly Woman's club first meeting of the season is scheduled for Wednesday of this week, with an address by Robert W. McLaughlin, lecturer and author.

Proponents of the use of voting machines in Killingly seemed agreed today that this plan, which is regarded as likely to be ultimately adopted, had better be left at rest until the town is a little more flush financially.

There will be attendants from Danielson in Willimantic next Saturday at the annual convention of the Norwich District Epworth league.

George C. Salton of Fall River was a visitor with friends in Danielson today.

Mrs. M. V. Woodworth remains quite seriously ill at her home on Hawkins street.

Overland mail trucks now operating through Danielson from Worcester to New London and return are maintaining a regular and dependable service and handling the business assigned to them in satisfactory manner.

A matter of confusion for touring motorists is that the Hartford-Providence trunk line is marked No. 6 to the Connecticut-Rhode Island line on Killingly's easterly border and is marked No. 3 through Connecticut. The impression given these strangers is that they have lost their route, and they often stop here to inquire of officers about the matter.

Automobile owners note with pleasure that the price of gasoline has dropped off two cents a gallon at Danielson filling stations, and is now down to 20 cents, the lowest price in months.

SPIRITED DISCUSSION OVER NAME OF PHEONIXVILLE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Oct. 4.—In none of the towns of northern Windham county was there more than a perfunctory interest in the results of the election on Monday except in the town of Eastford, the smallest of them all. There a spirited contest was waged on the question of whether the name of Phoenixville should be changed to South Eastford. With but few exceptions the residents of that village were opposed to the measure. Of the historic traditions of Phoenixville, the most important is that General Nathaniel Lyon, the first northern general officer to lose his life in the Civil war, lived there and his body is buried in the local cemetery. The result of the vote was for changing the name to South Eastford 49, and against changing the name 96. In North Ashford the same contest was held regarding the changing of the name of that village to North Eastford and resulted with a vote of 49 for changing and 87 against the change. The name of the two villages will remain the same as heretofore, Phoenixville and North Ashford. Both villages are a part of the Town of Eastford.

The vote for the Town of Eastford resulted as follows:

Assessor, Henry B. Buell, r; selectmen, Charles Clark, r, William Warren, r, O. B. Carpenter, d; town clerk, Caro P. Latham, r; town treasurer, Caro P. Latham, r; tax collector, Florence Latham, r; school committee, William Warren, r, Florence Latham, r, Edith W. Smith, d. Wallace Goodale ran on an independent ticket for first selectman against Charles Clark, r, and was defeated by a vote of 41 to 29, enough to defeat him. Florence Latham, a republican, ran on the democratic ticket for tax collector against James Barrett, republican and was elected by a vote of 85 to 62.

There are over 600 of these banks out and about two-thirds of them are held by children of school age.

All teachers beginning from now on must be normal school graduates. This insures every child receiving the best of instruction. DECAYING WHARVES

Following a close inspection of the river front, a committee of the District of Columbia which is charged with the maintenance thereof makes report to the effect that the piling at many of the piers at Washington are in bad stage of dilapidation. This is used to direct attention to the need of early approval of a plan for general development and improvement of the harbor which has been hanging fire for some time. The deterioration is so bad in some instances that it is maintained there should be no permission granted for patchwork, for the piling is badly decayed and the timbers are crumbling.

This would indicate that there has been serious neglect of such structures, either through disuse or lack of funds, and it is a situation which characterizes too many ports, large and small. In Washington it would appear that these decaying piers are in constant use, but there are many cities where such a condition has come about through disuse, or through those in possession having no present use for them and in all probability they would frown upon it if others sought to get the right.

It is an unfortunate situation when shipping facilities are so little appreciated that the equipment necessary for the landing of vessels and their cargoes is neglected to the point of becoming practically useless. Whether the piling and pier timbers in Washington are as bad as those along that long stretch in the local harbor, known as the new wharf, where part of them fell into the harbor and have never been replaced is not known but anything approaching that condition should be deserving of the attention which the District of Columbia committee seeks.

The impression is gained that the Washington piers are in constant use while the local ones are not, but it is decidedly unfortunate in the local case that use hasn't been developed for the local wharf that would call for keeping it in the best condition. Decaying wharves are not a credit to a community and most certainly they are not safe.

THE GORGAS MEMORIAL

Because of the long and persistent service he rendered in fighting disease the name of Major General Gorgas is known far beyond the borders of this country. It is closely associated with every reference to the stamping out of yellow fever in the isthmus of Panama, it is always thought of in connection with the bettering of conditions in Cuba and it occupies a place all its own in remarkable results obtained in securing sanitation and in the control of several diseases which have made great inroads into human life.

On the occasion of the 73rd anniversary of his birth this week, it is fitting that reference should be make to the work that he did for suffering humanity, to his work which made the Panama canal possible, to the services as chief medical officer of our army during the World war when, through the comprehensive physical examination for every man, he revealed to great numbers physical defects they never knew anything about and demonstrated the importance of period health examinations, and to the memorial which has been organized and endowed by prominent doctors and leading laymen in this country.

While his accomplishments will always stand as a monument to his memory the Gorgas Memorial Institute of tropical and preventive medicine at Chicago has been established to further the very work in which he was so deeply interested and in which he was so successful. It is therefore the most fitting of memorials that it should be devoted to the extension of the great fight for the prevention of disease. The Gorgas Memorial has a most praiseworthy programme and in the endeavor of its board of directors to raise an endowment fund of $5,000,000 for the furtherance thereof it is deserving of the heartiest response. There should and probably will be an eagerness on the part of large numbers to give their assistance to the organization backing the memorial, made up of prominent physicians, dentists and laymen to maintain its drive against needless illness and premature death.

MEXICO'S MUTINY

It will be a year before Mexico has its presidential election but it has already opened the campaign, and as usual that means that there are manifestations of discontent, plans for a revolution and indications that there may be bloodshed long before election day.

As the situation is shaping itself, Former President Obregon is looming as the successor to President Calles. He was prevented by law from having a second consecutive term but there is nothing standing in the way of being reelected provided the people are willing and someone else has filled the presidential chair between the two terms.

But it would appear from the situation which has developed in Mexico that there is some opposition on the part of the people to another term for Obregon. He did much for that country in stamping out the revolution and he was instrumental in obtaining the much desired recognition of his government by the United States but there are others who apparently feel that they have a right to head the nation. As to that there ought to be no question, and a decision by the people as to the one desired by them ought to follow as a routine matter. It might in some countries, but Mexico is one of those countries where objects are obtained by bullets instead of ballots on too many occasions.

What the present revolution will amount to depends upon the success attained in suppressing it. The political influence of the army is being manifested in the revolt of certain troops. It is to be expected that this will be put down, for it will reflect a serious weakness of the government if that is impossible. It is quite evident, however, that the revolutionary tendency has been manifested sufficiently in advance of election to permit the government to show what it can do under such circumstances. Thus far most everything is running true to form in Mexico and it might well have been predicted had one desired to pose as an expert on Mexican conditions.

DANGEROUS CROSSING

There cannot fail to be much sympathy in behalf of the petition presented to the court of common council by the Davis, Warner Arms corporation seeking such assistance as the city can give for the establishing of better safeguards at the railroad crossing leading to their plant.

A number of deaths have occurred along the railroad line through the Greeneville district of the city when vehicles have been struck by locomotives. There are several bad crossings where the utmost caution si required where drivers should exert every possible care for their own protection. This is particularly true at private crossings such as that leading to the arms company's plant, but when it is represented that the crossing is hidden and there is no warning for highway users it is evident that there is good ground for seeking relief.

This would seem to be a point where an electric bell signal or an electric light arrangement to operate when a train is approaching would admirably serve the purpose, and it ought to be possible for the city, even though it does concern a private right of way, to bring its influence to bear so that some arrangement might be made for the prevention of any further fatalities at that point. Such a signal would give sufficient warning to all crossing users that a train was approaching and getting such a warning all reasonable persons would be disposed to respect it.

Crossings which are unguarded are a serious menace, particularly when the approaching of the train is observed, and it would appear that the fatalities near the Davis, Warner arms plant bear evidence of the danger as represented at that point.

THE WORLD'S SERIES

Once again there will be opened today a contest for the baseball championship of the world. The leaders in the two big leagues will meet for the first group of games at Pittsburgh, a city which has seen championship battles before, and there are reasons to look forward to a battle royal.

The winners in the respective leagues have displayed their superiority to those teams with which they have played through the season. The New York Americans have kept far in the lead of their opponents and for a long time there has been little or no question but what they would be the contenders in the world's series. In the National league the margin was decidedly less. Pittsburgh has gotten the pennant in its league only after a warm contest which was not decided until the day before the season closed.

Now it remains to be determined by the best four out of seven games which team is the better and which will stand as the 1927 champions. It will be a battle for the honor that will attract capacity crowds. There will be opportunity for demonstration of team work as well as individual skill, but every series develops uncertainties as well as its bright lights. Fandom is of course on tiptoes for the battle. Each team has its backers for various reasons, but in the test of ability to meet all the conditions which bob up in the great game it is to be hoped that it can be said when it is all over that the better team has won. That is the one desirable outcome of a world's series.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man on the corner says: Does your ticket for the series include the games in both cities?

Of course those who are getting their vacation in October are finding more room at the beaches.

The one thing to be gathered from the election result in Norwalk is that the voters didn't want Mrs. Helena Hill Weed to be mayor.

There were still plenty who didn't vote but it is gratifying to see a larger representation at the polls that on the previous election.

Have you made up your mind as to the winner of the world's series, or are you going to wait until after the sixth game before deciding?

It is a logical thing to worry about as to whether congress will have time to do its work, but experience shows that congress never has time enough for all the horseplay and waste that it indulges in.

SUITING GREGORY

The little salesman swung the revolving rack and pounced upon one of the suits as it flashed past.

"There, sir. Now what do you think of that?" Gregory Spaulding glanced helplessly at the garment which swung from the hangar in limp, unprotesting folds. He turned brightly to his wife.

"What do I think, dear?"

Gloria scowled. "Are you asking me a riddle?"

"Not at all, I merely thought we might save time if I found out whether I liked it or not before committing myself."

"Don't be nasty, Gregory. You said you would be glad to have me help you pick out this suit."

"I'd be glad to have you help me pick out anything. Just how long have we been in here now?"

"About this suit—"insinuated the little salesman softly.

"It's terrible," pronounced Gloria, her face slightly flushed and her eyes fixed upon her husband defiantly.

The salesman swung the rack in futile circles.

These are our very latest patterns," he protested mournfully. "Would you care to look for yourself and see if there is anything you would like?"

Gregory watched his wife as she moved methodically down the line, tugging this garment and that. It amused him to think that she might have been going down some reception line, greeting each member with a cautious handsake, and finding nobody whom she would care to know in a really intimate way. This was the first suit he had bought since their marriage, and it had sounded like an enormous improvement over bachelor technique to have Gloria meet him and help in its selection. Now he began to wonder.

He could remember no occasion when the purchase of a suit had required more than a half-hour of his time, but they had already been in this shop longer than that, and Gloria was threatening unspeakable things, such as "looking somewhere else."

"Don't you see anything you like?" she complained. "Why don't you come over here and help me look?" Gregory moved to her side.

"How about that, dear?" he suggested. Gloria smiled sweetly, but there was scorn in her voice.

"Just how many years has it been since you were in college?" she inquired.

Gregory laughed. "I guess I'll stick to law. Now, except for that purple peril, I'll be very happy with any suit from here to here. Suppose you pick the best, and we'll see if we can't make some progress."

Five minutes later Gregory had retired into the doubtful privacy of a dressing closet and was gingerly inserting his long legs into the sole survivor of a drastic elimination process. Five seconds after he emerged his wife buried her face in the folds of a whiffleweave sport special and burst into spasms of laughter.

"That suit makes you look like the rat that didn't get the cod-liver oil. I'll see if I can find something else."

Gregory wrapped the garment about him wistfully and sank into a chair, while his wife flitted along the racks. Before long she returned with a tasty gray model for his approval.

"I like that, too," admitted Gregory, "but don't you think it's pretty much like the gray suit I've already got?"

"Slip it on," she commanded, and Gregory obeyed, glancing at the label inside the breast pocket.

"I'm not sure this the same price," he informed her. "Where did you get it?"

"It was right with the others, only on top of the rack instead of in it. We probably pulled it out ourselves. What does the label say?"

"It says 'Gregory Spaulding, Spring, 1935.' I rather liked it when I bought it, but I shouldn't care to pay for it again. Why don't you run along home and let me finish alone?"

"Well of all the ungrateful husbands—" Gloria sputtered, but—"she ran along home!"—Chicago News.

WHAT THE WORD GOITRE MEANS

By Arthur B. McGraw, M. D., Detroit, Mich. Member Gorgas Memorial

To seek out and catalogue all definitions of what the word goiter means would be an interesting but a lengthy task. Casting aside speculation, however, let us seek out the real meaning of this word by the simple process of finding first where the word came from and then seeing how the original meaning is applied to a definite abnormality of disease.

Goitre is obviously not an English not an English noun, although it is often and quite correctly spelled goiter. Like many other words, it has been taken from another language, in this case French, and adopted into our own vocabulary. Turning to, a French dictionary, we find that goitre is not even French, but a modification of an old Latin word, guttur. And we are surprised to find that guttur simply means throat. But if that is all it means, how has it come to describe a definite medical abnormality?

Centuries ago the French probably recognized that lumps of various sizes appeared in the front of some people's necks. Needing a good descriptive word for this, they took the old Latin word guttur and made from it a French adjective, goitreux. Not knowing what such swellings were, it was quite natural that they should think of such people as being throaty. For many years physicians and laymen alike were content to call people with enlarged necks goitreux, or throaty, and let it go at that. But as medical and anatomical knowledge increased, it was found that such big necks were due to an enlargement of a single organ, the thyroid gland. This gland is roughly "U" shaped, and lies on each side in front of the windpipe. Normally, it can just be felt. If any part of this gland enlarge, this enlargement can be felt and often seen.

All that goitre means then is an enlargement of the thyroid gland. Its existence in so many hundreds of people constitutes a serious problem of individual and public health. No physical examination can be called complete that does not include a careful search for any enlargement of the thyroid gland and an equally careful appraisal, checked by laboratory methods if necessary, to see whether it is functioning in a normal or a diseased manner. And, as the appearance of goitre in children is almost entirely preventable, no baby should be allowed to grow up without its parents having their physician institute preventive measures when, or before, the school age is reached.

IN DAY'S NEWS

MIDWAY

Midway, the tiny mid-Pacific islet that proved to be the insurmountable barrier ofthe Schlee-Brock round-the world airplane flight, is the subject of the following bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"There are really two main islands, Sand, on which a cable station is located, and Eastern, a mile or more distant. Each is less than two miles long and slightly more than half a mile wide. Sand island has an average elevation above sea level of from from three to ten feet and Eastern, from six to 12 feet. The highest point rises but 45 feet. Thus the minutest deviation of the aviators from their course in the early stages of their 2480 mile flight from Japan, would have found them many miles to the north or south of their objective when the midway longitude was reached.

"Midway is now under lease to a cable company which operates a relay station between Guam and Honolulu. There are 12 to 15 white inhabitants and about as many oriental servants. They are out of touch with the world except through the undersea telegraphic line and a supply boat that brings mail and stores four times a year from Honolulu, which lies about 1,200 miles southwest.

"When Captain Brooks of the Gambia discovered Midway in 1859, he found a desolate spot of glaring sand and scattered bushes. The cable company has worked steadily to improve conditions for its employes. Four steel and concrete buildings have been erected at corner of a little plazza and a small portion of the sandy wastes have been covered with earth imported in sacks from Honolulu, and planted in grass, ornamental shrubs and flowers. Tree-lined walks lead to the wharf and to a garden where vegetables thrive.

"A cow or two, a few sheep, a tall windmill, and the vegetation in the artificial paradise suggests at first glance a fertile plain of the Argentine; but after a few minutes walk one finds himself surrounded by the bleak windswept sands that dispell the illusion.

"For years, Japanese, in quest of feathers of sea birds, were Midway's only visitors. Sand Island has a thriving colony of domestic canaries that inhabit the native shrubbery. In the mild climate of the island, they have increased from a few pairs to several hundred individuals. The Laysan Finch and the little Flightless Rail are to be found in Eastern island.

"In 1887, a sea captain, his wife and crew were shipwrecked on Midway. For 14 months they subsisted on fish and birds' eggs."

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Edwin T. Meredith, who is considered in some quarters as the possible choice of the "dry" wing of the democratic party for the presidency, is a publisher of Des Moines, Iowa, and one of the prominent figures in africultural and business circles in the middle west. He is a native of Avoca, Iowa. After leaving school he went to work for his grandfather, who was publishing a weekly newspaper in Des Moines. In 1902, Mr. Meredith established a farm paper, and was soon recognized as a business leader as well as a champion of agricultural improvement. Upon the outbreak of the war he was sent to Europe on a special commission by President Wilson. Later he became secretary of agriculture in the Wilson cabinet. He was also, during the war period, a member of the excess profit commission.

Peter Leaves the Dear Old Briar-patch

The one who never will give in
May have his way and still not win.
—Old Mother Nature.

In the dear Old Briar-patch there was a great deal of unhappiness. Oh, dear, yes! Peter Rabbit was unhappy. Little Mrs. Peter was unhappy. Indeed, they were not on speaking terms, and that, you know, is a very dreadful thing. They had quarreled. Little Mrs. Peter had declared that she would not leave the dear Old Briar-patch for a home somewhere else. Peter had lost his temper and declared that he was going anyway. Little Mrs. Peter had told him to go ahead, but that if he did he needn't think he could come back. Then little Mrs. Peter had gone over to the far side of the dear Old Briar-patch and pretended to be very busy there.

All the rest of that day Peter sat in his favorite bramble-tangle and sulked. Yes, sir, he sulked. He considered himself the most abused rabbit that ever lived.

"She thinks I won't go, but I will," he kept saying over and over to himself. "She thinks I won't go, but I'll fool her. I'm tired of living over here. Whenever I want to go anywhere I've got to take a chance and cross the Green Meadows. Then I've got to take a chance to get back again. She thinks I won't go, but I will. If she wants to live here, all right; she can live alone. I guess I can get along without her."

It seemed to Peter that the Black Shadows never would come creeping out from the Purple Hills. That was a long day. But at last he saw them come creeping across the Green Meadows. He waited until they had reached the edge of the Green Forest. Then he hopped along one of his familiar little paths over to where little Mrs. Peter was.

"I'm going," said he gruffly. "I'm going. Will you come along with me?"

"I certainly will not," repleid little Mrs. Peter. "And don't forget what I told you. If you go you needn't come back."

"Don't worry," retorted Peter, "you'll never see me back here. I'm sorry you won't come, but if you won't you won't. I'll never bother you again as long as I live."

With this Peter turned his back and hopped away along one of his private little paths to the other side of the dear Old Briad-patch. When he reached the edge ofthe dear Old Briar-patch he looked carefully in all directions, this way and that, to be sure that the way was clear. Then he headed for the Old Pasture. Twice he stopped to look back. Right down in his heart he hoped he should see little Mrs. Peter hurrying after him. But he didn't see little Mrs. Peter hurrying after him. He didn't for the very good reason that little Mrs. Peter wasn't hurrying after him. He didn't see anything of her at all. He tried to think he didn't care and hurried on towards the Old Pasture.

Now, although he didn't see little Mrs. Peter, little Mrs. Peter was watching him. She had stolen over to the edge of the dear Old Briar-patch, where she could see but couldn't be seen, and there she watched Peter going lippertly-lip, lipperty-lip, lipperty-lip, across the Green Meadows towards the Old Pasture. A big tear gathered in each eye as she watched him go. Twice she almost started to follow him, but in the end she went back and sat in her favorite form and wondered however she was going to get along without heedless, happy-go-lucky Peter Rabbit. Yes, sir, that is just what she did. But she was obstinate, was little Mrs. Peter. "He left me," she kept saying over and over again. "I didn't leave him; he left me."

"He left me," she kept saying over and over again

A Body Sweetness that Even Perspiration Can't Spoil

All the trick laxatives in the world can't tempt people who understand the properties of cascara.

A hundred different drugs will purge the bowels, but a little natural cascara purifies the system clear through. Cleanses even the pores of your skin. Renders perspiration as inoffensive as so much dew!

Your grandparents took "salts," and slowly washed away the mucous membrane with the waste! Mineral oils are better, but they leave the coating that your blood must then carry off through the pores. But when you cascarize the system, you get rid of all the poisons by normal muscular action of the bowels.

Don't get in the habit of taking medicine for constipation—or even for autointoxication. If you have the habit, stop it. A candy cascaret is a delightful form in which to take cascara; children love them and the taste tempts most grown-ups to take "more." And what a comfort to know you are in that clean, wholesome condition that does away with any need of deodorants, even in warmest weather! Try a cascaret tonight! All druggists, 10c & 25c.

COLCHESTER HEALTH OFFICER SCORES CARELESS FAMILY

In his annual report as health officer of Colchester, Dr. Edward J. Howland scores an unnamed family whom he blames for a whooping cough epidemic in the town the past year.

The doctor's annual report follows: To the honorable board of selectmen of the town of Colchester:

Gentlemen:—

Because of negligence in reporting whooping cough, there was an epidemic of this disease in this town. A certain family having returned from a visit to relatives, their children were found to be recipients of a gift, whooping cough. Although the parents of these children knew that they had this disease, they willfully refrained from reporting to the proper authorities, and made no attempt to keep their children isolated.

This is the usual history of many epidemics, and it would seem that a total disregard of public welfare might be the underlying cause.

Unfortunately microbes are no respecter of persons. They are extremely democratic and those that cause disease are not in the slightest degree particular as to, in whom, or upon whom they pass their parasitic existence. Consequently, if diseases are not reported to the proper authorities, so that they can deal with them, they are sure to sweep through the whole community.

Several cases of scarlet fever were successfully treated with scarlet fever antitoxin which produces immediate amelioration of symptoms.

There were several cases of diphtheria occurring in widely separated sections of the town. There were no fatalities from this disease, although the condition of one child with laryngeal diphtheria was so grave as to demand tracheotomy.

Pneumonia has been a relatively rare disease during the past year, but several active cases of pulmonary tuberculosis have been reported.

Since the public seems loath to take advantage of the many opportunities offered for the prevention of infectious diseases, it is well to bear in mind the following:

Smallpox prevented by vaccination. Typhoid fever prevented by inoculation. Diphtheria prevented by ontitoxin. Tetanus prevented by antitoxin.

As to nuisances there are many which might be abated by an observance of the Golden Rule. Some have been investigated and abated, but it is difficult to deal with those who have no sense of beauty and heap road sides with rubbish.

COVERED 1,125 MILES TO NIAGARA AND BACK

Albert L. Johnson and Richard E. Lane returned to the city Monday night at 9:30 from a three day motor trip during which they covered 1,125 miles in the round trip to Niagara Falls and back with a stop at Watkins Glen to view the scenic beauties of that well known resort for tourists.

Leaving here at 9:30 Friday night, they drove all that night and reached Niagara Falls at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, having passed through Springfield, Pittsfield, Albany, Schenectady, Amsterdam, Utica, Syracuse and Rochester. Saturday afternoon was spent at the falls and they slept that night outside of Niagara, using Mr. Johnson's car, a Chevrolet coach, for their sleeping accommodations as he has a special mattress which fits into it for the camping trips he takes.

After visiting Buaffo they went on to Watkins Glen where they spent the afternoon and continued the trip home by pasing through Elmira, Binghampton, Newburgh, Poughkeepsie, Canaan, Winsted and Hartford to this city.

Navy Day Observance

The annual observance of "Navy Day," on October 27, in the state of Connecticut, will include a visit of navy ships to the large cities of the state, observance of the day by the Naval Reserve Organizations, business clubs, schools, civic clubs, and veteran and legion posts. Governor Trumbull will act as state chairman of the state navy day committee.

October 27 has been celebrated as navy day because it is the anniversary of the birth of President Theodore Roosevelt, so much of whose life was devoted to establishing a sound naval policy for the United States of America. It will be remembered that President Roosevelt first achieved a national reputation by writing a naval history of the war of 1812, a work of such merit that it was incorporated into Clowe's Royal Navy, a monumental history of the British Sea Service. Later, as assistant secretary of the navy, and finally, as president, Roosevelt bent his tremendous energies to impress upon the American people the necessity for an adequate navy, and through his leadership to realize this ideal.

October is also the month in which the American navy was founded in 1775 by the continental congress.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE WORKERS READY TO CLOSE VICTORY CAMPAIGN

Over the top by tonight, is the slogan of the Norwich chamber of commerce expansion campaign to raise $11,000 for the coming year's budget. Reports made Tuesday noon by the various teams showed that at that time, $6,765 had been raised.

The closing dinner of the chamber campaign expeditionary forces will take place at the Wauregan hotel this (Wednesday) evening at 6:15 sharp. A limited amount of space is available for chamber members who may not be officially connected with the campaign organization but who may wish to be present to join in celebrating the victory which the workers believe will result from the final day's efforts. "Dave" Harvard, the song leader, will be at his best and will give a demonstration of how the human life can be recreated through music.

DAVE HARVARD
Song Leader for Campaign

The final reports of the teams will be made and many surprises are in store for those who are fortunate in securing reservations. It is important that every member desiring to attend call 1747 early today. It is confidently expected that the $11,000 goal will be more than reached.

The land division under command of Major E. A. Harris still leads the various divisions in money raised. It has already reported $2,160. H. E. Robbins, captain of the artillery, still holds the largest sectional report with a record sum of $905 raised in the first two days.

Generalissimo Arthur M. Brown was in charge of the meeting Tuesday noon and delivered another "pep" talk. Pete Ethier presided at the piano and Dave Harvard, song leader, brought here from Rochester, N. Y., greatly enlivened the meeting. His unique method in song leading was highy commended.

So far, a check-up of the results shows that 15 new members have been secured; 71 renewals or continuations have been obtained and a sum of about $50 has been raised for special work. Some of the memberships are for sums as high as $250.

Secretary Walter C. Pilcher reported that of the $3,960 raised the first day, $1,910 was in cash. The secretary announced that the field is now open to all workers, who can now approach any prospect whether he was furnished a card for that particular prospect or not. Hon. Arthur M. Brown, chairman of the campaign, predicted that the campaign will go over the top this (Wednesday) evening. The reports to date follow:

LEDYARD COUPLE OBSERVES GOLDEN WEDDING DAY

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Holdridge of Ledyard were hosts to their children and families Sunday, the occasion being the 50th anniversary of their wedding. They received their guests at the home where they have lived the past 47 years of their married life.

It had been planned by their children to keep open house and celebrate the occasion with neighbors and friends, but as the bride and bridegroom of 50 years wished a less strenuous affair, it was decided to have just the family.

The celebration was held on Sunday so that all could be present, but the actual time of marriage was Oct. 4, 1877, at Norwich, Rev. Hugh Montgomery performing the ceremony.

Mr. and Mrs. Holdridge are both well known in Ledyard and surrounding country, Mrs. Holdridge being the daughter of William Leeds Main and Sarah A. Frink. Mr. Holdridge is the son of Randall Holdridge and Nancy Barnes. The only surviving brother, James Holdridge, also of Ledyard, was present. Mrs. Martha J. Palmer, the only surviving sister of Mr. Holdridge, who has been attending these anniversaries for several years past, was also a guest, as was a niece, Mrs. Isabella P. Jerome, both living in New London. Mr. Holdridge has always taken an active part in the town's affairs and has held office on several occasions.

They were generously remembered with gifts and proved gracious hosts At 1 p. m. a bountiful chicken dinner was served by the women, with all the good things which accompany such a repast. The tables were set on the lawn near the house, a large wedding cake with golden icing gracing the table.

The children of Mr. and Mrs. Holdridge who made the affair one to be remembered were Mr. and Mrs. Austin S. Lamb and children, Earl, Joseph and Wilfred, of Ledyard; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Nelson Holdridge and children, Mary, Minetta and Susan, of Mystic; Mr. and Mrs. Christian G. Marquardt and daughter, Rena, of Groton; Mr. and Mrs. William Leeds Holdridge and children, Phronsie, Odella, Melissa, Joseph, William, Francis and Henry, of Old Mystic, and a daughter, Gladys, who resides at home.

ITALIANS PREPARING TO CELEBRATE COLUMBUS DAY

Columbus day will be observed, as usual, October 12th by the Italian residents of the city. As in the past the program will include a parade through the main streets of the city with the Italian-American band leading the various Italian societies. During the late afternoon there will be special exercises at the armory, including what is known as dedication of the colors. The court of common council has accepted an invitation to attend the exercises at the armory.

Officials of the societies in charge of the program are making an effort to secure cooperation on the part of the local merchants and industries in allowing their Italian employes time off to participate in the celebration.

WEDDING

Banning-Richmond

Miss Helen Elizabeth Richmond, daughter of Dwight B. Richmond of Flanders and Cecil B. Banning, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Banning of the Golden Spur, were united in marriage at 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon at the parsonage of the First Baptist church, New London, with Chester H. Howe, officiating.

The bride wore an attractive costume of ashes of roses georgette and hat to match and carried a bouquet of rosebuds and maiden hair fern. Her bridesmaid, Miss Helen Douglas, of East Lyme was attired in blue canton crepe and a black picture hat and also carried rosebuds and maiden hair fern. Lawrence Fraser of East Lyme was best man.

Miss Richmond graduated from Chapman Technical high school in 1923. Mr. Banning is a civil engineer associated with the Connecticut Power company.

After a wedding trip by automobile Mr. and Mrs. Banning will make their home in Flanders.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's sister, Mrs. W. J. Andrews, at Flanders after the ceremony

A group of Kansas democrats at a meeting in Topeka, formed a temporary Al Smith-for-President club and set October 17 as the date for a meeting to perfect a permanent organization.

SPOKE ON "IMMIGRATION" TO WOMEN VOTERS LEAGUE

The first monthly meeting this year of the Norwich League of Women Voters was held at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon at Slater hall annex. Miss Audrey Gernon, the president, conducted a short business meeting, after which she introduced the speaker of the afternoon, Howard Bradstreet, of the department of adult education, Hartford, who spoke in a most interesting manner upon "Immigration."

Mr. Bradstreet began his talk by saying that no subject has been more distortedly presented or discussed from so many angles as immigration and stated that he was firmly a "restrictionist" in so far as the restrictions were of an advantage to America. The immigration problems, he said, do not merely date back as many people suppose to 1890, but back to the very beginning of American history.

Mr. Bradstreet read several short extracts from Gov. Bradford's diary of the year, 1640, dealing with the problems of the seventeenth century and showed that in the short time from 1620 to 1640 the immigration question had arisen. Mr. Bradstreet then led up to restrictions in 1890 and to the present law of 1924. He pointed out that it principle features are the following:

1. It preserves the basic immigration law of 1917.

2. It contains the principle of numerical limitation as inaugurated in the Act of May 1921.

3. It changes the quota basis from the census of 1910 to the census of 1890.

4. It reduces the quota admissible in any one year from 3 to 2 per cent.

5. It provides a method of selection of immigrants at the source, rather than to come to this country and land at the immigration stations without previous inspection.

6. It requires the classes of exempted aliens.

7. It places the burden of proof on the alien, to show that he is admissible under the immigration laws rather than upon the United States to show that he is not admissible.

8. It provides for the exclusion of those who desire to enter as immigrants who are not eligible to become naturalized citizens under our naturalization laws.

Mr. Bradstreet cited a few cases which have come before his notice and urged that the women thoroughly investigate for themselves the problems which are coming before congress this year.

After Mr. Bradstreet concluded his talk he answered several questions and those present were enthusiastic in their praise of the afternoon's program.

The next meeting of the league will be held the first Tuesday in November, at Slater Hall annex when Judge H. H. Pettis will explain the form of local town and city government.

SWEDISH CHURCH MISSIONARY SPEAKS OF CHINESE WORK

Before a large gathering at the Swedish Lutheran church Tuesday evening Rev. John Benson gave a very interesting talk concerning his work as a missionary, and ways of the Chinese people. Rev. Mr. Benson has been an active missionary in China for the past 12 years. During the recent civil war in China he was ordered home with the rest of the missionaries and since then has been giving lectures and talks in English on the work and conditions facing the missionaries in China.

Rev. Mr. Benson's sermon was in part as follows:

The missionary in China must expect to meet opposition. If we add up all the hindrances to the gospel found here at home and then multiply them by 50, we get an idea of the opposition and the obstacles that the missionary must overcome.

As to the causes of the present unrest and chaos in China. The great underlying cause is the failure of their religion, Confucianism, Buddhism and Taoism to satisfy the religious needs of the people and their failure to supply the regenerating and stimulating force that only christianiy can supply.

Our field is in the province of Honan, just south of the Yellow river. Here we the Augestana Synod of the Lutheran church are responsible for a field the size of Connecticut with population of over three million. There are 14 good sized cities, 240 towns, and several thousand villages on this field. All these cities and towns and most of the villages are surrounded by high walls. Inside the people live in compounds also surrounded by high earthen walls. Inside these compounds walls the people live in rectangular houses mostly built of mud, or adobe, very dark and damp, scarcely any windows, just earthen floors or at best of brick. Above the beams and walls are covered with cobwebs.

Methods of approach: 1. Learn the language, which is a laborious process. 2. Open a street chapel along a principal thoroughfare. 3. Street and village preaching. 4. By visiting the fairs and by use of tents, also tract distribution and giving away the Bible printed in the native tongue. 5. By opening day schools and Sunday schools. 6. By opening dispensaries and hospitals. 7. By relief work in times of famine and stress.

Results: At first very slow, sometimes discouraging, but if you have patience results will follow. God does make a way in the wilderness. One here and another there is gripped by the gospel message and becomes a new creature. This change shows in cleaner living, in making their influence felt for truth and righteousness in the community.

The present crisis is just a passing phase. Some day out of the stress and the chaos will come a better China and a united China. Whether this shall come soon or be delayed yet many years we cannot tell. The church in China is passing through a time of great testing. It will come out purified and better. Some will fall away, but the real good will remain and become the foundation of an indigenous Chinese Christian church.

After the sermon Rev. A. J. Anderson thanked Rev. Mr. Benson for being present and said he considered the church very fortunate in securing his services.

He then told the parishioners that a social hour would be held in the basement of the church after the service, when refreshments would be served. The basement was prettily decorated with paper streamers with Chinese lanterns in the center of the hall directly over the tables. Autumn leaves were used as a background, making a very pretty effect. The affair was under the direction of the Luther league.

The chairman of the committee was the pastor, Rev. A. J. Anderson, while the social committee composed of Miss Edna Hanson, Sigma Carlson and Elsie Peterson and the general committee, George Johnson and Dorothy Pearson. The musical program was under the personal direction of Miss Dorothy Pearson.

WOMAN LOSES LIFE ON RAILROAD TRACK

Mrs. Frances Hughes, 53, of No. 28 High street, was killed early Tuesday morning by a Central Vermont freight train on the trestle near the sawhouse. It is thought the woman was in an intoxicated condition at the time she met death. The body was discovered about 6 o'clock by a man on his way to work at the Falls. The woman's head was badly crushed and she was otherwise injured. The body was lying between a stringer and the east rail and parallel with the tracks. This gave rise to the theory that she was lying on the tracks when struck by the train.

It has not been definitely settled just what train killed the woman. Two freight trains, one southbound and the other northbound, passed over the tracks between 3 and 4 o'clock in the morning. The position of the body indicated that she was probably killed by the southbound train.

The woman was said to have been intoxicated late Monday night. Peter Yankowski, employed at the Robert Goldstein plumbing shop, is reported as having seen the woman in an intoxicated condition near the footbridge at the Falls about 11 o'clock Monday night. Two other people saw her in an intoxicated condition Monday night. Andrew Kulat of No. 242 Yantic street, saw the woman Monday afternoon. At that time she was not intoxicated but showed signs of drink, he stated.

It is thought that while on her way home down the tracks she either stumbled and fell or lay down on the tracks. Medical Examiner C. C. Gildersleeve conducted an investigation and gave Hourigan Bros., permission to remove the body to their morgue Coroner J. J. Desmond is conducting an investigation. Mrs. Hughes was the last of her family. Her husband died suddenly several years ago and she leaves no surviving relatives.

TRUE REFORMERS HELD STATE CONVENTION HERE

The 16th annual session of the Grand True Order of Reformers was held last week at Mt. Calvary Baptist church on High street, opening its session on Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock when the grand fountain was called to order by G. W. Master James Jones of Suffield. After prayer by Rev. MacClenathan of Hartford, the address of welcome to the city was given by Mayor Milo R. Waters with the response by Rev. W. Matthews of Stamford. There were brief and interesting addresses by Rev. S. E. Ellison chaplain of Banner fountain of Suffield, H. G. Hill, superintendent of Rosebuds, John N. Dishmond, grand worthy treasurer, H. W. Smith, grand worthy secretary, and by several others. Annual reports of the officers were read and accepted and officers elected for the ensuing year.

In the evening a very interesting entertainment was rendered by the Rosebud department and on Thursday evening a vocal and instrumental concert was rendered by local talent, assisted by others from out of town.

After the convention sessions were over the out of town visitors went to Meeting House rocks at Norwich Town and were very much impressed with the scenery there and with other places of interest which they visited. The delegates and members were served meals in the vestry of the church by the entertaining fountain.

(By Alan J. Gould, Associated Press Sports Editor)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 4—(AP)—On the eve of their battle with the Pittsburgh Pirates for the world's baseball championship, the New York Yankees faced the loss of one of their best sharpshooters, Herb Pennock, the star southpaw suffered a severe knee injury in batting drill this afternoon.

Pennock, who has never met defeat in a world's series and has a record of four triumphs, was hit just above the left knee by a sharp line drive from the bat of Cedric Durst, substitute outfielder. The blow ruptured a blood vessel and caused a swelling the size of an ordinary fist. Dr. J. R. Sholl of St. Petersburgh, Fla., who administered first aid in the form of ice packs and poultices, expressed belief that the pitcher would recover fully within two days but it is considered extremely doubtful whether Pennock will be able to start before the third or fourth games, if at all.

The probable loss of Pennock, the only southpaw on either team slated for first line action, not only is a severe blow to Yankee prospects but makes it virtually certain that the world's series will be a battle of right handers.

Ray Kremer, husky Californian and ace of the Pirate staff, will oppose Waite Hoyt, the leading Yankee flinger in tomorrow's opening game. They have been slated for the job right along and the rival managers made their selection definite today.

The second game is due to pit Wilcy Moore, the Yankee "sinker ball" star, against the Hoosier Schoolmaster, Vic Aldridge, while Urban Shocker, Yankee veteran, and Carmen Hill, bespectacled Corsair curver, appear likely choices for the third game in New York Friday.

Due to the confidence of Pirate rooters in Kremer, the National leaguers were an even choice tonight against their American league rivals for the opening game but the Yankees remained slight favorites to capture the series.

The tremendous punch in the Yankee bats, particularly those of Babe Ruth and Lou Gehrig, is the factor expected to count most in New York's favor. The exhibitions of the Babe especially have impressed all observers, besides striking no little apprehension in the hearts of Corsair fans, since two days of batting drill at Forbes field have given a "closeup of the Bambino's form.

The Pirate pitchers—Kremer, Aldridge, Hill, John Miljus and Lee Meadows—all are primed to "take the edge" off the Yankee siege gun attack, even if they are not successful in spiking it entirely.

Curves and plenty of "stuff" will be their main counterweapons but the Yankees are confident they will maul anything.

Conceding long-range supremacy to their foes at bat, the Pirates nevertheless feel that they have an attack equally as dangerous and perhaps more consistent, aided by the remarkable speed of such stars as the Waners, Grantham and Traynor on the bases. The Corsairs may not put as many balls out of the park but they may put more men on the bases and over the plate.

Both teams put in vigorous workouts at Forbes field today, the Pirate regulars reporting early, after a two-day lay-off, and spent nearly three hours in batting and fielding drill to put them back in trim for the big battle. The Yankees took their workout a little more leisurely. For the most part, but Ruth, hitting fungoes when there was nothing else to do, was the last of the regulars to leave the field. His last wallop into the bleachers from the plate was powerful enough to knock loose a few slats in some of the seats. A record Pittsburgh baseball crowd of 45,000 is expected to jamy the park. Temporary bleacher seats, holding 4,000 have been erected beyond the outfield barriers. Standing room for 5,000 more will be sold just before the game starts at 1:30 p. m., eastern standard time.

Fair weather is promised for the day.

BOTH BUSH AND HUGGINS CONFIDENT ON EVE OF SERIES

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 4—(AP)—Breaking their previous reticence the rival and diminutive pilots of the Yankees and Pirates both predicted victories in statements today to the Associated Press.

"We're going to win" Donie Bush, Pirate manager, declared, "that's not mere confidence; it's a conviction. This club is too strong and too game to be licked. Our right hand pitchers will stop the Yankee sluggers. They have got to because they're all we've got. The players are in good shape."

"It looks like a tough series, asserted Miller Huggins, Yankee leader, "but the Yankees figure to win on their hitting. It's always a gamble in a short series but I expect our pitchers to hold their own. The club is stronger and steadier than last year. The boys have the range at bat and I don't see how they can be stopped."

COOMBS PICKED AS HERO OF THE SERIES

PITTSBRGH Oct. 4—(AP)—While the non-playing world series experts have been advising the fans to keep their eyes on Ruth and Gehrig of the Yankees, and the Waner brothers of the Pirates, the ball players pick Earl Combs, fleet New York center fielder, as a probable star of the series.

Waite Hoyt, star Yankee pitcher, who is himself by way of being a hero apparent, leaned on a box rail at Forbes field today, as the Yankees were having hitting practice, and remarked to the group of American and National leaguers talking baseball in the box, "that fellow up at the plate now, will get as many hits as anybody in this series." That fellow was Combs.

Dan Howley chimed in, "I don't see why he shouldn't. We never got him out all season. Not once."

Jack Onslow, former Pirate coach and now coach for the Washington club, voted "aye".

"Combs knows his way about up at that plate as well as any man I ever saw", Jack said. "He guards the plate" better than any player I know. He doesn't go after the ball unless it's in there, but if it is, look out."

CROWD BEGINS ASSEMBLING FOR RUSH ON TICKETS

PITTSBURGH Oct. 4— (AP) —The world's series battle was officially on tonight so far as the bleacher fans were concerned.

There were nearly 500 dyed-in-the-wool enthusiasts in straggling lines at 10 o'clock tonight, leading up to the four entrances to the outfield bleachers at Forbes field.

Some of them, in the scramble for good positions, had taken up the long vigil early in the afternoon, prepared to stick it out through the night, until the gates to the $1.10 seats open at 9 a. m., tomorrow. Lester McMichael of Connersville, Ind., first in one of the lines, was followed by Bill Peters, who started for Pittsburgh from Baltimore last Friday, made the trip by easy stages and put up his "pup" tent for overnight shelter adjoining the ticket booth. George Silcer, from Worcester, Mass., admitting himself a democrat in politics and a Yankee rooter in baseball, said he was stopping off here on his way back from the Dempsey-Tunney fight.

Youths with an eye to business had secured advantageous positions which they offered for sale at prices scaling from 50 cents to $1.50, depending on the location. "Box seats" were offered to standees for 25 cents.

Only three feminine fans, all from Pittsburgh, were in the advance guard.

PENNOCK WILL BE AELE TO PITCH FRIDAY'S GAME

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 4—(AP)—Herb Pennock, southpaw star of the New York Yankees pitching staff, injured during batting practice today, will be able to pitch Friday's game of the world's series in New York, Dr. J. R. Sholl, of St. Petersburgh, Fla., announced today.

The injury to Pennock's leg, Dr. Scholl said, was not nearly so serious as had been first supposed. The swelling was going down rapidly and there was scarcely a mark to show where Pennock had been hit, the physician said. Pennock who has yet to loose a world's series game will be able to work out at Forbes field before the opening game tomorrow and will have entirely recovered for service on Friday and should the hurling assignment be given him, Sholl added.

Pennock was pitching during Yankee batting practice today when a line drive by Cedric Durst, substitute outfielder, struck him above the knee, bursting a blood vessel. The veteran southpaw kept his feet but was in great pain as he limped to the clubhouse. It was feared for a time that he would be out of the series entirely.

POLICE ROUNDING UP SCALPERS IN PITTSBURGH

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 4—(AP)—City police began a roundup of world's series ticket scalpers late today. Four arrests had been made early tonight and others were expected to follow.

The police campaign was inaugurated as a result of complaints that scalpers were doing a big business in the downtown section. Barney Dreyfuss owner of the Pittsburgh Nationals, after an investigation of scalpers' activities, appealed to police to prosecute those operating without a federal license.

TOLEDO BEATS BISONS FOR THIRD TIME

TOLEDO, Oct. 4—(AP)—Toledo staged a ninth inning spurt today and won its third game in the little world's series from the Buffalo International league champions six to five. Both teams came to the last frame tied five all.

An error by Bissonette permitted Bill Marriott, Toledo third baseman, to come home with the winning run. Marriott had doubled with two out to start the ninth inning rally. It was a see-saw battle throughout. The next two games will be played here. Buffalo has won but one game.

PLAY BY PLAY RETURNS OF SERIES BY MEGAPHONE

As has been the custom for many years The Bulletin will give the public a play by play description of each game of the world's series. A wire direct from the baseball fields in Pittsburgh and New York serves the Bulletin and the action taking place at these fields will be given to Norwich fans by megaphone.

Besides the play by play results there will be descriptive stories by Associated Press sports writers before the game. Carl S. Brandebury will handle the play by play and club house features will be written by E. J. Neil.

The games are scheduled to start at 1:30 o'clock each day except Sunday when the game will begin at 2:01 p. m. The megaphone service will begin about half an hour before game time when pre-game features will be given.

World's Series Sidelights

(By the Associated Press)

Contenders—New York Yankees, champions of the American league, and the Pittsburgh Pirates, champions of the National league.

Schedule—First two games at Forbes field, Pittsburgh, Wednesday and Thursday, Oct. 5 and 6; next three at Yankee stadium, New York, Oct. 7, 8 and 9; last two at Forbes field, Oct. 10 and 11; all games scheduled at 1:30 p. m., eastern standard time, except on Sunday, at New York, when game starts at 2:01 p. m., because of state law. In event of postponement because of weather, teams remain in either city to play allotted games.

Crowd figures—Capacity of Forbes field 45,000, Yankee stadium, 65,000. If seven games played, probably attendance, based on capacity crowds, about 360,000, and total receipts, about $1,400,000. World's series records, 323,051 and $1,207,864, set in 1926 series between Yankees and Cardinals.

Managers—Owen (Donie) Bush, of Pirates, first year; Miller J. Huggins, of Yankees, tenth year.

Probable opening batteries—Kremer and Smith, for Pirates; Hoyt and Collins for Yankees.

Umpires—Nallin and Ormby, American league; Quigley and Moran, National league.

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 4—(AP)—The Yankees say that the Pirates infield is the fastest they have played on this year. "It's as hard as a rock" said Joe Dugan, the New York third sacker, "and you will see some fast shots going though during the next two games. If Ruth and Gehrig played a season in this field they would kill some infielder."

The American league champions suspect the Pirates have purposely kept the infield in a dried out condition in order to upset the Yanks.

"We'll cut the ball through the infied as fast as they" said Ruth.

The grand stand was the gathering spot of players and managers of other ball clubs, Dan Howley, manager of the St. Louis Browns; Wilbert Robinson, manager of the Brooklyn; Bert Niehoff, manager of Atlanta; Dave Bancroft of the Boston Braves; Hans Wagner, Max Carey, Jack Fournier and Al Mamaux, looked the boys over in their last workout.

Joe Harris is playing in the series largely on his nerve, his stomach is giving him trouble and it's been a hard season for "Colter Joe". "I will be in there hitting curves," said Joe to inquiring friends.

The Yanks look for trouble from Vic Aldridge and his big curve. Aldridge took a long workout today. "Two days layoff has put poundage on me", said the Pirate hurler, "and I want to get it off. I take on weight like an ox."'

The big Bam gave an exhibition of fungo hitting after the fielding practice and had Ben Paschal running ragged to the fences chasing long and high drives. "'Don't hit an more out here", said the gasping Paschal. "Two of those balls haven't come down yet".

MAJOR LEAGUE CLUBS DRAFT MINOR PLAYERS

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 4—(AP)—Twenty five minor league players were drafted tonight by club owners of the American and National league at the annual draft meeting conducted by Baseball Commissioner Landis. All of the clubs except the Yankees and Athletics shared in the player selection.

Washington, with four players, headed the list, which developed especially spirited bidding for the services of Howard Freigau, third baseman of the Kansas City club of the American association. He was obtained by Brooklyn after being sought by twelve clubs.

"Lefty" O'Doul, former Yankee pitcher who compiled a notable record as an outfielder and slugger with San Francisco of the Pacific Coast league this year, was drafted by the New York Giants.

FAST AMATEUR BOXING BOUTS AT JEWETT CITY SHOW TONIGHT

Jewett City ventures into the realm of amateur boxing this evening when under the auspices of Jack Potts and Jack Barnett eight top notch bouts will be staged at the Finn theatre. The promoters have secured the sanction of the A. A. U. and boxers participating in these bouts run no risk of endangering their amateur standing. Another feature of the management of the bouts is the fact that a section of choice seats will be reserved for the ladies and their escorts.

FRANKIE ADAMS

The cream of the local amateur talent will be on hand to display their wares and there is bound to be some real high class action when the boys clash. A number of Eastern Connecticut favorites will be on the card including Benny Salinsky, Jewett City's own boy, Happy Bontempo, also of Jewett City and Young Minta a scrappy youngster who claims Jewett City as his home and Young Cobb and Young Sabinski. These lads are showing their wares in their own backyard so to speak, for the first time and the home folks will be out strong for them. Then there will be

YOUNG CHAPPE

Frankie Adams Al Besade and Young Dempski also from the Rose of New England, a couple of two handed fighters who give the fans their money's worth.

Westerly will send a team which will include Young Chappe, Willie Jackson, Young Fairbanks, Pat Colli, Young Coady, Ralph Royster and Young Lizzie. Young Peloquin is entered from Danielson and will bring a large following with him.

As a number of Eastern Connecticut boys are fighting over in the western part of the state this week they will not be able to appear at this show but will appear on a latter card. This is Jewett City's first attempt at the boxing game which has grown by leaps and bounds during the past year and it is hoped that the fans will suport tonight's card and assure Jewett City boxing for the future. The show will start at 8:15.

ACADEMY HOLDS EDGE ON TORRINGTON ATHLETES

The Academy-Torrington football game at the campus this Saturday will be the fourth meeting of these schools in the athletic world.

The locals hold the edge by their two baseball wins in the last two seasons while Torrington triumphed in basketball.

The summary:

1926—Baseball—Academy 11, Torrington 4.

Basketball—Torrington 50, Academy 16.

Academy 16.

Baseball—Academy 9, Torrington 3.

It is an interesting coincidence that all contests have been rather one-sided but in this first football meeting the schools apear mighty evenly matched.

THERMOS TEAM CLOSES SEASON WITH BANQUET

A banquet for the members of the American Thermos Bottle company baseball team, with officials and foremen of the company as their guests, was held Tuesday evening at Cinderella inn, about 40 being present. The banquest was made possible through the money obtained by the team from the split following the close of the Industrial league, the members feeling that inasmuch as they were playing amateur ball, all money obtained through the games should be spent for the entertainment of the team and company officials and not used for individual gain.

The menu served was as follows:

Appetizer
Celery Olives Nuts
Cream of Chicken
Roast Native Turkey
Sausage Dressing Giblet Sauce
Cranberry Sauce
Vegetable Salad
Ice Cream Coffee
Cigars Cigarettes

The toastmaster for the evening was Everett Peckham and during the banquet plans were discussed for the 1928 season when it is expected that the Bottlers will make a strong bid for the league championship.

Encouraging remarks were made by Everett Peckham, manager of the 1927 ball club, and complimentory remarks were also heard from A. E. Payson, vice president and general manager of the company, J. E. Roantree, secretary and treasurer and James Nell, general sales manager of the company.

The banquet proved a most enjoyable affair and was held under the direction of Daniel Driscoll, John Oney and Eddie Paul, who also secured the entertainment for the affair.

ONE HOUR TAKES LAST DAY FEATURE AT AQUEDUCT

NEW YORK, Oct. 4—(AP)—The Beldame handicap, feature of the closing day of the season at Aqueduct, was carried off by One Hour, ridden by Jockey Fields. The race, limited to two year old fillies, was run at five furlongs and One Hour's time was 1:01. The Rancocas stable's Daunt was cecond and Fair Mist third. The race was worth $3,850.

J. E. Widener's three year old Osmand, carrying 126 pounds and given a clever ride by Earl Sande, took off the Capital handicap, $5,000 added, at Laurel. Osmand ran the six furlongs in 1:11 4-5. Pandera closed fast in the stretch but could not catch Prince of Wales, who finished second, a length behind Osmand and a neck ahead of Pandera.

St. Charles won the fourth race at Hawthorne, six furlongs for three year olds and up, stepping the distance in 1:25. Dar Fur was second and Silver Wings third.

Hats Up captured the fourth race at Churchhill Downs. Stintson was second and Miami Triad third. The six furlongs were run in 1:14 3-5.

The Voltiguer plate claiming for three year olds and up, feature at Woodbine, went to Care Free, with San Carlos second and Warman third. The six furlongs were run in 1:13 3-5.

WINDHAM AND ACADEMY TIED FOR FOOTBALL HONORS

The Academy and Windham are technically tied for top ranking among the high schools of southeastern New England, according to figures of games played to date. Each has won its only start, giving a 1000 percentage. Windham, because of her having scored eight more points than the Academy, is conveniently placed on top. Windham's 26 to 0 victory over Putnam looked a bit more impressive on paper than the Academy's 18 to 0 win over Chapman Tech although it seems that Tech was better than Windham's adversary. Results of play to date have provided few upsets. By the coming Saturday things will become a bit hotter for the favorites.

Tech, with a win and loss in two starts for a .500 percentage places next, with Westerly, who has played two scoreless ties, behind the New London school.

A summary of the work to date of "Big Six" in the high school football line in this section to date follows, the columns in order being games won, lost and tied, percentage, and points scored and opponents' scores.

Here are the figures:

Windham	1	0	0	1000	26	0
N. F. A.	1	0	0	1000	18	0
C. Tech	1	1	0	.500	13	18
Westerly	0	0	2	.000	0	0

Other Scholastic Sports

Stonington lost its initial game Saturday to the Alumni outfit, 3 to 0. Coach O'Brien's boys play Bulkeley at Hartford this Saturday.

No games affecting the E. C.-W. R. I. league have yet been played.

It is reported that Westerly's team is filled with inexperienced material but that it is growing better with each game.

The heat last Saturday no doubt made some scores what they wouldn't otherwise have been. With good weather this week all elevens should hit their regular stride.

The new bleachers at the Academy are now being put up rapidly and will probably be ready by Saturday's game with Torington.

Dick Gray, Bulkeley's second string center, who was taken to the Meriden hospital Saturday following the Meriden-Bulkeley game, was able to come home the first of the week.

In his climb to the championship Gene Tunney gained his greatest prestige as a heavyweight when he knocked out Tom Gibbons, being the first man to accomplish this feat.

TAFTVILLE-RIVERVIEW GAME SUNDAY

Taftville and Riverview will play the fifth game of the series on next Sunday afternoon at the J. B. Martin diamond. This was the announcement made by Manager Jim Troland of the Taftville Martafts on Tuesday evening. Manager Troland said that he had come to an agreement with the Riverview club for the final game and that it would be a battle.

Taftville was scheduled to open a series with the Moosup Town Talks but this series has been called off as both Taftville and Riverview will wind up their 1927 season with this game. The players on the Martaft team say that they are not desirous of playing any later in the season and the management is taking a long chance on the weather conditions.

Sunday's game will be the big game of the Eastern Connecticut baseball season and both Manager Troland and Manager Hamel are keeping their plans for the game to themselves. Neither will give out who he is going to use in the game. In speculating on the game it would seem that Johnny Tillman would be the choice of Manager Hamel as Tillman has twice beaten the Martafts while Chet Nichols seems to be the best bet for the Troland clan. However it is possible that new pitchers will be seen in the game for both clubs. Whether other positions will be strengthened is another question but it is certain that Troland will have the same or as good a team as represented Taftville over the week end.

The game will come on one of the days of the world's series games but it is planned not have the returns of the series game by radio so that fans will not miss these series.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Rock Nook Children's Home

In making its annual appeal to the people of Norwich, the United Workers call attention to one branch of the organization's work as follows:

In 1878 Mr. Moses Pierce delighted the United Workers of Norwich by giving them his house, with about 40 acres of ground, on the Norwich Town Green, to be used as a home for children. In making the gift, Mr. Pierce was gratifying a long cherished wish to provide a happy home for the children of the city in need of such care. During its 49 years of existence, 627 children have been cared for, either for a short period or for a term of years.

The funds of the Rock Nook home have made it possible for many children to remain with their mothers, board being paid for these children in their own homes. The Rock Nook Home committee rejoice that they have been able to give aid outside the walls of the home, in half a dozen directions, including the clinics and conferences under the public health nursing and family welfare departments, and child welfare work in one of the schools a considerable portion of the income going in this way.

A bit of bread was cast upon the waters in allowing the Boy Scouts to maintain a tent upon the Rock Nook Home grounds, and the bread returned abundantly when F. H. Wyant undertook the instruction in scouting of some of the older boys.

The expenses of the home have now reached the limit of their income, as the work is constantly expanding, and the activities increasing; the committee, therefore, appeal to the Norwich public for their continued interest and support of the work.

WELSH LADIES' CHOIR FOR LIONS' CHARITY FUND

In answer to many requests from leading citizens of Norwich who were greatly entertained and charmed by the superb singing of the Royal Welsh Ladies' choir at the concert given last year at Slater hall, the Norwich Lions have again engaged the celebrated singers for a return concert.

Of all the Welsh musical organizations, Miss Gertrude Gronow's Royal Ladies' Welsh choir stands out with marked distinction, having justly earned an enviable reputation not only in Great Britain, and on the continent but also in the United States of America and Canada. This famous choir was commanded to sing before H. R. H. the prince of Wales, who was so profoundly impressed by their singing that he exclaimed, "A magnificent choir!" In 1925 the choir had the honor of singing before Queen Marie of Roumania who remarked "I am greatly touched by your singing."

The "Royal Welsh Ladies' Choir" consists of fourteen highly trained voices—all graduates of the world's best colleges. They are all star artists of Great Britain and every member a national prize winner, in addition to which they possess characters of sterling moral worth and are all affiliated with Christian churches. Never before has such an array of artists of the first rank appeared with one single organization.

Last year they broadcasted over KDKA, WJZ, WBZ and WEEI and received hundreds of congratulatory telegrams, letters and 'phone messages from Atlantic to Pacific, Canada, New Zealand, Australia, West Indies, and Great Britain from delighted radio audiences. This organization is in every sense a modern choir of exceptional merit and will appear this year more powerful and attractive than ever.

President Wm. Frisbie has a large committee to help him bring the wonderful singers to the attention of music-lovers of Norwich. Mr. Frisbie is sure that those who enjoyed the beautiful singing at last year's concert will persuade their friends to attend the concert and not miss the opportunity of enjoying a very high class artistic and entertaining performance.

THE GOLD MEDAL GLENWOOD

Two complete ranges are combined in this new model—only a yard wide

THE modern kitchen is planned to save steps, and this newest model of the Gold Medal Glenwood has been made to fit it—to give you all the conveniences of both gas and coal without the disadvantages of having two ranges to take up space.

One half is a completely equipped coal range, with a large square-cornered oven and two good sized covers in the cooking top. Thrifty housewives have often told us that they get enough heat by using this coal section in winter to keep two other rooms warm, besides the kitchen.

The other half has four gas burners, a broiler and a baking oven which is equipped with a Glenwood Robertshaw Oven Heat Control. This automatic regulator sets you free from hours of oven-watching. Let us show you how easily and perfectly it works.

The Gold Medal Glenwood is also made in 2 larger sizes.

Try Magnesia For Indigestion

People who suffer from indigestion usually have tried pepsin, charcoal, drugs and various digestive aids and got little more than slight temporary relief—sometimes not even that.

But before giving up to chronic dyspepsia, just try the effect of a little Bisurated Magnesia—not the ordinary commercial carbonate, citrate or milk, but pure Bisurated Magnesia which you can obtain from practically any druggist in either powder or tablet form.

Take a teaspoonful of the powder or four tablets with a little water after your next meal, and see what a difference this makes. It will instantly neutralize the dangerous, harmful acid in the stomach which now causes your food to ferment, and sour, making gas, wind, flatulence, heartburn and the bloated or heavy, lumpy feeling that seems to follow most everything you eat. You can enjoy your meals without a fear of indigestion.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

September proved to be a good month favorable to building activities in Norwich and vicinity and much work was accomplished during the period. In fact the most favorable progress of almost the entire year was made during the month. Many dwelling houses were brought to the completion stage and a number of the larger projects were brought along at a rapid rate.

The new store of the Mohican Co. was completed during the week and with the exception of the installation of the interior fixtures is practically ready for occupation. The new building is modern in every respect with large built-in refrigerating plant with the bakery equipment on the second floor.

Foundation work on the Silberman Co. addition is well along and the forms have been removed ready for the laying of the brick walls. The base for the elevator shaft has been completed.

Work of remodeling the first floor of the two story building at 9 1-2 Thames street started last week and the front of the building has been removed and will be replaced with a new brick and plate glass front while the interior of the building will also be remodeled.

Good progress has been made on other projects in the city and at the office of Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton several building permits were granted during the past week.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

An increase of seven sales of real estate in Norwich marked the past week when there were 13 as compared to six for the corresponding week in 1926. The mortgage loans for the respective weeks were 31,050 and 100,320.

There were 10 sales of real estate in New London during the past week which was a decrease of three sales from the number during the same period a year ago. The mortgage loans forthe respective weeks were $31,110 and $81,419.

New London

With more than 25 new dwellings under construction, or completed in the past year, the Pequot section stands out as one of the most active parts of the city in new home building activities, and bids fair to lead the entire city in new building for the next few years.

With the development of former large estates in that section into smaller building lots together with the construction of new roads, the district has taken a new lease on life and promises to be one of the largest populated sections of the city, outside the strictly inner limits.

While promoters of the various developments realize that their efforts are being rewarded with the upbuilding of a high class residential district it is the general belief that the development of that section is only just beginning and that in the next few years the new building there will jump in leaps and bounds. Already nearly all of the lots developed for home sites have been sold to prospective home builders and with the respective convenience of each it is expected that all of the lot purchasers will build new homes.

Most notable of the present developments under way are those of the Guthrie and Riggs estates. In each of these developments several new homes have been constructed and plans are already under way for the construction of several more.

The new home being built for Dr. Frank E. Wilson in Glenwood avenue by Contractor A. A. Pancelra of Mystic is well under way. The exterior work having been practically finished and work now progressing rapidly on the wiring, plumbing and heating installations and lathing of the interior. The house is of Colonial design, frame construction, 32 by 38 feet. The wide clapboard, painted white, together with the lang sloping roof and attractive entrance with field stone steps lends a true architectural effect to the background of heavy foliage. The electrical work is being done by E. A. Hunter and the plumbing and heating by Perkins and Lacy. The house will have six rooms besides two large halls and two baths. A large brick fireplace has been completed and will add to the beauties and comfort of the residence. A two-car garage has been built also.

One of the most attractive dwellings built this year is the new house recently completed for Harold Christiansen in Park way. Aside from the color scheme the structure differs little in general architecture to many other homes to be found about the city but that added touch of a fine color combination sets the structure out of the ordinary. The siding is of a pretty gray stained shingle. The roof slopes to the front with that unique dormer effect and the windows are set off with a deep blue colored blind of antique pine tree design and solid construction, greatly enhancing the general appearance. There are two chimneys, one constructed in the interior and one at the east end of the building for fireplaces. The front entrance is of neat design with brick steps and field stone sides. Long white flower boxes under each of the pairs of flower front windows also helps to set the design off. There is an open shelter over the front steps with a peak roof. The foundation is of field stone and the structure itself, 31 by 21 feet, is set off by handsome shrubbery. In the rear a two-car garage has been built to match.

Work has been practically completed onthe construction of a new cottage for David Mulcanhey in Glenwood avenue. The new house is effectively shingled with a dark gray stained shingle and with an attractive entrance and sunporch is quite different from the ordinary run of cottage architecture. The property is now being graded. A garage of frame construction has been completed also.

The plastering has been completed on the pretty cottage being built for W. E. Daley in Lower Bouleward by Contractors Charles and Thomas Humphries. The house is attractively finished with wide yelow clapboards, green roof, sun porch and peak entrance with concrete steps and foundations.

Four new houses have been completed in Lower Boulevard, north of Glenwood avenue for Thomas T. Wetmore, Jr. While all four have practically the same conveniences, and space, each is of separate design and far removed from any thought of standardization. The sides of one is of gray shingles with a closed porch and green shingled roof. Another is finished with cream colored clapboards and a green shingled roof. Another is finished with white shingles and a copper colored roof and the fourth is finished with white clapboard. All have garages designed to conform with the architecture of the respective house. Each of the new dwellings represent the latest development in the construction of cozy single family residences.

Another new group of pretty cottages is found in Glenwood avenue, between Ocean avenue and Lower Boulevard on the west side of the thoroughfare. These three houses are all finished with the wide clapboard and all are equipped with blinds with shutters in the lower half and designs cut out in the upper half. All three also have green shingled roofs and cobblestone foundations, and sun porches, but while the general material and conveniences of each is somewhat similar the design of each is taken up separately and with good effect. The architecture is vastly different in each. Each has garages also.

Westerly

Much progress has been made the past 10 days in the demolition of the northern three stores, formerly occupied by the Pasnik company, the Celena shop, and United Music store in the former Ailing Rubber block, and now owned by the Green Stores, Inc. which company plans to erect a new and more nearly fire-proof block. Changing of plans for iron stairways and for the construction of a fire wall next to the C. W. Willard Hardware store block has delayed the start of the new structure. Extra coats of paint have been applied to the recently reboarded face of the Westerly Town clock on the tower of the manual training school and in another month it is hoped to have the clock, put out of business by the fire of April 30th, start duty again on standard time.

KEEP YOUR APPETITE YOUNG

If the things you used to like disagree with you, take a tablet of Pape's Diapepsin after a meal. It displaces the excess acid in the stomach, sweetens your food, and digests it. The nourishment from it produces good, healthy tissues and blood; you gain weight and strength, and with that comes a healthy, youthful color.

Thousands of people who suffered from stomach trouble for years, praise Pape's Diapepsin for their good health and young appetite. They can now eat anything they want. That's why 5 million packages are used a year.

Any druggist will supply you with Pape's Diapepsin, because it is indispensable in every home.

NOANK

The little red waiting room at Elm street was taken away by the trolley company recently and now people living on that street will have to stand out in the cold or storms because too many stunts were played with the building by jokers tipping it over too many times. It cost money to put it back in place.

Tying an old auto tire to a rope and putting it in a place near Devil Foot hill, so when an automobile was coming by the driver would stop to pick up the tire thinking some one had lost it, has been tried here. The tire would go out of sight and the jokers would get a laugh over it. This was tried on an auto driver from Massachusetts and he was blinded from another car's lights when about to stop to pick up the tire. His auto hit a pole and ruined a rear tire, also damaged the fender. It set him back about $30.

Arthur McDonald spent a day on Fishers Island this week.

A dance given in Unity hall recently by the firefighters of the village attracted the largest crowd of the season. Many from out of town attended. Harney's Singing orchestra of Niantic stepped on the music for the dancers. A moonlight dance was tried out by Floor Manager Sam Carson and proved a success. Light-foot Jake, known as Walter Welles, gave an exhibition of the new Lindbergh hop and received applause and cheering from the crowd. He was called back twice as it is the first time that dance was done in the village. Connie Walker sang, while his three music mates joined in the chorus. The hall was decorated with October foliage, lanterns and crepe paper in black and orange.

Mike Passi is giving Tony Passi's house on Main street, a new coat of paint.

Edward Morgan has shipped as mate aboard boat Earl for the blackfish season.

The voting in the village for the town of Groton officials Monday was the lightest vote cast in years. When the polls closed at 6 p. m., only 102 votes had been dropped in the ballot boxes during the day. The fishing village went republican and Second Selectman Henry Rathbun was high man with 102 votes. Election day in the village was like a Sunday on the farm, so quiet. The day was warm, yet, with a good breeze.

Charles Oles has moved his household goods to the Sawyer tenement, on High street.

Miss Charles T. Potter of Norwich has been ill at her home in that city Now her friends in the village are pleased to hear that she is able to sit up each day.

MARKET WAS IRREGULAR.

NEW YORK, Oct. 4.—(AP)—The recovery in stock prices, which has been under way since last Friday, came to an abrupt halt today, when a flood of selling orders swept through the market and carried prices down in precipitous fashion. A wild outburst of buying in early trading carried nearly two score issues to record high levels, several of them 5 to 11 points above yesterday's final quotations, but these gains were substantially reduced, or wiped out, and in many cases converted into net declines of 3 to 6 points.

Total sales crossed 3,000,000 shares for the first time this year, with the stock exchange ticker at one time 21 minutes behind the market.

Although the sensational character of the early advances led to heavy profit taking by conservative traders, the big selling movement launched by bear traders followed the marking up of the call money rate from 4 to 4 1-2 per cent, coincident with the calling of about $20,000,000 in bank loans. Several of the larger commission houses had urged their customers to take profits on the theory that the market was entitled to at least a technical reaction, and selling from this source swelled the volume of offerings.

After the market closed, the New York stock exchange made public its monthly report of brokers' loans, showed the somewhat startling increase of approximately $241,000,000 in September, bringing the total at the end of that month to a new high record of $3,914,927,570, as compared with $3,673,927,010 at the end of September, 1926, and a low of $2,767,400,514 in May, 1926.

One-sixth of the day's tremendous volume of business was transacted in the New York of the General Motors corporation, total sales of which exceeded half a million shares. The stock dropped from a high record of 142 to 135 1-2 and then snapped back to 136 3-4, off 1 5-8 net. The old stock tumbled from 232 1-4 to 272, closing 4 1-2 net lower at 273. General Electric fell from 140 3-4 to 136 3-8 and then rebounded to 137 3-4, where it was up 2 1-8 points net.

Case Threshing soared 11 points to 216 in early trading and then reacted to 271. Midland Steel Products prefered soared 14 points to a new top at 165 and then slipped back to 159 7-8. DuPont, after touching a new top at 262 7-8, fell back to 236, off 5 1-4 net. Other industrial issues which had reached new high ground in the early trading included Packard, Beechnut Packing, Liggett & Myers B, Engineers Public Service, Madison Square Garden, U. S. Leather, Calumet & Arizona and Continental Insurance. Electric Refrigeration broke below $10 a share for a new low for the year.

Sharp recessions also took place in the railroad shares, although new tops had been established in the early trading by Baltimore & Ohio, New York Central, Norfolk & Western, Louisville & Nashville and Union Pacific.

Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Wheat futures advanced about a cent a bushel but the other leading commodity markets were heavy. Cotton receded 12 to 26 points on liquidation influenced by a desire to reduce commitments pending the condition report on Saturday. Raw sugar futures reacted 1 to 6 points despite the passage of the crop restriction legislation by the Cuban congress. Coffee prices also reacted slightly.

Establishment of a new post-war high by sterling exchange at $4.86 7-8 for cables on London, featured the foreign exchange market. Japanese yen jumped 10 points, regaining most of yesterday's loss, but the other advances were normal.

ANNOUNCEMENTS
Broadway Theater
The "Big Parade" Metro-Goldwyn-Mayers pretentious super special, which has been playing to capacity audiences at the Broadway theater all this week will end its Norwich engagement tonight. If you have not already done so, see it by all means. Its a picture that you will never forget.
The story is so human that it hurts. No effort has been made to embellish it, no attempt has been made to make the American lad who went over there to do his bit a great hero. It contains grim tragedy, deep pathos, and a realism that has never before been translated so successfully to the screen.
Words fail us when we speak of John Gilbert's performance. Probably with a record of more fine characterizations than any other screen actor, Mr. Gilbert surpasses even himself as the hero of this World war drama.
A rare treat awaits movie goers on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, when Starlit Love, the Cosmopolitan Paramount special will be presented.
It is the story of the lives of the mountaineers of the south who have practically no contact with modern civilization and who are as primitive as were their ancestors 150 or more years ago when they pushed westward from the coast in search of new home sites. The picture was made in the Great Smoky mountains of North Carolina by the people who live there.

A rural bus line in Tokyo is using automobiles imported in 1910, which are said to be still in good condition.

NEW LONDON VOTERS DISSATISFIED WITH CITY MANAGER GOVERNMENT

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 4.—The taxpayers and voters of New London are seeking the overthrowing of the present form of city manager form of government. They desire to return to the former municipal control of city affairs. With that end in view, petitions are being circulated today among the voters in order that it will be compulsory to call a special city election that the voters can decide whether the present government prevail, or a return be made to the municipal controlled government. Ten petitions are being circulated, two of them in each ward. It will be necessary to obtain at least 800 signers before the petition can be presented to the council for action. The proponents of the return to municipal government state that they will obtain at least 1000 names, so that an ample number of proper signers will be secured in the event that any of them are invalidated for any reason, as was the case a year ago, when several hundred signatures were determined to be invalid. The abodement of the present form of government is desired by both republicans and democrats and it is believed that the necessary number of signatures to compel the calling of the special election will be obtained this week. As soon as City Clerk Julian D. Moran has determined the validity of the signatures, the petition will go to the council and a date will then be set for the election. It has been known for several months that the petitions would be circulated, for it was freely admitted by the opponents of the city manager form of government that as soon as the annual elections had taken place petitions would be put into circulation. The final election was held 10 days ago.

BOOZER RINGS DOOR BELL AT 3 A. M. TO BE ARRESTED

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 4.—Sebastino Riposi became drunk last night and in his wanderings he went to the residence of Charles F. Klinger, 652 Bank street and summoned Klinger to the door by ringing the bell. When interrigated as to his mission at the Klinger house at 3 o'clock, Riposi said that he desired to be arrested and locked up. He was accommodated for two officers sent to the house in response to a telephone message to police headquarters by Klinger resulted in Riposi being lodged in a cell. In the police court today Riposi was fined $10 but execution of the sentence was suspended.

GOOD SAMARITAN ROBBED BY MAN HE BEFRIENDS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 4.—William Falvey, 24 Golden street, will probably lose all faith in human nature after his experience of this morning for after he had befriended an acquaintance he was robbed of money and personal effects.

Falvey consented to share his room last night with Patrick Phillips. At 3 o'clock Falvey decided to go to a restaurant. He did not absent himself long, but he remained away long enough to permit Phillips to steal $65, a watch and a leather grip. When Falvey returned he discovered Phillips missing and making a search of the room found his property gone. Falvey reported the theft to the police, but no trace of Phillips was found.

There is a hope that the robbers who cleaned out the store of Tarnapol on Bank street, Sunday after midnight, may be apprehended. It is known that they took their plunder away in an auto instead of in a power boat, as it was supposed they might have done and there is abundant reason to believe that they went in the direction of Hartford. It is also believed they are members of a gang that makes a business of store robberies. Detectives Smith and Cavanaugh are at work on the case and they have obtained clues that they are following and which they will pursue as long as there is any prospect of getting their game. It is believed the thieves had the patrolman on the beat under surveillance several nights and that they knew when he went to lunch and thus was away from his rounds. They must have planned the robbery several days before they committed the crime, as once in the store they had labor to do that required an hour or more of time.

TARNAPOL STOCK THIEVES MAY BE CAUGHT IN MAINE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 4—The police tonight received information that may lead to the apprehension of the thieves. E. M. Waterhouse, of the Waterhouse Detective agency, Caco, Me., sent a dispatch to the New London police stating that at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon an automobile, a sedan, carrying Massachusetts registration 543643 passthrough Moulton, N. H., at a fast rate of speed. A woman was driving the auto, but she had a male companion and the rear of the auto was filled with women's apparel. The auto continued to the cross-roads leading to Chochurua and Fanmouth and stopped there a few seconds. The auto then started at a fast rate of speed towards Chochorua. Waterhouse believes that the auto contained the clothing stolen from the Tarnapol store and is making an effort to trace the auto that it may be held up and the clothing identified.

Milton Miller, 13 1-2 Tilley street, was presented on a charge of failing to send his daughter, Marion, 8, to school regularly. The case was continued six months, when Miller assured the court that he could see to it that his daughter was a regular attendant at school.

The United States Coast Guard sailors were in a disturbing frame of mind last night because of their overindulgence in liquor and as a result, five of their number were arrested by the shore patrol and the police. None of them, however, was presented in the police court today for this morning the five were taken back to local section base, 4, state pier, where they will face court martial.

Patrolman Walter Rehn is confined to his home Blydenberg avenue, suffering from injuries sustained last night when he was struck by a Yellow Cab driven by Elbert V. Chapman of Poquonoc Bridge. The officer was walking along State street and started to cross to the opposite side. As he stepped from the curb the taxicab was about to pass and before Chapman had an opportunity to reduce the speed of the cab, Rehn walked against one of the mudguards and was knocked down. Chapman had the officer taken to the private hospital where it was found that Rehn's injuries consisted of severe bruises and abrasions of the left leg. After the injuries had been treated, Rehn was taken to his home.

Elbert P. Rathbun of Front street, Noank, drove his automobile to New London last night and parked it on Masonic street, while he attended a theatre. When Rathbun returned to drive to his home two hours later the auto had been stolen. Rathbun reported the theft to the police and a request was made of the state police at Groton and Centerbrook and the police of Norwich, Westerly Hartford, Middletown and New Haven to be on the lookout for the car.

Silas Maxson, Jr., has sold a tract of land south of Thames street, located between Montauk and Pequot avenue, to Frank L. McGuire and wife. Mr. and Mrs. McGuire own other property near the location. The property is situated at the Pequot.

Capt. Charles Everett, of New York; Mrs. Stephen Campbell and infant son, Stonington and Mrs. Curtis Hitchcock and infant daughter, Lyme, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

City Manager William A. Holt started on his vacation today. He will be absent from his desk two weeks and during that time Director of Finance Carey Congdon will be in charge of the city's affairs.

At the city council session Monday night when the matter of reading for the third and final time of an electrical ordinance, which, as amended, it is proposed to adopt, Councilor Streeter opposed the final reading until a public hearing is held this month. He said that the passage of the ordinance as prepared would be a detriment to the city and it would harrass manufacturers, because of alterations and changes of equipment would of necessity be required by such an ordinance. He said that final action should not be taken until taxpayers have an opportunity to attend the hearing and learn what is being "tried to be put over." Postponement of the final reading of the petition was made until after the holding of the public hearing.

Councilor Scott introduced a resolution relating to the action of the city of New London against the Pequot Point Beach company and Lucius E. Whiton, which requested that the council, as a committee, hear the facts in the case after adjournment of the meeting, with a view to reaching a settlement. Director of Law Troland gave a history of the case, which is an instance where the Beach company claims land on the water front, but to which the city claims title. The director of law said that the Beach company has been continually dodging court action and doing everything in its power to keep the action from ever reaching the courts and the longer that course is successful the more the city is losing. He said that the case had been assigned for the present term of the superior court and if a further continuance is made it will probably be a year before the action gets into court for settlement. It was finally voted, but not until after much discussion, that a conference be held by he director of law and counsel for the Beach company, the former to report back to the council at a meeting to be held Oct. 10. Until such report is made the matter was voted laid upon the table.

Domenfio Lopez, Portuguese, 26, a freight handler residing at 8 Schoolhouse lane, was arrested tonight by Patrolmen Albert Iverson and Lawrence Feeley charged with breach of the peace by Joseph Gomes, also a Portuguese, of 26 Tilley street. Lopez and his wife had resided with Gomez until a few days ago when they suddenly left the house leaving an unpaid lodging bill. Lopez and his wife were suspected of skipping out, but at the time Mrs. Lopez informed Gomes that she was going to a store to make a purchase and when she returned she would pay the bill. She never returned. Tonight Gomes sought and found Lopez and demanded his money. Lopez then atacked Gomes and admisterer a severe beating. Lopez is a big, powerful man while Gomes appears to be weak and sickly. Gomes went to police headquarters and made complain against his asailant and the latter's arrest followed. He was released upon furnishing a bond of $100 for appearance in the polie court tomorrow.

The boat left New London at 10 o'clock and as it started to enter the slip the strong wind carried the boat against the southerly side with great force, throwing the passengers about the cabin and deck. The boat was backed into mid-stream and it was 20 minutes before Capt. Charles Pettigrew, who is substituting for Capt. George H. Crandall, was able to moor the boat.

Many Radio Fans Write To Philco

A record of mail received by the Philadelphia Storage Battery company and by the five broadcasting stations through which it has been broadcasting its "Philco Hour" program, shows to date a total of thousands of letters, post-cards and telegrams commenting on the various programs.

"This record-breaking achievement," says the company, "emphasizes the widespread interest everywhere in the high quality entertainment being furnished and it represents, too, an interest in light socket operation of radio sets, since in nearly every instance those who sent in this mail sent also requests for information about the Philco AB Socket Power, that runs any battery operated set from the electric current."

The "Philco Hour" is broadcast every Friday night through stations WJZ, KDKA, KYW, WBZ and WBZA. Beginning September 16, this hook-up will be extended to include 30 high-powered broadcasting stations in all parts of the country.

Breed Theatre

Olive Borden comes to the screen at the Breed theatre today for a two days' engagement in what is said to be the most fascinating vehicle in which she has ever appeared—Victor Schertzinger's production of "The Secret Studio," based on the newspaper serial by Hazel Livingston.

Miss Borden delineates the role of Rosemary Merton, the New Jersey village girl who decides to give up a college career and become a wage-earner in New York city. It is her experiences, based on the ignorance and self-assurance of youth, that lead her into a maelstrom of exciting episodes.

In the course of her activities she becomes the model for an artist who gives an elaborate ball in which he introduces the girl as the most beautiful model of the season.

It is in this sequence that Miss Borden wears some of the most colorful costumes of her screen career. Four tableaux reveal the little star in as many different gownings. In one she is likened to a Grecian statue; in another she is a girl of the Colonial period; in a third she is the spirit of jazz, stepping out of a saxophone, and in the fourth, she is a Russian flapper.

Palace Theater

Once this afternoon at 2:15, and from 7 to 10:30 tonight will be your final opportunities of seeing the special attractions at the Palace. Five all star acts of vaudeville are featured, as well as Reginald Denny in "Out All Night." This picture a farce comedy with Marian Nixon is the story of a young man after seeing his favorite musical comedy star perform decided he would like her for his wife, and circumstances in his favor, make it possible for him to do so, until after he married her, learned that she must forfeit $100,000 to the producers if she married while the contract is in force. The comedy situations while he tries to see his wife will keep you in laughter from start to finish. A very refreshing picture.

Commencing tomorrow for three days another five act bill of vaudeville will be presented and Bebe Daniels assisted by Gertrude Ederle, the famous channel swimmer in "Swim Girl Swim."

Advance reports have it that this production is the best Miss Daniels has ever made and if facts mean anything, the reports cannot be exaggerated. "The Campus Flirt" was a knockout, but critics agree that "Swim Girl, Swim" has it topped.

Here are the facts. In the first place the story was written by Lloyd Corrigan who knows everything about how a college story should be written with color, romance, thrills and laughs. It was directed by Clarence Badger and this man has never been known to miss.

It has a star particularly suited for just this sort of thing—fast moving comedy—and the cast is hand picked. James Hall, Gertrude Ederle—yes, the famous Tudy of English channel fame, is in the cast—Josephine Dunn, William Austin and James Mack are only a few of the names.

The story is about a girl who swims the channel and yet who is unable to swim. And that is a situation. There are races and chases galore, just one event after another. And, just to be sure that the college atmosphere was really there, Miss Daniels selected the University of California in Los Angeles for the location of the campus scenes. More than 200 students participate in the production.

"Swim, Girl, Swim" is the first picture Trudy has ever appeared in. Her role is a good one and she is seen as a player and also in her customary role of a swimmer.

NO WOMAN CAN KEEP HOUSE EFFICIENTLY

Without Good Health

MRS. FRANK DINDORE
BOX 239, LANCASTER, OHIO.

I was on a visit to my sister in Utica, Michigan, and she had taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. Her husband got me a bottle and I took it and felt so much better that I got a second one. Now, whenever I feel run-down I take the Vegetable Compound and soon feel all right again. I have had three little girls in the last six years and do all my housework, sewing, washing, and ironing. My time is pretty well taken up, but I will answer any letters I receive."—MRS. FRANK DINDORE, Box 239, Lancaster, Ohio.

Four Walls Can Make a House, but it takes a Woman to Make a Home

To be a successful homemaker, a woman must guard her health. When mother is not well, the home is upset. Women everywhere are learning through their own personal experiences, as these women did, the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Lancaster, Ohio.—"For ten years after my marriage, I had poor health. Sturgis, Michigan.—"I am very thankful for what your medicine has done for me and have recommended it to others. I took it to give me strength before my baby was born. I would have to stop work and lie down sometimes all the afternoon. I felt as if I did not care whether anything was done or not. I got tired out so easily. One day I found a little book on my porch and that night I showed it to my husband and he went down town and got me a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. The medicine has helped me so much that I was soon able to do my work, and when my baby was born, my nurse, Mrs. Forbes, said it was the easiest birth she had ever attended. I will be more than pleased if I am helping someone else by giving my testimonial."—MRS. EDWARD PRESSNO, 614 Sturgis Ave., Sturgis, Michigan.

Today's Quickest Car

The quickened tempo of this new age of speed and dash produced the La Salle. It is the car of cars for people who desire to move quickly because they think and live quickly—who are alive in every nerve and muscle. It is primarily their car, because it is the quickest car built today. It accelerates more quickly than any other car. It responds to the steering wheel so swiftly that it seems almost to obey your mind rather than your hand. It is a charming, quick and zealous servant—always ready to do more than you really require, and doing it more smoothly and willingly because of its 90-degree, V-type, eight cylinder engine.

You may possess a LaSalle on the liberal term-payment plan of the General Motors Acceptance Corporation—the appraisal value of your used car acceptable as cash

CONGREGATIONAL WOMEN MET TO HEAR OF WORK BY MISSIONARIES

The fall meeting of the Woman's Congregational Home Missionary union of Connecticut, the American board co-operating, New London and Windham associations, was held at the First Church of Christ, New London, Tuesday, Mrs. Allen Latham presiding.

The morning session opened at 10:30 with prayer by Mrs. J. Beveridge Lee. How the problem of the rural church has been attacked was related by Rev. A. Wallace Canney of Westchester, pastor in a corner of eastern Connecticut where three counties meet, who, believing that the individual county church is too small a unit to be workable, has led six churches to pool their numbers, money, talent and enthusiasm for monthly social evenings and so by co-operating make a larger working group.

Mrs. Robert E. Johnson of Storrs spoke of the splendid plan on foot at Storrs by which the intellectual, spiritual and social needs of students of 20 nationalities may be met.

Mrs. Carl Holdredge of Ledyard, under the title, "Our Daughter in Bombay", spoke of the successful work that Miss Gertrude Avery of Norwich Town is doing as teacher and leader of Hindu Girl Guides in a slum section of Bombay.

Miss Ruth Seabury, secretary of religious education under the American board, gave as one reason for the merging of that board and the Woman's Board of Missions the necessity of getting the whole church, not only the women but the men, thinking and studying missions, working and giving to this cause. Always a forceful and straightforward speaker, Miss Seabury drew a strong contrast between the easy-going Christian of our home churches, "stifled by luxury," ignorant of and indifferent to the need of the world without Christ and the sacrificial mission lives of the native Christian people of India and China who know Christ because they in their daily lives have suffered with him.

After luncheon, served in the parish house, the afternoon session opened with Miss Elizabeth F. Pullen of this city in the chair. Rev. Gurdon F. Bailey of Norwich Town, brought greetings from the ministers' luncheons and their expressed desire that the women present a specific program before the men's clubs forums, brotherhoods of the churches as to what work is being done on the mission field and how and why, and in what way the men here at home can co-operate in studying about and carrying it through.

Rev. O. A. Smith of Nogales, Ariz., on the Mexican boundary, told of some phases of work on the border.

During the offertory which was received by Miss Sylvina Norton, of North Westchester, a solo was sung by Miss Gladys Pettigrew, with organ accompaniment.

Miss Priscilla Holton, whom some of the young people had known at Northfield, was heard with great interest as she told of her work with Chinese school girls as teacher of English and music.

The session closed at 3:30 with the benediction pronounced by Rev. J. R. Danforth.

The registration taken at the door showed an attendance of nearly 400 which was augmented by a party of Academy girls who arrived in season to hear Miss Holton.

A perfect autumn day, the cordial hospitality of the New London hostesses, the generously given automobile transportation as carried through by women of New London and Windham county churches, and the excellent program, made this first meeting since the merging of the board a memorable one.

WARNING NEW ENGLAND AGAINST SAFE BREAKERS

The police department of the city of Lawrence, Mass., where a gang of safe-breakers were at work last week have sent out warnings to cities in this part of New England one of which has been received by Chief George Linton.

The warning letter follows:

Chief of Police,
Sir:—

Beware of a gang of traveling safe-men who early on the morning of Sept. 29, broke into five automobile salesrooms in this city, hammered the dials off the safe in each of the establishments, pounded the combination box and succeeded in escaping with $1,700 in bills and $700 in checks from four of the places entered. Checks are made payable to Frank Gould.

Entrance was gained in each instance by utilizing a part of an automobile spring to force windows or doors in rear of garages or from the roof. Mechanics' tool boxes smashed opened and striking hammers and chisels from tool boxes used to crack safes.

This department holds three hand drills, a nail punch and other tools which were left at various garages entered and which may have been taken from some other city where the mob has worked.

Cracksmen may be traced by 13 pieces of paper currency of the Ostend government they took from one of the local salesrooms.

Please notify this department of any any suspicious person or persons suspected of, or capable of, committing these crimes. Would appreciate photographs and fingerprints of any suspects.

Respectfully,
T. J. O'BRIEN, City Marshal.

P. S.—No description on hand of thieves or machine used.

GIRLS' FRIENDLY SOCIETY HEAR DIOCESAN SPEAKERS

In the parish dining room in Christ Episcopal church house on Monday evening the second annual supper of the Girls' Friendly society was held with about fifty young women gathered at 6:30 to spend three hours in a social way to talk over this winter's program. Mrs. Chester Dimick, the diocesan president and Miss Florence Maxon, a diocesan officer on publicity, were guests of the Christ church branch. While supper was being enjoyed by all, the girls sang several of their club songs and one especially that two of the Norwich young women had written themselves. An announcement that the G. F. S. poster prize had been won by Miss Anna Taft was made and received with pleasure. After several speeches and reports were given Mrs. Dimick spoke with feeling upon the National society and Miss Maxon upon the pageant to be held in Boston and also read the following from the newspaper, referring to the fiftieth anniversary of the Girls' Friendly society which will be celebrated in Boston in November:

"Early in November, 1877, Elizabeth Mason Edson, in her father's parish, St. Anne's, Lowell, Mass., took the first step in the venture of faith which resulted in the creation of the Girls' Friendly society in America.

In November, 1927, the society, now fifty years old, will meet in Boston to keep its fiftieth anniversary, to commemorates its foundress, to give thanks for the first half century of its work, and to plan for the future which, like the future of all that relates to youth, is full of problems and of promise.

"The vision of a society working under the Anglican church and composed of all girls who would accept and promise to uphold a high standard of character had come first in England in 1873, to Mrs. Townsend, a young woman whose interest in the girls on her husband's estate had given her a realization of their needs and of the possibility of meeting them through an organization in which they would find friends and companions, adult leadership, and a strong religious influence."

Women Appreciate

When the man of the house is away his wife and children have no concern over the heating plant.

All you have to do with the Oil-O-Matic is turn it on in the fall and off in the spring. In your living room is a thermometer connected with the Oil-O-Matic downstairs. This automatically starts and stops the burner as the room temperature varies. Simply set the indicator at the temperature you enjoy and forget you have a heating plant. Everything else is done automatically. Is not such wonderful convenience worth considering? You can't hire men to do what Oil-O-Matic does for you. It goes beyond human intelligence in regulating the temperature of your house.

WILLIAMS OIL-O-MATIC HEATING

It Relieves Them Of All Care and Thought of the Heating Plant and Keeps the Home Cleaner

It is particularly appreciated by women who live alone, widows and old couples who want to be completely detached from their heating plant. Old folks who enjoy a temperature of 75 or 80 degrees may have just that sort of comfort with Oil-O-Matic and the heat is even, never fluctuating more than one or two degrees.

It brings about a new era of home cleanliness, too, that women like. Dusting and cleaning amount to practically nothing as there is no coal or ash dust to soil curtains and things.

Read What These Eastern Conn. Women Think of Oil-O-Matic

"I am very much pleased with the service I have received from my Oil-O-Matic. It is a great labor-saving invention.

"I have had no trouble so far and everything has been very satisfactory in every way. I would not care to do without it now for it has saved me a great deal of work, and it is so clean. I shall always speak a good word for the Oil-O-Matic and am sending names of two friends whom I think would enjoy the service of same, as they are living alone at present."—Mrs. Willis D. Rouse, Box 87, Central Village, Conn.

"The Oil-O-Matic which you installed for me last fall has convinced me that it is superior to coal in every way. It is, of course, far more convenient as far as care is concerned. I have found it cheaper to run and my house has been much cleaner and certainly more comfortable to live in. I might add that your service has been most efficient and courteous."—Mrs. J. Ralph Howe, 274 Broadway, Norwich, Conn.

25 MEMBERS EXPELLED FROM MEXICAN CHAMBER

Deputies Were Expelled Because of Affiliation With Two Generals Who Were Declared to Have Become Unworthy of Citizenship—Capture and Execution of General Gomez Has Been Reported—A Battle is Said to be Proceeding Within Twelve Miles of Mexico City.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(AP)— The Calles government continued today to press ruthlessly its measures for eradication of the new revolution.

General Arnulfo Gomez, highest surviving lead of the Rebels, was executed today in Vera Cruz state, according to a report to the Mexican consulate-general here the source of which was not disclosed Gomez was captured last night, these advices said, and swiftly paid the penalty already exacted from his Colleague General Francisco Serrano, presidential candidate and erstwhile intimate of Alvaro Obregon, and a score of lesser leaders.

While federal troops pursued the depleted bodies of recalcitrants in the field, the chamber of deputies moved to purge the capital of those alleged to have given support of the revolutionary movement. Twenty-five deputies were expelled on the ground that, because of affiliation with the Gomez and Serrano Candidacies, they no longer were worthy of seats in the chamber, nor of citizenship.

The Vera Cruz legislature expelled five of its members for a similar reason and ordered them put on trial for complicity in the rebellion.

Failure of Mexico City dispatches to quickly confirm the capture of Gomez tended to discount that report. It was considered as the type of news which would be quickly passed through the tight censorship being maintained by the government on all avenues of communication.

HARTFORD, Oct. 5—(AP)—Homer S. Cummings made a bid to save Soo Hoo Wing from the gallows by an eloquent plea to the supreme court today attacking fingerprint testimony which the state claimed linked him in the commission of a tong war crime with another condemned Chinese, Chin Lung, in Manchester last March.

If Soo Hoo Wing is dropped out of the picture, said Mr. Cummings, the element of conspiracy to kill a fellow countryman falls with him, leaving only the question of veracity between Chin Lung and the state's material witness, Sam Ong Jing.

"To hang Soo Hoo Wing on that fingerprint evidence would be a judicial crime," said Mr. Cummings. "He may be guilty but it has not been demonstrated by the orderly processes of the courts to which every man is entitled."

MANCHESTER, N. H., Oct. 5.—(AP) —The Amoskeag company will continue in business if it possible to do so without loss of assets, Frederick C Dumain, treasurer, today assured stockholders who voted at their annual meeting, to authorize the trustees to liquidate the affairs of the company at their discretion. The vote was taken with about 83 per cent of the outstanding shares represented and was overwhelmingly in favor of giving the trustees power to act.

The stockholders, in favoring the liquidation resolution, however, took no action upon proposals that have been submitted to the trustees for purchase of the assets and an effort to compel the trustees to consider the offer of $42,000,000 submitetd recently by Edward F. Carrington of New York, failed.

"There is no occasion for the owners of this property to pay anyone or make anyone presents for liquidating their property," Treasurer Dumaine said.

The treasurer's report for the year showed a net gain in assets of $66,063.69. The balance of assets, reserved for shareholders of the Amoskeag Mfg. Co. amounted, he said, to $41,014,178 compared with slightly above $40,000,000 last year.

TO ERECT MONUMENT FOR POST CARD INVENTOR

VIENNA, Austria, Oct. 5.—(AP)—The man who invented the post card is to have a huge monument erected to his memory.

More than 75 years ago Professor Emanuel Herrmann discovered that it was simpler for tourists to write "having a fine time; wish you were here" on the back of a piece of cardboard than it was to write a letter.

Heretofore the man who gave the world this cheap and practical medium of communication has remained in relative obscurity, and patriotic Austrians, headed by the present director of posts and telegraphs, and sponsored by innumerable small town postmasters, have started a popular subscription to erect a fitting shrine to his memory and genius, on the site of his grave in Vienna.

LOWDEN NOT ANXIOUS FOR BURDENS OF U. S. PRESIDENT

Sentiment Expressd to Congressman Hall, Following Request That Lowden Permit His Name to be Used in the Preferential Presidential Primary—Former Governor of Illinois Asserted That During the 1920 Convention He Was Oppressed by the Sense of Responsibility Which Goes With the Office.

OREGON, Ill., Oct. 5—(AP)—Although he is regarded as a likely candidate for the republican presidential nomination, former Governor Frank O. Lowden today told a delegation of backers that his feeling of relief when he failed to receive the nominati oni 1920 was greater than his disappointment.

Lowden's remarks followed an address by Congressman Homer W. Hall, who, voicing the sentiments of the 1,000 or more visitors from 16 central Illinois counties, asked the former governor to permit his name to be used in the preferential presidential primary next April.

CONSIDERING CITIES FOR POLITICAL CONVENTIONS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5—(AP)—Sentiment among Republican National committeemen as to the meeting place of the 1928 National convention appears now to be divided among four cities, Cleveland, San Francisco, Minneapolis and Detroit.

Chairman Butler announced today after further conferences with his associates that the National committee would meet here on December 6—the day after Congress convenes—to make the final selection. He expresses no preference, however, as between the many cities seeking the gathering.

The chairman's announcement came after nearly a score of the National committeemen had been the guests of President Coolidge at a White House breakfast. They said afterwards that neither the meeting place of the convention nor any other political subject had been discussed with the president. In selecting the convention city, the committee will depart from the usual practice of naming a subcommittee to consider the various offers from the interested cities. Instead, secretary Roy O. West will write to the parties at interest asking for a statement of the facts for the guidance of the National committee.

By meeting here in December, the republicans will fix their meeting place just a month in advance of the democrats. The national committee of that party is to gather in Washington on Jnuary 8 to make their selection from upwards of half a dozen communities, including Detroit, Kansas City, St. Louis, Washington and Chicago.

TREASURY ACTION IN FRENCH TARIFF DEBATE

WASHINGTON, Oct. 5—(AP)—The treasury took an unexpected hand in the Franco-American tariff debate today with the announcement that customs collectors had been directed to impose on a list of French imports increases in duty equal to the increases fixed by France on similar American products on Sept. 6. The department said its action was a routine matter and did not involve section 317 of the tariff act, which provides for retaliatory duties in case of tariff discrimination against the United States, but was taken under specific provisions of the tariff schedules themselves.

The articles upon which the increase of duty is ordered by treasury instructions are automobiles and bicycles and their parts, paper board and other cardboard products, brick not otherwise provided for, Calcium Acetate and several other related chemicals, and cement. Treasury officials said the amount of the increases imposed and the normal importation of these articles would not represent any very considerable sum in increased duties.

80. CHAPLIN FAMILY HOMELESS AS FIRE DESTROYS HOUSE

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 5—A family including six little children were made homeless early this morning when fire believed to have started from a defective chimney flue burned to the ground the house and contents of the one and one-half story house owned by Mrs. Eva Dubina at South Chaplin. When the fire was discovered it had made considerable headway and volunteers who responded to a telephone alarm were unable to accomplish anything. There are no facilities for fire fighting on the premises. Very little of the clothing and furniture were saved and the family were temporarily cared for by neighbors. Leon Dubina, the father, was going into the kitchen to get a glass of water for one of the children when he found the room blazing. He hustled his family out into the cool night and then spread the alarm. The Dubinas had purchased the place from David Garrison and moved there from this city some six weeks ago. It was known as the old Charles Ross place. It is estimated that the loss is $3,500 which is partly covered by $2,000 insurance on the house and $800 on the furniture.

A continuance in the case of F. Ward Rosebrooks, charged with manslaughter, until Tuesday, November 2, has been made according to a notice received today from State's Attorney Howard C. Bradford of Putnam by Prosecuting Attorney Harry S. Gaucher and County Sheriff Charles A. Gates of this city. The illness of the defendant is given as the reason for the continuance. The case was to have been taken up by a jury Thursday morning and the state had subpoened a dozen or more witnesses. Witnesses and jury panel were notified of the continuance.

In St. Joseph's church at eight o'clock this morning, Louis Joseph Flynn of this city, was married to Miss Helen Elizabeth Bransfield, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Bransfield of 30 Meadow street. Rev. Henry E. Quinn, the pastor, officiated and was celebrant of the nuptial mass. The single ring service was used. The church was well filled with relatives and friends. Frank E. Hevrin of this city was best man and Miss Madeline M. Walsh of Portland, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor.

The bride wore a beautiful gown of tan georgette crepe with brown velvet trimming. Her hat was of brown velvet. She carried an arm bouquet of butterfly roses. Her maid of honor was attired in Napoleon blue velvet with a black velvet hat and her arm bouquet was of Pernet roses. The groom's gift to the bride was a string of pearls and to his best man he presented an Elks' card case. The bride gave her attendant a cameo ring. Selections during the nuptials were rendered by Mrs. Henry Mathieu and Arthur Roy.

The breakfast and reception was held at the Nathan Hale hotel for immediate family members. Guests came from Portland, New Haven, Providence, R. I., and Upton, Mass. Mr. and Mrs. Flynn will tour New York state and Canada on their wedding trip and will be at home to their friends at 209 Jackson street after November 15. The bride's traveling dress was of black satin worn under a brown coat with fur trimming. Her hat harmonized. The groom is employed at the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad freight office here and the bride has been employed as cashier at the same office. Both are graduates of Windham high school and Mrs. Flynn graduated from the State Normal school. Mr. Flynn is a former alderman of the third ward and has been the efficient and popular secretary of Willimantic lodge No. 1311, B. P. O. Elks for many years.

Pearl to Adelbert Weatherbee of Windham, four tracts of land on Prospect park on South Windham road.

The case of Charles J. Apicelli of Groton, charged with improper use of automobile registration markers, was disposed of in police court this morning when the accused pleaded guilty and was fined ten dollars and costs, amounting to $17.65. Court officials and the arresting officer agreed to withdraw a charge of reckless driving when mitigation of the violation was presented. The charge pressed involved the carrying of a load of merchandise in a pleasure car equipped with garage markers.

In a successful effort to avoid an automobile collision, Mrs. Marguerette A. Bowen of 25 Grove street, driving a Buick car owned by her husband, George A. Bowen, drove her machine into a telephone pole at the junction of Grove street and Windham road, Tuesday afternoon. The other machine was a roadster driven by Hubert J. Kegler and owned by his brother, James B. Kegler of this city. The drivers agreed as to a settlement.

Arrangements were made for making an afghan for a World war veteran who is in the government hospital at Rutland, Mass. In his interesting talk Dr. McLaughlin prescribed three remedies as a cure for the disease of taking oneself too seriously: Avoiding an over-estimated opinion of position in the universe; not paying overdue attention to the subjective and neglecting the objective in life; and cultivating the saving grace of humor.

The funeral coach from the house to the church was preceded by a large body of white robed Klansmen, relatives and friends following the coach walking in procession. Rev. Walter Stone, pastor of the Congregational church at Canterbury Green conducted the service, speaking many words of comfort and encouragement. Prayer was by Rev. Edwin St. John, pastor of the M. P. church. A choir sang Lead, Kindly Light, and Sometime We'll Understand. At the church and at the cemetery, services were conducted by the K. K. K. organization, of which the deceased was an active and loyal member and earnest worker. The hymns Blest Be the Tie That Binds the Klansmen and The Old Rugged Cross were sung. This service was very beautiful and effective. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends. The floral offerings were beautiful.

Clifford Henry Williams, an only son, and youngest of seven children, son of Cyrus Henry Williams and Jerusha Bennett Williams, was born June 25, 1890 on Canterbury Plains, where he had always lived. NOANK

Tuesday noon Edward Morgan was eating his dinner when he looked out the window and saw in the yard a big bird walking around. At first he thought it was a hen but saw a large cock pheasant pretty as a picture. He called down to his neighbor, Keith Ebbetts to get a gun but young Ebbetts thought a minute, and knew the law was not off on birds; so the beautiful bird soon flew away over toward Lanfield's woods. It is pretty nice to have the wild game come right into one's backyard instead of making a hunter walk 5 or 6 miles to shoot it. Morgan said the pheasant weighed about 9 lbs, the largest one he ever saw around this section.

2. By what owners say

Ask the owner of any Erskine Six what he thinks of it. His reply will do more to convince you of the unusual value built into every Erskine Six by Studebaker than any amount of sales talk. Here are the comments of a few Erskine owners:

Right There With Speed

"The Erskine Six is sure right there with speed and endurance. I think it is great and I don't believe it can be beat for the price. Believe me, it is just O. K."—Mrs. C. T., Pleasantville, N. J.

Unsurpassed

"We are delighted with our Erskine in both performance and looks. It is unsurpassed in the light car field and much handsomer in every way than we expected."
C. H. A., Milford, Delaware

Couldn't Be Improved

"The Erskine Six is the best car I have ever driven. I don't see where any improvements could be made. It does everything you claim, and drives and steers beyond all my expectations. The comfort of the car is beyond all question. We think it is beautiful and the finest small car on the market."—C. H. A., Milford, Delaware

"I have driven my Erskine about 4300 miles to date. I have had no repair expense whatever and have continually averaged 28 miles to the gallon of gasoline."
W. H. B., Sharon, Pa.

Quick Pickup

"It is the car you love to drive. I have owned several cars and I just told my wife the other day that this is the only satisfactory car I have ever owned. It will go where I want to go and is always quick on the pick-up."
E. F. P., Dallas, Texas

Now judge the Erskine Six for yourself—by what it will do with you at the wheel. See for yourself how Studebaker has designed and built into this small, fine car all the character and quality gained from 75 years of honest manufacture—at a new low price made possible only by Studebaker's $104,000,000 of manufacturing facilities. DANIELSON

SELECTMEN MEET TO MAKE THEIR APPOINTMENTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 5—This afternoon members of the board of selectmen, as elected Monday, met at the offices of theb oard in the town building here for organization. By unanimous vote, John A. Gilbert, republican, was named as chairman and clerk for the ensuing year. There were no signs of Monday's conflict at the polls in evidence and everything was as entirely harmonious as anyone could wish.

Attorney E. L. Darbie was again named as town counsel and John A. Gilbert re-appointed tree warden. Walter A. Rollinson and Jesse B. Child of Goodyear were appointed public weighers. Constables' bonds were received and approved. A. D. Sayles and Hosea Greene were appointed as special constables of the town.

Allotment of the highways of the town for supervision and upkeep was made under the usual arrangement, Mr. Gilbert having section No. 1, Mr. Gingras section No. 2, and Mr. Sayles section No. 3, this latter section under the care of former Selectmen A. E. Hall during the past year.

The usual routine business, including the approval of bills, was given consideration.

This afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home on Water street funeral services for Frank Harney were conducted by Rev. Chester J. Armstrong of the Baptist church and burial was in Westfield cemetery. The bearers were Patrick F. Murray, Leslie Murray, C. A. Hamilton and Sidney H. Perry. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Local relatives will be in New Bedford Thursday to attend funeral services to be held in that city for Byron S. Martin, a native of this town and for many years a resident here. Following the services the body is to be brought to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Martin in Danielson, and burial is to be here.

Chief John McFarland gave warning this morning that operators must cut down the speed of their motor vehicles while driving through the business section of Danielson. Too many drivers have been driving so fast of late as to be liable to arrest for reckless driving, for any speed over 20 miles an hour in the area referred to readily comes under the head of reckless driving. There have been so many narrow escapes from serious accidents of late that Chief McFarland deems it necessary to take action that will bring more reasonable and careful operation.

It likely will be some time before the committee appointed by the town on Monday to confer with State Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald relative to an optional layout for a section of the Providence-Hartford state highway through Danielson, in preference to the present route through Reynolds street, is able to arrange an appointment. Commissioner Macdonald is in the west at the present time. However, the newly appointed Killingly committee will organize and prepare to present the town's views to the commissioner as soon as opportunity offers.

Members of the chamber of commerce heard discussions of and talks on various subjects last evening at the monthly meeting of the organization. Fire Prevention, a lively topic just now, was a matter presented for the chamber by Edward B. Wilbur. Alanson Colvin, who owns the first aeroplane hereabouts, talked of aviation, among others, and W. H. G. Herklots, spoke of advertising and the great advantages thereof, to the community as well as to the corporation or individual. All in all the meeting was a lively one, and indicative of the fact that the chamber plans to be active and effective during the fall and winter season.

At its meeting Monday night Killingly grange entertained as neighbors members of Brooklyn and Putnam granges. One hundred and twenty-three people were present and was one of the best attended meetings of the present year. The literary program furnished by the neighbors was of a high order of excellence and was greatly appreciated by those present., Brooklyn grange gave the following numbers:

Violin solo, Elbra Baker; paper, "The Troubles of a Housekeeper", Mrs. Myra Frink; reading, Mrs. Frink; paper, "The Beauties of a County Life and My Neighbors Garden," Mrs. C. G. Lawton; piano duet, Mrs. Frink and Miss Helen Witter.

Putnam Grange members:

Vocal duet, Miss Katherine Byrne and Miss Irving; violin solo, Miss Irving; vocal solo, Miss Irving; piano duet, Elizabeth Byrne and Miss Irving.

Excellent refreshments were served by a committee composed of the Grange sisters living in Riverview. The committee was: Mrs. Oliver Downs, chairman; Mrs. Hallowell, Mrs. Hopkins, Mrs. Choquette, Annie Page, Blanche Reeve, Leona Choquette, Edith Shippee and Harriet Shippee. Sayles orchestra with Alton Eldridge as prompter provided the necessary pep for a social dance at the close of the meeting which fittingly closed the day. A class of candidates will be given the first and second degrees at the next meeting. Fifteen members of Killingly grange went to Norwich last Wednesday night and gave two numbers on the program of the Norwich grange.

The Rev. Charles A. Downs preached Sunday morning at the Goodyear Community church choosing as a text Rom. 8:28 "All things work together for good to them that love the Lord". All lifes experiences are wrought into the character for good for those who appreciate and accept righteousness. A vocal solo was given by Nancy Whitaker as a part of the service. The Sunday school session was in charge of the Sunday school Supt. Jesse B. Child. Mr. Child who had been on his vacation for the week returned in time to take his place in the school on Sunday. The usual choir practice was held on Thursday evening. During the church service Sunday morning an aeroplane from the nearby air port passed directly over the church several times and apparently at a low elevation. While the occupants of the plane presumedly had no intention of stopping for worship they should no doubt, be congratulated on getting so close to a religious service, even though temporarily ditching the service.

PUTNAM

LOCAL INSPECTORS FOR WATER SYSTEM IMPROVEMENTS

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Oct. 5.—The regular session of the Common Council was held last evening with the following members present: Richard, Rogers, Ames, Delisle, Dubois, Labby, Vadnais, with Mayor Chapdelaine presiding. Aldermen Carroll and Ryan were absent.

Captain Jarvies reported seventeen arrests during the month of September, ten of whom were for drunkenness.

A petition asking that a meeting of voters be called to vote upon the question of whether two reservoir tanks should be built at once was presented, and the council passed a resolution calling for a meeting to be held on October 11. Seven of the aldermen voted yes.

A resolution was passed by a vote of 4 to 3 that no contracts should be made for the water improvements without the approval of the council and that the inspectors of the work should be Putnam citizens. Alderman Vadnais protested saying that these were matters for the water commissioners to decide. The four members favoring the resolution said that they were actuated only by a desire to protect the interests of the citizens. Mr. Rogers stated that that he was not influenced by personal feelings and that he was voicing and voting his convictions as to what he considered the best interests of the city.

Fire Chief Ralph C. Thurston submitted the name of Delores Viens as a member of Company No. 1, in place of Arthur Davidson, resigned.

MRS. C. D. ARNOLD TO BE PUTNAM PROBATION OFFICER

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Oct. 5.—Mrs. Cortland D. Arnold is the new probation officer of Putnam. The appointment was made several weeks ago by Judge M. H. Geissler but it has not before been given publicity by the newspapers. She succeeds Miss Clara D. Larned who tendered her resignation to Judge Geissler after she had decided to leave Putnam, at least for the present.

Miss Larned has held the position of probation officer for the past five years and has made an exceptionally fine record, using tact in the handling of difficult as well as delicate cases that not infrequently come before that office. Judge Geissler and others who are familiar with the way in which Miss Larned discharged the duties of the office highly commend her.

Mrs. Arnold, it is thought, has some of the same qualifications that has enabled Miss Larned to make a success of the position and the appointment in every way seems to be an admirable one.

Alderman Charles Ryan, who was one of the legionnaires who attended the convention in France has arrived home. He said that he had a most wonderful trip and that a spirit of good will and friendship on the part of the French people was in evidence everywhere, and that he thought the holding of the convention in France was a wise thing to do.

The Women's Auxiliary of St. Philip's Episcopal church will meet on Thursday afternoon, October 6, at two o'clock in the Guild room instead of the usual hour of three o'clock.

The following appeal has been sent to the citizens of Putnam asking for data about the names of men and women of the town of Putnam who were in the military service at the time of the World war.

The adjutant general's office in Hartford is attempting to get a complete and authentic record of every man and woman in the State of Connecticut who served their country in the World war. For some months an endeavor has been made to verify the names of a number of young men credited to Putnam and whose names appear on the Putnam honor roll.

The war department at Washington has not furnished the adjutant's office with cards, and in order to make up a correct report the adjutant's office requests that the soldiers, their relatives or friends, be questioned relative to their service. It is an important undertaking and for several months the adjutant's office has been in communication with officials in Putnam in an endeavor to get the required information.

Anyone who can furnish the information required is asked to report to Commander Martin L. Robertson of the American Legion Post, or to L. Edwin Hill, county secretary of the Y. M. C. A. The names sent for investigation are the following:

Louis Auger, John Babbitt, Joseph C. Barie, David F. Barry, Eugene Bellerose, Norman J. Berard, Aldemare Bibeault, Oliver Bibeault, George A. Biwell, Norman Boulay, Arthur Boyle, Eudor Breault, David Carroll, Joseph E. CharBoneau, Hector Colletet, George H. Corey, Ovila Cournoyer, Michael J. Daigle, Ruth L. Daniels, Isaore Duff, Daniel C Durand, Ernest J. Durand, Frederick W. Durand, Marcial Durand, Amede Durocher, Henri C. Farley, Wilfred A. Fortin, James Frobus, Charles Gagne, Ralph M. Gibson, Hermidas Goyette, Harvey J. Grinsell, Durham J. Hall, Heronin Helstoski, Eward Holgerson, Robert J. Hull, Louis A. Kempfe, Herbert E. Kennan, John Kobiola, Alfred E. LaFortune, Felix Lasaiski, Benjamin Lavine, Oliver Leger, George Levesque, Emond L'Hereux, Theodore Lussier, Louis Mayotte, Dennis McDonald, Allan C. McIntyre, Paul E. Metras, Adelar Morin, Alice C. Morse, John H. Moss, George W. Osier, Louis J. Paquin, Hugh . Rice, Henri Rell, Charles Rita, Abraham Shuffian, Konettanti Sienkiewicz, Alvin Strange, Ralph Tavel, Albert Tetreault, Wilfred Therrian, Cyril A. Toine, Harry Tourtelotte, Patrick C. Tracy, Percy M. Wood.

The adjutant general's office states that the war department has not furnished service cards for any of the above and that it is therefore impossible to determine whether or not these names belong to the honor roll.

When the lists that appear on the bronze tablets of the Memorial Bridge were compiled by the citizen's committee, George L. Padgett and Dr. E. R. Perry was the sub-committee that had it in charge with Dr. Perry doing most of the detail work. This subcommittee had no official record of names but they made as complete an investigation as they could and did not prevent any technicality as to residence of those who were in the service preclude any of them from the honor roll.

JEWETT CITY

RED CROSS MEMBERSHIP TO BE INCREASED TO 900

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Oct. 5—A telegram from John Barton Payne, of Washington was received by the Jewett City Chapter American Red Cross today. It stated that the central committee had adopted a resolution requesting the people of the United States to increase the National Red Cross membership to five million for 1928. This quota is because of increased demands for service particularly disaster relief. In spite of most rigid economy of operation the National and International Red Cross program requires each year expenditures considerably in excess of the annual income. National headquarters expresses confidence that the American people will rally to this cause. The central committee is urging each chapter and branch to take necessary steps to assure such increase. The goal for this chapter is suggested to be nine hundred members. Jewett City chapter has never failed to respond in every particular to every call for help from headquarters. Every year a most successful roll call is put over, and last year over 726 was the result. This year it is planned to start the roll call the last week in this month, and it is the expectation that every person in Griswold, Voluntown and Lisbon will be ready with a dollar. This year the young women are to be asked to receive the money, the young men having faithfully performed that duty for several years. The map in the Jewett City Trust Co. window gives an idea of the immensity of the Mississippi flood disaster. The national headquarters donated $25,000 to the $500,000 relief fund being raised in St. Louis for the sufferers from the tornado of September 29. St. Louis chapter with the national organization in an advisory capacity is splendidly equipped and organized to handle this disaster situation, and, at the present time no outside contributions will be solicited. According to the latest figures, 89 persons were killed, more than 600 injured, and 5,500 homes and business buildings were destroyed or damaged.

THE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE DRIVE

It is gratifying to learn that the brief campaign which has been made by the Norwich chamber of commerce has been successful, and that it has gone over the top in its quest for funds to meet existing obligations and finance new efforts. This indicates an abiding faith in the activities of this organization and a desire to overcome any handicaps under which it may be found to be laboring.

A chamber of commerce, or similar organization, is vital to every up to date community. It should have the active support of its business men and public spirited citizens, not only through the contribution of membership fees and funds but through the necessary participation in its various activities. It is where such an organization is representative, and not where its efforts are all left to a few, that the best results are obtained.

Under its new secretary, the chamber of commerce must be regarded as getting an auspicious start as it opens a new year. Thus far the appeal has been for wholehearted support in regard to its financial budget and it is pleasing to note that even though they have gone over the top more can be expected.

Later on there is going to be need for that display of interest and enthusiasm on the part of the respective members that will make the most of its various activities. Norwich looks to its chamber of commerce for many things. It has apparently realized that the success of such an organization depends upon the support that is given it, and it augurs well if the active participation in chamber activities is going to keep pace with the financial response that has been made. There cannot be too strong a civic organization of this character looking after the welfare of the city.

MEXICO'S METHODS

It doesn't appear that there is anything to prevent a person running for president of Mexico provided he does it in a peaceful manner, but that seems to be the difficult thing to do in that country. Presidential candidates consider that they have got to start a revolution and overthrow the government in order to get into office, and that may be true, but when such action is taken there are grave dangers involved.

Take is getting the benefit of the spotlight in the case of General Serrano. This young man, a brilliant military leader, was a close friend of former President Obregon. He was a member of his cabinet and credited with having the military leaders of the administration party. He got the idea that he wanted to be president and his efforts in that direction would probably not have encountered any serious opposition had he not set out to realize his ambition through revolutionary tactics. It is in that direction that he must have seriously underestimated the government strength for Serrano has been executed, his uprising squelched and he and his advisers have been shot.

In Mexico they begin a campaign for political control by inaugurating a revolution and in that country they are readily found methods for defeating conditions or suppressing their opposition. As long as Mexico thoroughly understands it, it is probably presented as the right course to pursue. But there would seem to be a chance for the people of that country to reflect upon the undesirability of revolutionary tactics and the wisdom of disregarding them for saner methods. As long as there is the revolutionary tendency it must be expected that those involved will be summarily dealt with, but as long as it prevails it cannot fail to mean a serious handicap to any country.

Profiting by experience the Mexican government recognized the importance of nipping the revolt in the bud and proceeded to do it so effectively that nothing more, in all probability, will ever be heard from it.

A COMMON HOPE

We don't know just what the head of the emergency fleet corporation based it upon when he expressed the hope, at the launching of the Panama Pacific liner California at Newport News, that the government will soon be out of the shipping business. That is the ambition of the government and has been ever since the war ended, but we do not seem to be making very much progress in that direction.

When President Dalton of the fleet corporation states that he looks forward to the day when all ships will be privately owned, he expresses a widespread sentiment, a common hope, but he doesn't indicate how he expects it to be brought about.

This country went into ship building as an emergency measure at the time of the war. There was a demand for ships that had to be met. The government had to meet it and when the war was over it had a big fleet of merchant vessels on its hands. Some were desirable and some could not be given away. Ever since the war the government has been trying to meet the demands for a merchant marine and yet get the vessels into the hands of private capital where they should be.

Efforts to accomplish this have not been successful. Some ships have been sold and others are on the market but the government had many left. Some of these are being operated and others are at anchor awaiting disposition. Recommendations have been made for terminating government control but none has as yet met the approval of congress, and the result is that we are maintaining a merchant marine at a large yearly loss. The showing is such as to even discourage private owners. They know competition they must expect from foreign shipping, they are aware of the restrictions already existing on American shipping and they know between the two they cannot expect to compete successfully.

In one way or another government subsidy has been avocated that American shipping might be encouraged and stand in the same relative position as shipping in foreign countries. This country has always been strongly opposed to anything savoring of subsidy but is assuming the equivalent in the expense involved in maintaining the merchant marine under conditions which could probably be done more cheaply by private enterprise.

THE STATE POLICE

Not a little interest must have been displayed in the demonstration that was recently made of the prompt response that could be expected from the members of the state police in case of urgent call to any particular point in the state.

For a number of years Connecticut has had good reason for applauding the work of the state police force. It has developed to the point where it is a fixture on which daily dependence is placed. Not only does it look after conditions in the various localities where the barracks are located but it is in constant service on the highways of the state and wherever any emergency develops in communities which are without police protection. On special occasions the service rendered is of unmistakable benefit, insuring orderly conditions and promoting public safety.

Mobilizing the state police is a new departure, and yet through just such action can its efficiency be clearly demonstrated. It is inevitable that there will be those who will criticize the speed made by some of the state policemen as they responded to the call to Waterbury. If there was speed which was not justified it may well be criticized but in all probability it was not of a character any worse than is indulged in regularly by some drivers who are not responding to an emergency call. And yet it is to be expected, even though there is an emergency call, that it will be answered in such a way that it will not endanger life and limb for other highway users, who may or may not know the nature of the call. It is fair to presume, however that emergency conduct by the state police would be open to the interpretation that they were responding to such a summons.

It has been made quite evident that no matter where it might be needed the state police in goodly numbers can be expected soon after called.

TROUBLESOME STOP SIGNALS

In the national capital at the present time there is not a little opposition being manifested over the manner in which stop signs have been placed about the city. The feeling is that this has been done at too many points where it is not needed, where it is unreasonable and where it fails to get the proper response on the part of motorists. It fails to get sympathy because it is regarded an interfering with traffic at points where such interruption is not required in the interest of safety or out of fairness to traffic going in other directions.

Conditions such as exist in Washington can either be justified or changed, and some action will probably result from the protests being made. There are cities, however, where greater efforts in behalf of uniformity concerning stop signals should be employed. For those who live in such cities and are acquainted the confusions may not be so serious, but for all strangers it makes it difficult for the most law abiding to escape violating regulations.

Not so much difficulty arises from the fact that a city might have two or three different kinds of blinking signals, or those changing automatically from "stop" to "go" but when stop signals at a few streets are suspended overhead in the center of the street, others are displayed from beacons in the middle of the highway and still others are located at the corner of the intersecting streets on the sidewalks the strange driver knows not where to look for guidance and is not to be greatly blamed if he fails to see signals on the sidewalks which are intended to govern street traffic. Uniformity in a system of such signals would overcome much trouble.

Have you stopped to think that if it were possible everybody could go to see a prize fight, and everybody so included can listen in to the story hot from the ring side or read about it the next morning, but by law those who stay at home are not permitted to see moving pictures of the fistic battle! War pictures are not barred.

THEIR SPARE MOMENTS.

"Sometimes," said the Hyde Park man as he sank into a seat in the suburban train beside his friend from Woodlawn, "Sometimes when I consider all that women have to put up with these days my heart is wrung wis anguish!"

"And some," muttered the Woodlawn man darkly, "have to put up with more than others! Whachu been doing to Imogene now?"

"I rarely see her!" replied Imogene's husband. "Oh, occasionally catch a glimpses as she crashes by, but mostly I have to hunt out the framed photos I had of her while we were engaged.

"When women hadn't anything to fill up their time besides cooking three ten-course meals a day for their families of 11 or 15, making all the soap, candles, cloth, garments, hats, canned and dried goods, smoked meats, cheese wool hosiery, tending a kitchen garden and a large congregation of calves and hens, they stayed home and were companions. A man always knew where to find his wife in those days. If she wasn't sheet the kitchen stove she was starboard the kitchen sink and usually the only time she ever spent any restful moments in the front parlor was when she was the center of attraction at her own funeral.

"She knew there was a president running the country, but that was nothing in her young life. She saw her neighbors only at Sunday meetings and consequently everybody stayed good friends. If she used cold cream on the sly she stole it off the topa of the milkpans down in the spring house and wondered if she was eternally lost because of her sinful pride.

"Three times a day she sat across the table from friend husband and 365 evenings of the year she darned socks and overalls beneath the only lampshade in the kitchen. She may have had wrinkles but her mind was peaceful.

"Why do you now that Imogene is so afraid she is going to miss something that she turns on the radio before tackling the breakfast eggs in the hope of learning that a chef in Kokomo has invented a totally new method of cooking them?

"When I get home at night I hear her at the telephone telling somebody what the election committee at the woman's club thinks of that Emily Whoops, who is so brassy about insisting on being president, or she is trying to find somebody to occupy her seat at the symphony concert or explaining to another person why she failed to appear at the luncheon given for the visiting foreign author who paid dearly for his eats by reading selections from his Ode to a Terrier's Eyebrow.

"She is head of an organization which sends embroidered hairnets to the suffering women of the orient and just lately she has awakened to the fact that she has a civic duty and has gotta save her city. And she has plenty of little playmates.

"I tell you this civic duty business is a hangover from the days when women had houses with 17 large closets that had to be thoroughly housecleaned twice a year. They tied up their heads, ruined their hands and groaned—but my, how they loved it! Tearing everything out and down, throwing away a pile of it, scouring out the background and then lovingly rearranging all the things they had decided to keep. That's what they are up to in this town now and they work at it 23 hours a day, opening mail with one hand while they eat meals with the other.

"Imogene is always just dashing out or dashing in and greets me with a kind but absent-minded smile when our paths chance to cross. Meanwhile she has to keep dates with her hair dresser, her manicurist, her tailor, her French teacher, the class in fencing, in gymnastic dancing, the Ladies' Aid, and all the rest.

"I believe, too, she is going to get up some sort of entertainment to raise a few hundred thousand for her pet charity pretty soon. Still, all my buttons are sewed on, my socks are whole, and I never have to hunt for fresh linen.

"I'm going to buy a nice, small esert island pretty soon and plunk Imogene down on it so that she can catch her breath and rest while I sail away with the ship that brought her. She can fill up her time with cocoanuts, sand crabs and ozone and become a better and wiser girl!"

"Huh!" said the Woodlawnman as they filed out. "Go back for her in six months and you'll find that she has rigged up a radio and iceless refrigerator from driftwood and empty cans, is printing three editions a day of the Daily Jungle and has established a thriving commission business in turtle eggs with all the natives within a thousand miles."—Exchange.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Sir John Lavery, who has come to America to paint a portrait of Cardinal Hayes, has a world-wide reputation as a painter, and his pictures adorn the walls of many of the principal European galleries, while some of the public galleries in the United States, Canada, Australia, and South America own examples of his work. Sir John is a native of Dublin and studied art in Glasgow, where he is regarded as one of the leaders of the Glasgow school of painting, in London, and in Paris. As a fashionable portrait painter he has for long held a foremost place, and a large group of English royal family painted by him, and presented to the nation, was much happier than such groups are apt to be. Some of his most beautiful landscapes were painted in Morocco where the brilliance of the eastern sunshine seemed to captivate his imagination.

YOUR HEALTH

CARRY A WALKING-STICK

Samuel W. Kelly, M. D., Cleveland, O. Member Gorgas Memorial

The only always available outdoor exercise for Mr. and Mrs. Average Sedentary Citizen is walking. What a blessing it is that it is as good as it is cheap! Walking requires less artificial apparatus than any athletic game. Apparatus? One can take a walk with the outfit which nature gave, but one can get more out of it if a walking-stick is carried.

All claim to know the benefits and how to do it, but notice how the swivel-chair friend takes his boasted constitutional—with his coat buttoned so that he can hardly move and with his hands in his pockets. So many men have that stupid habits of pocketing their hands.

And observe Madame! Not having pockets, she carries a muff or a handbag to avoid moving her arms naturally. Not that I want people to walk as though they were swimmers practicing the Trudgen stroke, but my notion is that Mr., Mrs. or Miss when out walking will do well to keep hands out of pockets or muff and to carry a walking stick. Canes are proper, not merely for dandies, old men and cripples. Carry a cane and keep it moving. No need to endanger the passersby nor to break the show windows; but change the stick from hand to hand, grasp it and shake it. Let it slide a little through the fingers, then grip it again. If there is room in the path take the stick in both hands in front, behind, over both shoulders, and diagonally behind. Using it swordwise, nip the top from a roadside weed or clip a pebble with the ferule. One who habitually carries a stick learns many maneuvers that develop strength and suppleness of fingers, wrists, arms and shoulders. The practice also improves the judgment of distance.

Besides being good for exercise, the cane is an effective defensive weapon. We law-abiding citizens are not allowed to carry pistols, billies, brass-knuckles, nor dirks; but let me carry a good stick and I'll not be so likely to have my head cracked nor to break my own knuckles. As a weapon, a cane need not be a sword-cane. Take a stick that weighs 10 to 14 ounces and reaches from the ground to the top of your hip-joint. Grasp it about one-fourth of the way down from the top. See how well it balances. One could paralyze a thug's hand by a rap on the wrist with such a stick. A sudden thrust on the solar plexus would put him out. Use one or both hands on the can for the thrust, and give his partner a side-pass with the butt.

Of course it's good to know "single-stick," "quarter-staff" and "fencing," but just get used to carrying a stick and grow handy with it. The forequarters will be developed as well as the hind-quarters while walking, and it will be more enjoyable.

How often, how far, how fast to walk? Ask the family doctor. But when walking carry a walking-stick!

Stories That Recall Others

Saves Words for School

Little Josephine, who was in the first grade at school, had the bad habit of saying "huh" everytime something was said she did not understand.

One day when asked whether she said that "sound" at school, she said, "No." Then she looked up and said: "Do you know why I say "huh" at home? It is because it saves my words to use at school."

Trouble Brewing

The remarks of almost any child five or six years old usually reflect events and happenings of the household far too accurately for the comfort of its parents. Little Ted had accompanied his mother to the grocery to assist her in selecting food for week-end meals. He examined the potatoes in a basket on the floor and then looked over the tomatoes. While mother was placing her order, the youngster made a personal inspection of at least one-half of the grocer's goods and then permitted his eye to wander along the shelves further from his reach. Suddenly he spied on one shelf an attractive array of vinegar bottles.

"Look, mother, beer!" he said. The clerk tured to grin as mother asked Ted to look after baby brother in the carriage outside.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

A Bad Matter Made Worse

Mountains out of mole hills grow
When neighbors tattle what they know.
—Peter Rabbit.

Now, Peter Rabbit and little Mrs. Peter thought no one knew of their quarrel. You see, they had been so busy quarreling over there in the dear Old Briar-patch that they hadn't noticed any one about. But that quarrel, or part of it, had been overheard. You'll find that almost always it is only part of a quarrel that is overheard. Somehow people who are listening in never seem to get the whole thing. So it was that Sammy Jay arrived just in time to overhear the last part of that quarrel. He heard little Mrs. Peter tell Peter Rabbit that if he left the dear Old Briar-patch he need never come back again. That was all that Sammy heard, although he sat around for some time afterward, hoping to overhear more. When he finally flew away Peter Rabbit was still in the dear Old Briar-patch, so Sammy said nothing of what he had heard.

But the next day when some one told Sammy that they had seen Peter Rabbit early that morning up in the Old Pasture Sammy remembered the quarrel. He remembered how sharply little Mrs. Peter had talked. "Isn't it too bad?" said Sammy.

"Isn't what too bad?" asked Tommy Tit the Chickadee, who was the one who had seen Peter in the Old Pasture.

"That Peter should have been driven away up to the Old Pasture," said Sammy.

"Who says he was driven away up to the Old Pasture?" demanded Tommy Tit. "He has been up to the Old Pasture lots of times and he wasn't driven there, either."

"Well, of course, he may not have been driven up to the Old Pasture, but he went there because he was driven out of the dear Old Briar-patch," said Sammy.

"Nonsense!" retorted Tommy Tit. "Who drove him out of the dear Old Briar-patch?"

"Little Mrs. Peter," replied Sammy. "She told him he could go and he need never come back."

"I don't believe it," said Tommy. "Who told you any such story as that?"

"Nobody," retorted Sammy Jay. "I happened to be over in the Old Briar-patch and I heard just what little Mrs. Peter said. She said it as if she meant it, too. It's a great story, isn't it?" Sammy tried to make his voice sound as if he really felt very bad bad over it.

"I wouldn't advise you to tell that story around much," replied Tommy Tit. "I know Peter and I know little Mrs. Peter, and I know that if she told Peter that he needn't come back there is something more behind it all. My guess is that Peter went of his own accord. He went because he wanted to go. I'm going to see little Mrs. Peter and find out about it."

So Tommy Tit headed straight for the dear Old Briar-patch, while Sammy Jay started to spread the news through the Old Orchard and through the Green Forest. Soon all the feathered people were gossiping about Peter Rabbit, Mrs. Peter and their troubles. With every telling the story grew, as such stories have a way of growing. To hear some of these little people talk you would have thought that Peter Rabbit was the most abused person in all the Great World.

"Isn't what too bad?" asked Tommy Tit the Chickadee

By the time the story reached Jumper the Hare over in the Green Forest it had it that little Mrs. Peter had driven Peter out against his will and had turned the deaf ear to his plea to be allowed to stay. It was a regular scandal, was that story, by the time it reached Jumper the Hare. You see, each one who repeated it added a little something to it without meaning to. That is the trouble with gossip and gossipy neighbors.

The next story: Tommy Tit Is Satisfied.

OBITUARY

Miss Mary A. McGarry

Following an illnes of a year, Miss Mary Ann McGarry, 60, died about 6 o'clock Wednesday morning at Backus hospital, where she had been a patient the past four months. Miss McGarry, a life-long resident of Norwich Town, was the daughter of the late Martin and Annie Gorman McGarry. She was born in Norwich Town and attended school there. She was a member of Sacred Heart parish. In September 1926, Miss McGarry entered the new Sheltering Arms, where she remained for nine months, being removed from there to the hospital because of serious infirmities. She is survived only by cousins representing the Gorman, Kilroy and Murphy families of this town. Her home was at 34 Town street, she having resided in two locations on that street, for a number of years.

When a small child, Miss Nellie McGarry, a cousin, was placed in her care and with motherly devotion Miss McGarry reared her to young womanhood, the two having always maintained the same home. That same devotion has been manifested all through the years by the younger Miss McGarry, who with fidelity has seen to it that her cousin was tenderly cared for, especially during her last prolonged illness.

Of a cheery disposition even when health failed her, quiet in manner, she was a kind friend and neighbor. Those with whom she was most closely associated will feel her death most keenly.

He then presented several prizes, a spade to Commodore John J. O'Rourke, a bushel basket to Capt. Clarence A. Spear and also a fountain pen to him for securing the largest amount individually.

Rev. Alexander H. Abbott, who had asked the blessing at dinner, was called upon by General Brown, responding with earnest words of praise for the "perfectly magnificent thing" which had been accomplished in this campaign.

He spoke of the significance of the words "beloved community" and extended his heartiest congratulations upon reaching the goal of the campaign.

Major Harris, Admiral Cary and Colonel Rodier were other speakers, the last named referring to the fine work done by men who had not previously appeared in public campaigns and declaring that he felt the success of this campaign had been assured from the start when Mr. Brown agreed to take the leadership.

President James L. Case, who had commanded the advance marine corps, spoke of situation that arose in the chamber when it was faced with the necessity of securing a new secretary in the middle of the summer and he went on to congratulate the men upon the way they had rallied to do the seemingly impossible things in this campaign. He expressed the thanks of the board of directors and called upon the men to continue in the works and plans of the chamber which have only just begun.

Walter F. Lester, deputy commander, Dave Harvard, the song leader and Louis M. Crandall were others to speak, the last named pointing his remarks by reciting a poem to illustrate the thought that we can do what we think we can do.

During the supper hour, cigars were passed through the courtesy of Mr. Kilfeather, a member of the New Haven chamber of commerce, who happened to be in the hotel and extended a fraternal greeting in this way, besides speaking briefly.

The meeting closed with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

HIGHWAYS AROUND HERE TO HAVE TREES PLANTED

Contracts have been awarded by the state highway department for placing trees on the wide of the trunk line highways. Neal A. Millane of the Millane Nurseries Co., now of Cromwell, received word that his firm had been awarded the contract for planting nearly 2,000 trees, more than half of them in Middlesex and New London counties and about 600 more in various other sections of the state. The Millane Nurseries Co. bid was $12,265.

The contract calls for the company to furnish plant, fertilize, mulch, water and prune the trees as specified. There is to be a guarantee of one year from the completion of the contract, the trees to receive all care as specified and all defective, dead or lying trees must be replaced.

The trees to be planted are pin oak, sugar maple, red maple and white elm. Those to be planted in Middlesex county are for the Saybrook Boston Post and River roads and the East Haddam and Salem road.

Other highways to be adorned are: New London, Marlboro and Hartford, Colchester and Norwich, Norwich and Westerly, R. L, Franklin and Norwich, Lebanon and Norwich and Taftville, Norwich Town and Gallows Hill. Other highways are in distant parts of the state. The company will commence the planting right away. It is predicted that this tree planting will add materially to the beauty of the trunkline highways.

DIVORCE TRIAL DELAYED BY COUNSEL'S ILLNESS

The contested divorce case of Franklin O. Johnson against Mary Asquith Johnson, which was scheduled to have been tried before Judge Allyn L. Brown in the superior court in New London Tuesday, went off the calendar for reassignment.

The plaintiff is a navy officer and attempts will be made by Atty. George Curtis Morgan to have his leave of absence extended so that the case may be tried in the near future. Illness of defense counsel delayed the case yesterday.

The case of Mashuta against Weisler, also slated for trial went off the calendar for reassignment.

MUST STATE AGE TO GET MOTOR REGISTRATION

Motor vehicle owners or registrants must give their ages when making application for a 1928 vehicle registration under a new regulation of the state motor vehicle department. The rule is made necessary by the law, effective January 1, 1928, requiring any person under 21 years of age registering a motor vehicle to furnish proof of financial responsibility, so that the department must know the age of the applicant before issuing a registration.

Approximately 290,000 application blanks have been sent of prospective registrants, or one to every person listed in the registrations on September 30. The new blanks are similar to the old, except that the age of the applicant must be stated and the year of model is substituted for the year of manufacture. Old registration blanks will not be accepted for 1928 registrations of motor vehicles of the private passenger, commercial, combination motorcycle and trailer type. If applications are made out on the old form, these will be returned with instructions from the department to file the necessary information on a new form.

As in other years the department requests that applications be made early to eliminate as much as possible of the rush for registrations at the end of the year. The department will endeavor to reserve for any applicant the number assigned to him in 1927, either for January 1, 1928, or April 1, 1928, provided a complete 1928 application, accompanied by the necessary fee and a written request for that particular number is received at the Hartford office or any of the branch offices on or before November 15.

All applicantions received after November 15 will be assigned numbers in the order most convenient for the department. No mail orders will be received at the branch offices except for reservations and after November 15 all mail orders must be sent to the Hartford office.

Questions on the blank must be answered in ink, or typewritten. Remittance must be made by check, money order or express order, and made payable to the commissioner of motor vehicles. Number plates will be delivered free.

All motor vehicle registrations will expire December 31, 1927, and number plates issued covering 1928 registration must not be displayed until the last day of December, 1927.

Information concerning fees and questions contained on the application blanks has been sent with every blank to prospective registrants. Notice of the new requirements, making it necessary for applicants to give their ages, has been sent to all town clerks, chiefs of police and motor vehicle dealers and repairers.

FOUR NEW APPOINTMENTS BY STATE CHAMBER

Clark Belden, executive vice-president of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce announced Monday the appointment of a new field secretary and three new assistant secretaries of the state chamber. Two of the assistant secretaries are women. This is the first time since the establishment of the state chamber of commerce in 1899 that the organization has ever had a woman official, but both of these appointees have been associated with the state chamber for several years past.

According to Mr. Belden the four new appointments have been made because the work of the state chamber in recent months has grown substantially beyond its activities of two or three years ago. Today the business concerns and the public of Connecticut are placing more matters before the state chamber and requesting more service from the state chamber than ever before in its history. State and public officials are also more and more requesting its cooperation. The appointment of the two women assistant secretaries comes as a reward for very satisfactory work which both of them have done during the last several years.

The new field secretary is William T. Barbre of Chicago, who has been connected with the General Organization company for four years. The three new assistant secretaries are Robert L. Gilbert, who has been the senior editor of the Connecticut headquarters of the Associated Press at New Haven; Miss Fernande M. Fichot and Miss Catherine R. Bronson. Fred W. Orr of New Haven, who has a wide acquaintance among the business interests of Connecticut, also continues as field secretary of the state chamber.

SLATER MUSEUM RECEIVES FAMOUS SLOOP'S SEXTANT

The sextant of the six-gun sloop "Eagle" has just been given to Slater museum. This is the story of the Eagle, from Mackay's History of American Privateers: The six gun sloop Eagle, (Capt. E. A. Conklin), went to sea with only thirty men, and in one cruise made six prizes. In manning these vessels, Capt. Conklin reduced his own crew to fifteen men, who, besides having the work of handling the sails were compelled to guard the large number of prisoners taken aboard. It was not long before the British prisoners realized the critical position in which the Americans had been placed, and seizing a favorable opportunity they rose and killing all but two boys, took possession of the Eagle, and endeavored to run her into a British port. Before they reached a place of safety, however, the Eagle fell in with the American privateer "Hancock," and was retaken. In 1779, the Eagle while in New York harbor, was blown up.

SMALLER LAWYERS' FEES IN FORECLOSURE SUITS

Lawyers' fees taxabe to costs in a foreclosure action and figured in the judgment have been reduced and made uniform throughout the state, as a result of a recent meeting of superior court judges, it was disclosed by Judge Newell Jennings in Hartford Friday.

Hitherto the judges have generally allowed an attorney's fee of $100 in the average foreclosure action against small property. Judge Jennings said it was agreed by the judges now that in the ordinary case a fee of $50 will be allowed and $25 will be taxed to court costs.

The judge made this ruling on the request of Edward J. Daly for counsel fees in the foreclosure action brought by Nils A. Carlson of Hartford against the property of Mary Begansky on Ringold street, West Hartford. The judgment was for $1,618.42, and redemption day was set for Oct. 18.

It was indicated that only in cases of special difficulty and involving large amounts of money will larger allowances be made.

FORBES FIELD, Pittsburgh, Oct. 5 —(AP)—In a close and exciting but also loosely played battle that was considerably below the best standards of either team, the New York Yankees wrested a 5 to 4 victory from an erratic crew of Pitsburgh Pirates today in the opening game of the 1927 world's series.

A colorful crowd of close to 42,000, jamming Forbes field to the edges, came out to see a battle of Yankee siege guns and Pirate sharpshooters but its expectations were completely upset. Instead, they saw Babe Ruth lead the Yankee attack with singles, rather than home runs, watched the Pirate defense crack wide open in the third inning to permit the American league champions to gain a commanding lead and witnessed the bombardment of the rival right handed pitching aces, Waite Hoyt and Ray Kremer, into retirement.

The Pirates outhit the Yankees, 9 to 6. They constantly threatened Hoyt and finally drove him from the box in the eighth inning but game as was their uphill fight, the Corsairs lacked the punch to win after their own mistakes, plus Kremer's wildness, had virtually tossed away the game in the third inning.

Wilcy Moore and his "sinker ball" came to the rescue in the eighth as Hoyt fast was weakening, and checked what little remained of Pirate hopes by retiring Earl Smith with runners on first and third.

There were two out in the eighth when Joe Harris drove in Glenn Wright with the fourth Pirate run but Moore, big and ungainly, hitched his trousers, adjusted his cap and tossed one that Smith spanked into Lou Gehrig's glove for the final out of the inning and the end of Pittsburgh's last scoring opportunity.

It was a bitter dose of defeat for the Pirates to take though they had no one to blame but themselves. Their crack right hander, Kremer, good in spots but not up to his usual steadiness, was knocked out in the sixth, after which John Miljus completely stopped the Yankees, holding them to a single hit in four innings. The famous Waner brothers, Paul and Lloyd, were mainsprings of the attack, sharing the day's batting spotlight with their well known rivals, Ruth and Gehrig.

But shakiness in the field during the early innings and costly errors by George Grantham and Earl Smith gave the Yanks opportunities which they lost no time in seizing.

The first Yankee run, in the opening inning, was manufactured out of a lucky single by Ruth and a flukely triple by Gehrig, a short fly that Paul Waner handled badly by trying to catch but falling in the attempt while the ball rolled to the right field fence.

This was mild compared to the third inning gifts to the Yankees. Babe Ruth's second single was the only hit by the New Yorkers in this frame but Grantham's boot of Koenig's roller, walks to Gehrig and Meusel, the latter with the bases full, and a muff of a throw at the plate by Earl Smith enabled three runs to clatter across.

Koenig, given a life by Grantham's error, was forced over with the first run in this inning. Ruth tallied on an infield force out by Lazzeri and Gehrig romped across the plate on Smith's error after being trapped off third base. The Pirate catcher, in his hurry, threw low to Traynor, then let the return toss slip through his fingers and roll to the Pirate dugout.

Ruth's bat was in the midst of every Yankee rally, the big fellow outguessed the Pirates and upset expectations by shortening his swing and deliberately placing his one-base drives, three of them, while Pirate outfielders were backed up against the fences prepared for long shots. After scoring the first Yankee run personally and aiding in the Pirate debacle in the third, Ruth was finally retired, on a grounder to Harris, in the fifth, but this put Koenig, who had doubled, on third base and in position to score a moment later on Gehrig's sacrifice fly. This was the last Yankee run and, as it turned out, the winning margin, for Miljus, the big right hander from Seattle, was invincible throughout the closing innings, striking out Combs, Meusel and Hoyt while permitting only a single safe blow.

Although Paul Waner, perhaps too anxious, was uncertain in his handling of balls in the first and third innings, the elder of the "poison brothers" fully measured up to his reputation as the National league's champion batsman.

The Waner act functioned in the first when Loiyd, on base after being hit by Hoyt, scampered to third on Paul's double and scored on Wright's sacrifice fly. Kremer, doubling to start the third, scored on Paul Waner's second hit.

Lloyd Waner kept up the family's good work in the fifth, rapping out a double and scooting home on Barnhart's single, but Paul Waner's third successive safety was wasted when Wright and Traynor failed to come through in the pinch. This frame and the eighth, in which Wright brought over the final Pirate tally, witnessed the biggest of wasted Corsair opportunities.

With one down in the eighth, Wright and Traynor singled in succession, sending Hoyt to the showers. Moore was greeted by a sharp blow that Gehrig grabbed and threw to Koenig for a force-out of Traynor. Harris scored Wright but Smith was retired by Gehrig.

Pitching dope was upset when Manager Miller Huggins of the Yankees sent in Moore to replace Hoyt. The Oklahoma "sinker ball" star had been slated to start tomorrow's second game. Instead, Huggins sprang another surprise by deciding to shoot his youthful right hander, George Pipgras, who has had no previous series experience, at the Pirates tomorrow.

George won four straight games for the Yankees in the last month of the season to earn his spurs in this battle. He will be oposed by Vic Aldridge, the Hoosier schoolmaster.

PLAY BY PLAY RETURNS OF SERIES BY MEGAPHONE

As has been the custom for many years The Bulletin will give the public a play by play description of each game of the world's series. A wire direct from the baseball fields in Pittsburgh and New York serves the Bulletin and the action taking place at these fields will be given to Norwich fans by megaphone.

Besides the play by play results there will be descriptive stories by Associated Press sports writers before the game. Carl S. Brandebury will handle the play by play and club house features will be written by E. J. Neil.

The games are scheduled to start at 1:30 o'clock each day except Sunday when the game will begin at 2:01 p. m. The megaphone service will begin about half an hour before game time when pre-game features will be given.

World's Series Sidelights

Both the Ruth-Gehrig and Waner acts went over big in the opening inning. Gehrig's triple that scored Ruth was a bit flukey, Paul Waner failing in his anxiety to make the catch as the ball rolled past him. "Big Poison", however, redeemed himself with a slashing double that put brother Lloyd on third in the Pirate half from where he scored on Wright's sacrifice fly.

Kremer displayed more "stuff" than Hoyt at the start but was wilder and had poor support. The big Californian, contrary to expectations, fed the Yankees curves and plenty of them, as long as he stayed. He had Gehrig and Lazzeri both swinging at fast hooks. The Yanks, hitting at Kremer's first ball in the first inning, changed to waiting tactics in the second and third, getting three passes for their patience.

Lazzeri engineered a snappy double play that choked off the Pirates in the second inning but also nearly started a row. Tony dug Joe Harris' poke out of the dirt, tagged Grantham, running from first, and then threw to Gehrig, who made a one-hand pickup to complete the play. Grantham and Lazzeri made a few menacing gestures before Umpire "Uncle Charley" Moran separated them.

Gehrig played a bang-up game at first base. He dug 'em out of the dirt or speared 'em one-handed from every angle on throws besides handling several hard hit balls, unassisted, for put outs.

Babe Ruth was caught by Miljus' throw in the seventh inning after he had singled. It took only one relay, Harris to Wright to Harris, to retire the Bambino.

Mark Koenig, Yankee shortstop, was shaken up and dazed when he was bumped by Traynor in a force play in the eighth inning. Gehrig had scooped up Grantham's smash and thrown to Koenig, who was knocked flat by the charging Pirate. Mark seemed all right, however, after regaining his breath.

When Brickwell went to bat for Miljus in the ninth, scores of fans yelled for "Cuyler", a world's series hero in 1925 but under Manager Donie Bush's ban most of this season.

It was with pleasure that the supporters of the Taftville A. A. team learned Wednesday morning that Chet Nichols, who has pitched two games for Taftville against Riverview will be with the Giants next season. Nichols was drafted at the meeting on Tuesday from Jersey City whose property he was as the result of a player trade with the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Chet will pitch Sunday against the River iew team in the final game of the series at the J. B. Martin diamond.

YOUNG BeLIZZI AND YOUNG PECHEENI ARE MATCHED

Juckie Burns, who has taken Young BeLizzi, a local bantamweight who has just graduated into the professionals from the amateurs, has matched his protege with Young Pecheeni for six rounds at the Thames A. C. show in New London on the 18th. Young BeLizzi in his first professional engagement won a victory over Mickey Rossi of Westerly and appears to be a strong, two-handed fighter.

Envelopes were first used in France during the reign of Louis XIV.

JOHNNY GREENE, STAR END OF ACADEMY ELEVEN, OUT OF GAME FOR THE SEASON

The first serious casualty of the season came to the Academy with the announcement that Johnny Greene, star end, will probably be out for the season with injuries which have been diagnosed as water on the right elbow. These were sustained in the Chapman Tech game last Saturday and since then Johnny has not been in uniform. His work last year, his first on the squad was one of the bright spots of the season and he was looked upon as one of those on whom this year's eleven would be built. He was one of the three regulars reporting to Coach Court Whitney this season.

Although no definite announcement has been made as to whether Greene will be available for any part of the remainder of this season, it was the general consesus of opinion around the campus yesterday that it would be much wiser for him to discontinue for football and save himself for baseball where he will be needed much more and at which sport he is more adept.

It is planned to have an examination of his arm and if serious enough, he will be kept from the gridiron and preparations be made to get his pitching wing in shape for the busy campaign mapped out for the state-southern New England championship Red and White diamond outfit.

Two other injuries that kept first stringers on the sidelines came in Saturday's game. Kahn, another of the three veterans who were available at the start of this year's campaign is out with a dislocated shoulder and he will in all probability be missing in Saturday's starting lineup against Torrington High. "Spud" Murphy, who had been going great guns at the center berth did not get into the long scrimmage Wednesday although he was in uniform. His ankle is bothering him but he should be ready for Saturday's tilt. Ingalls was snaping them back yesterday for the varsity.

A stiff scrimage that lasted over an hour had the Red and Whitesters hustling yesterday at the campus. Coach Whitney, evidently displeased with parts of the play last Saturday sent two elevens through this hard drill with the varsity scoring no less than twelve touchdowns, practically all by land routes. Their aerial game still seems weak on the receiving end and hardly a pass was completed for any material gain in this workout. Clever broken field running by Jack Marks, Bill Tirrell and Jim Kelly accounted for nearly all the scores, although their efforts were against a weak second team, especially in the forward wall.

The varsity was composed of Buck LaCroix and Berghinzo and Taylor at the ends, Shea and Pitt at tackles, Fox and Mish at guards with Ingalls at center and Tirrell, Kelly, Marks, McGlone and Vitliano in the backfield.

The new bleachers, which will bring the seating capacity at the campus to over 2,000 will be ready by Saturday, it was announced Wednesday.

NEW YORK STREETS CHOKED WITH BASEBALL FANS

NEW YORK, Oct. 5—(AP)—East side, west side, all around the town, New York's millions blocked traffic today at every point where visible or audible reports of the home team's triumph at Pittsburgh were available. Uncounted thousands heard the radio reports of the game seated comfortably in their homes.

FAST BOUTS FEATUE OPENING AMATEUR SHOW AT JEWETT CITY

(By L. V. Manchester)

JEWETT CITY, Oct. 5—Inaugurating amateur boxing in Jewett City, the Quinnebaug Camps club staged their first show in Finn's theatre to a capacity house of boxing fans tonight. Practically every bout was replete with action and started off with a bang in the first bout of the evening, between Young Luzzio of Westerly and Young Zabinski of Jewett City both weighing 108 pounds. Both little fellows stood toe to toe throughout with Luzzio winning the decision by a shade.

The second bout was another whirlwind affair. Young Peloquin of Danielson a hard hitting 112 pounder met an equally tough boy in Sal Comforte of Westerly, 114 pounds. Peloquin gained the decision, after three rounds of fast and interesting milling.

Jewett City's favorite Benny Salinski tired himself out in the last round trying hard to K. O. Young Nimbo of Westerly, and had him on the verge of going down at the final bell. Nimbo went down in the first from an unintentional low blow, but insisted on continuing and gave a good account of himself, until Benny managed to wear him down and very nearly finished him. Both weighed 122 pounds.

Happy Bontempo, another favorite, won his fight via the technical K. O. route, in the first round. He swarmed over Kid Lewis of Westerly and had him helpless when the referee stepped between them and stopped it. They are lightweights.

The fifth bout brought together two heavyweights, Young Dempski of Norwich, and Lew Cote of Jewett City. They started off at a fast clip, both sending in hard blows, but the Norwich boy was too strong for Cote, and after getting him against the ropes with a hard right, the bout was stopped to save Cote from being punished further, he being apparently out on his feet. Dempski weighed 153 pounds and Cote 154.

The sixth bout was another excellent one between Young Jouber and Young Minta both of Jewett City. After a rather slow start they warmed up and sein home many hard blows throughout the rest of the bout. Jouber, who is a good two handed fighter, kept after his man who continued to fight back all the way, and was always dangerous. Jouber was given the decision. Both men are lightweights.

The seventh bout was an exhibition between Young Wakely of Central Village and Young Peloquin of Putnam at 113 lbs.

The final go between Young Cobb of Jewett City and Walter Main of Westerly had the fans on their feet yelling for a knockout. Both boys took plenty of punishment with Cobb sending home the stiffer punches. He rocked Main a couple of times but tired somewhat in the last round and Main gained some of his lost advantage, but not enough, however, to overcome Cobb's lead and the latter earned the decision. Both weighed 155.

It was a very good card and it is hoped the club will continue to run shows. Jackie Wilson refereed in excellent fashion, Lionel Boucher was the announcer, Ted Boule the timekeeper and Ted Shea and Jack Farrell were the udges.

PIRATES DOWNCAST, YANKEES JUBILANT

(By Edward Neil, Associated Press Sports Writer)

FORBES FIELD, Pittsburgh, Oct. 5—(AP)—The glee that comes of hard fought victory and the quiet tenseness of embattled defeat pervaded the players' dressing rooms today after the Yankees pounded the Pirates into five-four defeat in the first game of the world's series.

"It won't be long now," boomed Babe Ruth as he stormed into the clubhouse swinging the bat that clouted three singles. Behind him clattered the rest of the Yankee tribe, shouting and shoving in an effort to be first at the hot water.

"Those Waners are a couple of good ball players," the heavyweight slugging king announced. "They sure did pop a few out my way."

"Say, I was sure due for a homer today if Kremer had only stayed in the Pirate box. The first two hits clicked just right, but I slipped as I slugged the third one at Grantham. I had the range and that next time up the ball would have made the bleachers if Donie Bush hadn't yanked Kremer. I'll see him later, though."

The Pirates dove behind locked doors as soon as the game was over. And when Donie Bush threw open the portals, his Buccaneers were a chastened and subdued gang of ball players. They talked barely above a whisper as their little manager dressed with never a look their way and hurried out of the clubhouse.

"It just wasn't Kremer's day or we'd have won," Bush said. He'll be right when he goes back. This will be a long series and I'm not a bit worried. Other ball clubs have lost the opening game and come back to cop the championship."

Aldridge will do the hurling tomorrow with Johnny Gooch catching but Milus may be in there any time for a full game. I expect both Paul and Lloyd Waner will keep right on socking the ball.

Joe Harris, belting first baseman, was spokesman for the reticent Pirates and displayed all the quiet confidence that pervaded the former Swashbuckling crew.

"Any team that gets five runs on six hits is lucky, mighty lucky, and that sort of luck can't keep up. We had those heavy hitters stopped in their tracks. Aside from Ruth they only got three hits and Gehrig's triple was a rank fluke. Kremer will get better support next time and he'll win. Anyway Vic Aldridge is sure to count tomorrow so we'll go to New York just where we started here."

George Pipgras, husky young righthander, who displayed splendid form for the Yankees in the final stages of the American pennant parade, is Miller Huggin's box selection for tomorrow. Benny Bengough will catch him, replacing Collins. Selection of Pipgras furnished a mild surprise, although it is understood that Huggins chose to gamble on the youngster and save Wilcy Moore for the third contest.

Waite Hoyt said he didn't mind" being knocked out of the box because it was all in the game and he knew he wasn't "right" either. Most of the Brooklyn undertaker's chatter had to do with the vaunted Pittsburgh attack.

"I'll just bet," Hoyt declared, "that Pipgras, if he's as good as he was in his last start, will shut out the Pirates with no more than five hits. The next time I go against them they'll get no more than seven."

Incidently, Hoyt joined the roster of injured Yankee flingers today when he reported after the game with a blister under the nail on the third finger of his right hand.

Prevailing warm weather will continue for some time, Dr. R. E. De Lury, of the Dominion observatory at Ottafa, Ont., predicted. Dr. De Lury said the presence of sun spots, which have been more pronounced than usual, resulted in more heat reaching the earth.

SONS OF ITALY AUXILIARY FUNDS LENT, IS THE CLAIM

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Oct. 5—At the adjournment today of Washington county superior court in Westerly Town hall, Mrs. Frank Marino was on the stand as the second witness for the respondent in the equity case started in the morning. Caroline Gervasini, as venerala of Loggia Cornelia Madre del Gracchi, No. 831, auxiliary of the Rhode Island Sons of Italy. As there were eight more witnesses to be heard Judge Walsh stated that inasmuch as the petit jurors are to come in Thursday morning, he could not finish the case and would pass it until he could find time to finish the hearing. The petitioners declared that funds of the Rhode Island society were deliberately taken away by Concetta S. Grills, then venerable and deposited in the name of a newly formed society, and converted by the new organization, in a period extending from Sept. 1924 to Sept. 1925. It was declared that Mrs. Grills had lent from the funds of the lodge the amount of $600 to one lodge sister and $500 to another. Luigi Chipolla, of Providence, grand venerable of the R. I. society, identified the Westerly lodge charter which he claimed still in force, as did Secretary Silverio Gianotti, of Providence; Grand Venerable Flammigetti, 1922-1924, who with lodge official Naurello, went to Mrs. Grills and demanded the return of lodge property which he was informed was in a trunk in Mechanics hall, Westerly. Ginsue Palazzolo, 86 Liberty street, Pawcatuck, district deputy who attended three meetings before the turnover and Joseph Gervasini, of Westerly, in company with three others searched the trunk and found property of little value.

GET RID OF YOUR FAT

Thousands of others have gotten rid of theirs by my simple and efficient method of fat reduction without starvation diet or burdensome exercise, often at a very rapid rate and WITHOUT PAYMENT until reduction has taken place.

I am a licensed practicing physician and have made a careful study of the physiological requirements of the human body. This has enabled me to select such ingredients and in such proportion as in my opinion will produce not only a loss of weight without harm and an improvement in health, but with it an alleviation of all of the troublesome symptoms which frequently accompany and often are a direct result of overstoutness, such as shortness of breath on slight exertion, palpitation of the heart, etc., not to speak of the relief from the embarrassment of being too stout. Stout persons suffering from such diseases as Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Eczema, Asthma and high blood pressure are greatly relieved by a reduction of their superfluous fat.

My treatment will relieve that depressed, tired, sleepy feeling, giving you the renewed energy and vigor which come as a result of the loss of superfluous fat.

If you are overstout do not postpone but sit down right now and send for my FREE TRIAL TREATMENT and my plan whereby I am to be PAID ONLY AFTER REDUCTION HAS TAKEN PLACE if you so desire.

POETRY

Aspects of the Pines

Tall, somber, grim, against the morning sky
They rise, scarce touched by melancholy airs,
Which stir the fadeless foliage dreamfully,
As if from realms of mystical despairs.

Tall, somber, grim, they stand with dusky gleams
Brightening to gold within the woodland's core,
Beneath the gracious noontide's tranquil beams—
But the weird winds of morning sigh no more.

A stillness, strange, divine, ineffable,
Broods round and o'er them in the wind's surcease,
And on each tinted copse and shimmering dell
Rests the mute rapture of deep-hearted peace.

Last, sunset comes—the solemn joy and might Borne from the west when cloudless day declines—
Low, flutelike breezes sweep the waves of light,
And, lifting dark green tresses of the pines,

Till every lock is luminous, gently float,
Fraught with hale odors up the heavens afar,
To faint when twilight on her virginal throat
Wears for a gem the tremulous vesper star.

—Paul Hamilton Hayne

Reflections

High on a pine-crowned eastern mountain peak,
I stand alon the dull-hued world and seek
Life's meaning and Love's motive in the sky.
Even as craggy slopes, beneath my tread,
Seek their reflections in the river's bed,
Where, as the swiftly rushing waters glide,
Showing now blue, now golden in their tide,
The cloud-cold for the sun-warmed hillbreasts brood
Over the torrent's murmuring solitude.
So through the shade or sunshine of my days
I, soon or late, discern the guiding blaze
Of traffic that lead me straight from sun to sun.
So soon, indeed, are Pain and Sorrow done
And Joy comes tripping after them like Spring.
Hard on the heels of Winter's lingering,
That we need never lose the flower-strewn ways
If we fight fearless in the Race we run!

Sugar steady; Cuban buying.

Coffee lower; easier Brazilian market.

Hogs; irregular.

MARKET WAS HEALTHY.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—(AP)—Splendid resistance to the shock of selling inspired by the unexpectedly large increase of $241,000,000 in stock exchange member loans was shown by today's stock market. Execution of a large quota of overnight selling orders carried prices down 1 to nearly 5 points at the opening, and some further liquidation developed on the marking up of the call money renewal rate to 4 1-2 per cent., but good buying support was provided, and a recovery set in, reaching its climax in the last few minutes of trading. Final quotations were irregular, gains and losses ranging all the way from 1 to 12 points.

A further slight increase in steel mill operations was reported coincident with a firming of prices, but activity is still well below the corresponding period last year. Directors of the South Porto Rican Sugar Co. declared a stock dividend of 10 per cent., and be under way by a few other corporbe under way by a few other corporations whose stocks are in the so-called "rich man's class." Prompt sale of 50,000 shares of International Combustion preferred and $35,000,000 Shawinigan Water & Power bonds was accepted as evidence of an investment demand.

Trading showed a marked falling off in volume. General Motors new stock was again the active feature, closing unchanged at 136 3-4 after having dipped to 133 3-4. Reports of record-breaking third quarter earnings was a sustaining influence. U. S. Steel common was again under pressure, closing 1 1-2 points net lower at 148 1-2. Woolworth also fell back 2 points despite the increase of more than 7 per cent. in September sales. American Tobacco, Sterling Products, Union Carbide and Rossia Insurance also were conspicuously heavy.

Speculation for the advance was aggressively conducted in a wide assortment of issues including American Can, American Express, American Linseed, General Electric, Interborough Rapid Transit, Packard Motor, Pittsburg Coal and Tobacco Products. Rails were inclined to heaviness, New York Central losing 2 points.

Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

In the foreign exchange market, German marks established a new high for the year at 23.85 cents in reflection of the raising of the reichsbank rediscount rate, and Italian lire crossed 4 1-2 cents.

All the leading commodity markets were reactionary. Wheat yielded a fraction of a cent a bush, cotton dropped about $2 a bale and coffee lost nearly a quarter of a cent apound.

CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 5—(AP)—Stock prices followed an erratic trend in the curb market today, the majority of issues drifting toward lower levels at the close. Numerous active shares opened sharply lower, rallied smartly, then sagged again. A few miscellaneous issues, including some of the chain stores, displayed consistent strength in some instances retaining the gains which placed them in new high territory.

Banitaly corporation was the individual feature, changing hands in large amounts and scoring an extreme jump of eight points to 118, closing only a fraction below that figure. Johns-Manville, Truscon Steel and a few others also were strong.

Celluloid and Celanese issues all followed the general up and down trend, closing 1 to more than 6 points below yesterday's final figures. New York Central (when issued) and Pittsburgh and Lake Erie also sustained net losses after earlier rallies. Oils were heavy, with the exception of Margay, which was marked up a point to 45.

United Light and Power "A" was heavily traded in, but held close to yestreday's close, while most of the public utility shares were slightly lower on the day.

Stutz, the only active automotive issue, sold up to 17 for a 1 1-2 point gain after a weak opening.

New England Industries

THE BRICK INDUSTRY

(Note: The information, on which this article, issued by the research department of the New England council, is based, was obtained by the domestic commerce division, United States department of commerce, through an industrial survey of New England conducted in co-operation with the New England council. The department of commerce is now preparing for publication a full report of this industry which will contain additional information of practical value to all New

New England producers make common brick of an annual value of $7,000,000, census figures show, and this is 7 per cent of the country's output. Annual sales range from $18,000 to $600,000 per plant and these have improved 67 per cent over 1921, in spite of a slight drop in 1924.

The average plant, reported in a survey recently conducted by the United States Department of Commerce in cooperation with the New England Council, has been in operation for thirty-four years, and under present management for thirteen. Changes in management in the last six years were made by one third of the concerns. Reasons for locating in New England have been mainly accessibility of raw materials, nearness to market, and favorable labor conditions.

Branch plants are more extensive than in many other industries, 22 per cent of the concerns reporting having established them in New England.

Among the raw materials, clay, lumber and sand are obtained in New England by practically all reporting concerns. Coal, in most cases, comes directly from the mines. Incentive methods of wage payment are reported by 56 per cent of the group, and the average proportion of employes thus paid per factory is 28 per cent. The season is at its height in July and lowest in January, the variation between minimum and maximum employment ranging around 140 per cent. Several concerns attempt to find outside work for slack periods, and one manufacturer has a steam heating plant for cold weather operation.

Standardization of products leads in the improvements effected, followed by organization and executive control, accident prevention, production control, and continuous maintenance.

New England is the chief market for virtually all the companies reporting, and the average ratio of sales in this section is 87 per cent. Over 55 per cent of the concerns sell their entire output here.

Reasons for sales increases have included building activity, improved sales methods, and advertising; and decreases have been caused by lack of new building in the textile and other industries, the introduction of cheap substitutes for brick, and the restriction to local markets caused by high freight rates.

At least 60 per cent of the companies use a brand or trade mark on their product. The methods of distribution most favored are those direct to the building contractor, and through the wholesaler or jobber.

HANOVER

The missionary meeting was largely attended last week and had an unusually interesting program. Twenty-six local people were in attendance at the First church, New London, at the Fellowship gathering of this and Windham counties.

A large box is being filled at the Parish house to be sent to Atlanta for distribution among the colored people, the wor kbeing in charge of Mr. and Mrs. Werking, formerly of Taftville.

The wall between the front yard of the parsonage and Judge Adams' residence has been removed. When the turf which has taken the place of the wall has become acclimated it looks as if both places will be greatly improved by the change.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Doyle have been spending a part of their vacation in Miami, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lebourveau and Miss Eunice and Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hazen were at the shore Sunday.

Four of the younger members of the Congregational church belonging to the Go-to-Church band received pins last Sunday, indicating that they have had perfect attendance for an entire year. They are Elizabeth Adams, Wesley House, Jessie Still and Beverly Ussher. Two others: Allen Lebouveau and Isabel Peck, through no fault of their own, were obliged to miss one service, and so could not receive pins at this time, as did the others.

The Y. P. S. C. E. is to hold a picnic on Lee Hill at the home of the president, Miss Dorothy, Saturday afternoon beginning at 4 o'clock.

The last of the four sermons on Manliness is to be given by the pastor Rev. Dwight C. Stone Sunday morning next, the text being 2 Cor. 16:13,—"Watch ye, stand fast in the faith, quit you like men, be strong."

Miss Flora House, of Hartford spent Sunday at the home of her father, Ernest House.

Mrs. Lathrop, o fNorwich was a recent visitor at the home of her sister, Mrs. William Storrs Lee.

All are glad to see Charles Chapman and his team about the village again. He has had enforced vacation of few dys owing to a severe attack of neuritis. This is the first time, ever, so far as he can remember, when illness hae incapacitated him from attending to his duties.

NORWICH WOMAN DRIVER HITS CHILD WHO RUNS INTO NEW LONDON STREET

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 5.—John Webster, 7, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Webster, 61 Golden street was painfully injured today when struck by an automobile driven by Miss Igna Hutzler, 82 Cliff street, Norwich and owned by the state of Connecticut. The child is now a patient at Lawrence-Memorial hospital suffering from lacerations of the head and of the scalp and body. He will be a patient at the hospital several days. Miss Hutzler, who is an official at Long Lane farm, Middletown, was driving through Golden street, and when the car was between Green and Bank streets, the child darted from the sidewalk and ran directly in front of the machine. Miss Hutzler did not have opportunity to even reduce the speed of the car for she did not see the child until the auto was about to hit him. The boy was knocked down and his head struck the pavement. A passing motorist picked the bleeding child up and placing him in an auto rushed him to the hospital. Miss Hutzler went to police headquarters and reported the accident.

WEDDING GIFT CHICKEN GETS DONOR INTO TROUBLE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 5.—Joseph Fenock, 109 Golden street employed as a dishwasher at the London Grill, was presented in court on a charge of theft. The offense Fenock committed was not serious, so the case was continued three months and Fennock was placed in the custody of Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield. Fennock has an acquaintance who was married today and he decided that he would provide a roast chicken which was to be served at the wedding. Fennock obtained a chicken last night from the kitchen of the restaurant and started to leave the place with it. He was detected in his act by Max Fern, proprietor, who compelled Fennock to return the chicken to the kitchen. Later, however, Fenock obtained the chicken and took it to the home of the bride-elect where he left it with his compliments. This morning Fern discovered that the chicken was missing and suspecting Fenock as the thief, he made complaint against him to the police. Sergeants Nelson Smith and John Cavanaugh were assigned to the case and when Fenock was accused of the theft he admitted it and told where he had delivered it. The officers went to the residence where the feast is to be held and there found the chicken in an ice box. The chicken was returned to the restaurant and a search of Fenock's room was made for it was believed that he might have other property used in the restaurant secreted there. However, nothing was found in the room to further incriminate Fenock. Fenock's home is in Brooklyn and he has been in New London but a few weeks.

Francis M. Conlon, 1849 Columbus avenue, Roxbury, Mass., last night informed the police of New London that his son was a runaway and was in this city. The elder Conlon requested that the boys be arrested. Patrolman Walter O'Neil found that the boys had visited a telegraph office and were supposed to return there to receive a reply to the telegram they had sent. Mansfield, who will see that the runaways return home.

Lopez and his wife resided at the Gomes home until recently and when they departed they failed to make payment to Gomes for their lodging. Last night Gomes decided to try and collect the money due him and going to where Lopez is employed requested that the money be paid him. Instea, Lopez attacked Gomes and administered severe punishment, at the same time telling Gomes that the only payment that would be made was the beating that was being given. Gomes then went to police headquarters and made complaint against Lopez who was arrested.

Peter Lambrick, a stranger was presented on a charge of begging and intoxication. He was fined $5, but execution of the sentence was suspended. Lambrick was arrested yesterday on State street by Sergeant William Babcock and Traffic Officer Frank Linehan when making a nuisance of himself by soliciting alms from pedestrians.

Tonight George Svywezenko, about 40, was found unconscious in the highway in Waterford by Constable Brigham. He was taken to Lawrence-Memorial hospital, where an examination showed that Svywezenko had sustained a fractured skull. The New London police today ascertained the identity of the sedan carrying Massachusetts registration, reported by the Waterhouse Detective agency, Saco, Me., as having passed through a New Hampshire city yesterday afternoon. A woman was driving and had a man companion. It was believed that it contained the $3000 quantity of ladies' cloth coats, fur coats and dresses. The automobile is owned by a Boston clothing house and was in charge of one of its salesmen and the clothing was samples. The salesman covers New Hampshire, Vermont and Massachusetts and is due to return to Boston Thursday.

Three boys, none over 12, were arrested today by Patrolman William Riordan, on a technical holdup charge. The three held up a youth yesterday afternoon, from all appearances for the purpose of robbery. Because of the apparent criminal instincts imbued in the boys, it was decided to arrest them and make an endeavor to show them the error of their ways. The arrested youths were on the Fort Neck bridge of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad. They observed a boy approaching and decided to intercept him. The boy carried a letter that had been given him by his mother to deliver to a store. The letter was forcibly taken from the boy and opened, but when it did not contain money it was returned to him. The boy returned home and related what had occurred. The mother then made complaint to the police. This noon the boy observed one of the holdup gang on the street and hurried to police headquarters with the information. He accompanied Patrolman Riordan in the police automobile and directed the officer to where he had seen the boy complained of. The latter was found and with him was another youth who participated in the holdup. They were brought to police headquarters and the identity of the third boy was then revealed. He was arrested at Jennings school. This afternoon the three boys were turned over to Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield and within a day or two will be presented in the juvenile court.

Palace Theater

Commencing today for three days a new combination of supreme vaudeville and a special feature picture is announced for the entertainment of Norwich fans. The headline vaudeville attraction Flashes of Dance and novelty a six people song and dance revue, introducing the latest dance steps, Middletown, Spellmeyer and company, two men and a woman in a dramatic playlet called "Lonesome Land." Alberts and Riley two commedians in Clowning Around. Leonora and Ryan a youthful couple in clever talks, songs and dances. Gene Martini of radio fame in an accordian recital.

Gertrude Ederle swam the English channel last year and returned to New York to face a demonstration of acclaim second only to that later afforded Col. Lindbergh.

She has faced more excitement probably than any other girl of her generation and faced it without ever once becoming rattled.

Motion pictures, however, disrupted her poise. When she went to Hollywood for her picture debut with Bebe Daniels in Paramount's comedy, Swim, Girl, Swim, a make up man boarded the train to apply the grease paint before she reached Los Angeles and then she was hurried to the beach location

The excitement was too much. It was not until luncheon was announced that "Trudy" discovered that she had gone without her breakfast.

"And for the first time in my life, too," she says.

Both Miss Daniels and Miss Ederle are shown in action in "Swim, Girl, Swim," which is being shown at the Palace theater.

Strand Theater

Solly Shaw's "Hits and Bits of Broadway", featuring Jim Pearl and all star cast. Pearl and Collins are two clever comedians and those two boys sure do know their stuff. They keep the audience in an uproar throughout the show. Pearl looks like Jiggs and Collins like Charles Murray. Bot Carlton is a very clever straight man who works hard to help the comedians to produce together. Betty Carlton is a classy Prima Donna who has a nice voice and reads lines with the best of them. Jean Burke and Peggy Gleason are the Soubrettes and they sure are full of pep and know how to sing and dance. Bot and Betty Carlton put over a duet and sing some real harmony. Peggy Bedell, one of the chorus girls steps out and does some real eccentric dancing. This show has a chorus of good-looking girls. They are all good dancers and full of pep. The costumes of show are very prety. This is one of the best shows that has played Norwich in some time. They change the program three times in the week. A brand new show every two days, so if you want a good laugh and a real treat, don't miss these shows at the Strand this week.

The Passionate Quest, featuring May McAvoy, Willard Louis, Louise Fazenda is a wonderful picture of the nightlife of Paris and London, a racy, tangy comedy drama is on the screen for Wednesday and Thursday.

Breed Theater

Tonight marks the close of the successful run of Fox Films version of "The Secret Studio" at the Breed theater. This is Alive Borden's dramatic film of a girl's experiences while posing as an artist's model in New York. Clifford Holland is the hero and Ben Bard the "menace". Victor Schertzinger directed.

"Moon of Israel," one of the mightiest pictures in motion picture history, will be shown at the Breed theater, beginning on Sunday. The film has some of the most tremendous scenes that have ever been screened and the sets alone cost more than half a million dollars. All the tricks of camera and lighting, together with more than thirty thousand extras, a thousand metal chariots, and almost three thousand horsemen, make the film a thrilling spectacle, and one that will linger in the minds of audiences for a long while.

The film is taken from the famous novel by Sir H. Rider Haggard and was directed by Michael Curtiz under the supervision of the author. The theme of the picture is the romance between an Israelite slave-girl and the Prince of Egypt. A romance that begins beneath the burning suns of the Egyptian desert and carries the little slave girl to the throne of the greatest kingdom in the world.

The cast includes Maria Corda, Arlette Marchal, Adelqui Millar, Ferdinand Onna and Henry Mar. The story was adapted for the screen by Ladislaus Vajda, the great Hungarian playwright, and the titles are by the author himself.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre

To accommodate the hundreds who have been unable to witness a presentation of "The Big Parade" Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer sensational war drama which has been playing to crowded houses at the Broadway theatre all this week, the management announce that by special arrangement, the picture will be held over today. Owing to other bookings "The Big Parade" will positively end its engagement here tonight.

All who have not seen this wonderful production should avail themselves of the opportunity of attending one of today's performances. Those who can conveniently attend the matinee should do so, as many have been unable to get seats at the evening showings.

Tomorrow and Saturday the feature presentation at the Broadway will be Stark Love. Filmed amid the picturesque surroundings of the Great Smoky Mountains of North Caroline "Stark Love," deals with the mountaineers who have hitherto found their way into the limelight through the medium of certain popular novels which missed the tense poignancy of their lives entirely by a lapse into a sickening sort of sentimentality. Behold then a record that depends on no lumbering machine-made plot for its effectiveness. Karl Brown, the producer who went up into the mountains to look upon the hill-billies in their native haunts had the rare good sense to leave all preconceived notions behind. His story developed as the crank of the camera turned and the result is that he has brought back one of those films that really do deserve the appellation "slice of life."

NORWICH DOINGS 75 YEARS AGO

Items from the Norwich Courier of 1852 of interest to Norwich are given in part as follows:

Tuesday, Sept. 28, 1852—The Trial of Effie Deans, the splendid engraving from Lauder's celebrated picture is now in town and our citizens will do well to obtain a copy os so desirable a parlor picture, illustrating one of the most thrilling scenes in Walter Scott's works. The Meart of Midlothian. Mr. Thompson is the sole agent in Norwich.

The first meeting of the Greeneville Scott and Graham club was held on Friday evening. As the president, J. D. Mowry, Esq., was ill, D. Connell, first vice president presided. Hon. John A. Rockwell addressed the meeting on the mechanic, the farmer and the manfufacturer, stating that none could get along without the support of the other.

Thursday, Sept. 30, 1852—Between 300 and 400 from this city attended the Scott and Graham mass convention at New Haven. It is believed that no other section of the state was better represented than eastern Connecticut. The Windham, Norwich and New London parties made the trip by boat, taking brass bands with them to enliven the occasion. In all, the day was a glorious one for the whigs of Connecticut. Samuel Copp of New London county was elected a vice president of the state club.

The famous India Rubber case has now been settled in favor of the Goodyear company. This also effects the Hayward Rubber company whose offices are in this city, although their facories are in Colchester and Bozrahville. In the finding it is decided that Hayward and Goodyear each was the original inventor of what he claimed and Day is to be prevented from selling or manufacturing. Norwich of course is pleased that the finding favors the Hayward company, the largest rubber manufacturers in the United States.

Saturday, Oct. 2, 1852—The town ticket selected by the whigs last evening was as follows: Assessors—Thomas Robinson, Wolcott Huntington, Benjamin Durfey; board of relief—Zimri L. Smith, William F. Clark, William R. Potter; selectmen—Sanford B. Meech, Charles Crowley, Gardner Thurston; clerk—Othneal Gager; treasurer—Lyman Brewer; constables—Zebulon R. Robbins, Edward W. Franklin Thimble Wearers received first mention on work exhibited at Norwich fair. The quality of the work done, the number of awards made, and the number of articles exhibited was greater than that of any club of its kind in the country. Other local people had exhibits at the fair—Arnold Manning and Nathaniel Manning received prizes in the dairy section and Bernard Crandall in the poultry section.

Mrs. Emma E. Cox called on friends in Salem recently.

Mrs. Mabelle W. Crandall the president, Mrs. Nettie Race and Mrs. Marjorie B. Ayer were delegates to the state convention of the Women's Missionary society at New London Tuesday.

Miss Julia A. Rodman attended a picnic given by the Child Welfare bureau, of which she is an employe.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Heath have been spending some time in Baltimore and Washington.

Ray B. Beckwith and Bernard G. Crandall of this town left at an early hour Monday for a week's camping trip. The first night was to be spent on Mt. Washington. Maine and other northern points are to be included in the itinerary.

Several local people attended the auction of the L. P. Smith estate ("Redwood") in Lebanon.

Mrs. Emily E. Date was a recent Norwich visitor.

Miss Sharp—Perhaps you won't believe it, but a strange man tried to kiss me once.

Miss Snap—Really! Well, he'd have been a strange man if he tried to kiss you twice.—Tit-Bits, London.

TAFTVILLE

Taftville people are interested and pleased to learn that Edward Benoit, formerly of Terrace avenue, and now of Bristol, has been appointed physical culture director for the Bristol Boys' club. There is shortly to be launched in Bristol a campaign for funds to enable the community to erect a first class clubhouse for this organization, and reports have it that the cost is to run well into six figures. The Bristol Boys' club now has in excess of 500 members, and some of the most prominent people in Bristol are interested in its future. Mr. Benoit has been interested in the club since going to Bristol to reside, and now he has been engaged as full time instructor and director of physical culture at the club. This means a fine opportunity for the young man when the present clubhouse nears completion. His many friends in this village are hastening to congratulate him upon his opportunity. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Benoit, formerly of Terrace avenue, Taftville.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Crowe of South A street have returned from a ten days' motor trip through the province of Quebec, visiting Montreal, Quebec, Ste. Anne de Beaupre, and many other places of interest.

The Ocowasin Camp Fire girls held an outdoor hike, treasure hunt and supper at the Occum road sandbank one evening this week. Miss Edith L. Heap and Miss Dorothy M. Aberg blazed the trail and had charge of the treasure hunt. The fire was attended to by Miss Marjorie McNally, Miss Jean Copeland and Miss Edith Adams. The supper consisted of club sandwiches, chocolate eclaires, coffee and marshmallows and was served by Miss Ruby Houston and Miss Mildred L. Yerrington.

A meeting of the members of St. Veronica's T. A. and B. society was held Wednesday evening at the clubrooms on Providence street. Miss Mary Ward, the president, presided.

President Fred Ince presided at the monthly meeting of the members of the Taftville Social and Football club Monday evening in the clubrooms at the Ponemah house. There was a large attendance. A motion to change one of the by-laws was presented by two of the members and this is to come up at the next meeting. The November meeting will close the club's fiscal year and at that time here is to be an election of officers. There will also be a social time, and the president appointed a committee to attend to refreshments. David Murphy will be chairman of the entertainment committee.

Plans are underway for the fall meetings of the Men's club of the Taftville Congregational church. Notices for the next meeting are to be sent out by the secretary, Robert E. Cooper, in the near future.

BURGLARS GET MONEY FROM CASH REGISTER AT STORE AT YANTIC

Berkman Bros. store at Yantic was burglarized Tuesday night. The break was discovered Wednesday with only a few dollars in change left in the cash register. The Yantic postoffice is located in the store and reports that the postoffice had been burglarized were denied by Mr. Berkman and the postmaster, S. Howard Bishop.

A rear window was used to gain entrance to the store. The lower portion of the window was removed with the aid of a tire iron. The safe, which contained only books, was left open and the books were not touched. Wednesday morning the safe was found locked. Outside of the cash in the drawer nothing was taken. The tire iron was found in front of the safe. It was turned over to the state police who are investigating the break.

The burglary at Yantic bore some marks of similarity to a recent break at the Ideal Service station at 646 Boswell asvnue, which is one of several which has had the local police on the qui vive to catch the perpetrators, but so far without success.

At the service station the only thing taken was a radio set which was ripped loose from its connections and carried away. It is understood that a tire iron was left there, indicating that it was the instrument used to gain entrance to the building.

NINE ARE SUMMONED FOR AUTOMOBILE HEARINGS

Summoned to appear before an inspector of the motor vehicle department at hearings that will be conducted at the court house, New London, on Oct. 10, at 1 p. m., nine are listed whose license status will be determined by the facts produced. Herbert F. Maynard, 22 Viets street, and Mauro Gennaro, 42 Shaw street, are both charged with operating while under the influence of liquor. Peter Albano, 91 Truman street, has been summoned upon a complaint made to the motor vehicle department and Robert B. Coleman, 38 Hill street, is summoned for reckless driving. All these are New London residents.

Others who will appear at the hearing are Edward Harper, Norwich, operating under the influence; Clifford R. Faith, Old Lyme, on a similar charge; John Fernandes, Newport, R. I., for reckless driving and driving while under the influence; John F. McGourty, Mullin hill road, Waterford, to explain an accident and Dominick Lombardo, 123 Liberty street, Westerly, who figured in a fatal accident.

COMPROMISE SETTLEMENT IN COMPENSATION CLAIM

A finding and award by stipulation in the workmen's compensation claim of Joseph Mariano, New London, employee, against Edward S. Harkness, employer, 25 Broadway, New York, has been approved by Commissioner Albert J. Bailey, giving the employe $50.14 in compromise settlement of all claims.

Mariano sustained an injury, spraining his back on February 16, 1927, and was paid compensation at the rate of $13.50 up to July 9. At that time the insurance company on the risk claimed that the disability ceased but Mariano claimed that his disability persisted to Aug. 4, 1927, which was about four weeks more than he had been compensated for. This claim the insurance company denied.

It is stated in the papers that it is understood between the parties that while their respective claims are made in good faith, that the claim is a disputed claim, and that its results, if carried to a formal hearing are doubtful, for which reason the stipulation was made.

BABY COUGHING GAVE FIRE ALARM TO FAMILY

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 5—The two and one half story home of Charles Giordano on South Windham road was completely destroyed by fire of unknown origin shortly before midnight tonight. Members of the family, including six small children, had a narrow escape from the burning building. They were awakened in time to flee from the house by the choking cough of a baby. None of the contents of the house was saved. The garage was also destroyed but not before a Reo truck had been driven out from it.

The building was a stone structure for the first story and and attic. It is located between South Windham road and the Windham Center road opposite the J. W. Fraser nurseries. There is but a small amount of insurance on the loss.

The chemical truck of Engine No. 1 went to the scene which is outside the city limits but nothing could be done to save the building.

HALEY'S SUIT AGAINST GRANITE CO. ON TRIAL

The injunction suit and $25,000 damage action brought by John R. Haley of Center Groton against the Connecticut Granite Co. entered its second day of trial in the superior court at New London Wednesday, before Judge Allyn L. Brown. Attorney Arthur T. Haly claims that the granite concern has had guy wires places upon his property and that refuse and granite ranging "from pebbles to eight or ten ton" pieces have been dumped on his land.

The suit brings up the question as to just where the dividing line between the two properties is. Wiltnesses called thus far were Ernest C. Daboll, civil engineer; John R. Haley; John Guerin, Morris B. Payne, architect; George A. Hastings, John A. Hanninen, John Cotillo, George E. Pitcher, civil engineer; Elmer E. Pitcher and Charles Trentini.

ROCHESTER ROTARIAN LED SONGS AT MEETING

The weekly meeting of the Norwich Rotary club was held at the Wauregan hotel Wednesday noon with an exceptionally large attendance, including many guests. President C. A. The meeting was devoted largely to predictions of the chamber of commerce victory drive and an earnest appeal for last minute support was made by Arthur M. Brown, commander of the corps of vancassers for its budget.

A number of the Rotarians will be at the fall conclave at the Hotel Aspinwall, Lennox, Mass., today (Friday) and Saturday.

SIXTEEN CHURCHES WERE REPRESENTED IN SCHOOL

At the recent meeting of the Norwich Council of Religious Education, a most interesting summary was given of the work done in the comunity church vacation schools during July, 1927. The enrolment showed that the following were in attendance: Baptist children, 89; Congregational, 74; Methodist, 61; Catholic, 42; Episcopal, 14; No church, 7; Greek, 3; Jewish, 3; Seventh Day Adventist, 1. Sixteen different churches were represented in the registration.

The cost at the three schools varied, depending upon the number of salaried teachers necessary, number of children enrolled and materials available from work of a similar nature done by individual churches in previous years. This was the first year that co-operative effort in vacation schools was made.

At the central school, which was held in the United Congregational church, salaries amounted to $70.50, supplies, $44.55, and to offset this, $21.35 was received in contributions.

At the West Side school, held in the First Baptist church, salaries totalled $120, supplies, $47.10, and there was received from sale of articles and contributions, $30.86.

The Norwich Town school was held for two weeks in the Norwich Town Methodist church and two weeks in the Norwich Town Congregational church. Salaries there came to $95, supplies, $36.92, and $21.35 was received from sale and contributions. The total cost of the schools outside of the salary of Miss Helen Spalding, the supervisor, amounted to $396.07, and collections totalled $52.59.

The council feels that this vacation school project was most worthwhile.

SUES ON CLAIM FOR COMMISSION ON SALE

On the claim that he secured a purchaser for the so-called Alling block 86-108 Franklin street, and that there is a commission due him, Angelo Covello, a real estate agent, has brought suit in the superior court for $2,000 damages against Phillip J. Hendel of New London, Louis Alexander of Hartford and Morris Silverstein of Westerly, R. I.

Covello claims that on or about Sept. 28, 1927, he was engaged by the defendants to procure for them a customer for their property at 86-108 Franklin street, Norwich, for the sum of $50,000 and agreed to pay therefore a commission of 3 per cent. for the same.

Covello sets forth that on Sept. 30 he procured one, Nicholas Mooney, who was ready, able and willing to purchase the property for $50,000.

When Covello demanded of the defendants a commission of $1500 on account of procuring a customer for the purchase of the property, the defendants refused to pay him, it is alleged.

MOTHER
A Cross, Sick Child is Constipated!
Look at Tongue

No matter what ails your child, a gentle, thorough laxative should always be the first treatment given.

If your little one is out-of-sorts, half-sick, isn't resting, eating and acting naturally—look, Mother! see if tongue is coated. This is a sure sign that the little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with waste. When cross, irritable, feverish, stomach sour, breath bad or has stomach-ache, diarrhoea, sore throat, full of cold, give a teaspoonful of "California Fig Syrup," and in a few hours all the constipated poison, undigested food and sour bile gently moves out of the little bowels without griping, and you have a well, playful child again.

Mothers can rest easy after giving this harmless, "fruity laxative" because it never fails to cleanse the little one's liver and bowels and sweeten the stomach and they dearly love its pleasant taste. Full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups printed on each bottle.

Beware of counterfeit fig syrups.

Ask your druggist for a bottle of "California Fig Syrup;" then see that it is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company."

Officer in Hotel Corporation

F. L. Furness of Westerly is one of the vice presidents of the company composed of twenty-three New England hotel men who have just bought Templeton Inn at Boston and will operate it. Arthur L. Race of the Copley Plaza hotel, Boston, is president of the company.

KEEP LOOKING YOUNG

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's no need of having a sallow complexion—dark rings under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c and 60c.

MRS. BUDLONG AS COUNSEL TESTS COURT'S PATIENCE

Judge Carpenter Admonished Mrs. Budlong, Who Acted as Her Own Counsel in Divorce Action Instituted by Her Husband, That He Was Not Going to Sit There Forever —Rebuff Was Provoked by Mrs. Budlong's Exhaustive Cross-Examination of Her Husband, Milton J. Budlong, in Court at Newport.

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 6—(AP)—Clashes between Mrs. Jessie Margaret Budlong, who acted as her own counsel, and Judge Irving L. Carpenter, presiding at the divorce action instituted by Milton J. Budlong of New York and Newport, featured the afternoon session of the trial today. The court intervened several times in Mrs. Budlong's searching cross-examination of her husband, and at 5 o'clock when adjournment was taken, informed her that she should complete her questioning in half an hour.

"You're not making any headway," the judge remarked.

"Isn't your mind open to anything I'm saying?" Mrs. Budlong retorted.

"You've been going since 2:30," said the judge. "I'm not going to sit here forever. This case has got to be finished some time."

When Mr. Budlong finished his direct testimony his wife questioned him at length on his financial affairs. Remarking that the petitioner's financial condition was not now an issue in the case, Judge Carpenter ruled that Mrs. Budlong must confine herself to a three year period from 1920 to 1923 to which her husband had testified.

Later in the cross-examination, when Mrs. Budlong was quizzing her husband as to his alleged poor health, the judge remarked that if his wife had brought charges against him similar to those made by Mrs. Budlong he would feel "monstrous."

"You're a judge now, not a man," Mrs. Budlong said.

"I hope I am a man still," the judge answered. "I also strive to remember that you are a wife and a mother."

Judge Carpenter told Mrs. Budlong that her affairs had been given too much publicity, but she disclaimed responsibility and said she could prove that her charges had not caused her husband "pain and suffering."

The divorce is sought on grounds of extreme cruelty.

During his direct examination Mr. Budlong was permitted to amend his petition to ask for the custody of his two minor sons. Mrs. Budlong objected to the amendment.

The petitioner testified that the trouble between his wife and himself arose over the question of money and over Mrs. Budlong's social ambitions. He said that between 1920 and 1923 he had spent approximately $142,000 over his income in an effort to "keep the family together." He said that his wife had persisted that he had a large sum of money and demanded that he establish for her a trust fund of $100,000 and also give her the deeds to the Reefs, their Newport estate.

He repeated former testimony that Mrs. Budlong was inspired by social aspirations. At her request, he said, he had purchased the Newport property in 1923. At that time, he testified, Mrs. Budlong admitted that she had been wrong in the past but declared she would avoid such conduct in the future. Her former attitude soon was resumed, the petitioner said.

WIFE SLAIN BY THE "KING OF BOOTLEGGERS"

CINCINNATI, Olo, Oct., 6—(AP)—George Remus, once known as "The King of Bootleggers,' tonight was held in jail without bond on a first degree murder charge following the shooting to death today of his wife, Imogene, in Lincoln park here.

A divorce suit filed a few days before Remus was released from the Atlanta penitentiary in 1925 was to have received a definite hearing today after it had been delayed by repeated continuances.

This sudden, tragic and unexpected termination by Remus of action in the divorce suit was accompanied by another unexpected move by the former alleged bootleg king tonight when he announced he would act as his own attorney when brought to trial on the first degree murder charge.

Remus made the announcement at police headquarters tonight where he received newspaper reporters following an examination as to his sanity. He formerly practiced law in Chicago.

The one time acknowledged ruler of bootleggers preferred to stand trial acting as his own counsel rather than accept services of nationally known criminal lawyers. Remus said he received a number of telegrams today from such lawyers volunteering their services.

He will be taken to police court tomorrow to answer the murder charge. To forestall an insanity plea County Prosecutor Charles P. Taft late today ordered Dr. W. C. Kendig, Hamilton County (Ohio) alienist, to interview Remus and form his own conclusions regarding whether Remus was insane at the time of the killing.

SIMPLE, PRIVATE BURIAL FOR JOHN W. WEEKS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6—(AP)—Simple and entirely private services marked the burial today in Arlington National cemetery of the body of John W. Weeks, former secretary of war. Only the members of Mr. Weeks' immediate family were present. The committal service was read by Col. John T. Axton, chief chaplain of the army.

Plans for the interment were kept confidential at the wish of Mrs. Weeks. The site of his grave was selected and the plot set aside in Arlington cemetery for the members of his class, 1881, at the Naval Academy. A memorial in New England granite has been placed at the head of the grave.

Mr. Weeks died in Boston in July 1926, and the body was in a cemetery in Boston until today. In addition to Mrs. Weeks, those at the services were Mr. and Mrs. Sinclair Weeks and Mr. and Mrs. John W. Gavidge.

LEGIONNAIRES RETURN ON LINER MARTHA WASHINGTON

BOSTON, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Three hundred legionnaires returned here today on the Italian liner Martha Washington from a general tour of Europe following their attendance at the American Legion convention in Paris. The liner made a special stop to pick up returning veterans at Marseilles on their way from Trieste and Naples.

The legionnaires, all of them from greater Boston, said that they were treated hospitably everywhere and experienced slight trouble only in Algeria, where there was hissing and booing by Sacco Vanzetti sympathizers.

FORMER DIVORCE MILL OPERATOR WAS FINED $1,000

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Gordon W. Disharoon, erstwhile Yucatan divorce mill operator, today paid the fine of $1,000 imposed upon him last week by Federal Judge Dickinson in the U. S. district court. Judge Dickinson gave Disharoon one week in which to raise the money rather than send him to jail in default.

Disharoon had entered a plea of nolo contendere to a charge of using the mails to defraud in pleading for clemency. He was characterized as a "fool" by his lawyer for operating the divorce mill which he conceived after he had obtained one of the Mexican divorces from his wife."

TORONTO MAN LOSES $8,000 TO STOCK SWINDLERS

BOSTON, Oct. 6—(AP)—William J. C. Wilson, who said he was head of the Wilson Stationery & Printing company of Toronto, complained to the police today that he had been swindled out of $8,000 by two men who had induced him to give them the money for investment in stocks. He said he met the men, one of whom gave the name of W. C. Hart and introduced the other as "my friend Williams," in Atlantic City.

After they had persuaded him that they could make money for him in the stock market he returned to Toronto, where he got the $8,000.

He came here yesterday with Reginald Warner of Toronto and met the two men at a hotel by appointment. Williams went out and on his return said he had bought some gilt edge stock for all three which a bank was holding for the final cash payment.

Then Hart went out with the money and later came back and said he had sold the stock at a good profit. Williams pretended to be angry at this and offered to take Warner to the stock exchange to try to have the sale cancelled. They went to a building which Warner later learned was not the stock exchange and Williams entered while a pretended doorman refused Warner admission.

Becoming suspicious, Warner returned to the hotel. He found Wilson waiting but Hart had disappeared. Then the two notified the police.

JUGOSLAVS AROUSED BY MURDER OF KOVACHEVITCH

BELGRADE, Jugoslavia, Oct. 6—(AP)—Aroused over the murder of Brigadier General Kovachevitch at Istip, today the Jugoslavs are demanding that the strongest measures be taken against Bulgaria. General Kovachevitch was shot down from behind and his assassins made their escape from the scene, but General Hazitch, in command of the border troops, reported tonight that two of the murderers had been captured.

Two ministerial councils were held in the course of the day and decided to proclaim martial law in the district contiguous to Bulgaria. In the meantime a note couched in peremptory language has been prepared for dispatch to Bulgaria, demanding guarantees for the future and satisfaction for the past misdeeds of the comitadjis (irregulars).

General Kovachevitch, who lived at the end of a narrow lane, had just arrived at the door of his home accompanied by a priest and a friend named Jewremovitch when three shots were fired. One missed its mark, the second pierced the general's head and the third embedded itself in his heart, killing the general on the spot.

The general was one of Serbia's most noted soldiers. He founded a troop of legionnaries during the war for service abroad. In 1903 he participated in the revolt in which King Alexander and Queen Braga of Servia were assassinated. He also fought in the Turkish Bulgarian wars and was in prison. He had been in command of the 21st infantry regiment at Skoplje lately.

WHOLESALE MURDER IN THE SOLOMON ISLANDS

SUVA, Fiji Islands, Oct. 6—(AP)—A tale of wholesale murder in the Solomon Islands, some of the victims being white men and British officials, reached here today.

The British high commissioner for the western Pacific received wireless dispatch from Tulaci, Solomon Islands, saying that a trader had arrived there aboard the British steamer Auk and reported that District Commissioner Bell, Cadet Lillies, 15 native police and the crew of the vessel had ben murdered by natives at Sinarago on the northeast coast of Malaita Island at a date unmentioned.

The boatswain of the Auk and four wounded policemen are the only survivors of the massacre. Bell and Lillies were buried at Kwai. The only Europeans in the vicinity are Mr. and Mrs. Andrew, in charge of a Seventh-day Adventist mission. They have a vessel at their disposal and can easily proceed to Kwai, if necessary, where the South Sea Evangelical mission is located. No anxiety is felt for their safety.

This is the most serious attack on white men ever reported in the Solomon group and it is the first time government officials have ever been killed.

The Solomons are a small group of islands belonging to Great Britain and situated approximately 900 miles east of Australia.

There are about 80 Europeans in the islands. The total population is estimated at 150,000, composed of Malays and Papuan.

FORMERLY WEALTHY, NOW UNABLE TO PAY HOTEL BILL

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Jan Boris, 21, who police said married a wealthy widow of 50 in Boston six years ago, was arrested tonight, charged with being unable to pay a hotel bill of 338.82.

The complaint was made by the management of the hotel Biltmore, where Boris registered September 25 with his wife, whose former name authorities said was Higgins.

Arraigned in night court, Boris pleaded guilty to the charge and was held for trial in special sessions.

Mrs. Clara N. Boris, a pale, slender woman, appeared at the side of her youthful husband when he was arraigned but said nothing during the entire proceedings.

In explaining the case to the magistrate a representative of the hotel said that in spite of the fact that the couple had been able during the past 10 days to patronize the most expensive amusements along Broadway he found them so destitute on his investigation that he gave Mrs. Boris $2 with which to go to A. Y. W. C. A., hotel.

BEACON FALLS, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Discovery of a "ring" of pig thieves was made by the local police this week, following complaints filed by William Oldakoski, operator of a farm on Blackberry hill, who reported that four of his choice "porkers" had disappeared in a mysterious manner.

Authorities immediately set to work on the case and as a result three men were shortly arrested charged with theft of the grunting gentry. The men, Arthur Norton, of Bethany, Frank Russell, a neighbor of Oldakoski's and John Heroux, of Aansonia, were arraigned in local court today and all pleaded guilty being released on payment of small fines. All but one of the four pigs have been accounted for, the single missing porker having been traded for a quart of wine and a pint of "moon" according to a story related to the police.

Louis was said to have been paid the money in a Worcester hotel for advance information on a raid which was made on a large still in Leominster. The government charged that this tip enabled the operators to partly dismantle the still so that it was not in operation when the raid was carried

Rules Governing the Sale of Milk

Municipalities May Not Go Further Than the State in Matter of Regulations.

HARTFORD, Oct. 6—(AP)—Municipalities may not go further than the state in the matter of regulations governing the sale of milk, according to an opinion which Attorney Averill, deputy attorney general, has given to Stanley [illegible], state commissioner of health. The opinion, if sustained in a suit to test the validity of local milk ordinances, means that the regulations now in force in nearly all the cities of the state including Hartford, and in many of the towns are null and void.

The question arose with the submission to the health commissioner, for approval in accordance with section 2402 of the general statutes of proposed milk regulations for Beacon Falls, and similar regulations for Plainville, Southington and Manchester. Mr. Averill points out that in Manchester the regulations are proposed by the board of health, acting under a special charter provision, while in the other three towns, the health officers are acting under the general law. He discusses the two situations separately, first reviewing the proposed Beacon Falls ordinances which include a provision which bears the sale of all milk except that from tuberculin tested cows, like that in the ordinance now pending in Hartford.

Mr. Averill, in his opinion, holds that a health officer's power to issue orders for law enforcement depends on necessity for justification and requires at least 'seemingly extreme cases," according to a supreme court decision. The proposed regulations, Mr. Averill holds, are not the exercise of police power in an emergency, but a usurpation by an administrative officer of the executive branch of a purely legislative power.

While the state, under the Connecticut system of government, may delegate its legislative powers to a municipal sub-division, a health officer does not meet this definition of a residuary for legislative power, the opinion sets forth. Raising the question of adequate public health protection, Mr. Averill gives numerous citations of public health statutes having to do with milk, its production and sale, and concludes that the state has made adequate provision to protect the health of its citizens.

For day work the miners will receive $7.50 per day, the rate prevailing before April 1, last. On tonnage, the rate will range from $1.25 to $2 per ton.

WAGING FIGHT AGAINST HER DIVORCED HUSBAND

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 6—(AP)—Mrs. Miriam Noel Wright carried her "fight" against her divorced husband, Frank Lloyd Wright, to the state capitol today.

Demanding of Gov. Fred R. Zimmerman that he oust District Attorney C. H. Knudson of Iowa county because of the latter's refusal to prosecute Wright on statutory charges, the governor advised her to draw up a formal complaint against the Iowa county official. She asserted she would have a complaint ready for presentation tomorrow.

Mrs. Wright contends that her former husband is living at his estate, Taliisien, with Olga Milanoff, whom she alleged is the mother of his child.

Meanwhile Mrs. Wright is attempting to find means of raising enough money to insure her continued liberty on bail from the federal charge of misuse of the mails lodged against her yesterday.

Bail was fixed at $500 by Chauncey E. Blake, United States court commissioner today, but the commissioner told her he would be forced to increase the bond to $2,000 in case she was held to the grand jury after her preliminary hearing, scheduled for Saturday at 10 a. m.

Harold E. Hansen, assistant United States attorney, declared that witnesses would be brought from Baraboo and Spring Green to support the government's case.

It was expected one would be Wright himself, inasmuch as the obscene letter is believed to have been addressed to the architect.

PERSONNEL OF STATE DEPARTMENTS REDUCED

HARTFORD, Oct. 6.—(AP)— Four state departments reduced their personnel after questionnaires requiring a detailed description of the duties of each employe had been sent out by the state board of finance and control.

This was revealed today by Edward F. Hall, commissioner of control and finance, when he was asked of the returns made to him on the questionnaires had shown any of the departments to be overmanned. He had not found, through the returns made on the questionnaires, that any state department had surplus personnel on its payroll, Commissioner Hall said today.

Commissioner Hall made it very clear that he had conducted no investigation of the reason for the reductions in personnel, amounting to one or two employes in each case. Commissioner Hall said that the reductions might have been brought about by the discharge of temporary help. He declined to name the departments in which the reductions had been made.

Practically all the departments have made their returns on the questionnaires, Commissioner Hall said, making available for the state board of finance and control information regarding the personnel in state employment such as is secured by all large private corporations. While some compilations will be made from the returns, he said, the data secured by the survey will be primarily for reference in the future.

BEACH IN SOLITARY CONFINEMENT AS JURY SITS IN LILLIENDAHL MURDER

MAYS LANDING, N. J., Oct. 6—(AP)—Willis Beach, Hammonton poultryman and alleged admirer of Mrs. Margaret Lilliendahl, was in solitary confinement at the county jail and Mrs. Lilliendahl was sitting in the witness room of the Atlantic county grand jury tonight as the body continued its session into the night in an attempt to finish evidence concerning the mysterious slaying of Dr. A. William Lilliendahl near Hammonton, N. J., three weeks ago today.

Mrs. Lilliendahl came from her South Vineland home where she had been living since being released under a $25,000 bond, as a material witness in the case. Beach came from nobody knows where early today after having been missing for nine days. He was at liberty under a $5,000 bond also as a material witness when he disappeared and when he surrendered today he was placed in jail on a charge of "aiding and abetting the murder." Police would allow no one to see him, not even his attorney, Edison Hedges, who surrendered him to the authorities on the Weymouth road.

Mr. Hedge said late today that "in his opinion" Beach "had been hiding near Mays Landing. In fact it is my opinion that he was in an old glass factory nine blocks from where the grand jury is now sitting."

Beach today faced three men, William Driver of Hamilton Square; James A. Grant, of Slackwood, N. J., and Paul Eldridge of Morrisville, Pa., who had told police they had seen a car such as Beach owned leave the lane in which the aged physician's body was found. Driver said that he told the grand jury later in the day that while Beach resembled the man driving the coupe he saw he was unable to make a positive identification.

Thirteen witnesses had been examined when Captain Frank Harrold of the Atlantic county police announced that the jury had finished for the day. A half hour later it was learned that the jury had decided to finish the case and make a presentment to Judge William Smaters tomorrow morning when he convenes criminal court here.

Dispatches to the American border announce that the Mexican treasury had called upon fiscal agents throughout the republic to transfer available funds to the capital to meet the increased expenses of military operations.

Mexican naval vessels at Vera Cruz prepared yesterday to depart on an unannounced mission.

Railroad rolling stock has been concentrated around Vera Cruz, for use of the federal military in operations toward Orizaba, indicating a few focal points of unrest there, and disruption of traffic on the Mexican railway has been heightened by the incursion of a rebel group at Pasjo and Nacho.

The fate of General Arnulfo Gomez, chief of the rebels since the execution of General Francisco Serrano, remains undetermined definitely, but all reports indicated that he still was in the field.

General Arnulfo Gomez and General Almada, former commander of the Mexico City garrison, are reported to have joined forces—estimated at about 1,500 men—near Perote in the state of Vera Cruz. Much larger forces of government troops are advancing upon them. An engagement is expected at any moment.

In the published statements of the Mexican government, the Gomez and Almada rebels are the only considerable bodies in revolt, although other reports indicate revolutionary movements of more or less importance in half a dozen states.

Perote is not far from Jalapa, from which the government employes were evacuated to the port of Vera Cruz a day or two ago.

REVOLUTION IN MEXICO GROWING AND SPREADING

NOGALES, Ariz. Oct. 6.—(AP)—The Nogales Herald says advices tonight from various sections of Mexico indicate the revolution, instead of being crushed under scores of firing squad executions, is growing and spreading.

One report chronicled stiff fighting yesterday almost within sight of the capital when federal troops and revolutionists clashed at Texcoco. Government bombing planes took a hand in the battle, the result of which was not given.

The Herald says four more states today were indicated as having flared up in protest against the movement to elect Former President Alvaro Obregon as successor to President Calles. These states were Chihuahua, Coahuila, San Luis Potosi, and Durango, making 13 listed as more or less aflame against the government.

The veteran rebel leader Nicolas Fernandez, was reported loose in Northern Chihuahua at the head of a nucleus of 200 well armed and mounted troopers. Generals Zepeda and Ricaud were said to be leading a large following against the federal troops in San Luis Potosi, far to the south.

In Cuernavaca, Generals Humberto Barros, Mier and Teran were declared to have taken the field with considerable forces, their battle cry being "down with the re-electionists," which term is applied to the followers of Obregon.

Summary court-martial and swift execution of enemies of the government continue, advices assert. In the state of Morelos, General Vicente Gonzales and 18 members of the state legislature died before firing squads today.

Several executions were reported from Torreon in the State of Durango, where the federal commander, General Jose San Martin, crushed a mutiny in the sixteenth regiment.

The federal government, according to advices received here, is marshalling its forces, military and financial, to meet the crisis, and has instructed all treasury representatives throughout the republic to rush every available dollar to the capital for use in combating the revolution.

SOBRIETY AT WESLEYAN UP TO FRATERNITIES

MIDDLETONW, Conn., Oct. 6.—(AP)—The maintenance of sobriety at Wesleyan dances has been placed by the student senate squarely upon the shoulders of the fraternities.

New regulations, approved by the faculty, to go into effect for the fall dances October 28-29, provide that each fraternity shall be responsible for conditions at its dance, and will be expected to report to college authorities any violations of the rules as to the use of liquor.

Any fraternity whose dance is considered objectionable may be deprived of the the privilege of participating in the next dance period, and members of the offending fraternity will be forbidden to attend the parties held at other houses at that time. Wesleyan chapters of nationals, if they lose in this manner of holding a party, are to notify other chapters of the fraternity, requesting their members to come here for the occasion and stating the reason.

CHARMED WITH FLIGHT EVEN FALL INTO THE SEA

LISBON, Portugal, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Lily Dillenz, noted Austrian actress, who is a passenger on the air voyage of the Junkers hydro airplane D-1230, and stuck by the ship when it dropped into the sea off Santa Cruz, said tonight that she was "charmed" with the flight thus far, and means to be the first woman to cross the Atlantic.

The D-1230 was towed today to the entrance of the Bay of Tagus and then flew to the naval aviation camp here. Pilots and passengers were in good spirits and unhurt. Mme. Dillenz said she was longing to see New York and undertook the journey from sheer love of flying. She also wanted to bring the name of Austria again before the world.

Weather permitting, the Junkers plane will start for the Azores tomorrow, bound for Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, and thence to New York.

A. F. OF L. ANTAGONISTIC TO COMMUNISTIC POLICIES

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Communism was stamped under foot and tossed out of the convention hall of the American Federation of Labor here today. "My friends, the American Federation of Labor will accept no dictation from Moscow, we will not compromise with communism or communistic philosophy.

"We will not listen to the call of any siren; we will not experiment with the lives of workingmen and women in something which found birth in class hatred in a country ruled by dictators for centuries."

NOANK

The Fire Co. held its meeting recently in the rooms on Cedar street, with Foreman Albert Banks in the chair. It was voted to put in a new hearter, for the place is some cold in winter time. The members also talked over putting in a shower bath, by adding an extra room on the building so the smoke eaters can have its use after a hard fought fire. Several of the young men are trying to bring back some of the old members, for the old spirit of the Fire company has disappeared. About ten years ago every Saturday night a smoker was held, with boxing matches and a famous fish chowder would be served to 150.

In the gray building, card teams are being formed, also pool matches with different company's out of town. It was a real old fashioned meeting, lasting for three hours. Then Steward Edgar Ashly gave his brother members a Dinty Moore snack of cocoa and cookies. Then everybody sang "Can we get them back together again?" a song composed by William Crowell; Bernard Carson was at the piano.

The Golden Rod club threw open its doors to its room on East Main street when the six tube radio was set going. At the radio was Howard Brown, working it for the world series game between Pittsburgh and the Yankees. Wednesday afternoon the room was crowded and before the game got started a queer bet was made by Mike Passi and Rolin Rathbun. Passi said that Babe Ruth would not make a home run in Pittsburgh during the series. Rathbun said he would; and if Ruth hit one Passi would have to roll a peanut from the waiting room to the town clock while a crowd looked on. If Ruth fails Rathbun will have to walk to New London carring a sign on his back "I lost my bet." The crowd was pulling for the Yankees to win and some cheering was done. During the game no one could see across the room; there was so much smoke it looked like a foggy day at Fishers Island. When the good news came that the Yankees had won, the crowd went wild. Leo MacGrath told play by play to everybody. Sandwiches with fruit punch were served The fans were told to come every afternoon and hear the game announced.

He has nick named the car "Betty" which fact he claimed has brought him good luck. The engine never has failed to start. While working at the Ship and Engine Co. plant, in Groton some of his friends played a joke on him for they had heard so much about the car; his gasoline line was shut off and when it was time to quit at night Mallett tried to get his car started but it would not go. After working on it for two and a half hours he gave up until a night man said "How is your gas line?" He soon found out that the joke was on him and took it like a good sport.

TWO HOMES MADE HAPPY

By Women Who Used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and I think it is the most wonderful medicine I ever tried," is the statement made by Mrs. Goldie Shoup of St. Joseph, Illinois. She declares that after taking the Compound she is in better health than before.

Mrs. J. Storms of 29 Lane Street, Paterson, N. J., writes: "I can not speak too highly of your medicine and I recommend it to all my friends."

These statements were taken from two enthusiastic letters which tell of the help that has been received from using the Vegetable Compound. Both Mrs. Shoup and Mrs. Storms were in a run-down condition which caused them much unhappiness. When women are suffering from lack of strength and from weakness, their own life and that of their family is affected. When they feel well and strong and are able to do their housework easily, happy homes are the result.

Bite yourself an Alphabet

A Pretzeleer can bite in any station

You know how it is. The battery is all tired out. And static is sticky. And you can't tune the soprano out and the prize fight in. But why worry? Be a pretzeleer. Get yourself a plate of O-So-Guds and bite your own station. Like this:

An expert tooth dialer can bite in any station from Maine to California—bite it in, and eat it out.

And any pretzeleer will be glad to broadcast this: O-So-Gud Pretzels are good to eat—crisp, crunchy, salty.

Eat them at any meal. They give zest to soup, zip to salad and both zip and zest to sweet desserts. You absolutely need them with the clinking glass of something cool to drink.

Children like pretzels between meals. That's good. Who says so? Doctors say so? O-So-Guds are very easy to digest.

O-So-Gud Pretzels are worth their weight in pretzels. Many folks think they're worth more. It's because they're made by the Uneeda Bakers.

O-SO-GUD PRETZELS

Such knots. Such curves. Such saltiness. Such tastiness. Such pretzels.

Pretzels do not have to be best to be good. Get a package of Slim Jims and see.

DANIELSON

DANIELSON LISTS ITS PROPERTY CAUTIOUSLY

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 6.—Is there anyone hereabouts who would buy the town hall building for $25,500. It's the largest brick structure, other than a manufacturing plant in Danielson. It's four stories in height on the Main street frontage, extends back some 200 feet is fully rented, excepting for quarters occupied by town officials, and in good repair generally. The location is as good as any in the borough.

Well, the building isn't for sale, but putting it in that way is a means of calling attention to the fact that this fine building appears in the town's inventory of assets at $58,500, and is an indication of the conservativeness with which the town's property holdings are listed.

The town hall building, at the price quoted, would sell within fifteen minutes after it was offered to more prospective buyers than one could crowd into a New England bus. As a matter of fact, there is not a contractor in the country that would undertake to replace it today for $150,000.

All of which recalls that the town purchased it some twenty years ago for $20,000, and only after a series of special town meetings that would list as long as one's arm and involved a controversy over having the town building at Dayville. There was opposition that declared on high that the town hall building at $20,000, was a white elephant for the town to assume, and many of those who protested really believed it. There were others, a majority, who thought otherwise, and they point with pride today at their good judgment.

It was pointed out recently in this column, in a discussion of town affairs, a town does not liquidate and go out of business. If such things did happen and the town hall building were put up at forced sale the chances are it would bring double the price it is inventoried at today in the list of the town's assets.

The inventory list shows the present high school building at $250,000, which is at least $100,000 less than its replacement cost, and all other school buildings in the town at $107,000. The total operating plant and equipment of the town lists in this inventory at $419,759. As against this the town has a total current liability of $355,436.51.

So Killingly is not so badly off, everything considered. The town is young yet, just under 226 years old, and has a long and honorable future to contemplate. Its last grand list was in the neighborhood of $7,000,000. For years past the grand list total has gained each year, and with constant construction going on there is the likelihood that it will continue to do so.

Killingly has been particularly fortunate in its industrial status during a period of several years of general depression in the textile activities of New England. It continues to enjoy that distinction. It has prospered and grown while some of New England's larger textile centers have been seriously afflicted industrially.

Considering all of these things, it likely will be of keen interest to its citizens to know that the town hall building is inventoried at such a low price. It is in line, this conservativeness, with Killingly's policy of not bidding itself about its financial standing.

Recently mention was made in the Danielson column that chestnut burrs had been found on a farm in Brooklyn and that scores of thousands of young chestnut trees are thriving in this territory. Now comes the information that cherry trees also appear to be coming back in sections of this territory, where such trees have been as scarce as hen's teeth for nearly a generation. A cheery tree still is to be found here and there in Killingly and other nearby towns, but they are not plentiful. The new growths appear promising, especially those that have been set out within the past five years and given proper care.

The annual report of Dr. W. H. Judson as health officer of the town of Killingly is very brief, but unusually interesting. Here it is: During September, 1926, a boy visited a nearby city in a house where there was a case of measles. The next day he attended school in Killingly and infected the entire school. There were over 200 cases reported and many more that were not reported. There were few cases of diphtheria and septic sore throat. There were no typhoid cases. Eighteen cases of scarlet fever. Nuisances complained of very few.

All of which concisely indicates that Killingly is a healthful town.

Incident to this particular period of the year, when town affairs are to be forefront, it is interesting to note the official comment that the item of transportation is one of the large single items in the cost of schools. There seems, however, no satisfactory way of reducing the cost—rather, it is slowly increasing. Pupils of the Tucker and Sparks district schools have been transported to East Killingly, pupils from Mashentuck, Horse Hill, the Warren district and pupils of grades 7 and 8 at South Killingly to the Danielson school. From the Dark Lantern district transportation has been provided at South Killingly. From Ballouville, upper grade pupils have been transported to Attawaugan. Due to overcrowded conditions at Goodyear last year, it was decided, during the winter, to transport all eighth grade pupils to the junior high school at Danielson, this arrangement beginning in January. Transportation is also provided, by bus, or otherwise, for pupils of outlying districts that attended the high school. Likewise, the state and town jointly provide transportation for children of the town of Killingly to the State Trade school at Putnam.

At the Congregational parsonage in Goodyear, Tuesday evening, Grace Evelyn Hill and Andrew Tracy Wilbur of Dayville were united in marriage by Rev. Charles A. Downs.

Walter A. Musgrave has returned from California, where he has been attending an institute of accountants.

Christopher Andrews of Cambridge, formerly a resident here, returned to his home today after a visit with relatives and friends here.

Friends here have received from Sheriff and Mrs. Charles E. Ayer, visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Ira A. McDaniel at Cedartown, Ga., souvenirs of that section of the south.

It has been figured out up at East Killingly, where town politics are taken very seriously, that 32 per cent. ofthe voters registered in that section participated in Monday's election, a much heavier percentage of vote than was polled in any other section of the town.

The contractor stated this afternoon that the laying of tile at the new Dowe building will begin on Friday. It is planned to have the lower floor of this building ready for occupancy December 15.

Howard A. Sackerman of Lowell was a visitor with friends in Danielson today.

The body of Byron G. Martin was brought here this afternoon from New Bedford, in charge of Undertaker L. E. Kennedy, and taken to the home of Cabales Martin.

Yesterday's maximum temperature in Danielson was surpassed this afternoon when the mercury ran up to 82 degrees.

Already, now that the town has decided to ask the highway commissioner about a new layout for the Providence-Hartford route through a part of Danielson, of the desire of this or that interest having run here or there, all of which means pleas for the town's committee to listen to.

There continues to be agitation here for more adequate railway express service, which might be obtained, it has been suggested, by the use of gasoline propelled cars such as have been used on the local line at times.

Officers of the fire department are again warning that motorists shall not race apparatus responding to fire alarms, and that unless the practice is stopped arrests will be ordered in an effort to curb it.

Next Wednesday, Columbus day, will not be generally observed as a holiday in Danielson, though the banks in the past have closed on the anniversary.

GAVE UP POSITION IN LABRADOR FUR STATION

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Oct. 6—Mr. and Mrs. B. Haviland and their two children are the guests of Mr. Haviland's sister, Mrs. Haviland of South Woodstock. They recently arrived from Cartwright, Labrador, where Mr. Haviland has been stationed for the past ten years as the agent of large fur dealing corporation. His company in Labrador has recently been taken over by the Hudson Bay company and Mr. Haviland is back from the arctic regions to remain permanently. He had intended, regardless of the merger of the fur bearing business, to make his home in a warmer climate. Mr. and Mrs. Haviland were here two years ago with their two year old daughter and this time they brought with them a second child, born about four months ago. They were, nearly four weeks in making the trip, taking the last boat that left Cartwright until next June.

Before Mr. Haviland went to Labrador, he was employed in New York city in the office of the company which sent him to Labrador and consequently knew the difference between life in the metropolis and a far north fur trading station. While they enjoyed their experience in the far north, both Mr. and Mrs. Haviland thought it best for the children to bring them closer to the advantages in the states.

The Cargill Trust company recently purchased the property next to the church, and which is now occupied by the A. & P. store, for the purpose of erecting a modern bank building, and wished to purchase a triangular section of the church land in order to extend their holdings. Notwithstanding the very generous offer of the Trust company, the sentiment of the meeting was overwhelmingly against selling any part of the church lawn and the vote against the sale was practically unanimous.

JOHN PARISSEAU RESCUED THROUGH WOMAN'S PROMPTNESS

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Oct. 6—John Parisseau, 45, was nearly drowned in the Mill pond near the A. B. Burleson Co., Inc., mill about 7 o'clock tonight. Victor Megrey and Mrs. Bridget Shippee heard cries for help. Mrs. Shippee seized a clothesline and flashlight and with Mr. Magrey, Caster Trobiak and David Labelle, neighbors, ran to the bridge near the mill. With considerable difficulty they located the man in 10 feet of water, keeping his head above the surface by hanging to a branch of a tree on the bank.

With the aid of George Tormey the men finally managed to cast the clothesline to Parisseau and drag him to the shore.

Parisseau, who lives in the Ninigret Village was rushed home and Dr. J. H. McLaughlin was called to attend him. The man was found to be suffering from violent chills and was ordered to bed after receiving treatment.

Parisseau stated that he fell off the steep bank at the top of the flight of stairs and after hitting the water some 25 feet feet below seized the tree branch and shouted for aid. It was dark at the time of the accident which took place at a location apart from the main road and the nearest house.

Parisseau undoubtedly owes his life to Mrs. Shippee, for her thoughtfulness in bringing the line and a flashlight made it possible for the men to locate Parisseau in the darkness and successfully get the clothesline down to him.

CARLESS LETTER WRITERS

Someone is always pointing out the demerits of waste and making an excellent impression by the things they say concerning its prevention. Many good resolutions are made to join hands with others in reducing it but we are surprised as yearly reports come out to learn that has not been accomplished.

The dead letter office at Washington is maintained at large expense for purpose of endeavoring to get to its destination quantities of mail matter which has been badly or incorrectly addressed. It is an expense that might be avoided for the most part of a bit of care was exercised by those who use the mails.

During the past fiscal year it is reported that 25,854,845 letters had to be sent to the dead letter office because they could not be delivered. There was a variety of reasons for this but most of that work could have been avoided if more care had been exercised in writing, in getting correct addresses, or by putting the writer's name and address in the upper left hand corner of the letter. Money to a considerable amount, checks and other valuables were found in the letters, the dead letter office returning them to the sender whenever possible to get his address upon opening them.

There are those who look upon cars as unnecessary, as a tax upon their time which ought not to be asked. There are those who are negligent in addressing mail and consider that postal employes are mind readers and know what person should receive the latter and the city to which it should go whether the right address is attached or not. Others will trust to guesswork or luck to have a letter go as desired and then spend more time in worry or in sending tracers than woula have been required to send a dozen letters and do it right in the first place.

The dead letter office is doing a smashing big business. The demands upon it are constantly increasing and all because of the great American public is too busy or too careless to do for itself what later falls to the force employed trying to get undelivered mail to its destination or its sender.

DANGEROUS DRIVERS

The utter indifference of some users of the highway to the rights or safety of others is well illustrated by the accident near Northampton, Mass., where five girls were injured, one seriously, because of the attempt by a driver to pass a line of cars when there was no chance and his act caused a head-on and a near fatal collision.

There are those drivers who seem to think that they should not be subjected to delays, no matter what their errand is or the condition of the highway. They give no thought to the danger they are imposing upon others, either those they are trying to pass or those who are coming in the other direction and whose right of way they are monopolizing. Their whole ambition is to get ahead even though in so doing it is necessary to crowd out the other fellow.

Apparently those on the Northampton road ahead of the car which attempted to cut in would not be crowded out. There was no chance for the cutter-in to edge into the line of machines. He was caught in a bad position and crashed into a car the driver of which was doing everything possible to avoid him but without success. Too many of the highway accidents today are being caused by just such reckless driving. Too often it is the case that such a driver will escape without trouble but by his acts will cause others to become ditched or collide with other machines in their attempts to escape the effects of his heedlessness and impatience which borders mighty close upon criminal carelessness. That the driver of the car on the Northampton road recognized his guilt was displayed by the fact that he made a cowardly disappearance after the accident.

MORE BILLBOARDS GO

It wasn't long ago that Minnesota was busily engaged in the removal of those signs along the highways which were in conflict with the law. They had been legislated out of existence because they were undesirable and inasmuch as the owners had failed to remove them the right to rip them down was conferred upon the public and it responded with a will.

Now it is in Kansas that similar activity is underway. That state has enacted legislation prohibiting signs of any kind along the highways, except the highway markers, and as the result orders have been issued that all existing signs must come down. This refers to billboards as well as the smaller advertising devices which do so much to mar the attractiveness of the landscape, and is in keeping with a policy which has become more or less popular throughout the country.

Because highways have come into such general use by motorists the roads have become more and more filled with signs of all kinds. As they have increased it has been obvious to all users that they were shutting off some of the delightful views and destroying the natural attractions of the countryside. That there should be an outcry against it was inevitable. The plastering up of signs here, there and everywhere had been overdone and the public rebelled. The people have claimed a right to the scenery without having it commercialized and their point of view is steadily getting recognition.

This doesn't mean that the billboards are not to be found, for while they are legislated out of the highways it is still possible for individuals to lease land for their use, but the number of states where they can no longer encumber the roads is increasing and public sentiment is being displayed in a manner which cannot be mistaken. The demand for the preservation of the opportunity to view an unobstructed countryside is getting deserved attention and at the same time there is a considerable contribution to safety and the elimination of what in many instances constitutes a nuisance.

A MERCHANT MARINE NEED

Before the American merchant marine question is properly settled it is believed that congress must give serious attention to it from the standpoint of new legislation, and interesting support is given to this belief by no less a shipping authority than Robert Dollar.

This American ship owner and operator is already engaged in competition with government operation and foreign shipping and is in a position to know whereof he speaks. Reference is made by him to the mail subsidies which are obtained by shipowners under foreign flags, but he also directs attention to laws which have been enacted in this country which impose burdens upon the carrying trade. He indicates that the law makers may have been well meaning but they were not familiar with shipping conditions and when it comes to certain features of the seaman's act he declares they are injurious to the welfare of the sailors and hard upon the owners of ships.

Then again the American ship owner is obliged to use a different measuring system for his ships which gives them a much greater tonnage than those of other countries for ships of the same capacity and that means larger canal dues and port fees, when such charges have to be met. In addition he points out that American ships cannot be repaired in foreign ports unless they pay a tax of 50 per cent thereon to this government. All these things operate to make it uninteresting for American enterprise to enter as extensively as it otherwise might into owning and operating ships under the American flag.

Mr. Dollar is an ardent believer in the American merchant marine. He considers it is needed as a protection in the event of war but from his statement the greatest encouragement private capital could get would be for congress to remove some of the handicaps that have been imposed and give it a chance to meet the conditions which are more favorable for ship owners in other countries. Mr. Dollar is an authority whose views cannot be wholly ignored.

REPAIR THE LEVEES

In every way it has been a highly valuable service that has been rendered to the stricken people of the flood region through the various agencies that have been at work from the time the distressing conditions became evident.

Large losses have been sustained many lives have been lost and there is undoubted need for the carrying out of plans that will do everything possible to prevent such a disaster being repeated. Fighting the elements is a hard task, so that it involves no easy undertaking. It will call for a large expenditure of funds and it will take time to do the work in a proper manner. That congress will make adequate provision for this when it assembles is to be expected.

In the meantime the chief concern must center on the filling in of the breaks in the levee systems. This involves much work and until it is done any excessive amount of water is going to inundate the land which was previously flooded. The one great handicap at the present time is the lack of funds. The need for haste is to get the work done in advance of the fall rains.

Hope has been expressed that the government can find the means of obtaining the necessary funds. It is realized that none has been provided for this purpose, but that congress should be quick to act upon this need is a foregone conclusion and any funds that are advanced for this emergency purpose would be replaced later. Repairing the breaks before there is any further high water will simply mean the prevention of further loss and greater expense. It is thus to be hoped that the search for available funds will result in early success.

THE MATRIMONIAL HIGHJACKER

If a woman ever wishes for antediluvian days of barbarism so that she might swing something to the right and then to the left, take a whack at her husband and another at a third party, it is when that husband says:

"My dear, why don't you copy Mrs. So and So's style? She's what I call a charmer." But in these days of advanced civilization the wife discards the cudgel and rolling pin and uses her smile and wits instead.

One day such a situation confronted Dot Perkins and came very nearly, in her mind at least, wrecking a comfortable home. A third party is always a bugbear to domestic happiness, but when that person is practically squelch-proof, when she is a distant relative, a widow for the third time, only 30 years old and a woman that men call attractive, the complications border on disaster.

"A person like that," thought Dot, "who has already picked up and discarded three mates and then swoops down on some other woman's private property, is nothing but a matrimonial highjacker." Aloud she said to Bob:

"Why did Fanny long-distance the office?"

"Tried here first," explained Bob.

Dot immediately annexed an icy spirit and a sugar-coated tongue.

"If she's here more than over night I suppose we ought to have a bridge party."

"From what she intimated, I think she'll be here for a week or two," replied Bob. "I hope so, anyway. Fan always was a stunner. It will be a treat for you just to be with her. Sure, go ahead and arrange anything you want to, Twinkles." And this was Bob, who usually kicked at the very first intimation of an evening out or company!

Dot, like a sacrificing angel, waited for the company to arrive.

"Why, my dearest Dot," Fanny's liquid voice rang out. And the next instant Dot was enguifed in a mesh of perfume-scented furbelows.

At dinner Bob and Fanny gushed.

"We're having some couples in for cards tonight," Dot finally managed.

"How odorable." Fanny jumped up from the table. "I'll certainly have to make a change after all the grime and dirt of the train."

"Oh, Dot," she called down the stairs a minute later, "what's the matter with the instantaneous? There's only a spoonful of hot water." Bob overheard Fanny and made a mad rush for the basement.

There were the dinner dishes to dispose of, the salad plates to get out. Before the first guest arrived something happened. Bob found his wife lying in a heap at the foot of the front stairs.

"My goat, Dot," he cried, "what's the matter? Hurt?"

A hysterical sob from Dot, then a groan as Bob tried to pull her to her feet.

"It's my ankle," she moaned.

The doorbell rang. The guests were arriving. Somebody called the doctor. Bob introduced Fanny to the company, and all this time Dot lay curled up on the chair where her husband had placed her.

The doctor arrived.

"A most unusual complication," he pronounced the case. "I'll dress the ankle. We will have to wait until morning and see what develops."

"Fanny, dear, you will have to help me," she told her visitor when it came time for refreshments. "I hope you won't mind. Between you and Bob you can manage."

When the last guest had departed Dot exclaimed: "What about the dishes?"

"My gosh! Come on, Fan, let's stack 'em. I'll wash the darned things if you'll dry them." This from Bob.

"Oh, Bob, I'm simply dead. Let's wait till morning," Fanny yawned.

Morning.

"How's the ankle, Twinkles?" asked Bob.

"Doesn't hurt as long as I don't step on it," Dot replied.

There followed a succession of noises downstairs: the rattling of pans and plates, the jar of a furnace shaker, the clink of milk bottles. After 30 or 40 minutes Bob reappeared in the bedroom doorway.

"Well, I'm off."

"Did you folks get all you wanted to eat?"

"Make it singular. Fan's not up yet. She's evidently not keen on this kitchen stuff."

Bob kissed Dot and departed.

Noon. The telephone bell rang.

"Jumping Jupiter, Dot," Bob was on the other end of the wire, "how did you ever get to the phone?"

"I walked."

"But your ankle—" the perplexed husband interrupted.

"It only needed an adjustment," Dot explained. "It doesn't hut a bit now."

"That's fine. Where's Fan?"

"Gone."

"Gone?"

"Yes," said Dot. "She got some sort of a letter from an attorney or somebody. Important business. Said she had to rush right back on the first train. She left before the doctor came."

"Let the dishes, too, I'll bet a bone," grunted Bob. "Well, bye."

"Bye."

Dot hung up the receiver, looked mischievously at the ankle in question and then kicked the bandage into the next room.

"There," she laughed: "I guess I've routed one matrimonial hi-jacker."—Chicago News.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Today is the 70th birthday anniversary of George P. McLean, who for 15 years has been a United States senator frfom Connecticut. Senator McLean was born on a Connecticut farm, but this fact has been given him no sympathy for the agricultural bloc, whose activities in the senate he has consistently opposed. After graduating from the Harford high school, he sudied law, and later was elected to the legislature. For four years he was federal district attorney for Connecticut, and in 1901 he was elected to the governorship. Upon the conclusion of her term as governor he retired from politics until his election to the United States senate in 1911. Senator McLean is a professed progressive and the most of his political victories in Connecticut have been achieved in the face of bitter opposition from the regular republican organization of that state.

The solution was found in the stomach of the fish, where a number of small stones were found and one large flat stone, so large that no one has been able to figure out how the fish managed to swallow it.

Tommy Tit Is Satisfied

The obstinate will have their way
E'en though they know it doesn't pay.
—Old Mother Nature.

Tommy Tit the Chickadee flew straight over to the dear Old Briarpatch. He made no sound when he arrived. Instead, he used those bright little eyes of his, and none are brighter. He was looking for little Mrs. Peter. Now, Tommy Tit is thoroughly acquainted with the dear Old Briarpatch. He know every nook and corner of it. It didn't take him long to find little Mrs. Peter. She was sitting in her favorite form. A form, you know, is the place where a rabbit or hare is in the habit of sitting for long periods at a time. Tommy took care that she should not knew he was about. He watched her. It never occurred to him that he was spying, but that really was what he was doing.

It didn't take Tommy Tit long to discover that little Mrs. Peter was unhappy. She was very unhappy, indeed. She had lost her appetite. She had no interest in anything. There was a great sadness in her eyes.

"Good morning, Mrs. Peter," said Tommy Tit brightly. "I thought I would make a morning call. How is Peter?"

"I don't know," replied little Mrs. Peter. "Peter isn't here."

"You mean, I suppose that he hasn't come home yet," said Tommy. "It is very careless of him to stay so late."

"He isn't staying late," replied little Mrs. Peter. "He just isn't living in the dear Old Briar-patch any more."

"What!" cried Tommy Tit, pretending to be shocked and greatly surprised. "Do you mean to say that Peter has left the dear Old Briar-patch for good?"

Little Mrs. Peter nodded. "He says that he is tired of living here," said she. "He says he doesn't care for the dear Old Briar-patch any more. He wants to broaden himself by going out and living around in the Great World."

"Oh!" exclaimed Tommy Tit, "so that is the way of it. And why didn't you go with him, my dear?"

"I couldn't," replied little Mrs. Peter. "The dear Old Briar-patch is home. No other place would be, or could be, home. I just have to stay. I wouldn't be happy a minute away from here. I wouldn't feel safe a minute."

"But what makes you think that Peter won't come back?" inquired Tommy Tit.

"Good morning, Mrs. Peter," said Tommy Tit brightly

"Because," replied little Mrs. Peter quite truthfully, "I told him that if he went he needn't come back. You see, he insisted that he was going and that he wasn't coming back. So I told him that he needn't come back."

"I see," said Tommy Tit thoughtfully in that soft little voice of his. "You had a quarrel and now you wish you hadn't."

"How do you know that?" cried little Mrs. Peter, looking up quickly.

"It's true, isn't it?" said Tommy without answering the question.

"Yes, it's true," replied little Mrs. Peter, "but I guess it didn't make any difference. Peter had made up his mind to go, and go he would. After all, I don't know why I should care. I'm sure if he thinks more of the Great World than he does of me I don't want him around. I guess I can manage to get along nicely without him."

WASHINGTON WHITE LEGHORNS BREAK OLD STORRS RECORD

In laying 2,538 eggs in forty-eight weeks, the Hollywood Poultry Farm White Leghorns from Woodinville, Wash., broke a record in the Storrs laying contest that has stood since 1924. In the competition of that year, a pen of the same breed from New Jersey won the contest with a record-breaking score of 2,531 eggs, the greatest number laid by any ten-bird pen in the history of laying trials at Storrs. That record has withstood all attacks until this year, when the heavy-laying Hollywood birds finally passed it last week. They still have three weeks to go, and appear to have an excellent chance of hitting the 2,600-egg mark.

There was a drop of almost four points in egg production during the forty-eighth week, the contest flock laying 4,033 eggs, or at a rate of 41.1 per cent. This is 363 eggs less than last week, but a gain of 523 eggs when compared with the production for the corresponding week a year ago. Up to last Sunday night the contest flock had produced 246,321 eggs, or an average of 1,759 eggs for each of the 140 competing pens. This is an average of approximately 176 eggs per bird.

HOBSON SPEAKS ON DANGERS TO NATION FROM DRINK AND NARCOTICS

America's putting prohibition into her organic law is the greatest event of modern times, declared Captain Richmond Pearson Hobson, famous hero of the Merrimac, in an address on prohibition which he delivered Thursday evening at the Community house in behalf of the Connecticut Temperance and Anti-Saloon league. Capt. Hobson spoke here under the auspices of the Women's Crusade of the W. C. T. U. Thursday evening prayer meetings in the local churches were omitted that the church members might attend the meeting. The attendance was large, practically every seat in the auditorium being filled, many occupying seats in the gallery. Men, women and children comprised the audience. At the close of his address Captain Hobson had cards circulated asking two years subscriptions, on a monthly basis, payable every three months, to further the activities of the Connecticut Temperance and Anti-Saloon league.

Capt. Hobson is the famous naval hero who distinguished himself in 1898, when with seven men he sailed the Merrimac to a position in San Diego harbor and then blew it up in an attempt to bottle up the Spanish fleet. Rev. J. Harlow Graham, pastor of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, was chairman of the meeting which opened at 7:45 o'clock. Rev. Mr. Graham presented Mayor Milo R. Waters, a veteran of the Spanish-American war, who introduced Capt. Hobson to the audience. Captain Hobson's subject touches every man, woman and child, said Mayor Waters. I am privileged tonight to welcome Captain Hobson and to present him to this audience, he declared.

Captain Hobson, whose topic was The Crisis, stated that he has been working for eight years in founding and organizing the International Narcotic Education association and the World Conference on Narcotic Education. He then launched into an attack upon the liquor and narcotic traffic with an avalanche of scientific and chemical facts of the effect of alcohol and drugs on the human system. He told of how thousands of young men and women, mere boys and girls, are trapped by the narcotic traffic and become drug addicts, thus entering The Living Death.

More than half of our prisoners are drug victims and 95 per cent of the drug victims are heroin addicts, he said. He told of the various kinds of alcohol and of the effect of alcohol on the human body. Capt. Hobson gave a number of facts about the condition of America since the adoption of the Volstead act.

He said that in the year before America went dry there were 11 million bank accounts in this country, but that this year there are 46 million bank accounts; that 153 millions of dollars have been spent in the building of new homes, 54 per cent of which comes from the purse-strings of wage-earners; that the churches have added more than five million members since prohibition.

All the nations of the earth are watching America, said the speaker. They will follow after they are convinced of the results.

He declared that every nation on the earth was being poisoned against us; that because of the wealth this nation was acquiring, poor people in other countries were being led to believe that it was from them America was deriving it; that the liquor traffic heads would have America wiped off the earth if they had their way.

Before prohibition, said Captain Hobson, there were 500 great distilleries in this land, turning out 286 millions of gallons of distilled liquor yearly, while there were 12,000 great breweries supplying two billion gallons of beer a year.

"It would take some bootleggers and some home-brewing to furnish even a small fraction of this average," roared the lecturer. Yet today, according to Captain Hobson, this country has the lowest death rate in the world. Today, said the speaker, there are five times as many automobiles sold in this country as in all the other nations of the world put together.

He said that the liquor traffic has invested today throughout the world exactly 20,000 millions of dollars.

"Is it not reasonable to believe that they would spend 10 per cent of this amount to save 90 per cent?" asked Hobson.

He said that five per cent of it would give them a campaign fund of a billion dollars.

Captain Hobson denied that the 18th amendment was "put over" on the people. He said that since the drafting of the constitution, 3,500 amendments had been recommended and yet only nine prevailed. The speaker said that it is not so easy to "put over" anything when it comes to amending the constitution.

The speaker called attention to the fact that the last week in February is to be Narcotic Education week. I must bow in reverence to the W. C. T. U., he said. They were the ones who put in the statutes the law requiring the schools to teach the effects of alcohol. He said he introduced in congress the resolution that led finally to the 18th amendment.

During the course of his remarks Captain Hobson said that no animal can carry more than 1-2 of one per cent of alcohol in its blood and live. He branded alcohol as a racial poison. Alcohol and narcotic drugs are a few of the causes of degeneracy. Succeeding generations of drinkers tend to fill the institutions for the feeble minded. Rome at its beginning enforced prohibition for years. Then drinking came in and that marked the beginning of the downfall of Rome. It is none too soon that one nation of the world has undertaken the task of curing the drink evil.

Referring to the effect of prohibition, Captain Hobson asked, Have you ever seen such a period of good will between employers and employes? Have you ever seen such a period of giving? Everybody is giving. America's putting prohibition into her organic law is the greatest event of modern times, he declared.

After emphasizing the need of organized education as a medium to defeat the liquor and drug interest, Captain Hobson called on everyone in the audience to help the organized education movement.

MORE ROOM FOR INFANTS' QUARTERS AT STATE FARM

In hope of relieving congestion in the infant quarters at the State Farm for Women at Niantic the state board of finance and control in session at Hartford Thursday morning authorized the board of directors of the institution to rent a nearby house for the winter if necessary. The use of this house, it is considered, will suffice to remedy conditions until the new baby building is completed. At the institution it was said that the directors have been seeking relief through the board of finance and control, but had delayed negotiating for a house in the vicinity that is known to be available, pending action by the finance board.

At the present time there are 56 babies at the state farm, house in a frame structure that is large enough to really accommodate only 30. The structure is a converted barn, and in no way adapted for the use to which it is being put. At the last session of the legislature money was appropriated to erect new quarters in which to house the babies and their mothers, but as yet, the contract for the building has not been awarded. The congestion at the institution is daily becoming more serious and it is realized by the members of the board of directors that some action must be immediately taken to relieve the situation before winter sets in.

BEGIN REMODELING AT NORWICH MOOSE HOME

Today the contractors will start the work of remodeling the Moose home on Laurel Hill avenue. An addition is to be erected on the rear of the present building and the main structure straightened out. The roof is to be raised and the lodge room which will be on the second floor will be 54x87 feet. The lower floor will also be remodeled and there will be hardwood floors and metal ceilings in all rooms. The walls will be of hard finish. New lighting fixtures, heating and plumbing will be installed. It is expected that the new building will be ready for use the latter part of November when a large class initiation will mark the opening. Bernard Wunderlich, dictator of the lodge, has been working hard on the project together with the building committee of which John Burns is chairman and Joseph Hastedt secretary.

IDEAL FALL WEATHER PROMISED FOR OCTOBER

The Cloud Digger's circular letter made the following weather predictions for October:

October 1927 is to be a splendid month over a large area, especially all parts of the U. S. A. and Canada. A dry spell that is now well upon us will continue through the month and while we will have some rain, what storms that do come may be hard ones, October will be long remembered by those who keep track of the weather as an ideal fall month.

Towards the last of the month and extending into November there should be quite a display of meteorites or "shooting stars" as most people call them, and the first of the month also late in the month earth tremors along the Pacific coast may be expected.

Those having interests in southern Florida and the sub-tropical islands must look out for one bad storm in the middle of the month. In the great wheat belt all conditions will be exactly as desired by planters of that staple and raisers of winter wheat will remember October as a very friendly and helpful month.

All along the middle west the dry weather will at times be with warm waves. Those who are deeply interested in long distance weather forecasts should read the writings of Herbert Panyrin Browne, Washington, D. C., if for no other reason than to compare them with the day by day weather reports.

The shortness of this letter is due entirely to the fact I see very little change through the month. A "good month" covering the whole story.

(By Alan J. Gould, Associated Press Sports Editor)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 6—(AP)—A tall, sturdy-limbed youth, twirling his first world's series game with the coolness of an Alexander and skill of a Mathewson, tied the Pirates into a variety of bow knots today and pitched the Yankees to their second straight victory.

Just as though he had been doing this sort of thing all his life, George Pipgras stepped into the spotlight glare of baseball's greatest classic, held the slugging Buccaneers to seven hits scattered in as many innings and subdued the National league champions to the decisive tune of 6 to 2.

Behind so brilliant mound work as this the Yankee steam roller didn't need to do much execution. There was no home run force to its drive but it struck twice, in the third and eighth innings, with sufficient power to bring in three runs each time and move the Yankees into a commanding lead as the battle scene shifts tomorrow to the home field of the American league champions in New York.

Vic Aldredge attempted the task of checking the Yankees and putting the Pirates back in the fight but met the same fate as Ray Kremer. Outside of two bad innings the Hoosier schoolmaster did a fairly good job but these two lapses were enough to convince him as well as the Pirate board of strategy that curve balls are not as much poison to the Yankees as they had figured.

While Aldridge was erratic in the box and the Pirates again displaying defensive weaknesses, Pipgras stuck steadily and effectively as neat a pitching job as the world's series has witnessed in some time. Except for the ubiquitous Waner brothers and the stolid but heavy hitting Clyde Barnhart, the Pirate outfield trio, the Yankee twirler had his foes baffled with a clever change of pace and exceptionally good control.

Lloyd Waner tallied both of the Pirate runs. He tripled in the first inning to score on Barnhart's sacrifice hoist and scooted home in the eighth on brother Paul's sacrifice fly after he had walked and raced to third on Barnhart's single.

Outside of these two brief sorties, the Pirate attack was chiefly conspicuous by its absence. The Bucks got no more than one hit in any inning. Outside of the first and eighth they didn't get a runner beyond second base.

George Grantham reached second in the second inning on his single and Joe Harris' out but was stranded by Gooch. Grantham opened the seventh with a rattling double up against the right field wall, barely three feet short of a home run, but Harris was thrown out by Koenig after which Lazzeri broke up the rally by grabbing Gooch's drive and doubling Grantham at second. Traynor also doubled, in the fourth, with one out, but neither Grantham nor Harris had the punch to bring him home.

The eighth inning spurt of the Pirates was punctuated by another, so far, the loudest demonstration in behalf of Kiki Cuyler, "banished" outfielder, when Earl Smith was sent in to bat for Cvengros, the crowd of 42,000, or most of it, yelled for Cuyler in no uncertain terms and let loose a chorus of boos and catcals as Smith bounded weakly to Lou Gehrig.

The Yankees have had a casualty list since the series started but it hasn't affected their play. Tony Lazzeri, who was a doubtful starter today because of a sprained wrist, was brilliant in the field as well as at bat, with two hits and a sacrifice fly. Herb Pennock, hit and painfully hurt over the left knee by a batted ball in practice the day before the series, is so far recovered that he is an alternative choice with Wilcy Moore as a starting pitcher tomorrow.

The Yanks haven't struck their their home run stride but this is about the only feature of their batting attack that has been missing so far. Ruth and Gehrig, big guns yesterday, had a meagre day at bat this afternoon but the other Yankees, especially Koenig, Meusel and Lazzeri, figured heavily in the collective attacks on Aldridge.

Earle Combs, the Kentucky colonel, started the third inning drive with a sharp single to right and raced all the way home on Koenig's single, which Lloyd Waner missed and permitted to roll through him. The Yankee shortstop got to third and scored when Ruth hoisted a towering fly that Lloyd Waner caught back up against he right center stands. Gehrig's double against the right field wall, Meusel's scratch single and Lazzeri's sacrifice fly to Paul Waner produced the third run.

Settling down, Aldridge permitted only two hits, both in the sixth, and no runs through four straight innings but he blew up with a loud report in the eighth. The Yankees batted completely around in this inning and the bases seemed to be full every time the Pirate twirler looked around.

Meusel singled through Grantham to start the final sortie and dashed to third on a pretty hit and run play as Lazzeri poked a single through a wide gap between first and second. Meusel scored on a wild pitch but Lazzeri was thrown out at third on Dugan's bunt to Gooch. Aldridge completed his ascension by walking Bengough and Pipgras, filling the bases.

Cvengros, in a relief role, hit the first batsman to face him, Coombs, and forced in Dugan. Koenig's single brought in Bengough. With the bags still fully populated, the crowd lost sufficient faith in the Pirate cause at this juncture to yell for a homer by Ruth but the Babe's best was a grounder to Grantham, who threw out Pipgras at the plate. Gehrig's bounder to Traynor forced Koenig and ended the carnage.

Where yesterday's Yankee victory was won in a "battle of errors," today's game in a "battle of flies," all twirlers involved forcing 'em to such an extent that the outfielders all told had 23 putouts.

MCGRAW WINS FROM TERRIS ON A FOUL

NEW YORK, Oct. 6—(AP)—Phil McGraw of Detroit won on a foul from Sid Terris, New York lightweight, in the second round of a ten round feature bout at Ebbets field tonight.

The disqualification of Terris came as a great surprise to some 30,000 fans who cheered the New Yorker as the victor until announcement of the foul was made.

Terris was belting McGraw with rights and lefts and had the Detroit boxer reeling when he landed a right to the body that sent McGraw to the resin. Thetimekeeper started counting McGraw out but following an inspection, he was declared victim of a low punch and adjudged the winner.

Writhing with pain, McGraw was carried to his corner by his seconds. McGraw weighed 134, Terris 132 1-2.

Bobby Burns, New York lightweight, won the decision over Jimmy Britt, of California, in their ten round bout. Britt weighed 135; Burns 134. Burns was the aggressor throughout.

Jack Duffy of Toledo, O., was awarded a judges' decision over Frankie Fink of Texas, in a ten round bout. Duffy scaled 132 1-2; Fink 132.

Roberto Roberti, Italian heavyweight, fought a six round draw with Jack Townsend, Harlem Negro. Roberti weighed 220 pounds, Townsend, 194 1-2.

In a four rounder, Hilly Levine, defeated Willie O'Connell. Both are New Yorkers. Levine weighed 122 1-2; O'Connell 119 1-2.

Use of umbrellas in Roman empire days was restricted to men and women of high rank and distinction.

PLAY BY PLAY RETURNS OF SERIES BY MEGAPHONE

As has been the custom for many years The Bulletin will give the public a play by play description of each game of the world's series. A wire direct from the baseball fields in Pittsburgh and New York serves the Bulletin and the action taking place at these fields will be given to Norwich fans by megaphone.

Besides the play by play results there will be descriptive stories by Associated Press sports writers before the game. Carl S. Brandebury will handle the play by play and club house features will be written by E. J. Neil.

The games are scheduled to start at 1:30 o'clock each day except Sunday when the game will begin at 2:01 p. m. The megaphone service will begin about half an hour before game time when pre-game features will be given.

World's Series Sidelights

(By the Associated Press)

Babe Ruth's first strike out of the series, in the opening inning of the second game, was done with the usual Ruthian style. Aldridge's sharp-breaking curves had the Babe guessing. He let one slip by, fouled off another and missed a third while the crowd cheered wildly.

Tony Lazzeri, Yankee second sacker, played the game with a bandaged left wrist, which he sprained in a mix-up with George Grantham in the opening game. There was doubt whether Tony would start the game but once in it, his play did not seem affected by the injury.

Lloyd Waner, in manhandling Koenig's single in the third inning, displayed the same nervousness afield that brother Paul had in the first game, in spite of being taken to task overnight on this score by "Dad" Waner. The father of the two boys, after watching the Yankee sluggers, gave some advice on how to play them. Lloyd atoned for his early mistake by grabbing Combs' long fly on the run in the sixth, with two on base.

Dugan made a remarkable catch of Grantham's foul in the fourth, reaching over the heads of spectators in a field box to grab the ball.

The crowd set up a terrible yell for Cuyler, the "banished", Pirate outfielder, in the eighth inning when Manager Bush, instead, sent in Earl Smith to bat for Cvengros. The yells turned to boos when Smith grounded weakly to Gehrig.

Ruth and Gehrig both had the ideal setting—bases full—for their home run act in the eighth but neither was able to get the ball off the ground or out of the infield. The left handed curves of Cvengros have had a reputation as a "jinx" for Ruth.

The Pirates and the Yankees, each making only five assists, tied the world's series record for fewest chances of this sort. The Yankees set the mark on Oct. 11, 1921.

RECORD CROWD EXPECTED AT SERIES GAME TODAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 6—(AP)—The joy of New York's myriad baseball fans at the second successive victory of their Yanks in the world series today was tempered only by the realization that but 64,000 possibly can jam their way into the Yankee stadium as the scene of battle shifts tomorrow to "the park that Ruth built"

While the stadium's capacity is more than 20,000 greater than that of Forbes field in Pitsburgh, the big arena can accommodate only a fraction of the fans eager to welcome the winning Yanks and their hard fighting Pitsburgh foes.

Thirty thousand seats—10,000 in the upper grandstands and the remainder in the bleachers—were to go on sale at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning at the stadium and some of the ultra-enthusiastic announced the intention of standing in line all night. The 34,000 seats in the lower grandstand which were offered for advance sale have been sold out since last week and countless requests for reservations have had to be denied. The ticket famine was reflected today in the arrest of operators of two Broadway ticket agencies for alleged speculating.

At the stadium, ground keepers applied the final touches to the field and ticket sellers prepared for the rush of purchasers bright and early in the morning. The playing space will be unobstructed by extra seats as none have been installed.

CAPT. EDDY CUT OFF AGGIE TEAM WITH INJURIES

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, Oct. 6—Because of a severe hip injury which has failed to respond to treatment, Captain Willard Eddy of the Connecticut Aggie eleven will in all probability be unable to play against the University of Maine team here Saturday fternoon.

This was the announcement of Coach Louis Alexander here at the close of practice today, an announcement which means Connecticut's chances of victory against the Pine Tree Staters will be greatly reduced if forced to play without the services of the star triple threat halfback.

Eddy first received the injury in the opening game with the Coast Guard Cadets, and the hurt was further aggravated in the Wesleyan encounter last Saturday. It has been impossible for the Aggie captain to take part in any strenuous work this week, and today and yesterday he reported for practice in "civies" and watched practice from the sidelines. Every effort will be made to have Eddy in shape for the hard game expected from the Maine eleven, but present indications are anything but promising.

Ray Ryan of New Haven will probably get the call to start in Eddy's halfback position if the Aggie leader is unable to play. Ryan is only a sophomore, and has yet to be in a starting lineup, yet his work as a reserve back in the Wesleyan game indicates he is real varsity material. Against Maine Ryan wil get an acid test, and this goes for other sophomores who my be in the starting lineup.

Cloudy Weather Predicted

NEW YORK, Oct. 6—(AP)—With the scene shifting from Pittsburgh to New York for the third game of the world series, the weather man tonight prophesided "increasing cloudiness", for tomorrow followed by showers tomorrow night. Saturday will be "partly cloudy" the forecast said with fresh southwest winds.

PIPGRAS GLORIOUSLY RECEIVED BY HIS TEAMMATES AFTER HIS BRILLIANT GAME

(By Edward J. Neil, Associated Press Sports Writer.)

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 6.—(AP)—A big, jovial youngster—the happiest guy in the world—took the "lacing of his life" today after the Pittsburgh Pirates had failed either to dent his composure or the darting righthand slants he tossed their way in the Yankees' second straight world's series victory.

A bit shamefaced, and not quite sure how he was to face the "gang", George Pipgras ambled quietly into the Yankee dressing room after the greatest hurling victory of his rather variegated career. The reception he got swept him into a corner, huddled in a crouch away from the boisterous attack of his teammates.

The Yankees, who had seen him come and go at various times in the past six years and perch on the bench in the fall classic of 1926 while the Cardinals grabbed the championship honors, pounded his back, wrung his hands and hazed him like a college freshman.

On the outside of all the excitement stood Bob Shawkey, A world series starting pitcher himself last season but now a sort of pitching mentor to the youngsters and a finisher rather than starter of games. Reflection of the new glory that had come to Pipgras, fell about Bob also for the tall Minnesotan is Shawkey's protege—the "pride and joy of my declining years."

Happily, Bob told of his work thrugh the season with "Pip" and his conviction that the big right hander is destined to become the best pitcher in the American league.

George has speed to burn and a real hop on his fast one. He has a great curve, too, when he needs to use it but today he just had to stand up there and throw 'em past 'em."

A year ago last spring, Pipgras came up to the Yankees for about the fourth time to renew his acquaintance with Shawkey. Originally, Pipgras caught Huggins' eye while pitching in the Texas league six years ago. A sore arm sent him back to St. Paul in 1926 but this spring he was back again with the ntoule ironed out

"Bob taught me almost everything but how to wear a red 'undershirt,'" Pipgras explained. "He taught me control, puta hop on the fast one and ndded another wrinkle to the curve. Bob changed my pitching movement, too, and that improved my effectiveness a lot.

Butling around to pack and head back to the home grounds at the Yankee stadium for the third clash of the series, the New York clan presented a decided contrast to the Pirates, fighting now with their backs to the wall and pitching aces descredited by two straight losses.

"Looks like a breeze, just a breeze," Babe Ruth bellowed while sucks, shoes and uniforms filled the air heading in the general direction of the club trunks. "Two more games and the series is over."

The Bambino was a bit discomfited at failing to hit safely today or get a homer in the two game stay here, but felt that the familiar reaches of the Yankee stadium would put him back in the distance clouting mood.

There was little talk in the Pirate stronghold as the players dressed quietly and hurried out.

"We've just not hitting," was the general opinion, "but when we do watch out for the same kind of a finish that brought us home in the National league pennant race."

"They're got to beat us twice more," Manager Donie Bush declared. "We'll get to hitting before that happens and even the thing up in short order."

While Bush was certain that Lee Meadows, bespectacled right hander, would pitch tomorrow with Gooch catching, Miller Huggins, Yankee mentor, said his twirling choice would depend on the condition of Herb Pennock's knee. If the injury the star southpaw received in practice two days ago is healed, he will pitch. Otherwise Wilcy Moore will get the assignment. John Grabowski probably will catch for New York in either event.

CANADIAN WOMEN'S GOLF TOURNEY REACHES SEMI-FINALS

TORONTO, Ont., Oct. 6—(AP)—Only one player representing the dominion had survived the competition in the Canadian women's golf championship tday as the semi-final round was reached, and she is an American-born. Mrs. Alexa Stirling Fraser, formerly of Atlanta, Ga., and now of Ottawa, tomorrow will oppose Miss Fritzi Stifel of Wheeling, W. Va., for the honor of playing the survivor of the lower half of the draw in Saturday's 36-hole final.

Mrs. Fraser today brought to a close the steady campaign of the defending Canadian champion, Miss Ada MacKenzie, to retain her title. She had no real difficulty obtaining her victory, the score being 5 and 3.

Miss Helen Paget of Ottawa, who turned in the biggest surprise of the tournament when she eliminated Miss Glenna Collett of Providence yesterday, played the role of a victim in another surprise today. She was defeated by Miss Stifel on the final hole of the match.

All in all, today was one of upsets. Miss Virginia Van Wie, the favorite in the lower draw, was put out by Mrs. J. L. Anderson of the Cherry Valley club, New York. This match also was decided on the 18th hole.

Miss Helen Payson of Portland, Me., advanced to the semi-final by disposing of Mrs. F. C. Letts of Chicago, 2 and 1. Tomorrow Miss Payson meets Mrs. Anderson.

Mrs. Fraser was considered as the likely finalist in her half of the draw, but in view of the upsets that have marked the late rounds there is some speculation on Miss Stefel's chances. The West Virginia girl has been playing especially well in this tournament.

Tigers Hold First Practice

The Greeneville Tigers, one of the leading semi-pro football clubs in eastern Connecticut last season, held their first practice Thursday evening with a large number of their candidates reporting. The first half hour was devoted to talking about new trick plays and an hour was spent on signal drills. The team is certainly in fine condition and the fans of Greeneville can expect wonderful results from this team and should receive the support from the Greeneville fans. Manager Boyd has signed up the following men which tells how strong they are: Mileski, Butts, Bubbles, Boyd, Gorton, Langevan, Christy, Tombari, Pedaco, McGrath, Lupinats, Nelson, Copp and has two more stars that he has been communicating with.

Manager Boyd would like to hear from the Jewett City Speedboys, Westerly or Mystic.

TOLEDO WINS MINOR LEAGUE BASEBALL TITLE

TOLEDO, Ohio, Oct. 6—(AP)—The junior world's series baseball championship came back to the American association today when Toledo shut out Buffalo, International league champions 4 to 0. Toledo won five out of the six games played.

Emilio Palmero, the Cuban southpaw, kept Buffalo's nine hits spread out, received brilliant support and batted in Toledo's first two runs himself with a hard single to left in the second inning. Those two runs would have been enough, but Bill Marriott, one of the batting stars of the series, repeated the performance in the seventh inning for the other two Mud Hens runs, making the victory doubly sure.

Andy Cohen, the Bison's short stop, decided to put aside his religious scruples and play on Yom Kippur since his team needed his help badly with third baseman Bill Huber out with a sprained ankle.

But his sacrifice was in van, as far as a Buffalo victory was concerned for Palmero southpawed the Bisons into submission. Buffalo was no match for Toledo.

The victorious Mud Hens will divide a player's pool of more than $26,000, while the defeated Bisons will split a little more than $18,000.

In the two games already played a scoreless tie of 0 to 0 has resulted, their opponents being Colt Memorial High of Bristol, R. I., and Warwick High.

W. H. S. Coach D. Harold Rogers has not spared pains to make his players equal to all demands placed upon them, and the probable line-up will be as follows: Ends, Capt. Spellman and Dotolo; tackles, D. Melkie and Leonetti; guards, Novogroski and Hogan; center, Campbell, quarterback, Greene; halfbacks, McFarland and Sawyer; fullback, Itchkowich.

SENT TO JAIL FOR BREACH OF PEACE

Found guilty of breach of the peace, Delaware Howard, colored, of No. 5 Forest street, was sent to jail for 60 days by Judge Arthur F. Libby at the Thursday morning session of the city court. Howard was charged with stabbing Hugh Eccleston of this city in the shoulder Tuesday afternoon. The complainant testified that Howard called him into his place Tuesday afternoon and gave him a drink. Howard asked for money and Eccleston refused to give him any. Then Howard grabbed him around the waist and during the scuffle stuck a knife into Ecleston's shoulder.

When the shoulder began to bither him Wednesday Eccleston notified the police and Howard's arrest followed. Howard denied that he used a knife on Eccleston, claiming that Eccleston received the wound when he fell in an intoxicated condition. Howard claimed Eccleston fell among some packing boxes in the rear of Howard's home.

TAFTVILLE STRENGTHENS FOR SUNDAY

Manager Jim Troland is apparently taking no chances on losing the final game of the series with Riverview which will be played on Sunday for he has greatly strengthened his club for the encounter. The team that will take the field on Sunday will be the strongest club that has opposed Riverview during the season.

As was announced earlier in the week Chet Nichols former Pittsburgh Pirate hurler and now with the Giants, will do the hurling for Taftville. Eccleston who has performed well in the preceeding games of the series is to be replaced by Feltag, catcher for the Baltimore Orioles this past season and one of the leading backstoppers in the International league. Eddie Murphy, another Taftville regular, who has played a good game in the series is to be on the bench, his place at the initial sack to be taken by Griffin, New Haven Eastern leaguer who substituted for Bowman during the season and also played an outfield berth. Mack Hillis, who has proved himself to be one sweet ball player will guard center sack position with Charlie Krauss working with him in the short field. Tommy Comiskey will again be at the dizzy corner. The outfield will be the same as last week with Gley in left, Lloyd Jarvis in center and Davis with his spectacular catches.

The above lineup looks mighty good on paper but as was shown last week end it's not always the toughest looking club that wins. Riverview will not in all probability strengthen for Sunday's game as they proved to be capable on taking two straight from the Taftville team. Johnny Tillman will be the moundsman for the Riverview club and if he continues to hold the Indian sign on Taftville the way he has in this and last year's games Taftville will have their work cut out for them.

Owing to the world's series game, that is if the Yanks do not take four straight from the Pirates, there will be a radio at the field that will give the fans a detailed report of the doings in New York.

INDUSTRIAL CHANGES COMPEL TEXTILE CO. LIQUIDATION

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, R. I., Oct. 6.—That the Westerly Textile company is to go into liquidation, as announced in Thursday morning's Bulletin, is shown from the following statement given out Thursday morning by President Charles S. Fowler:

The adjourned annual meeting of the stockholders of The Westerly Textile company was held at the office of the company, 41 Main street, Westerly, R. I., Tuesday afternoon, October 4th.

After listening to the report of a special investigator, the stockholders unanimously decided to liquidate the affairs of the company.

For this purpose a committee was appointed consisting of Arthur L. Perry of Westerly, Robert E. Steere of Pawtucket, and Charles S. Fowler of Westerly. This committee met following the stockholders meeting and appointed Harry H. Ullman, president of the Shambow Shuttle Co., as liquidator.

The decision to liquidate was reached after very careful consideration by the stockholders of two separate reports. The stockholders and officers of the company felt that all interests would be better served through this method, rather than to continue operating. The machinery of the company was not deemed adaptable to the type of goods that could be profitably woven by the company, and it was further felt that the manufacturing space was not suited for the work in demand at the present time.

The company was incorporated in 1912 and commenced operations with the manufacturing of mosquito netting, and a few years after starting developed a very profitable business on all cotton marquisettes. In addition to these numbers, the company manufactured very large quantities of tire cloth, during the years from 1916 to 1920. The tire cloth business was discontinued in 1920 due to severe competition from Southern mills. From 1920 to 1923 the company continued with the manufacture of all cotton novelties for draperies and bedspreads. The demand for all cotton fabrics diminished to such an extent at that time that the company turned to the manufacture of rayon cloths, adding some machinery to properly manufacture this new type of fabric. Recently, however, it was very strongly felt that a complete change of equipment would be necessary to economically manufacture the lighter forms of the rayon fabrics now in demand. The merchandise has been sold both to the converters and in recent years direct to the retailers.

In addition to this formal statement President Fowler declared that the Westerly plant was not planning an immediate shutdown and in regard to questions raised as to stock ownership stated that it was probably all owned in Westerly.

Following an altercation between James Felice and Atanasio Grasso, which began near the building operations of the Green Stores, Inc., on High street Thursday morning about 8 o'clock, Grasso complained to Officer Michael Curtin who started in search for Felice. Felice was sighted by the officer who demanded that he stop as he began a hot foot for the Pawcatuck river bridge. Constable Patton and others joined in the pursuit but the state boundary line was crossed on the Pawcatuck river bridge like so many yard lines on a football gridiron. Felice was avised by friends to surrender to the Westerly police. At a hearing before Chief of Police Brown it developed that some of the argument began in an Italian lodge meeting when uncomplimentary remarks were made between the parties involved. On the promise of both parties to keep their disputes confined to lodge rooms and avoid street mishps, no arrest were made.

Robert Gardiner, colored, residing at Central Park, employed by the Frank N. Wilcox Coal company, was taken into custody on Thursday morning following a reported attack upon his wife. Gardiner has been a bad costumer for the police department because of his reputed quarrelsome na-

Thursday morning there were no jury trial cases ready for Associate Justice Charles A. Walsh and the 36 jurymen who made their first Westerly appearance. Sheriff Fred T. Mitchell had made every preparation for the jury to use one of the jury rooms, when he had the superior court room furniture taken out of temporary storage there while work was going on in the regular court room and taken into the attic on the top floor of the court house. In discharging the jurymen, whom he directed to see Deputy Clerk Mrs. Treat to be paid off, Judge Walsh declared their labor ended for the session and it had been a pleasure for him to work with such men who had given up personal business, some at a financial loss, to perform their civic duty.

A case was tried to the court in the afternoon session at 2 o'clock, Granite Street Garage company vs. Joseph Pickering. The case was one of an action of assumsit on book account, involving a promissory note for $2,000 of Feb. 28, 1927 payable in one month with interest and one on common count for a bill of goods amounting to $162.02 which only was disputed. Appearing as witnesses were the bookkeeper Miss Josephine DeRocchi, president of the garage compant, Antonio Panciera for the plaintiff and the defendant, Joseph Pickering. Judge Walsh declared the charge of $162.02 not fully proven, and rendered judgment for the plaintiff to recover in the amount of the note $2,000 and interest of $70.

This (Friday) morning Judge Walsh will again take up the equity case when eight witnesses for the respondent are to be heard in the resumption of the case, Caroline Gervasini as Venerala of Loggia Cornelia Madre dsi Gracchi, No. 831, auxiliary Sons of Italy of R. I., vs. Concetta S. Grilla.

Leaving Westerly Tuesday morning as delegates from the Westerly Woman's Christian Temperance union, to attend the three-day session of the W. C. T. U. at the Broadway Baptist church at Olneyville, R. I., were the president, Mrs. James O. Babcock of Avondale, Mrs. Jennie Parker, Mrs. William Grant, Mrs. Benjamin Richmon an Mrs. Thomas F. Nichols.

Progress is being mae in the work of establishing a Westerly storage plant for the Standard Oil company. Just above the William Clark mill of the American Thread company on the Pawcatuck river, divers and other employes of the Merritt-Chapman & Scott Corporation of New London are engaged in dredging, blasting and driving piles preparatory to the erection of dolphines. About two months ago a dredger removed six feet of mud from the top of the ledge that is now being cut down to make room for the dolphines and to provide a channel for tankers of the oil company. A lighter is being used to drive piles.

It is estimated that the wor will be completed in two months. Thereafter the Standard Oil company will ship gasoline and oil to Westerly in its own tankers instead of transporting its products by rail. A pipe line from the boat anchorage will carry gasoline and oil directly to the storage tanks on Mechanic street.

Frank L. Furness, president of Pawcatuck board of trade and proprietor of the Elm Tree Inn on West Broad street and the Narragansett Inn at Watch Hill, has been elected vice president of a new hotel company organized to operate the Templeton Inn, at Templeton, Mass. Twelve hotel men from various parts of New England are associated ni the new venture, R. L. Race of the Copley-Plaza, Boston, is president, and A. D. Converse of the Toy Town Tavern, Winchendon, Mass., is treasurer.

Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Arnold of Providence were Westerly visitors Thursday.

Thomas Moore returned Thursday from New York.

Mrs. Harvey C. Perry was in Providence Thursday.

Dr. A. V. Phelps of Lower Pawcatuck was a Providence visitor Thursday.

CREOMULSION

FOR THE COUGH OR COLD THAT HANGS ON

Mother! Do You Know the Danger of that Cough or Cold?

Mother, if the youngsters play hard and "take cold," if for any of a dozen other reasons they get "sick with a cold," stop it as fast as you can. Don't let it hang on. Colds that stay and stay, too often lead into pneumonia or flu or chronic bronchial trouble. Too often a cold leads into a fatal complication.

If any of your youngsters develop a cough or a cold that hangs on, use sensible precautions immediately and give them Creomulsion. Help their strong, youthful bodies to fight coughs and colds with Creomulsion. It is pleasant, easy to take.

Creomulsion is an old remedy now. Millions know its merits and like it. We guarantee that it will relieve stubborn coughs and colds, if you follow directions, or we'll refund your money.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

THIN FERTILIZATION IMPROVES ALFALFA

Government experiment has found moderate fertilization more profitable for alfalfa than heavy use of fertilizer. The average yield of air-dry hay from a plot which received no manure was 3.71 tons per acre; that from plot which received manure six years at the rate of eight tons per acre was 5.07, and that from plots which received manure six years at the rate of 32 tons per acre was 6.10 tons.

Corresponding percentages of increase, the experiment shows, were higher where manure was used at the rate of eight tons per acre.

EGG CANDLING FOUND ADVANTAGEOUS

Most egg producers do not candle eggs, although buyers and dealers find it advantageous to do so. Where a high-class retail trade is being catered to, candling by producers is desirable and necessary. Sometimes absolutely fresh, new-laid eggs are unsuitable for food because of bloody whites, blood spots, and meat spots.

LIME FOR COWS

If a heavy milking cow does not get sufficient calcium (lime) in her feed she will take it from the reserve supply in her bones to put it into the milk. This drain on the cow's body has a serious effect on her health and ultimately reduces her capacity for milk production and the bringing forth of normal, well-developed offsprings. Assimulation of lime from such calcium compounds as ground hock phosphate, ground limestone and bone meal has been found to be much lower than that from either alfalfa or timothy hay.

PREVENT EROSION

Thus far rain-wash or erosion has permanently destroyed approximately 10,000,000 acres of land formerly cultivated. By actual survey it has been found that a single county in the Piedmont region contains 90,000 acres of formerly cultivated land now permanently ruined by erosion. Much of such land could have been saved by timely terracing, and parts of it never should have been plowed in the first place because of its susceptibility to erosion. Instead, it should have been maintained in timber or pasture. In addition, not less than 3,000,000 acres of good stream-bottom lands have been practically ruined by washes of inert sand and gravel and by increased swampiness, due to channels choked with soil materials washed out of upland fields.

POTATO SOIL

If well supplied with organic matter, gravelly or sandy loam soils are in general the most desirable for potato culture. Under suitable conditions a satisfactory crop may be grown on a fairly light sandy soil and a medium heavy clay soil provided the heavy soil is well drained and the light soil has a good moisture supply. Muck or peat soils are satisfactory if properly drained and well supplied with available plant food. A reasonably good crop may be expected from any soil other than blowsand and heavy clay, provided the climatic conditions are favorable and the soil is well supplied with organic matter and available plant food.

CROP BOUND FOWLS

The disorder of fowls known as "crop bound," or impacted crop, is an overdistended and paralyzed condition of the crop, generally caused by overeating or by swallowing coarse and indigestible substances, such as feathers or tough vegetation. Sometimes the contents of the crop may be removed by forcing the bird to swallow a teaspoon or more of sweet oil, then massaging the lower part of the gullet, until a part of the contents is softened and pressed toward the head. This is made easier by holding the head of the bird downward. By continued manipulation, the greater part of the material may be removed. The bird should not be permitted to eat for several hours after it is relieved.

HAWKS AND OWLS HELP KILL RODENTS ON FARMS

To learn exactly to what extent certain birds are aids to agriculture and to determine whether their good qualities overbalance the evil they do, the biological survey of the United States department of agriculture has for many years been making scientific studies of their food habits. All that can be learned out-of-doors by watching the birds is valuable, but the sure way of finding out what a bird eats is to examine the contents of its stomach and to identify what is found.

W. L. McAtee, a biologist in the bureau, describes the method of examining the stomach content of a bird. "It consists of washing all material into a white-lined tray, separating the larger particles on white blotters, catching the more finely ground food on a blotting cloth, transferring this to blotters, and finally identifying the compenent parts of the whole under a microscope. Identification is facilitated by comparison with collections of seeds, fruit, insects, sanids, and bones of birds, mammals, reptiles, and amphibians; in fact, of all classes of objects eaten by birds. A card prepared for each stomach contains a full inventory of food items and their relative percentages by bulk, and when a sufficient number of these index cards have been accumulated for any species of bird the percentages of the principal items of food for each month are calculated, and the average for the season of year is taken. These are figures quoted in official reports on the food of birds. From the percentages and the economic value of the food items the utility of the bird can be closely estimated."

It is on the basis of such information that the biological survey has been able to combat prejudices against certain birds, such as hawks and owls. The sharp-shinned, Cooper and duck hawks feed largely on birds and are injurious. The great horner owl gets only poultry that is improperly exposed at night, but is otherwise beneficial. The remaining species of hawks and owls, more than 50 in all, have chiefly useful habits. They feed on a great variety of rodents and have a tremendous effect in controlling the number of these pests. The barn owl is one of the most most useful of birds. Large percentages of mice, rats, and pocket gophers are noted on the feeding cards, showing that the barn owl is constantly doing work of great value to agriculture. Owls as a group have long been persecuted by man, but never has persecution been more unjust. When their numbers are greatly reduced in any community farmers will be forcibly reminded of the fact by a great increase in the number of destructive rodents.

HELPS FOR FARMERS

It pays to feed cows liberally. Balanced rations fed according to production pay well in increased return over feed costs.

The notion that silage-fed cattle shrink very heavily in shipping to market is erroneous. While the actual shrinkage during transit is sometimes greater the fill taken at market usually is good, and if the cows are properly prepared for shipment, shrinkage is no greater than in cattle which have been fed on dry feeds. For 36 hours previous to shipping, sound, well-cured Timothy, Johnson grass prairie hay, or stover, should be substituted for the silage in the ration.

Weevil loss to southern corn can be prevented to a large degree. The practice of selling corn in the fall or as soon as weevils are discovered, merely to avoid weevil loss, is unbusinesslike. The farmer can protect his corn from weevil attack, or kill the insects if already present, by thorough fumigation of the grain with carbon disulphide, applied in a tight room.

Paint never should be allowed to dry on a brush. While still on a job keep the brushes in raw linseed oil between intervals of work. Kerosene oil is better for bushes used with flat paint. Hanging brushes in raw linseed oil over long periods of time will keep them in good condition, or they may be washed in turpentine, kerosene or mineral spirits and then with soap and water, dried thoroughly and covered with wrapping paper.

Ordinary fertilizers now on the market have an average analysis of about 15 or 16 per cent plant food constituents. High anaylsis mixtures carry from 20 to 30 per cent, while concentrated fertilizers carry 30 per cent and more. These fertilizers do not cake and become so hard they must be reground before application to the soil. Heretofore it has been the custom to add peat, ashes, sand and other low grade or inert material to fertilizer mixtures to prevent caking.

"A pound of Coffee"

WORDS do not always carry the same meaning. "A pound of coffee" may be translated into anything from weak, colored water to a black concoction that only an Arab could drink. Instead of saying "a pound of coffee" say "a pound of YUBAN" and find out, for your own satisfaction, what a deal of difference there can be in coffee.

YUBAN, for years, was the private Guest Coffee of John Arbuckle, the world's greatest coffee merchant. You may serve it with the same pride.

How to Make French Coffee

Cafe Au Lait it is called in Paris. The Parisian has his coffee made very strong and served black together with a pitcher of boiled milk. These are mixed—half milk and half coffee. Many who cannot drink coffee to which cream has been added find this combination perfect.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theater

The biggest show in town, worth twice the price may be seen at the Palace today and tomorrow. The reviewer considered it a treat to spend such a pleasant two and a half hour show of refreshing entertainment. Dance Flashes a six people dancing revue with beautiful costumes and effects was the featured act. Middletown Spellmeyer and company have a dramatic sketch of three people on a lonely island. The situations are intense and the acting superb. A very good portrayal. Bernard and Kranz two clever songsters and commedian have a very high class act, with lots of action and laughs. Leonora and Ryan two young folks in a flapper act won favor right from the start. Gene Martini the piano accordian wizard opened the show with some difficult renditions both popular and classical.

You'll just have to take your hat off to Bebe Daniels.

When it comes to first class screen entertainment Miss Daniels rarely missses and her latest Paramount comedy which opened at the Palace theater is no exception.

In fact, "Swim, Girl, Swim," is one of her very best. Never has the dashing star had a better story. The latter, by the way, is an original by Lloyd Corrigan who co-authored on "The Campus Flirt" and the boy knows his college atmosphere. The direction is excellent also with Clarence Badger again responsible.

The story concerns a very studious girl—Miss Daniels, of course—who has an ambition to become an athlete instead of always being known as a bookworm. In a spirit of jest she is given a place on the swimming team when, if the truth were known, she cannot swim a stroke. In spite of this she wins the channel swim and is changed overnight to the heroine of the campus and very much in the public eye. How she overcomes the agony of learning that she did not actually win the swim and how she captures James Hall, the leading man, provides a thousand laughs.

The picture marks the first appearance of Gertrude Ederle on the screen as a player in her own right and all around, she performs in an exceptional manner. There are many shots of her in action in the water and also "in character" when she takes Miss Daniels in hand and trains her.

Miss Daniels romps through these situations at a rapid pace; so fast, in fact, that not one dull moment turns up. Clarence Badger, with a deft touch, has given the production a colorful, collegiate atmosphere.

Strand Theatre

Sally Shaw's Hits and Bits of Broadway are a big hit at the Strand theatre this week. Sally Shaw is a little man but a big man in New York in the theatrical world. He sure knows his stuff when it comes to selecting a cast like he is presenting at the Strand this week, this cast needs no introducing as their work is far above anything that has played this town for a long time. A lot of credit is due Jim Pearl, who is the producer and principal comic and he is assisted by Charlie Collins, Bob and Betty Carlton. Friday and Saturday they will play the "Wise Guy" and what ever you do don't miss this show in this play every one in the company has a chance to show you just how clever they are, so don't let anything keep you from seeing this show Friday and Saturday at the Strand.

The Honeymoon Express is the feature picture for Friday and Saturday with Irene Rich, Willard Loomis and an all star cast. The story of a dancing daddy's wife, she was a doormat, but finally something deeply American in her heart cried, "Don't tread on me." A comedy of the Twinkling Twenties and the Snorting Forties.

(Written Specially for The Bulletin)

When you have a state engineer's office to lay out the road, and a state highway commission to be consulted, and about a dictionary full of "specifications" to be formulated and approved by the state's law department, and various contractors to convince that they can make big profits with material prices soaring over the moon and wage scales fastened to rockets and going up, up, up,—in such circumstances your new road will cost you anywhere from $15,000 to $50,000 a mile.

But when the state turns you down, and the county and town are already too over-taxed to make the laying of additional burdens possible, and you're faced with the problem of building a 20 miles highway with $1,400 cash and the free labor of volunteers,—why, then, you go ahead and build the 20 miles and tell the be-knickered young men from the engineer's office and the graft-hunting contractors and the get-rich-quick dealers in materials and the dwadling, "soldiering" hired laborers to keep out of your way.

That is, this is what you do if you live out in the neighborhood of beautiful Cumberland Falls, Ky.

This is what has just actually been done. Through a wildly noble countryside, where previously existed only narrow trails, passable when the brooks had dried and the mud hardened and at no other time, you can now whiz 20 miles in your best automobile as through a grand park and bring up safely and unscratched at the lovely Falls.

All at the cost of a good deal of trouble and of public spirit—and of $1,400 cash.

Tons of rock had to be blasted. Hundreds of trees had to be removed. Thousands of yards of grading had to be done. For 13 miles the new road gently climbs through a forest of first-growth timber, then runs for seven miles along the ridge of a lofty mountain, affording constantly changing views on both sides. The amateur builders took every possible advantage of the terrain to save labor and ensure easy grades. They didn't "butt" their way into and through mountains that only steam-shovels could conquer. They skirted around knobs and dodged cliffs and made natural escarpments serve their utilitarian purposes. In this way they climbed almost insensibly to the ridge, which was fortunately level for the remaining distance.

But there was one break in this ridge way where a sheer gap two or three hundred feet wide cut across it. For a while it puzled them. Road-making was one thing, bridge-building another. They sought advice and prices from various contractors. The lowest bid they could get was for $14,000, a sum utterly unattainable. At last they took courage and tackled the job themselves. Using big pine trees which had been torn out from the graded right of way they erected a trestle which may look a little rough at first glance but is strong enough to hold up a locomotive. And it cost them, for bolts and some few other things they had to buy, just $250.

Seems to me this single trestle job is one of the most illuminative facts in the whole business. No exact estimates were made as to what the entire 20 miles would have cost had they been built in the usual way, at public cost and under the so-called supervision of office-holding politicians. But such guesses as were hazarded ran into big figures, hundreds of thousands of dollars, instead of the $1,400 actually contributed. But this trestle job was figured on and the contractor found that, with the existing cost of materials and the existing rates of wages and the need of securing a personal profit, it would cost $14,000. The store-keepers and farmers did it for $250. They used what would otherwise have been waste timber and volunteer labor.

They also used two other things which are getting to be exceeding scarce in these latter days.

Gumption and Public spirit.

I can remember when a man's value to himself and his rating in the community depended chiefly on his gumption. He had to have it even to live. He needed to have much of it to rise towards the top. He had to build his own ladder before he could climb, and to build it out of such materials as he had on hand, not such as he could buy. He didn't have elephant guns and explosive bullets to shoot lions with; he had to tackle 'em with the jaw-bone of an ass, if he found nothing more serviceable at hand. Now-a-days, a "big-game" hunter goes into the wilds with about 16 different sorts of guns and ammunition, with a "safari" of 40 or 50 gun-bearers and porters, a dozen cases of Canada Dry and two dozen cartons of Old Gold cigarettes, etc., etc. And then he sits in his comfortable camp-chair till his hired hunters have driven the game within easy range. It costs him a good many thousand dollars to get a lion. Samson got his without the outlay of a single shekel.

Like those Cumberland Falls road-builders, and the deep gully they ran into. What would the 19 miles of road they had built have been worth if, at the end, a 200 feet unbridged gap separated them for their destination? They hadn't the money to hire it bridged. So they fell back on their old-fashioned gumption. They bridged it themselves and, incidentally, saved $13,500 in money. That was, in this particular case, the cash value of a little gumption. Multiply this saving by the number of desirable road projects in the whole country, and you'll get some idea of what gumption would be worth in the aggregate. Unfortunately, it seems to be out of date and out of style, now-a-days.

Then here was public spirit involved. In my neighborhood the prevalent idea of public spirit seems to consist in having somebody else do something for your personal benefit or emolument. Such an "easy mark" is set down as having public spirit. But it doesn't, usually, include the giving up of a slice of your own property to public use without pay, nor the turning out with teams and scrapers and shovels and putting in days or weeks of unpaid labor for the public benefit.

One day, some years ago, a neigh-boring farmer, having his team hitched up and an hour or two's leisure, drew several loads of cobble-stones and dumped into a mire hole in the road near his gate, covering them with some gravel from a near-by bank. Thus he eliminated what was not only a discomfort but a danger to many scores of unknown travellers. Another neighbor, passing and seeing him at his volunteer work, stopped to ask: "How much ye gittin' for this?" Being told that he was getting nothing, the critic snorted. "Won't nobody ever thank ye fer it," he said, and buddoped his old horse on his way.

I don't know that there was any more gumption or public spirit in the old days than there is now. But one thing is certain, both were used more then than they are now. Perhaps it was because people had to, then, while now they can hire somebody else to substitute.

Once in a while, in some remote and rural part of the land we hear of cases like this Cumberland Falls road-building stunt, where both gumption and public spirit fairly erupt from the most seemingly unlikely surroundings.

When one does it ought to set the rest of us thinking of how much better off our own neighborhoods might be if we relied more on native gumption than on imported skill and used more public spirit and less public money.

We're all the time howling about high taxes. At the same time, if we want anything in the way of a public improvement, we fairly tumble over ourselves in our eagerness to vote a big appropriation or issue a lot of interest-devouring bonds.

Yet here is a 20-mile automobile road built through a wild and mountainous country, without the issue of a single bond or the laying of a single cent's extra tax. To be sure it was in Kentucky. Yes, but do you want to be understood as holding that there is more gumption and public spirit among Kentucklans than among New Englanders?

There used to be a saying to the effect that what has once been done can be done again. Isn't it possible that what has actually been done in Kentucky might be imitated in Connecticut?

There seems to be no doubt that there is a great deal of comparatively easy money circulating in this country. Materials of almost all sorts are about as costly as precious stones. Wages are high and steadily soaring.

And everybody, from President Coolidge down, is felicitating the nation upon its "prosperity." That is the popular chord to strike.

But then arises the question whether prosperity consists in getting big wages and having to spend them all in paying big prices for one's living, or in having wages and prices so counterbalanced and equalized that one can save something from day to day or from week to week.

Seems to me that what too many are assuming is honest meat and muscle is nothing more than the turgid intumescence of "bloat."

The pursy puffer isn't really more healthy than the leaner-figured athlete.

A dollar a day income, with only 90 cents required for daily outgo, is much nearer true prosperity than $10 a day income and $10.10 necessitated outgo. The former leads to the savings bank; the latter to the county-house.

Consider, if you please, those Kentucky mountaineers, with 20 miles of road to build and $1,400 to do it with,—plus an unstated amount of gumption and public spirit. They did the job.

Could you,—or would you,—go and do likewise?

THE FARMER.

AFTER PERIOD OF TORTURE, MAN FINDS RELIEF FROM ITCHING

Skin now entirely healed

Charlestown (Boston), Mass., Dec. 18:—"Last June I had an itching irritation on my back, principally between the shoulders, and also on the back of my hands, extending to the shoulders. The skin was apparently clear of any disorder, but the itching was intense. After a vigorous rubbing with a Turkish towel there would appear two spots, about an inch apart, which bled from the effects of the rubbing. I used Bay Rum and other lotions before I tried your Resinol Ointment. At bedtime my back received a thorough washing with Resinol Soap and a very generous application of Ointment, after which I would rest quite comfortably until about two or three in the morning, when I received another application. A third upon arising would be enough to make me feel at ease during the day. Thanks to the above treatment, the trouble is now entirely healed." (Signed) John John W. Matthews, 1 Crystal Place.

MARKET WAS STRONG

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Speculators for the advance resumed control of the price movement in today's stock market, but the advance was by no means uniform. Final quotations disclosed a rather sizeable list of 1 to 10 point gains, interspersed with a number of 17 to 5 point declines.

Although many traders were absent in observance of the swish religious holiday, the day's sales ran well over two million shares.

Reduction in the call money rate from 4 1-2 to 4 per cent provided the chief stimulus for the rise. The day's trade news was rather colorless in chacter, although market commentators stressed the relatively low rate of Steel Mill activity compared with the corresponding period of last year. Activity and strength of a number of the high priced issues, particularly in the public utility group, was accompanied by rumors of increased dividends and stock split-ups, but no confirmation was available.

Final compilation of class 1 railroad earnings for August showed combined net operating income of $118,226,507, equivalent to an annual rate of return of 4.77 per cent on railroad's valuation of property investment, as compared with $132,959,851, or 5.50 per cent, in August 1926. Railroad stocks, however, presented several points of strength. Chicago & Northwestern, preferred, jumped nearly 7 points to 150 the highest price in 15 years, and Atchison, Atlantic Coast Line, Gulf, Mobile & Northern, Louisville & Nashville, and Peoria & Eastern advanced 2 to 4 points. Strength of the Missouri Pacific issues was accompanied by unconfirmed reports of early action by directors to wipe up the accumulated dividends on the preferred stock.

Oils, as a group, were sluggish on unfavorable trade news, California Petroleum touching a new low for the year at 21 and the Barnsdall issues at $3.4-4 Lago, however, was well bought on expectations of increased earnings through the discovery of new wells, and Houston, in which a Baltimore pool is reported to be operating, closed 5 points higher at 173 after attaining a new record top at 173 3-4.

U. S. Steel common closed 1-4 lower at 146 1-4 after having been down at 146 3-4. General Motors (new), which accounted for more than one-tenth of the day's entire volume of business, closed unchanged at 137. Abitibi Power, Adams Express, Burroughs Adding Machine and Case Threshing, all jumped 5 to 10 points to new high records. Bank stocks were heavy.

Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Cotton and wheat markets were higher, the former advancing about $1 to $1.50 a bale and the latter about a cent a bushel.

Foreign exchanges were irregular with a 6 point drop in Spanish Pesetas to around 17.37 cents and a similar gain in Japanese yen to 46.64 cents as the only features.

MARKET WAS STRONG

NEW YORK, Oct. 6.—(AP)—Speculators for the advance retained control of the price movement in today's stock market, but the advance was by no means uniform. Final quotations disclosed a rather sizeable list of 1 to 10 point gains, interspersed with a number of 17 to 5 point declines.

Although many traders were absent in observance of the swish religious holiday, the day's sales ran well over two million shares.

Reduction in the call money rate from 4 1-2 to 4 per cent provided the chief stimulus for the rise. The day's trade news was rather colorless in chacter, although market commentators stressed the relatively low rate of Steel Mill activity compared with the corresponding period of last year. Activity and strength of a number of the high priced issues, particularly in the public utility group, was accompanied by rumors of increased dividends and stock split-ups, but no confirmation was available.

Final compilation of class 1 railroad earnings for August showed combined net operating income of $118,226,507, equivalent to an annual rate of return of 4.77 per cent on railroad's valuation of property investment, as compared with $132,959,651, or 5.50 per cent, in August 1926. Railroad stocks, however, presented several points of strength. Chicago & Northwestern, preferred, jumped nearly 7 points to 150 the highest price in 15 years, and Atchison, Atlantic Coast Line, Gulf, Mobile & Northern, Louisville & Nashville, and Peoria & Eastern advanced 2 to 4 points. Strength of the Missouri Pacific issues was accompanied by unconfirmed reports of early action by directors to wipe up the accumulated dividends on the preferred stock.

Oils, as a group, were sluggish on unfavorable trade news, California Petroleum touching a new low for the year at 21 and the Barnsdall issues at $3.2-4. Lago, however, was well bought on expectations of increased earnings through the discovery of new wells, and Houston, in which a coalitree pool is reported to be operating, closed 5 points higher at 173 after attaining a new record top at 175 3-4.

U. S. Steel common closed 1-4 lower at 146 1-4 after having been down to 146 3-4. General Motors (new), which accounted for more than one-tenth of the day's entire volume of business, closed unchanged at 137. Abitibi Power, Adams Express, Burroughs Adding Machine and Case Threshing, all jumped 5 to 10 points to new high records. Bank stocks were heavy.

Tome money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Cotton and wheat markets were higher, the former advancing about $1 to $1.50 a bale and the latter about a cent a bushel.

Foreign exchanges were irregular with a 6 point drop in Spanish Pesetas to around 17.37 cents and a similar gain in Japanese yen to 46.64 cents as the only features.

MYSTIC

The annual meeting of the Red Cross society was held at the home of Miss Joanna Burnett, Tuesday evening. The reports of the secretary Mrs. Harry Hill and treasurer A. W. George were read and adopted. During the meeting it was stated that Mystic had over 1,300 mebers while the world war was on but now the membership has dwindled to 95. As the organization is doing noble work it is regretted that so few have continued their membership. Miss Joanna Burnett who has served as chairman, declined to serve another year; James Cooper was elected to succeed her. The other officers are: Vice chairman, Mrs. A. W. George; secretary, Mrs. Harry Hill; treasurer, A. W. George; civilian relief, L. P. Allyn; members of board, Mrs. John Rossi, Mrs. Leonard Hermes and Isaac Cundall.

Fanny Ledyard chapter D. A. R. met Wednesday afternoon in Masonic Temple, Mrs. Eliza G. Scott the regent presiding. Mrs. Lizzie Wilbur read the minutes. Several letters were read, among them one from Ernest E. Rogers of New London, national president of the S. A. R. asking the chapter to co-operate in aiding the sons to increase their membership by furnishing names of men eligible to join. Some of the mebers have husbands who it is hoped will join. The national society are going to continue the flag lessons and Mrs. Mary P. Denison read a letter from the national chairman and the first flag lesson. Mrs. Scott spoke of the state meeting to be held today (Friday) in Waterbury. Mrs. Gales Moore, ex-regent of Bristol chapter was present and was asked to speak of the work in that chapter. All the chapters in the country have been asked to have memorial services for Mrs. Caroline Scott Harrison who was born and died in October and who was the first president-general. The memorial prepared by the national society was read by Mrs. Marie Dickinson. Miss Elizabeth Bonner, of Westerly accompanied by J. H. Hamond, sang Love's Old Sweet Song; The Last Rose of Summer, and Sweet and Low. Miss Harriet Donegee was a guest. The commitee served fruit salad, sandwiches and tea.

Williams Woman's Relief corps met Tuesday evening in G. A. R. hall. Mrs. Carrie Brown Dawley of Westerly was present to inspect the work. The attendance was large. Sandwiches, cake and coffee were served.

Rally week was continued Wednesday evening at the Baptist church. After the devotional service reports were given of all the organizations as follows: Superintendent of the Bible school M. M. Miner; superintendent of the primary and junior school, Mrs. C. H. Wolfe; Christian Endeavor, Mrs. D. M. Bennett; Friendly League, Mrs. Seymour Stoddard; Woman's Missionary society, Miss Harriet Fish, for Mrs. L. P. Allyn; Senior World Wide Guild, Lucia Allyn for Miss Nellie Beebe; Junior World Wide Guild, Miss Jessie Fish; Women's Bible class, Mrs. B. F. Davis, teacher; Men's Bible class, C. W. Gildersleeve, president; Pioneer Boys' club, D. M. Bennett; Ladies' Aid society, Mrs. Julia B. Coaes, president; deacons and trustees, Deacon E. F. Wilcox; greetings from Nicholas Shepler, of Greenport, L. I. The clerk and treasurer gave reports for the quarter showing $2,578.53 receipts for three months and balance of $17.75. The church has met its quota in full for missions. Delegates and alternates were elected to the Baptist convention to be held in Hartford, Oct 17-19. Those who could go were named, Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Allyn, Mr. and Mrs. J H. Thorp, Mrs. R. H. Wilcox, Mrs. L. J. Shepler, Mrs. D. M. Bennett. Alternates C. W. Gildersleeve, Mrs. Guy Frances, Mrs. Hollis Price, Miss Nellie Beebe.

Captain Elias F. Wilcox observed his 77th birthday Thursday. He was born Oct. 6, 1850, one of ten children. His father, Capt. Elias Wilcox established in 1866 a fish oil and fertilizer factory which he carried on until his death in 1895, and his sons have continued the business, Capt. Elias being the senior member of the firm up to the present time. He also has the title of deacon having been elected to that office in the Union Baptist church in 1897. He has served as a trustee of the Baptist convention more than 25 years. He is a 32nd degree Mason. His residence is in Quiambaug and he has a summer residence at Pleasant View beach.

Rev. Nicholas Shepler pastor of the First Baptist church, Greenport, L. I., spent a few days this week with his brother, Rev. Louis J. Shepler, in Mystic.

For some time the parents in the West Mystic school had desired a Parent-Teacher association, as Mystic academy has and the other schools in the town. Tuesday evening 34 parents met at the school house and after a talk by Wilson Greer, supervisor of schools of Groton who told of the benefits derived from such an organization, officers were elected as follows: President, Mrs. G. H. Griswold; vice president, Mrs. C. W. Gildersleeve; secretary, Mrs. Wilfred Lamb; treasurer, Miss Mary McQuillan. Mrs. Harriet Ward acted as chairman and T. F. Anderson was secretary. The organization will meet the second Thursday evening of each month.

Mrs. Guy Francis and Mrs. Eleanor Lucy motored to Wakefield, R. I., Thursday and spent the day.

Mrs. Seth N. Williams and Miss Grace D. Wheeler of the Road district attended the D. A. R. meeting Wednesday.

Mrs. Eliza G. Scott returned Tuesday evening from Bethlehem, Penn., where she has visited her son for a week.

Mrs. Bessie Hancox Ludwig is spending a few days in New York.

In the belief that a crowd of spectators impedes the work of the firemen Tucson, Arizona, has abolished the practice of ringing the town bell to inform the public of a fire.

When I Have Time

When I have time, so many things I'll do
To make life happier and more fair
For those whose lives are crowded now with care;
I'll help to lift them from their low despair,
When I have time.

When I have time, the friend I love so well
Shall know no more those weary, toiling days;
I'll lead her feet to pleasant paths always,
And cheer her heart with words of sweetest praise,
When I have time.

. . . . . .

When you have time! The friend you hold so dear
May be beyond the reach of all your sweet intent,
May never know that you so kindly meant
To fill her life with sweet content,
When you had time.

Now is the time! Ah, friend, no longer wait
To scatter loving smiles and words of cheer
To those around whose lives are now so dear;
They may not need you in the coming year—
Now is the time!

Fur men find that squirrel has practically been eliminated as a coat trimming by the high levels at which it is held. Beaver and lynx are also adversely affected by the prices asked for them, although there is a fair movement of the latter for use on the better grade coats.

JOBLESS YOUNG MAN DOES WELL IN RAIN

BERLIN, OCT. 6—(AP)—Max Schulz, a jobless young man of the Berlin borough of Tempelhof, hopes every day for cloudbursts or at least heavy rains. They mean jingling cash for him.
Schulz has hit upon the idea of appearing at strategic street corners armed with horse blankets, whenever a sudden cloudburst or unexpected rain storm surprises his fellow citizens. As they seek refuge under an overhanging roof or entrance to a building Max Schulz politely steps up and asks "Would you like to have me see you home if you will wrap yourself into this blanket, the rain wont touch you."
Gratefully the pedestrian accepts, and awards his benefactor with a substantial tip. "In the course of a normal shower I earn about five marks per hour," Schulz claims. "But when there is a real cloud-burst, I make 10-15 marks. People are so happy to reach home with their clothes dry that they pay me handsomely."
Schulz borrows the horse blankets from different livery stables.

MAN AT NEW LONDON HOSPITAL INJURED BY HIT-AND-RUN DRIVER

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 6—The condition of John Svywezenko, about 35, who was found unconscious on New Haven turnpike last evening by Constable Chester H. Brigham, Waterford constable, and Judge Fred N. Dimmock, of Waterford town court, and who was removed to Lawrence-Memorial hospital suffering from a fractured skull, remains critical today. It developed today that Svywezenko was not assaulted by Nickador Postovoit, of Waterford, as was at first believed, but he received the injury that may prove fatal by being struck by a "hit and run" driver. After Svywezenko was knocked down he was left in the highway where he remained until his presence there was discovered by Brigham and Dimmock. The injured man was removed to the hospital and Judge Dimmock went to Postovoit's house because of a complaint having been made to the Waterford constabulary by Postovoit's wife that she had been beaten by her husband. Postovoit, who was drunk, was taken to police headquarters here and is being held for trial in Waterford tomorrow on charges of intoxication and breach of the peace. It was at first believed that Svywezenko had been to the Postovoit house, which is but a short distance from where the former was found unconscious. Also, it was believed that a fight had taken place between the two men. After leaving the house it was supposed that Postovoit followed Svywezenko and attacked him with a blunt instrument, dealing a blow on Svywezenko's head that produced the fracture. The state police, Groton baracks, and the Waterford constabulary are making an effort to find the driver who ran down Svywezenko.

BENTLEY COTTAGE SOLD BY EX-MAYOR'S DAUGHTERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 6—Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Henrici have purchased the residence at 12 Elliott avenue, Neptune park, Ocean beach, owned by Miss Abbie Bentley, of New Haven and Mrs. Ruth O'Neill, of Willimantic, daughters of the late Andrew J. Bentley, formerly mayor of the city of New London.

James Bunker and Thomas Groggin, both residing at 77 Lincoln avenue, New London, were arrested this morning by Sergeant Nelson Smith charged with trespassing upon property of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad. They were arrested too late to be presented in court today, so they furnished a surety on their respective bonds of $25 for their appearance at tomorrow's session.

Frank Perry, 59 Truman street, reported to the police last night that his bicycle had been stolen from Bank street. This morning, several hours after the theft was reported, Automobile Patrol Officer George Laboube found the bicycle on Bank street, but a short distance from where it had been stolen. The wheel was taken to police headquaters and today it was claimed by the owner.

John Keating, 7 Central avenue, was in the police court today charged with driving an automobile without having a license. He was fined $5 and costs. Keating was driving a borrowed car, owned by James O'Connor, 40 Mountain avenue, on Montauk avenue last night. At the corner of Willetts avenue, the auto collided with an automobile driven by Edward A. Clifford, 7 Coley street, Waterbury. Both machines were damaged. When Clifford requested Keating to display a license, Keating was unable to do so and when Automobile Patrol Officer George Laboue arrived, Clifford made complaint against Keating and the latter was arrested.

J. T. Martin, Freeport, N. Y., was charged with violation of the city's traffic laws in parking away from the curb and in such a manner as to have tendency to block traffic. Martin failed to appear in court and his bond of $2 was declared forfeited.

A half dozen drunks, one of them a woman, who were arrested yesterday afternoon and last night charged with intoxication, obtained their liberty for judgment was suspended in each case. Another drunk who was arrested this morning was in no condition for appearance in court this morning, so he will be among those to be tried tomorrow.

One New London auto driver was denied the privilege of driving by Commissioner of Motor Vehicles today and two others were restored the right to drive. The loser of a license is Fred A. Strickland, 19 Woodbridge street, garage employe, who was recently convicted in the police court of reckless driving. His automobile ran down and injured a United States Coast Guard sailor on Broad street. Those to have their licenses returned are William J. Pearce, submarine base and John R. Hall, 81 Hempstead street.

Patrolman Walter Rehn, who was struck by a Yellow cab Tuesday night, as sustained more serious injury than was at first believed, for an X-ray picture of the officers left leg shows that it is fractured. Rhen was struck by the cab, driven by Elbert Chapman, of Poquonoc Bridge, when the officer, who was off duty, stepped from the curbing and walked in against the side of the auto. Rehn was knocked down and was treated at the private hospital, after which he went to his home.

Raymond Harris, of Blackhall street; Mrs. Harry Vickery, 12 Amity street; Mrs. Thomas Ealahan and infant daughter, 339 Ocean avenue; Marjorie Fadham, Groton; Donald Crocker, 395 Pequot avenue; James O'Rourke, Niagara, N. Y., and Ralph Golding, New Haven, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

William A. Patrich, a member of the crew of the United States Coast Guard cutter Monaghan, state pier, reported to the police this afternoon that a thief had stolen a banjo of the Vega type, belonging to Patrich, aboard the cutter. Patrich said that the banjo in its case it was in was valued at $100.

Russell H. Beckwith, proprietor of the Mohegan garage, made complaint to the police tonight that an automobile had been parked on that street the greater part of the day and that the rear end was several feet away from the curb. Automobile Pirol Officer George Laboue went to Meridian street and found the auto, which was against a tree. The owner of the auto could not be found.

Earl Carterud, chauffeur for Mrs. Henry E. Russell, 1001 Ocean avenue, went to police headquarters this afternoon and reported an apparently abandoned automobile on property off Ocean avenue and close to Alewife cove. He said that the machine is a Ford and that it had undoubtedly been given there for the purpose of abandonment. The auto has the appearance of having been the target for a fusillade of bullets for there are several holes resembling those made by revolver shots, in the top. He also said that the tires were useless, in fact the auto, which is a sedan, is practically useless. Carterud stated that the car had been in the lot for several days, but he had not seen anyone around it.

NEW AND HEAVY LIGHTS SET AS RIVER BEACONS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 6—United States Lighthouse Tender Hawthorne went up the Thames river today where its crew started work of installing eight gas lights at points between the submarine base and Norwich, more particularly near Allyn's Point breakwater. The lights are of the improved type and are mounted upon steel forms which fit over the heavy foundation of rocks. The lights are huge and weighty. So heavy are they that they were towed to the points of installation aboard a lighter. Setting the lights will require several days.

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 6—The annual meeting of John Coleman Prince post, American legion, held last night, was attended by a representative number of members. The election of officers resulted in the following members being chosen: Commander, Vernon F. Smith; senior commander, A. Skendarian; junior commander, Stephen N. Ganas; adjutant, W. HARVEY M. MANWARING DEAD AT OSWEGATCHIE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 6—Harvey M. Manwaring, 65, died this morning suddenly at his home, Oswegatchie, Waterford, from heart disease. He had been ill but a few days and the news of his death was received wih expression of surprise and profound regret. He is survived by his wife, Nellie Brockway Manwaring, formerly of Middletown. Mr. Manwaring was born in Waterford, eldest son of John and Cordelia Caulkins Manwaring. Mr. Manwaring attended the Waterford public schools and the Poughkeepsie Commercial school. After his graduation, Mr. Manwaring became a teacher in one of the Waterford district schools. Later he entered the employ of the former C. D. Boss & Son company, of New London, as a salesman. The concern at that time was one of the most prosperous cracker manufacturers of the country. Mr. Manwaring remained as salesman for the company for seven years and then became manager of the Standard Plunger Elevtor company, Boston and Chicago. Six years later he entered the employ of the Pneumatic Scales corporation, New York. He then had a residence erected at Oswegatchie and had resided there ever since. Mr. Manwaring of late years devoted much time to cultivation of flowers, the product of his garden being principally dahlias and gladioli, which gained for him much local reputaton. Mr. Manwaring's father, John Manwaring, established the ever-popular Oswegatchie house, long conducted by the late Selden B. Manwaring, half-brother of Harvey Manwaring.

Marion R. Davis, administrator of the estate of Daniel D. Buckley, has sold a house and lot on Pequot avenue to Horace R. Gardner.

Mrs. Lettie McGee, 86, widow of Ish-am McGee, died today at the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Jerry Myrick, Thames View, Waterford, after an illness which had kept her confined to her bed nine months. She is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Myrick, Mrs. Rose Good, of this city, and Mrs. Emma Brown, of Philadelphia; a son, Walter Coleman, New York, and a sister, Mrs. Lou Phillips, of Virginia. Mrs. McGee resided at Amelia, Va., until nine years ago, when she moved to the home of her daughter.

Mrs. Augusta Gertrude Winthrop, 65, wife of Frederick W. Winthrop, of the Golden Spur, East Lyme, died this morning at Home Memorial hospital, after a lingering illness. Besides her husband, Mrs. Winthrop is survived by three daughters, Mrs. Mary Thomas, 49 Franklin street, this city; Mrs. Nellie Donohue, Long Island and Mrs. Gertrude French, of 898 Bank street, this city; and a son, William H. Winthrop, of Richmond Hill, L. I. Mrs. Winthrop was born at Islet, N. J., and later moved to Brooklyn, N. Y. She came to East Lyme about 18 years ago and resided there continuously since. Mrs. Winthrop was a direct descendant of John Hart, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. June 9th, last, Mr. and Mrs. Winthrop celebrated their 49th wedding anniversary.

A fire was discovered in a room con-nected with the bakery of Nathan Hochman, 149 North Bank street at 1:40 o'clock this morning. A still alarm summoned Deputy Fire Chief Calvin Edmunds and Namcaug Engine company to the building and a tank of chemical was sufficient to extinguish the fire and with slight damage. The fire was started by live coals dropping from a range to the wooden floor.

At the annual meeting of the Har-bor club, held last night and attended by a large number of members, the following officers were elected: President, Halton E. Underhill; vice president, Kenneth C. Johnson; secretary, Henry W. McMahon; treasurer, William H. Nott. Mr. Underhill succeeds Worth W. Foster. Irvin Mitchell was elected a trustee for three years. After the meeting a New England dinner was served.

The police are working on a new clue in an effort to obtain the arrest of at least one of the thieves who burglarized the Tarnapol store, 130 Bank street Monday night. A rogues' gallery picture and description of a Providence youth of 18 was received by the police from the Massachusetts state police today, as the suspected thief. The young man is missing from home and it is understood that he was a frequenter of pool rooms here until several days ago, when he disappeared.

Arsste DeLuca, 17, of 36 Moore av-enue, was in the police court today charged with driving without a license. He pleaded guilty and was fined $10 and costs. DeLuca was arrested Tuesday morning when, in backing from Pearl street to Bank street, the auto collided with another machine.

The New London police department is to have a gymnasium. The department has rented the top floor of the Cronin building, State street, formerly a dance hall and will have the space equipped with gymnasium devices, so the men can keep in proper physical condition. Obtaining the gymnasium was made possible by the department conducting a dance and a benefit ball game with the Knights of Columbus, both of which ventures netted the department treasury about $3,000.

Broadway Theater

When the motion picture critic of the Liberty saw "Stark Love" the Paramount picture which will be shown at the Broadway theater today and Saturday, he wrote, "He (meaning Karl Brown, the director) deserves a medal for 'Stark Love.' Take my tip and see it. You'll welcome its sincerity and its complete lack of mascara, permanent waves, and cupid bow lips. It is the realest thing the movie has done in a long time."

Photoplay listed the production among its best pictures and advised readers "not to miss it."

"There is a genuine treat in store for all movie patrons who look to bigger and better ideas," said Classic. "It may be found in 'Stark Love'."

"In producing 'Stark Love,' " wrote the Mid-week Pictorial reviewer, "Karl Brown has achieved something distinctly worth while from every point of view."

"A movie critic is apt to become alarmingly introspective after having seen a picture like 'Stark Love'—and if he sees a picture like 'Stark Love' once in 10 years, he's lucky; he reasons to himself, and justifiably, 'Here I must sit and think up some way to express my respect and admiration for this fine, honorable achievement'—and I know that whatever words I select will be inadequate," said the erudite gentleman from Life, and continued, "The fact of the matter is this: 'Stark Love' is the closest approach to genuinely high tragedy that the motion picture has ever made certainly in America."

For those who haven't yet seen this remarkable picture, let it be said that "Stark Love" is the simple unadorned tale of an ambitious mountain boy who fights for the girl he loves even after his father decides to take her for "his woman." This slice of life must be screened to be appreciated.

Lyceum Theater, New London

It is Hallow'en night, about half past eleven and approaching the hour when the weird, the uncanny hold sway. The scene is the heavily oaken pannelled entrance hall of an old southern manse, nown as The House in the Woods, a goodly distance from the nearest road, and surrounded by dense undergrowth and a lonely forest. The house has been unoccupie these many years.

The curtain goes up on this entrance hall, spacious, rambling, full of shadowy nooks and corners, a terrifying number of doors, a stair case mounting to other closed doors, and to what may be behind them. It is absolutely dark, the wind makes strange noises among the trees, there is a scurry of rats overhead, or, was that rats? Maybe it—a man comes stealthily down the stairs, noiselessly crosses the hall to a door in the back, and closes it softly behind him. A screech owl is heard outside—the sound of a woman being murdered. A key is turned in the lock of the outside and there enters—

There enters the first of the 12 characters who enact the mystery farce, the House in the Woods, by Adelaide Matthews and Martha Stanley, which Clarke Painter, Inc., presents at the Lyceum theater, New London on Monday and Tuesday, Oct. 10th and 11th.

The House in the Woods, has been directed by Frank McCormack and the cast includes the following well known players, Dorothy Chard, Richard Gordon, Gertrude Fowler, Albert Phillips, Rose Mary King, Maurice Holland, Elizabeth Dunne, Albert Hyde, Louise Swdmeth, Victor Shipley, James Boshell, William Barry.

Breed Theater

If you want an entertainment that will tingle every nerve with excitement, when you are not laughing heartily at the many humorous predicaments of the hero, see Buck Jones in Whispering Sage at the Breed theater today and Saturday.

Thrills, stunts of daring, hard riding and hard fighting are features in this film which is sure to please old and young alike.

Moon of Isreal which is coming to the Breed theater, Sunday, for a four day run is probably one of the finest love stories that has ever been brought to the screen. The story is from Sir H. Rider Haggard's Moon of Israel and deals with the romance between a Jewish slave-girl and a Prince of Egypt. Beneath the tracery of a network of eastern palms against a background of massive temples and towering pyramids, is portrayed a romance that holds all the fiery passion of the plains of Araby.

The sets in this picture are some of the most pretentious that have ever been used, and in some cases whole ruins were restored so that scenes might be enacted in the actual vicinity that the action took place. The scene where the chariots are massed for the pursuit of the Israelites was taken in a sand-covered roadway that runs through the ruins of the Valley of Kings.

The film was directed by Michael Curtiz, and it is well worthy of the deepest praise. The cast is generally excellent. Mario Corda, Arlette Marchal, and Adelqui Millar, doing particularly well. The picture, which is being released by RKO, was titled by Sir Riger Haggard, whose story it is.

NORWICH DRIVER HAS LUCKY ESCAPE; TRAIN HITS TRUCK AT DANIELSON

(Special to The Bulletin.)

DANIELSON, Oct. 6—Thurston B. Robbins, 23, of 10 Mt. Pleasant street, Norwich, driving a big motor truck of the Yantic Grain and Products Co., had it out with a work train of the New Haven road at Franklin street crossing this afternon about 4:40 o'clock and took a long count though he came out alive but the truck he was driving was twisted like a piece of Christmas candy and one of the rear wheels that was ripped off the truck in the crash lodged under a flat car of the train and finally derailed it approximately 1,000 feet north of here the smash occurred and close to the railroad bridge over Cottage street.

After he had been looked over by Dr. George M. Burroughs, summoned on a hurry call, Robbins a total loss at the time in so far as memory as to what had occurred was concerned was taken to the state police barracks on North Main street and later by representatives of the concern by which he is employed was removed to his home in Norwich. Robbins has no apparent serious injuries. He is bruised and scratched and has an injured ankle but very little recollection, if any, of what happened to him or how.

An eye witness to the accident declares Robbins leaped from the truck when it was aparent that a crash was inevitable. On the way to the barracks Robbins inquired where he was being taken and what it was all about. His mind appeared to be almost a total blank at the time. His mind was clearer before he left for home.

Robbins had been delivering to stores about town prior to the accident and approached the grade crossing where there is an automative signal gong from the east side. The train running to Putnam and listed as extra 318 was northbound. Drivers aproaching the crossing carefully have a view of many hundred feet in the direction from which the train was aproaching. When the locomotive hit the truck it carried it along the track for about 100 feet and then threw it down an embankment west of the track in a roadway just outside the fence of the playgrounds of St. James school.

A rear wheel of the truck that was torn off went rolling along under a flat car that was second in the rear of the engine, tearing up ties, finally threw the car off the irons, bringing the train to a halt. It was later stated that the crash with the truck put the airbrakes of the train out of commission thereby preventing a quicker stop. The local section crew and members of the work-train crew repaired the track so that the train could proceed after a delay of about and hour and a half. Conductor L. F. Creswell and Engineer A. C. Holmes were in charge of the work train.

The truck that figured in the wreck is worth about a cent a pound for junk. It will likely never run again.

The Business and Professional Women's club held its regular meeting Thursday noon at Gregory's lunch with Dr. Kathryn Bryan presiding in the absence of the president, Miss Lucy B. Abbott who is in Detroit.

DESCRIBES POSTAL SYSTEM TO NORWICH LIONS

A description of the postal service, given by Postmaster Casper K. Bailey and a talk upon soap making by James Quinn, president of the New England Chemical company, made two instructive features for the meeting of the Norwich Lions club at the Wauregan hotel at noon Thursday.

In his talk upon the postal system, Postmaster Bailey spoke as follows:

The post office department is the largest business organization in this country and the greatest means of communication, and is conducted on the strictest of business principles. In rendering accounts to the department which is done each three months, commencing with July 1, the beginning of the fiscal year, an error of but one cent is never overlooked, and a post office fails to get the perfect mark for the quarter. This is the objective point that each postmaster strives for. There is also an efficiency record for each office kept in the department, and complaints of any kind reaching the department are at once referred to the postmaster involved. For his information and consideration, after investigating the matter, the facts are forwarded and the department renders its decision. It would be much better if the complainant would first see the postmaster, who is ever ready and willing to listen to and investigate all complaints. As there are very few cases but that could be amicably settled to the satisfaction of all concerned, all postmasters are compelled to adhere strictly to the postal laws and regulations as laid down in what is commonly called the "black book" which contains 1639 sections, many of which are amended from time to time. Of these rulings many may appear unreasonable to some, but they are never issued unless there is good cause. One point the department impresses on all postmasters and employes, that is of giving out information about mail matter of any kind, especially over the telephone, for the reason that persons not entitled to it are liable to try to get it to use for their advantage.

Rated on Receipts

Each office is rated according to its annual receipts, the number of employes, and allowances for auxiliary help are to a great extent gauged by what the income is. If merchants or patrons procure their stamps out of town, naturally the receipts are reduced, and the service to them must be curtailed. As it is hard to convince the department that the same or more work is being performed, the matter of short postage on mail deposited, is a burden to the clerks and holds up the work. Too many merchants are very careless in this matter. Mail that is charged up with postage due is delayed on receipt at the office of address, as due stamps will have to be placed on this class of mail before delivery. If senders would realize this they would be more careful and have all mail fully prepaid. All patrons should endeavor to get their correspondents to address their mail to street and number or box if for city delivery or to the number of the route if on the R. F. D. route as this office has nine rural routes which enter ten towns of New London county and serve over 1250 families. The department is curtailing the work of searching directories, as it is claimed that they are paying for the carelessness of the writers, as insufficiently addressed letters delay the delivery of mail that is properly addressed.

A campaign is being made by the department in an endeavor to get patrons, more particularly heavy mailers, to deposit several times each day, rather than all at the end of the day. The common excuse is "Oh, I am in no hurry for mine," but do they consider that there are others who have important letters that are held back, because their letters must be worked with the important ones. The special delivery and special handling service should be used more extensively and more intelligently. The special delivery stamp quickens the delivery of mail when received at the office of the address only, but the special handling stamp has the effect of making the matter handled as first class. The two combined makes the quickest service of all. The sending of money in unregistered letters is not only liable to loss, but is placing a great temptation before post office employes. Perhaps it is not generally known that an experienced employe can tell when a letter contains money, as the letter has a peculiar feeling. Always send money and valuable by registered mail.

Size of Envelopes

The department is strongly urging the public to discontinue the use of under-sized envelopes, as they cause double the work to handle them, thus delaying all classes of mail. Considerable trouble is experienced by strangers presenting money orders to be cashed, and feel that they are imposed upon when required to be identified, yet on each money order is printed "identification required." Perhaps the public is not aware that the department does not reimburse a postmaster or an employe if a wrong payment is made. Every employe is held responsible for funds under his charge, and any error or shortage must be made good by him. Every merchant doing business and others whose mail is of good size should use special request envelopes. These envelopes are furnished with return address printed by the department for only $1.98 each thousand, for the ordinary size and $2.16 per thousand for a larger size. This is in addition to the postage. If envelopes are spoiled they can be redeemed at the stamp window for their postage value, so there is no loss and the letter is returned if undelivered. Patrons mailing parcel post packages should be prepared to inform the receiving clerk what the contents are. The clerk is obliged by law to ask what the package contains. It is not done out of curiosity but in order properly to indorse the parcel, also to protect themselves. Should a parcel go through and be received damaged, the clerk would be obliged to pay for the contents, if he had not complied with the ruling. The postal service has made many changes in the last few years, and each employe must keep posted with these changes as made.

MACHINE IS WRECKED BY HITTING POLE

A Chandler sedan owned by Frederick O. Bundy of 37 Grove street and driven by his son, John J. Bundy, 18, was badly wrecked late Thursday afternoon when it hit a pole on the Norwich-Montville highway near the entrance to Uncas-on-Thames, but Mr. Bundy and Miss Cook who was with him escaped with minor injuries.

Young Bundy, who is employed at the golf club, was returning to this city, when the car hit a stone, according to what he told the state policeman, bounding from the road and out of his control so that it struck the pole on the right hand side of the road and shot past the pole until it fell over on its left side on the concrete roadbed.

The pole was loosened and turned quarter way around by the force of the blow and the front of the car on the right side was practically demolished. The machine was removed to a Thamesville garage.

Young Bundy was summoned to the Norwich city court on a reckless driving charge by State Policeman Johnson, who investigated the accident.

The young man sustained a cut over his right eye and Miss Cook had a cut in her hand which required three stitches.

NORWICH TOWN

MRS. GEO. S. BEEBE'S DEATH FOLLOWS THAT OF HER SISTER

The community was saddened upon learning of the death of Lilla Eloise Standish, 66, wife of George S. Beebe, which occurred early Thursday morning, at her home on Scotland road, following serious illness of nearly three weeks.

Born in Westchester, February 10th, 1861, she was one of a large family of children of the late James and Eunice Denison Standish.

In Westchester, November 29th, 1886, (Thanksgiving day), she was united in marriage with George S. Beebe, then of North Millington. Their 25th wedding aniversary also fell on Thanksgiving day. Following their marriage, Mr. and Mrs. Beebe resided for about a year at her father's home in East Haddam, later moving to Norwich Town and taking up their residence on Scotland road. There they have made their home for forty years, Mr. Beebe having maintained one of the finest farms in that section, until a few years ago, when he retired from business.

Mrs. Beebe received her education in her home time and later taught successfully in Moodus Falls, prior to her marriage. Besides her husband she is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Fred D. Millard, (Gladys Belle Beebe), of Millburn, New Jersey, and a son, Lucian Beebe, of Best View. There are two grandson, George Standish, and Donald Lucian Beebe, of Best View. She also leaves two brothers, Arthur and Miles Standish of Westchester, and three sisters, (Sarah) Mrs. Alfred Holbrook, of Waterford, (Abby) Mrs. Jesse Wilcox, of Mystic and Miss Lucy Standish, of Middletown.

Another sister, Belle Standish, wife of Samuel Gillette, of Dayville died about three weeks ago. Mrs. Beebe spent several days at her sister's home prior to her death and after her funeral returned to her own home and collapsed, never having been able since to leave her bed. During her illness she was most tenderly cared for by her daughter, Mrs. Millard, a registered nurse, who with every member of the family, bestowed on her the most devoted attention.

Mrs. Beebe was a member of the First Congregational church, Norwich Town. A dutiful wife and mother, she possessed those excellent qualities that constitute true womanhood. A generous hearted loyal friend, and neighbor, she will be greatly missed by those most dear to her. The sympathy of a large circle of acquaintances will be with the bereaved family in their sorrow.

Mrs. Henry Butler, her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Wilfrid Sabourin of Town street, were motor guests Sunday of Mrs. Butler's other daughter, Mrs. Richard Quinn and son, Master Richard Quinn, of Elm avenue. The party went to Monson, Mass., to the home of Mrs. Butler's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Hampston, being called there by the serious illness of Mr. Hampston.

William Burdick of Huntington Green, has been visiting for several days with relatives in North Stonington, chiefly at the home of his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Burdick.

During this week, a long stretch of the state highway through Norwich Town, has been under construction by State Supervisor of Roads Henry T. Gorman. With Ernest Gadbois in charge the state road in this section has been scraped, following its fall coating of tarvia.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Muttart, of Preston City, theformer, president of Norwich Christian Endeavor union, had as an automobile guest Monday evening, Mis Jessie E. Hyde, when a trip was made to Hartford Y. M. C. A., where they attended the October meeting of the C. E. Executive committee, of which Mr. Muttart and Miss Hyde are members.

Miss Gertrude Hyde, accompanied by a friend, Miss Florence Foss, both members of the faculty at Mount Holyoke college, are expected to arrive at Miss Hyde's home Friday, for a brief visit. The Misses Hyde and Foss returned recently from France, where they spent the summer in study and pleasure.

The October meeting of Home chapter of the King's Daughters is to be held at the Johnson home Monday af-

SERIOUS BREACH BETWEEN JUGOSLAVIA AND BULGARIA

The Frontier Has Been Closed—Breaking Off of Diplomatic Relations Between the Two Countries is Imminent—Reinforcement of Troops Have Been Dispatched to Both the Bulgarian and Albanian Frontiers—Two Alleged Assassins of General Kovachevitch Have Been Arrested.

BELGRADE, JUGOSLAVIA, Oct. 7.—(AP)—The closing of the frontier between Jugoslavia and Bulgaria because the breaking of diplomatic relations between the two countries is believed to be imminent was decided upon at a meeting of the council of ministers held here today.

Troops stationed close to the Bulgarian frontier were instructed to occupy their posts in full force and reinforcements were dispatched to both the Bulgarian and Albanian frontier. The sending of reinforcements followed the routing by border patrols of a strong band of comitadjis or irregulars near Sketchevir on the Albanian frontier today.

An attack on the Macedonian frontier village of Kisura by a band of Bulgarian comitadjis today and the assassination of Brigadier General Michael Kovachevitch yesterday have brought relations between Jugoslavia and Bulgaria to the highest point of tension since the Balkin war of 1912.

Two alleged assassins of General Kovachevitch were arrested today. All the newspapers in Belgrade, regardless of their political opinion, are demanding exemplary and prompt justice.

The Kisura raid in which wild reports say numerous lives were lost and several persons injured also has increased the feeling of animosity of the Jugoslavians toward Bulgeria. "The interest of Jugoslavia, the peace of the Balkans and of Europe demands that the crime at Istip (the Kovachevitch assassination) be severely punished," they say.

Sofia, Bulgaria, tonight was apparently cut off from telegraphic communication with the rest of the world. Not a single official Bulgarian version of the latest imbroglio has reached the other countries.

Macedonia is reputed to be a hotbed of strife and rebellion against Belgrade and the Jugoslav government firmly believes and has so informed Sofia that the activities of the comitadjis are more than winked at being actually assisted by the Sofia government.

The Belgrade newspaper Pravda commenting on the situation says that the Bulgarian government believes that the murder was committed by Macedonians in order to prevent friendly relations between Bulgaria and Jugoslavia and in order to bring about the overthrow of the Liaptche government, thus paving the way for the return of Dr. Alexander Tzankoff, former premier of Bulgaria.

AUTHOR SCHEFFAUER SLAYS WOMAN SECRETARY

BERLIN, Oct. 7.—(AP)—In what is believed to have been a fit of temporary insanity, Herman George Scheffauer, American author and critic today stabbed his Private Secretary Katherine Von Meyer to death with a carving knife and then attempted to cut his own throat before plunging to death from a third story window.

Literary circles in which Scheffauer was prominent because of his introduction of many German authors into America through his translations of them into English are excitedly discussing the sensational tragedy and trying to determine a motive for it.

In the house where Scheffauer had an elaborate six-room apartment he was known as a quiet and sober man. At lunch this afternoon the other tenants heard cries of "help" coming from the apartment. A heavy thud on the floor followed and then there was silence. The next moment they heard Scheffauer excitedly walking from one room to another.

Shortly after that he was seen to open a kitchen window and don his working coat! Spectators were horrified to see him cut a deep gash in his throat. The next moment he threw himself from the window landing in the courtyard with a fractured skull. He died while being taken to a hospital.

His family life is said to have been marred recently by repeated disagreements, only a few days ago Scheffauer returned from Ammer See, Bavaria, where he and his wife who was the English Poet Ethel Talbot, had a villa and lived with their six-year old daughter.

The opinion among his friends is that the murdered secretary's reputation was irreproachable.

By the irony of faith the first thing police saw when they entered the author's study was a newspaper with red pencil marks around the caption "Don't let us take life too serious."

GARMENTS DESTROYED BY THROWING OF ACID

DERBY, Oct. 7—(AP)—Acid thrown by vandals on shirts, stock and materials in the plant of the Superior Shirt company here, during Wednesday night or early Thursday morning did damage estimated at between $15,000 and $20,000, it was stated by Edward Abrams, the owner today.

Mr. Abrams said he had no idea who the vandals were, where they came from or how they secured entrance to the plant. His opinion was that they were New York gangsters employed by someone who has had a hand in labor troubles in the trade. Mr. Abrams, himself, said he knew of no one who might have had a grudge against the company or had had any trouble of any kind with the company.

The Superior Shirt company here employs about a hundred persons. The acid was thrown on piles of completed shirts, on stacks of material which was being worked up and upon the cloth which was to be used. The indications, according to Mr. Abrams were that several persons must have had a hand in the vandalism. The plant was closed yesterday because of the holiday and the acid throwers are thought to have done their work after the plant shut down on Wednesday.

MISS GRAYSON TO FLY TO OLD ORCHARD TODAY

CURTISS FIELD, N. Y., Oct. 7—(AP)—Mrs. Frances W. Grayson, Long Island real estate woman and aviatrix, announced tonight that she would take off from here at noon tomorrow for Old Orchard, Maine, where her Sikorsky Amphibian plane will be given final tests before beginning a trans-Atlantic flight, perhaps by way of the Azores.

Accompanying Mrs. Grayson, her pilot, Wilmer Stultz, and the navigator, Brice Goldsborough, will be Boris Lebinsky, Sikorsky factory foreman, and Thomas H. "Doc" Kinkade, the Wright Whirlwind motor expert.

The engineers will subject the Grayson plane, the Dawn, to further load and gasoline consumption tests before Mrs. Grayson, Stultz and Goldsborough hop off for their proposed destination, Copenhagen, Denmark.

APPOINTED SUPT. OF WEST POINT ACADEMY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7—(AP)—Major General William R. Smith was designated by President Coolidge today to be superintendent of the West Point Military academy effective next February. Until then Brigadier General Edwin B. Winans will act as superintendent.

150TH ANNIVERSARY OF BATTLE OF SARATOGA

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 7.—(AP)—New York's observance of the 150th anniversary of the Battle of Saratoga began tonight in this city where the distinguished guests who have gathered here for tomorrow's celebration on the battlefield were entertained at several functions.

A reception and tea for the official visitors was held at the historic Schuyler mansion, home of General Philip Schuyler who fought brilliantly in the Burgoyne campaign only to be superseded by gates on the eve of victory. Governor John E. Weeks of Vermont, Governor Huntley N. Spalding of New Hampshire, Governor John H. Trumbull of Connecticut, and Governor Alfred E. Smith of New York, were in the receiving line.

The Albany chamber of commerce a "victory dinner" at Hotel Ten Eyck tonight for the state executives and for the representatives of foreign nations who are to attend the exercises tomorrow. Later the public attended a patriotic program in the State Education building.

Tomorrow morning the official party goes to the battlefield, between Bemis Heights and Schuylersville, to dedicate the field as a state park. Addresses will be made by the four governors and by representatives of Great Britain, France and Poland and of patriatic societies.

Thousands of spectators are expected to witness the historical pageant to be given under state auspices on the battleground in the afternoon. In the evening a pageant ball at Saratoga Springs will conclude the festivities.

MRS. BUDLONG HAS VERBAL TILT WITH JUDGE CARPENTER

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 7.—(AP)—In the course of a verbal tilt here this afternoon with Judge Herbert L. Carpenter, hearing the divorce suit brought against Mrs. Jesse Margaret Budlong by Milton J. Budlong, Mrs. Budlong, acting as her own counsel, intimated that she intended bringing the case before the supreme court if a decree is awarded her husband.

Her intimation came in the course of one of many sharp exchanges with the court which have characterized the case. Mrs. Budlong requested that certain testimony regarding the custody of her two minor children be stricken from the record. When asked her reason for this, she said to Judge Carpenter:

"I want it so the supreme court will protect me. You will protect me, too."

"Twelve lawyers have tried that and some are not paid yet," Judge Carpenter said.

MISS GLEITZ SUCCEEDS IN SWIMMING CHANNEL

FOLKESTONE, England, Oct. 8—(AP)—(Saturday)—Miss Mercedes Gleitz, London typist, succeeded in swimming the English channel here today on her eighth attempt.

She conquered the tricky channel at a time which was far past the usual season for the attempt. She made the swim in 15 hours and 15 minutes after leaving Cape Gris Nez, France, this morning.

She stepped ashore on a lonely part of the beach between Saint Margareth's bay and South Foreland to the north of here. She staggered from the chilly waters and collapsed. She was brought here late tonight and put to bed.

Miss Gleitz after recovering from her first fatigue said the channel was as smooth as a pond but fog which blanketed the sea greatly hindered her progress. She suffered from bitter cold most of the fifteen hours, she said.

She used a sidestrokoe and a breast stroke resting on her back at intervals.

SEVERED WRIST ARTERY IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

MERIDEN, Oct. 7.—(AP)— Thomas Wrinn, 37, of 36 Cottage terrace, Waterbury, suffered a severed artery of the wrist in an automobile accident here tonight involving three automobiles. A charge of reckless driving will be preferred against him after he leaves the Meriden hospital where he is now confnied, the police said tonight.

Mrs. Mary Haddack, 33 Holmes street, New Haven, Wrinn's companion, suffered lacerations over the eye. She also is at the Meriden hospital.

According to the police, Wrinn's automobile struck a car operated by Herbert J. Burkinshaw, one Bartlett street, which in turn collided with a parked car owned by Lester Sherman, 13 Webster street.

CABLED PARAGRAPHS

ATHENS, Greece, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Madame Pangalos, wife of the former dictator, denied plotting against the present regime when interrogated regarding the alleged movement recently discovered.

VIENNA, Austria, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Charles A. Levine arrived here from Rome by an Italian commercial plane after having spent the night at Udine, Italy, where the plane descended because of violent gales over the Alps.

ATHENS, Greece, Oct. 7.—(AP)—All Greece is conjuring with the name of Madame Pangalos, who is under detention awaiting examination on a general charge of conspiring to release her husband, the former dictator, from the Cretan fortress where he is incarcerated, and restore him to power.

A. F. OF L. RESOLUTION AGAINST BREAD MONOPOLY

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 7.—The court injunction as used against labor, was put before the American Federation of Labor, in national convention here, as the "greatest threat faced by organized labor" in an address today by Hope Thompson, Chicago labor attorney.

Taking the case of the Stone Cutters' union in Illinois, Thompson declared that under a federal court injunction the workers were compelled to continue working because the stone they cut came to them in interstate commerce.

The interstate commerce commission, whose hand in the enjoining order here "looms high to labor, a shadow across the land—God of courts," Thompson said.

Federal judges are not friendly to labor, he said, but labor might solve the problem by taking more interest in the selection of those judges. Most of them have at some time served capital in the capacity of lawyers, he declared, and labor cannot expect them to understand the rights of workmen.

Legislatures cannot help labor, he declared, because the laws they might enact "would be butchered" in the higher courts.

The labor attorney's address preceded the taking up on the convention floor of more than 100 resolutions which have reached the hands of committees.

Four of these resolutions were passed virtually without a remark, one resolution adopted directed officers of the federation to continue efforts to obtain from congress effective action to "protect the American people from development of a bread monopoly" and to obtain the right for the workers to organize. The resolution said the campaign against the "Ward bread trust," had been successful to the extent of "forcing a partial dissolution of that monster combination and thus destroying the dictatorship which William B. Ward brought to establish over the entire baking industry."

KING GEORGE YEARNS FOR RIDE ON BUS TOP

LONDON, Oct. 7—(AP)—One of the ambitions of King George is to ride on top of a London omnibus some day from one end of the town to the other. If this dream is to be realized within the next few months, the king may board a bus directly in front of Buckingham palace, as buses now stop near the palace's front gates, which is something buses have never done before, even in the days when buses were drawn by horses.

Buses have been brought to the front door of the king's town residence owing to changes in the West End traffic due to the tearing up of Piccadilly, which is undergoing repairs for the first time in 16 years.

One of the favorite out-door pastimes of the king of Spain, when he is in London, is to mount a bus top incognito and ride about the town seeing the sights and hearing what the people are talking about.

Queen Victoria always longed to have a ride in London's underground but never did, and King Edward had hopes for years of mingling with the crowds at the races, without being recognized, and making some bets himself, but procrastination robbed him of this experience.

AUTHORS MAKE MONEY RE-WRITING STORIES

PARIS, Oct. 7—(AP)—Some of the more popular French authors have discovered that they can make as much money signing their names or rewriting a few pages of their books than by spending laborious days producing new works. The boom in autographs and manuscripts in England has added immensely to their incomes.

A number of French authors who have attained popularity across the channel accept regular orders from collectors to copy out whole pages of their better-known books and sign them for cash. Some even copy a whole novel by hand, add their signatures—and collect.

"It is easier than writing a new one, and sometimes just as profitable," one of the better known French moderns recently remarked.

WOMEN LOSE PASSPORTS MORE OFTEN THAN MEN

PARIS, Oct. 7—(AP)—Women are more careless with their passports than men. Every day during the tourist season several Americans enter the consulate at Paris with a worried air and the news that their passports have disappeared. Four out of five are women.

Most of them are unable to explain how the precious paper happened to get out of their possession. With proper identification, they all receive new pass ports. For those whose European tours have just begun, and who expect to visit several countries, the extra visas make a big dent in the pocketbook, or that part of the budget originally set aside for shopping expenditures and the purchase of presents for the kin back home.

WOMAN SMOKER WINS FROM MEN OPPONENTS

BERLIN, Oct. 7—(AP)—Mia Katschke recently astounded fifty veteran male smokers by grabbing off first prize in a contest as to who could pull longest at the weed.

The competitive smoking match was staged at Luna Park, Berlin's Coney Island. Fifty male smokers had just received a Havana each and were about to demonstrate who could make his cigar last longest, when young Mia Kartschke entered the stage, took the proffered cigar and found, after keeping the weed on fire for two hours and fifteen minutes, that she had established a new record and been acclaimed Queen of Smokers. She was presented with 1,000 cigars.

$5,000,000 Remains in State Treasury

Expert Accountants Find No Justification for Issue of State Bonds for Any Purpose.

HARTFORD, Oct. 7.—(AP)— While the present "unprecedently large" cash balance of approximately $5,000,000 remains in the state treasury, there can be no justification for the issuance of state bonds, a [illegible] of expert accountants emplo[illegible] by the state board of financ[illegible]rol reported yesterday [illegible]rd. The report was ma[illegible]oday.

The state [illegible] money to provide for all its services and expand them and to finance a highway construction program through this balance, the report said.

The chief problem, according to the accountants, is to make this money available for use between now and the next session of the legislature, which is the earliest opportunity for legislation appropriating the money for needs.

Outbreak of Strange Malady at Unalaska

Coast Guard Cutter Northland Has Been Ordered to Proceed There With Medical Aid.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7—(AP)—The cutter Northland was today ordered by the coast guard to proceed to Unalaska to answer calls for medical aid.

Reports indicated that a strange epidemic had broken out on the island but later information led coast guard authorities to believe that the call merely was for medicine and a physician to care for some ordinary illness.

Coast guard officials, however, lost no time in dispatched the boat to the place, which in former years has been swept by epidemics. A few years ago about one half of the population of the island died of influenza and at another time measles took a heavy toll.

Don't overlook the smaller advertisements in The Bulletin. Look them over. The message which an advertisement conveys is vastly more important than the mere size of the space it fills.

The safest method is to read all advertisements. Read the advertisements in The Bulletin and you will know in advance just what to buy, where to buy it and how much you will have to pay for it. Preshopping in the advertising columns is simply common sense.

If you have been slighting the advertisements, decide now that you will give them a careful hearing after this. It will be as much to your advantage as it will be to the merchant or manufacturer whose name is signed to the advertisement.

REMUS PLEADED NOT GUILTY OF WIFE MURDER

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Oct. 7.—(AP)—George Remus, once called "the king of bootleggers" today entered a plea of not guilty to a charge of murder, first degree, in connection with the shooting to death of his wife, Imogene, and returned to jail reiterating he was justified in the killing.

Arrangements for Mrs. Remus' funeral have not been made. An inquest will be held Tuesday, county officials announced.

In Mrs. Remus' hotel apartment her adopted daughter, Ruth, spent her 20th birthday, while Romola Remus, daughter of George Remus by a first marriage, busied herself in efforts to assist her father. Her mother had planned a birthday party for her today, Ruth Remus said.

During the few minutes at the hearing before Municipal Court Judge Alexander today Remus was his own counsel.

Laughing cheerfully, talking and shaking hands with friends and reporters, Remus climbed the stairs to the courtroom.

He appeared to be perfectly at ease when his name was called.

Judge Alexander reviewed the first degree murder charge.

"What is your plea?" he asked.

"Not guilty," Remus replied promptly.

"Are you ready for trial?" the judge questioned.

"I am," Remus answered.

There was no hesitancy in his voice. He added that he would like to waive preliminary examination.

Judge Alexander bound Remus over to the grand jury and remanded him to jail without bond.

The court room was crowded with spectators.

FOCH WRITES MEMOIRS IN EIGHTEEN VOLUMES

PARIS, Oct. 7—(AP)—Marshal Foch has almost completed the writing of his memoirs, but has refused to let them be published until after his death. They will fill eighteen volumes.

Although the story has now been told, the Marshal labors daily over the manuscript, adding a phrase here, blue penciling a line there, changing and correcting his account of the great war continually. And he says he will probably keep on doing this until he dies.

He spurned a fortune offered him for permission to print the memoirs while he is still alive. He explained that their publication would "disoblige" too many people who would find their part in the victory a smaller one than they were in the habit of imagining.

The truth, and nothing but the truth, is Fch's aim in what he writes. His feeling about some other historians of the great war can be gleaned from his remark that "Today everybody won the battle of the Marne, except Joffre."

POPULATION OF FRANCE GREATER THAN THOUGHT

PARIS, Oct. 7—(AP)—By presidential decree, the official population of France has been increased by 23 souls. Guide-books, histories, almanacs and other informative volumes which give the population of France as 40,745,851 are in error. The figure should be 40,745,874.

When the last census was taken, the names of 23 inhabitants of the village of Honnecourt, near Cambrai, were carefully jotted down, and then overlooked. The fact that they had not been included in the grand total was discovered only a short time ago, where upon the president of the republic and the minister of the interior signed a decree correcting the error.

TO APPEAL TO PUBLIC THROUGH FILM MEDIUM

BERLIN, Oct. 7—(AP)—Determined to regain lands, buildings and mines worth $37,000,000 which he alleges have for 160 years been withheld from his family, Arno von Fredersdorff, descendant of Frederick the Great's trusted confidant, Michael Gabriel von Fredersdorff, has resorted to the unusual expedient of advertising for a leading lady for a film drama that he intends to put on the market.

Von Fredersdorff claims that a sweet heart of Frederick the Great, Marie Elizabeth Daum, poisoned the elder Fredersdorff, alleged herself to be his wife and heiress, and falsified church and public records. She is to be the "villain" of his film drama.

Fredersdorff has spent years in searching church records and other documents. His most recent discovery is that his forbear died twice, or, in other words, that he was entered as deceased in the records of two churches far apart.

All his researches have not yet, however brought him favorable action by the German courts. He has therefore decided to appeal directly to the public through the motion pictures.

His advertisement in the daily press reads in part:

"Wanted—lady, about 5 1-2 feet high, dark eyed, somewhat plump, as heroine of a novel and film which will exploit the historical documents revealing the fraud committed on M. B. von Fredersdorff, privy chancellor and treasurer to Frederick the Great."

COP TOLD MODERN WOMAN TO PULL DOWN HER SKIRTS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Faced by a modern problem perhaps as weighty as some of those which confronted his grandfather of Civil war fame, Lieut. Col. U. S. Grant, 3d, director of public buildings and parks, today upheld one of his policemen who requested a young married woman to lower her skirts while seated on a park bench.

The decision came after a closed hearing in which Mrs. Ross W. Keller, 28, complained that Park Policeman J. B. Lawler had ordered her to "pull your dress down" while seated in Franklin park with her husband last Wednesday, and that the act greatly embarrassed her.

While Mrs. Keller had not committed an "arrestable offense," Col. Grant held that Lawler had "done his duty." He said that circumstances must govern each case of this kind, however, and that when a policeman notices that a woman is attracting attention is "is only an act of kindness for him to call her attention to the fact."

The evidence, he added, indicated that Lawler was entirely courteous, that he spoke first to the woman's husband, and when the latter refused to speak to his wife, called Mrs. Keller's attention to her skirts in "a gentlemanly way."

PRINCESS FINDS NEED FOR AUTOMATIC PENCIL

BERLIN, Oct. 7—(AP)—Her best thoughts and ideas come to her after she has put out the light and before she has fallen asleep, observes Princess Mechtild Leichnowsky, wife of the last German Imperial ambassador to London, in the "Berliner Tageblatt."

The princess, who is one of the leading authors of the new Germany, finds that there is no more productive time for literary inventiveness than that "between the expiration of the electric and of her mental light." Her only wish, she says, is that she might have an automatic pencil which would register her thoughts in darkness.

For want of such a pencil, Princess Lichnowsky now makes mental notes of the chief points. These then recur to her readily the next morning, and she is able to write easily. But she feels certain her output would be more inspired if the automatic pencil had registered her pre-sleep visions.

SKIRMISHING REPORTED IN THE STATE OF VERA CRUZ

General Gomez is Reported to Have Been Defeated in Two Engagements Near Perute—Gomez is Said to Have Fallen Back on the Main Position of the Revolutionists in the Hills About Perute—Attorney General Has Issued a Proclamation Confiscating the Property of 36 Revolutionary Leaders Executed Within the Past Week.

NOGALES, Ariz., Oct. 7.—(AP)—Official Mexican advices to the Nogales Herald today reported defeat of skirmish troops of General Arnulfo Gomez, presidential candidate, in two engagements near Perote, state of Vera Cruz yesterday.

The official dispatches which came from Mexico City to General Pablo E. Macias, commandant of the State of Sonora said the Gomez forces were routed and compelled to fall back on the main position of the revolutionists in the hills about Perote.

The federal troops were commanded by General Gonzalo Escobar and General Jesus M. Aguirre, the latter a bother of General Manuel Aguirre, who holds a federal command in the State of Sonora.

Other official advices from Mexico City carried a proclamation by the attorney general confiscating the property of thirty six revolutionary leaders, executed by firing squads within the past week and of General Gomez.

AN ALLIANCE BETWEEN GEN. GOMEZ AND HUERTA

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Oct. 7—(AP)—An alliance between General Arnulfo Gomez and Adolfo de la Huerta, two of the foremost oponents of the Calles administration of Mexico, was announced here today as reports continued to come across the border of the execution of rebel leaders arrayed against President Calles and the electionist program of former President Alvaro Obregon.

Gomez is in the field in the state of Vera Cruz with a force of several thousand men, while de la Huerta, a refugee in this country, remains at his home in Los Angeles, presumably directing his followers.

The pact of cooperation between the two leaders was reached at a conference between Senator Gerzain Ugarte of Tlaxcala state, representing Gomez and General Caesar Lopezde Lara, agent in San Antonio of de la Huerta, whose brother, Alfonso, was killed by federal forces yesterday in the state of Sonora.

At his home in Los Angeles, de la Huerta declined to discuss the San Antonio meeting except to say that he was "in entire accord with any movement which has the motive of freeing the Mexican people from the Calles regime." The former provisional president of the southern republic, who is under indictment for violation of the United States neutrality laws, added that if he were directing the present revolution he would not admit it.

"Heretofore we (the Gomez and Huerta parties) have been united only in the bonds of mutual sympathy against the reelection of Obregon," General de Lara explained here. "We could not openly endorse the Gomez manifesto because to do so would have brought Calles rifles against them. Now that Gomez also is in open opposition we feel no hesitancy in declaring ourselves in union with him—in fact all rebellious elements in Mexico have united under his banner.

"Adolfo de la Huerta probably will not take the field but will remain in this country as a general representative. The anti-reelectionists will be united under a strong man of military attachments who will prove by his deeds that he is capable."

General Obregon telephoned from Mexico City to his wife at Nogales, Sonora, that he was leaving the capital tomorrow to return to Nogales.

Obregon is the storm center of the bullet-swept political field in the republic. A former president, he is seeking election again following the Mexican congress' action in eliminating the constitutional barrier which prevented one man serving two terms as a chief executive. He has the support of President Calles.

MEXICO CITY REPORTS GOVERNMENT IN CONTROL

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 8.—(AP)—The firm grip of the Calles government continues to control the situation that has resulted from the attempted Gomez-Serrano revolution.

With General Francisco Serrano dead, with General Arnulfo Gomez said by the government to be virtually bottled up in the maintainous country near Perote with 1,500 or 2,000 men at most and more than 5,000 federal troops closing in on him and with no rebel efforts reported here from anywhere else in the republic, the Calles government considers itself to be the absolute master of the situation.

The total number of executions in connection with the revolutionary attempt was not made known officially but there seems to be little question that wherever in the republic persons have been found guilty of participating in it, they have paid or probably will pay the extreme penalty.

General Alfredo Rueda Quijano who was executed by a firing squad yesterday after a courtmartial had found him guilty of rebellion was buried today in the French cemetery in the outskirts of Mexico City. General Serrano and those who were executed with him were intered there recently.

No formal ceremonies of any kind were conducted at the burial of General Quijano. A group of relatives and close friends accompanied the coffin from the residence of a relative where it had been taken after the execution. There were no demonstrations nor was there any excitement along the route to the cemetery. Only casual pedestrians were spectators.

(Special to The Bulletin)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 7.—Six cases slated for the docket of the short calendar session of the Windham county superior court held here today with Judge L. P. Waldo Marvin of Hartford on the bench, were disposed of before 11 o'clock in the forenoon. Judgment by default was rendered for the plaintiffs in the case of the Ocean Accident and Guarantee corporation of New York vs. Christopher Mannlok of this city. The case was uncontested. Judgment was for the amount charged, $147.81, for recovery of premiums due and the interest of $6.40.

A reassignment of the case until the short calendar session of Friday, October 28, was made in the case of the Superior Clothing company of Killingly vs. Morris Heiman, in which the plaintiff sought decision by default and judgment.

The court heard the case of Delphis Boucher vs. Denis Vertefeuille, a suit in foreclosure for an unpaid mortgage of $2,800. Boucher testified as to the sale of the property in Windham and the terms of mortgage. The house had been vacant for some time and was in delapitated condition which would require considerable expenditure to remedy. Alphonse L. Gelinas, local realtor testified that the property was worth between $3,000 and $3,500 and was in need of repair. Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton gave his estimate of the value of the property from $3,500 to $4,000 if the house was in a state of repair. Judge Marvin found for the plaintiff and set Monday, November 7, as the limit of time for redemption.

The attorney for the plaintiffs in the case of the Rhode Island Hospital Trust company, trustee, vs. the Quidnick-Windham Manufacturing company and Charles H. Newell et als, receivers, explained that it was a case of a mortgage and that judgment per stipulation on file was asked. Attorney Bradford stated that the matter had been settled and signed by both attorneys for the trust company and be Quidnick-Windham company. The papers did however lack the signature of Gilman & Mark for the receivers and this was attended to today by sending the papers to the Hartford concern for signatures. The plaintiff attorney said that the signing of the papers was necessary before effecting the sale of certain parcels of the Quidnick-Windham company property in this city. Judge Marvin granted judgment.

Court was then adjourned until Friday, October 28, when a short calendar will be held. Assistant Clerk Miss Marjorie Bradford of Putnam and County Sheriff Charles A. Gates drew the following jury for the October civil term: Windham, Ruel M. Hyde, Charles E. Anthony; Putnam, Fred B. Stanton, C. M. PIMPLES LASTED ABOUT A YEAR

On Face, Hard, Red and Festered. Healed by Cuticura.

"My trouble began with pimples breaking out on my face. They were hard and red and festered. The pimples itched quite a bit, and caused some disfigurement. The trouble lasted about a year. I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. It helped me so I purchased more, and after using several cakes of Cuticura Soap and several boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

At a recent special meeting of White Cross council, No. 13, Richard J. Marks, Sr., was installed as grand knight and his son, Richard Jr. Marks, Jr., as deputy grand knight, creating the unique situation that father and son will fill the two highest offices in the council for the current term.

The installation of officers was performed by District Deputy John F. Hennon of Jewett City, the list being as follows:

RICHARD MARKS, SR.

Chancellor, Theodore Marchand; warden, John A. Burns; recording secretary, Leonard J. Desmond; treasurer, Henry C. Gorman; inside guard, Charles Rinella; outside guard, Joseph Tighe; trustee, John R. Tarrant. (Other trustees in office are Walter G. Casey and Edward G. McKay.); advocate, Martin J. Burns.

District Deputy Hennon gave the lodge an especially interesting talk upon the national convention at Portland, Oregon, to which he was a delegate from this district.

AMERICAN LEGION

To all ex-service men who have not yet made application for the adjusted service certificates (the so called bonus certificate) to which they are entitled, the Robert O. Fletcher Post Post No. 4, American legion wishes to call to their attention the fact that the time for doing so is rapidly nearing its end. Under the law, January 1st, 1928, is the last day on which applications can be filed. Not only on Memorial day but on every other day in the year taps is echoing through out the United States and legion squads are firing final salutes over new graves. With 3,300,000 World war veterans holding adjusted service certificates, 1007 death claims on certificates were approved for payment by the Veterans bureau in the single month of May. Up to the middle of 1927 a total of 33,106 payments had been made to beneficiaries of certificate holders, and the amount paid had reached the total of $33,890,598. Certainly these figures prove the overwhelming fact that the majority of World war service men appreciated the adjusted compensation law sufficiently to take advantage of its provisions. Mothers and fathers, widows and children of more than 33,000 men already have benefited by the thoughtfulness which inspired applications for the certificates. That fact, should be an urgent reminder to several hundred thousand service men who so far have not applied for adjusted compensation certificates, most of them because of ignorance of the conditions under which applications for the certificates may be made, indifference or procrastination.

Those who have not applied should do so now as a duty to their dependents if not to themselves. The time to do so is short. The man who has not yet applied should be reminded that the adjusted service certificate is in effect a fully paid up endowment insurance policy. If the holder of the policy should die before the end of 20 years his beneficiary would receive the full sum in cash which the policy holder would receive had he lived. In case the veteran dies without having made an application, his beneficiaries may apply, but they can receive only about one third of the amount to which they would have been entitled had the veteran himself applied. Under the law dependents of men dying without holding certificate must make application before January 1st, 1928, unless death occurred within six months prior to this date, in which case application may be filed in the first six months of 1928. It is up to the man himself to make application for this certificate.

There is no red tape about the procedure. Every American legion post as well as the Veterans bureau and every army, navy or marine corps recruiting office have the application blanks and will gladly assist the ex-service man in filing his application before it is to late.

The law was passed and applications became receivable May 10th, 1924.

Last legal date for acceptance of applications January, 1st, 1928.

Number of veterans eligible (estimated	4,200,000
Number of applications received and transmitted to the Veterans bureau, July 1st, 1927	3,425,504
Number of eligibles who had not filed applications by July 1st, 1927	774,496
Rate per day at which applications were being received in midsummer (estimated.)	600
Number who will have failed to apply by expiration date January 1st, 1928, calculated on above figures and with allowance for veterans who have died without dependents, unless applications are speeded up — approximatly	500,000

A RECOUNT OF KILLINGLY VOTES TO BE DEMANDED

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 7—It appeared to be definitely indicated today that court sanction will be sought to obtain a recount of the votes cast for John A. Gilbert, republican, and Alcott D. Sayles, democrat, both candidates for first selectman, in last Monday's election. It will be recalled that Mr. Sayles received a total of 758 votes as against 684 cast for Mr. Gilbert, yet Moderator Harry E. Back declared Mr. Gilbert elected first selectman, which ruling Mr. Sayles then and there protested.

Attorney Back's ruling was based on the fact that 589 of the votes cast for Mr. Gilbert were designated for him as first selectman, while only 471 votes were so marked for Mr. Sayles, according to the instructions for marking split tickets on the stub of all official ballots, this requiring the use of the figure "1" instead of the cross-mark "X".

However, Mr. Sayles has obtained legal advice and said this morning that the necessary formalities for obtaining a recount would be taken. This procedure involves making application to a judge of the superior court for permission to make a recount and of giving due notice to the person holding the disputed office that he may oppose the application if he so desires.

It was indicated this afternoon from a place high in the ranks of the republican party here that the petition would not be opposed, so a recount may be anticipated.

It is held by republicans familiar with the result of recounts that as many changes from the original count may be made in favor of Mr. Gilbert as against him; that Mr. Sayles may lose some votes conceded to him in the original count and in instances where there is ground for a difference of opinion, as well as to gain some. The republicans are quite convinced that Mr. Gilbert's margin of votes designating for first selectman is no sufficient to make any material change in the general result.

The Gilbert-Sayles matter has been a subject of general discussion in town all the week, especially in the third district, of which section Mr. Sayles is a resident.

With the prospect of having the ballot boxes reopened for a recount of the Gilbert-Sayles vote there also loomed today the possibility of another petition to recount the tie vote between William Reddy and James Corporan, democratic candidates for places on the school committee. In view of the tie, Moderator Back did not declare either one elected. It is known that the town school committee discussed this matter at this week's meeting and that they have taken legal advice on some phases of the matter. The committee is naturally interested because the tie vote leaves a vacancy in the membership.

General satisfaction likely will follow the adjustment in the superior court in Willimantic today of the differences over taxation between the town of Killingly and Powdrell and Alexander, owners and operators of the mills formerly owned by the Attawaugan company as well as two plants in Danielson. The mill company protested an assessment on the former properties of the Attawaugan company, as entered in the last grand list, and declined to pay the tax on that part of their holdings in the town. The outcome of the matter was the bringing of a suit by the town, which, very happily, was adjusted by agreement between parties and with the approval of the court today.

Under this agreement Powdrell and Alexander will be taxed, for the past year, $260,720 on holdings it took over from the Attawaugan company and will pay a tax on these properties amounting to $6,518, which is materially less than they would have been called upon to pay had the original assessment stood.

The adjustment of this matter is particularly welcome to citizens who have in mind constantly the well being of Killingly and the ways and means of fostering its industries and aiding in their growth. Killingly has been fortunate with its textile concerns while the great industry has been in a terrific slump all through New England and looks with grave concern at any situation likely to disturb the present stability of manufacturing interests here.

Clem J. Powell came all the way from Cincinnati to be haled into court for not having a license to operate the motor vehicle he is using throughout Windham couty on the work in which he is engaged, while making his headquarters in Willimantic. He explained this morning that in Ohio a person having a car registration is not required to have an operator's license, but, it so happened, he did not have the registration with him either. Judge W. Penner Woodward imposed a fine, under the circumstances, of only $1 and costs, a total of $6.64.

Hunters of the territory hereabouts were sleeping on their arms tonight, as it were, for the fall hunting season opens Saturday morning. Today was she of activity in getting guns ready, obtaining supplies of ammunition and assembling such other things as a hunter might need in his equipment before faring forth to field and woods.

There is, it is said, a considerable supply of game birds about this fall. The law will be off Saturday on partridge, woodcock, pheasants and squirrels. No quail may legally be taken during this fall's open season. No female pheasants may be shot and the bag limit for cock pheasants is two in any one day. The limit on partridge is three a day and the limit on squirrels is five.

This afternoon the funeral of Byron S. Martin was held, from the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Martin, with services at St. Alban's church at 2 o'clock, Rev. Leonard R. Richards officiating. Many attended the service. Burial was in Westfield cemetery, where the committal was conducted by Rev. Mr. Richards. The bearers were Patrick Moran, Edward Moran, John Moran, James Moran, James Fitzgerald and Henry Anderson. There were many beautiful floral pieces. Louis E. Kennedy was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

This morning at his home in Plainfield, where he had been a resident for 40 years, the death of Simon Coffey, 87, a native of Ireland, occurred. Mr. Coffey was engaged as a farmer in Plainfield during his active years, but was retired. He leaves his wife and the following children: Mrs. John Sullivan of Moosup, Mrs. Thomas Foy of Plainfield, John of Montville, Augusta, James, Lillian and Eugene, all of Plainfield.

SHOWS NEED FOR MACHINES

Thoroughly justified is the Philadelphia Public Ledger when it says "A fresh stimulus to the movement for the adoption of the proposed amendment to the state constitution looking to the ultimate operation of voting machines in Pennsylvania was given last week by the complications which attended the primary election and the count of the ballots."

That has been one of the strong arguments that has prevailed everywhere and it is quite natural that it should manifest itself in the Keystone state. When it is realized that there is no need for long delays in getting election results, when it is known that votes are counted accurately and quickly by the machines, when it is understood that voters cannot be deprived of their suffrage and when it is realized that machine voting is just as simple as voting by ballot, and in some instances much more so, it isn't long before the ballots are cast aside and machines adopted.

New York city has offered the most dogged opposition to voting machines. A few of them were finally tried in spite of the opposition and the result is that it is now impossible to get the machines fast enough to satisfy the demands of the city, in all wards of which they are to be installed.

Voting machines do away with all the tedious delay and work in looking over thousands of ballots after the polls are closed. The voter expresses his wish and it is registered as he wants it to be. There is no leaving of his vote to the mercies of a lot of counters and there is no throwing out of ballots because counters cannot tell what the voter intended to do. Likewise all midnight sessions of counting and recounting are eliminated.

It is by no means surprising that voting machines are finding favor in small as well as large communities. Their outstanding merits are convincing. Expense is a matter which may halt approval, quite the same as the unwillingness of politicians to yield, but each disputed election, each doubted count, each complication in interpreting voters' intentions strengthens the demand for voting machines.

WORKING THROUGH COLLEGE

It is not solely in the eastern universities that students are encouraged to work their way through college. Whether it is a case where an excellent practice has made a good impression and is being adopted by others, or whether it is an original idea, it has its fine points and it is gratifying to see that it is being employed wherever possible.

From Illinois comes information to the effect that at the University of Illinois there are more than 500 of the 11,000 registrants who are trying to earn their way through by the work which they are able to get within the vicinity of the institution. This means young women as well as young men. They are ambitious to get an education. Their means are limited and they cannot command the funds that would permit them to get what they seek and make no use of idle time.

It is because of the many young persons who are determined to get an education at any cost that self help bureaus have been established at many institutions and those in need of help for most any kind of service have found that through such a means they can get their jobs done and at the same time help many a deserving student.

Without a doubt those individuals who are engaged in putting themselves through college are destined to apply the same determination to whatever line of activity they undertake after leaving college. They are getting an additional bit of training that is going to be invaluable. They are demonstrating their independence in a manner which is going to be manifested throughout their career. Self reliance is being shown in a highly commendable way and if those institutions had prizes for those who make the best showing in earning their way through college there would be a much sharper and bigger competition than there is for many of the other prizes.

Working one's way through college involves much sacrifice but none will get more out of a college training than those who participate in it.

STEP ON IT

"Who is to blame for the $3,680,332 worth of property burned up in Massachusetts last year through careless smoking, and the million more through the careless use of matches?" asks the Massachusetts council of corporations in that state. Then it answers it by declaring "Ourselves! We form the habit of tossing the burning cigarette stub out into the paved street, which is not combustible, and one day we toss it down the wooden stairway, or into the pile of sawdust, which is." The council suggest "Step on the burning cigarette" as the slogan with which to fight the practice.

The truth of such a statement is perfectly apparent to those who have stopped to put two and two together. Repeatedly have fires of all kinds been caused by just such carelessness, just such a disregard for prevention, and it will be a most pleasing result if the safety council in the neighboring state is able to overcome any of this seeming indifference.

The effort brings to attention the case of the automobile owner who had driven his new car up in front of his house and parked it there while he went inside. With his car on his mind he looked out the window a short time later and was surprised to find that his car was afire. Rushing out he was able to check the blaze without assistance but not until much damage had been done to the interior of the car. Someone in passing, either in another machine or on the sidewalk, had tossed a cigarette into the car. This ignited the upholstery and, burning through the seat, had caught some greasy cloths under the seat and a much worse fire was in the making. One can easily appreciate the feeling of that owner toward the one who caused all the trouble and yet that is only one of the many instances where much worse trouble has been caused by similar carelessness. It happens in homes, factories and woodlands and the loss from it throughout the country each year is tremendous.

There's no doubt but what much of it can be stopped. The application of a little well directed throughout is all that is needed to prevent it. Step on the firebrand whenever it is discarded.

THE FIGHT FILM LAW

In view of the inconsistencies that have been shown up in connection with the existing law against the transportation of fight films from one state to another, it would not be surprising if strong pressure were brought to bear for the repeal of the law, or possibly a modification.

The law does not stand in the way of as many people seeing the fight as can be accommodated. There is nothing that restricts the sending of the word picture of the battle as it is going on throughout every state in the Union and there has been no restraint placed upon the publication of the account of the fight in the newspapers. Thus it is possible to learn of the minutest details in various forms by those who can hear and those who can read. But while this freedom is permitted those who take motion pictures, those who would like to get a dollar out of showing them, even as the promoter does who puts on the fight, are prohibited.

This situation has never been brought so pointedly to the attention as since the development of the radio. It is a case where only those who want to see such pictures, quite the same as those who want to listen in to get the accounts of such contests, are obliged to do so. Certainly radio serves a much greater number than would be done by the moving pictures, only it serves in a different way. Some much prefer to get an actually visible production instead of a word picture, even though the latter might be more vivid to those who can visualize what is going on.

With the inconsistencies of the law being showed up, the groundwork for the repeal of the legislation is being well laid.

MEXICO'S TROUBLES

The first thing for a government to do when a revolution breaks out is to surpress it. That is the course which the Calles government in Mexico is pursuing, and in its method of suppression it is executing the leaders in the revolt.

When execution is resorted to it is expected to teach a lesson to all others who may be thinking of participating in such actions and any who may not have been caught. It serves notice upon the latter that they can expect nothing better if apprehended.

Perhaps the reports which are coming out of Mexico are not entirely accurate as far as the extent of the revolution is concerned, but if they are it would seem that the executions are serving to spread the revolution. From the extent to which it is claimed the revolt has spread it is entirely possible that it had been so well organized in advance that its size was not appreciated, and only now is it beginning to be revealed just what the real conditions are.

Time will tell whether the Calles government can successfully meet the situation, or whether the rebels are in any position to carry on for any length of time. But whatever the outcome there cannot fail to be regret that such a country must bear the effects of additional bloodshed over the old question of political supremacy. Mexico has not suffered from strife for a considerable time. There were those who hoped that it would not bob up in serious form again, but such could not have been very close students of the country to the south of the Rio Grande. Their hopes must have guided their thoughts.

EDITORIAL NOTES

The man on the corner says: All up for the fourth and last (?) game of the series.

Is there any danger, if all the coal mines get busy again, that there will be a drop in the price of the fuel?

The revolution mania rolls around regularly in Mexico in spite of its deadly peril.

Now is the time when many of the citizens are getting the annual awakening taking a belated interest in the fast increasing city taxes.

The Plainville News, a weekly serving Plainville, Forestville, East Bristol, Southington, Plantsville, Farmington and Unionville is welcomed as a pleasing addition to the weeklies of Connecticut. It is an attractive, newsy paper and well may it be hoped by those communities that through their support it will in time become a daily, one of the possibilities foreseen by Governor Trumbull in his letter to the proprietor, George Lemitz.

THE MAN WHO TALKS

There are few things that contribute more to the financial prosperity of any country than the invention of some labor-saving device. The basis of any nation's wealth is, and always will be, labor. As civilization advances the area of labor naturally increases. If some device is created that takes the place of manual toil in the older fields of labor, just so much is released for some newer field, and thus the gold is constantly expanding. Startling economic changes in harvesting western farm crops by the introduction of a new mechanical device called the "combine" tends to revolutionize the old method of ingathering. Heretofore the western farmer has been depending on a bunch of unreliable men known as "wops," the "repshag" and "bobtail" of our cities, that wander from farm to farm until the winter weather comes on. This new wonder of farm machinery" not only cuts and gathers the wheat as it moves across the field but threshes it as well. Two men with this machine are worth about a dozen without it.

Speaking of the great changes that are being wrought along this line of western farming introduces another fact of great moment. An economic question has arisen that has fully as much of a moral as a political bearing in the diversity of the waters of the Rio Grande. As is generally known, this wonderful river serves as a boundary line between Mexico and the United States from Brownsville to El Paso. This river merits its name chiefly in the fact that it drains a basin of nearly a quarter of a million square miles. As it flows for the most part through a hot and arid territory its waters have an enormous irrigation value. Now the great moral issue is how much of it belongs to Mexico and how much to the United States. The northern part of the river is wholly in the United States, and of course we have a right to use of its contents. The Mexicans lower are complaining, and the question is how much belongs to each.

It is certainly a far reach from the irrigation of Arizona and Chihauhau to the slimness of the female figure of the human species, and probably neither of them will be settled by the appointment of international committees. Now the latter question has a more important bearing upon the welfare of the human race than is commonly supposed. Now is this matter of dieting for the purpose of retaining slimness of figure a mere passing fad, or does it involve the fundamental question of health? One can easily understand why no woman chooses to be elephantine in appearance, but is there not a grave danger of carrying this matter of reduction so far as to injure one's health. Is not one to a certain extent justified in following the craving of nature for food? Is it not also natural for some to be more fleshy than others- Some figures reduced to spareness become veritable scarecrows; to others it is becoming. Ladies, in this direction please move with caution!

When Babe Ruth makes a homer it gets into every paper of the country, and there is no good reason why it should not. It is simply news, possibly not of the greatest importance, but still it is news that the majority is interested in. It is a very good illustration of what human skill and strength can do when raised to a very high degree of efficiency. The time will probably never come when the rank and file will not enthuse over such rare sportsmanship. If one is going to play ball for a living let him learn to play just as well as is humanly possible. But one can hardly understand why the public at large should not be equally keen to great attainments along other lines about which nothing appears in the public press. How many know—or care about—the fact that Mary Lyon, when a girl, mastered the Latin grammar between Friday night and the following Monday morning? Here was a home run that puts Babe Ruth absolutely into the shade!

Is the distinction ordinarially made between things sacred and secular a valid one? In the popular mind it is the nature of the thing itself that makes it the one or the other. But the more thoughtful conception makes the use to which it is put the deciding factor that makes it sacred or secular. To illustrate: Here are two large public buildings side by side, the one a church and the other a public hall. Why should we call the one sacred and the other secular? It is because the one for the most part is devoted to sacred things and the other for the most part is devoted to secular things. Of course it cannot be the material of which each is composed. Wood, stone, brick, mortar, cement, being inanimate, cannot have moral qualities, and are never good or bad, sacred or secular. If by church you mean that invisible union that associates man with the Infinite, then it may justly be called sacred. The use is the deciding factor.

Isn't any legitimate trade or profession sacred when we put into it the very best that lies within us? Whether it is sacred or not depends more on the character of the man who stands back of it than upon the nature of the occupation itself. The janitor of a church who does his work in a most excellent way has a more sacred calling than a minster who makes a mess of everything he undertakes. Provided a man's occupation is decent; One by which he is entitled to hold to honest living, it is up to him to decide whether it shall be sacred or secular; one of which he may be justly proud, or one that ought to make him hang his head in shame. Someone has said that "everyman is the architect of his own destiny." And I believe that in the vast majority of cases man can be just about what he wants to be as far as character is concerned. If we do the straight thing the word sacred will always apply.

It has come to be a custom at this season of the year for our churches generally to set apart a special rally day in the Sunday school. This in most cases is needed to offset certain trends of the vacation season. The exodus of so many families in these days from their homes to the mountains or the seashore for at least two weeks of August makes it imperative for the smaller schools to discontinue during that month. There are other churches that compromise with this vacation trend by closing a part of the month. At any rate the usual schedule is badly interfered with during the hot season. The rally has the tendency to put new enthusiasm into the school at the right time and probably in the right way. Some have deplored this partial disturbance of the ordinary school work, but probably in the larger sense the new enthusiasm more than makes up for the slackness of August. Let us go strong from now on!

Lovers of nature will be delighted by the fact that the chestnut tree, so easily the favorite in our boyhood days, and which about two decades ago began a slow process of suicide, has recently acknowledged its mistake, confessed its sins, and has started to live once more, feeling that this old world is not the worst possible place to live in after all. Farmers are telling us that out of the old dead stumps vigorous shoots are coming up and already the glory of the old nutting day is looming up once more in the horizon. Apart from our own there was no other nut in all New England that was so justly celebrated as the chestnut. It grew almost everywhere except in the swamps; was quite prolific in bearing, and could be eaten without the aid of a sledge hammer. When boiled they reminded one of sweet potatoes, which, perhaps, is a doubtful compliment. But let us rejoice that the king of nuts is coming back again!

DISSATISFIED

The girl stepped from the cabin doorway and walked to the woodpile where Jeff Lazzy was sitting on a log whittling.

"Wall, I'm certainly glad," drawled Lazzy, "I was a little mite uncertain last night when we talked. Ye got disrespectful while I was countin' off the duty o' gals. What with the temper ye have an' what ye called a chancet I was dumb uneasy. I ain't so young as I was once, an' your ma is some allin'. Seemed right hard soon's we raised up a gal to where she'd be of use to have her leave and forsake us."

Judith laughed, a little constrainedly.

"You're just 41, father," she said, "a big strong, rugged man, right in the prime of life and perfectly able to do a hard day's work."

"Why—why, Judy," her father remonstrated. "Ye—"

"And mother is a year younger and has only two cabin rooms to look after," she went on. "Of course I can help, but what does it amount to? It can all be done in an hour, with an extra half hour to cook meals at the fireplace, because you've never been able to earn a stove. Mother isn't so strong as you, but she's able to walk over to Aunt Sulkey's every day to talk, and that's two miles, and she goes to all the doings on the mountainside. If I was to stay home I'd putter round the cabin for an hour then go into the bushes and pick huckleberries, or maybe gossip, and in a year or two I'd be chewing the end of a snuff stick like the other girls and likely get married and live in a cabin like ma. I'd rather—die.

"I'm going away to fit myself for something better. You don't need any help now."

"Why didn't ye go round to 'vise with Cindy Pote last night like I ast ye? 'Twould put ye in a better frame o' mind, mebbe. Cindy's a good gal, an for goin' to forsake, too, but her folks told her of the evile of it, an' she didn't. She's to home now for good an' all."

"For bad and all, you mean," returned Judith, a little bitterly. "I did go round there, with my mind pretty near made up, and a sight of Cindy and a talk with her clinched it. She was sitting on the doorstep, a snuff stick in her mouth and her hair not combed. She said she was plumb discouraged, but the discouragement didn't seem to rouse her any. She's going to marry Lem Little soon's he gets a place. But when he got four logs high of his cabin raised he went off on a carousal with the Briggs boys. Lem will be gone a month more, then he'll come back an' start to putter on his cabin again, maybe he'll finish it up next week and maybe he won't. But when he does Cindy will marry him. She's that soft. P-sh!"

"O'h Lem'll pick up arter a wife," said her father sullenly. "Young fellers have to be dogs some. I wish mine had been a boy or that she didn't have a streak o' the evil one that's bound to make hair gary an' go sorrerin' to the grave.

"I done let you get a reg-lar rich gal's eddication down to the village school," Jeff accused. "An' that's moren't any father on the mountain ever did for his gal, 'cept Cindy's.

"You forget, father, how you tried to keep me from going," she reminded; "and how I picked huckleberries and bought books and a calico dress. You couldn't have kept me home, you know, without locking and chaining me in."

"Ye cer'ny am disrespectful, Judy," he grumbled. "When a gal gets that bad an' puts herself above—well, anyhow, Sid Brooks don't drink, an' he's got a big, fine house with five rooms an' po'ch an' stove an' all. So ye ain't always everlastin'ly right. Sid he'd wipe up the ground with himself for a look from you, too. An' you know Sid he owns our cabin an' a dozen more roundabout. He's rich, Sid is. I been proud o' my gal workin' him up so. Why, every day he started off to the village school when you did so he could walk down an' back 'longside of you, an' carry your books. He wan't nothin' but a boy then. An' he ain't changed a bit toward ye in all the six years since then. I've hear ye say yourself, Judy, that he kept right along in all your classes, side by side, an' grad-rated at the same time an' with jest as many marks. Ain't many gals can say a feller like Sid has co'ted her six years with no letup an' no carousal times between. An' now ye're goin' to leave an' forsake it all. I'm cert'ny s'prised an' dis'jinted."

"Sids a nice boy, a real nice boy, father," Judith conceded. "I haven't a thing against him except that he's contracted the mountain disease, laziness. I won't marry a lazy man—I mean one that makes laziness a business. Without naming names, father, you have it in incurable form, I'm afraid, and Sid is in a way to make himself just as hopeless."

"Don't you believe it," protested an alarmed voice, as a young man stepped briskly from behind a clump of dogwood at the corner ofthe cabin.

"Why did you fall back into the mountain way if—if it isn't natural?" said Judith, her mouth still grim.

"I didn't, and it isn't," earnestly. "It was just the dead calm in the middle of the whirlpool. I got dazed trying to make you out. 'Twas you who changed, not me. You wasn't the same any more, and whenever I got near to you and tried to find out why and the answer, it was like running my head against a rock, you snapped me off so. It made me see stars. Maybe when I stood back to collect myself I was rather quiet. That's where you got your wrong impression."

"Easy enough for you to right it, Sid," retorted Judith. "Get out of that dead calm into the whirlpool."

"All right," promptly. "Just tell me whether to swim round and round, or strike for some special rock. All I need is a captain."

"All right, then," contendedly. "First, about me. I'm going to use that scholarship I won. It's my chance to broaden out a little, I think."

"But the scholarship is only valued at just enough to cover tuition and books. You'll have to find yourself. How?"

"Working. I've been writing. Servants are hard to get, I find, and wages are good. First, I thought of some store job, but that would be long hours without time for school, till I saved up money. As servant I'm going to give up most of the wages for the sake of a few hours off. Somebody will be glad to do that, I think. The scholarship gives me freedom of the school buildings, library, lectures, music, and all. Having to work will take me longer to graduate, of course, but being in a nice home will give me the benefit of learning how people live—outside of cabins."

Sid looked doubtful. "I don't quite like the idea of you being anybody's servant," he demurred, "though I reckon maybe it's all right, being you say so and knowing what you want. Now about me? Thinking all that out for yourself, I reckon you've thought out something for me, too. You used to at school."

"Why, yes, I have," admitted Judith. "You like farm work and growing fruit's about the same thing. You know the little apple orchard down below us on the mountainside. It's just as fine as any in the whole valley. Now you've got 500 or 1,000 acres just as good. If you have money enough to clear off 100 acres or so for a big apple orchard, that's your job. If not, you'll have to sell enough land to do it. But first, go off as I do, only you take a course in an agricultural college. After that hire out as a hand in some big working orchard and study the practical side of growing and selling. By that time I'll be through. And then—"

"And then?" breathed Sid.

"I—I'll be ready, I'll say yes." — Detroit News.

YOUR HEALTH

BALANCED DIET FOR HEALTH

By R. R. Kime, M. D., Orlando, Florida
Member Gorgas Memorial

The body needs food for nutrition, growth, energy, and repair to preserve health. As a rule, protein food provides for growth and repair of tissue while fats and carbohydrates provide energy. Neither can function normally without vitamins and minerals. Excessive protein diet of meat and eggs produces putrefaction and an active growth of putrefactive bacteria in the intestine that generate acid toxins which must be neutralized or eliminated by the liver, kidneys, and bowels. A long continued excessive protein diet overtaxes the liver and kidneys, and if the bowels are constipated the absorption of toxic material is increased. This cripples the liver and kidney functions, and disease results. Usually the first symptom to develop is a mild toxic condition, a coated tongue, lessened vigor, disturbed nervous system, disturbed digestion, and later increased blood-pressure, disease of kidneys, hardened arteries, and at times apoplexy.

To prevent these conditions, one must eat only the necessary amount of protein food to meet the physiological demands of the body—about 10 per cent of the calories—and if living an inactive life it is important that the protein be from such foods as milk and the lighter forms of meat and eggs. Not only should the protein be the normal amount but more alkaline-ash-forming foods should be eaten, such as vegetables, fruits, and milk. The latter contains proteins, fats, carbohydrates, vitamins, and minerals. In fact, milk is almost an essential in diet for good health.

Milk and glucose produce fermentation and lactic-acid-forming organisms in the intestine. If the acidophilus bacillus is present, putrefaction in the intestine is lessened and the colon bacillus inhibited or destroyed, thus preventing toxine absorption and disease.

All dairy products, vegetables, most all fruits, most nuts, honey, molasses, and maple and brown sugar when digested, assimilated and methobolized in the body, produce an alkaline-ash which neutralizes acid condition in the tissues and acids in preventing acidosis.

Meats, excess of bread and cereals, plums, prunes, and cranberries form an acid base which if very much increased tends to lessen the normal alkaline condition of the blood and favors the development of acidosis.

These basic facts emphasize the necessity of a properly balanced diet to attain and retain health and vigor. The general dietetic rule is: Proteins, 10 per cent; fats, 30 per cent; carbohydrates, 60 per cent. The proportions are 1 to 2 to 6. Included in this should be milk, leafy vegetables, and fruits in proper amounts. This will supply all the essential foods in a well balanced diet, including vitamins and minerals, to build up the tissues, supply energy, and keep the body in good health.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

M. Serge Koussevitzky, who has arrived from Europe to conduct the Boston Symphony orchestra for his fourth season, was the most conspicuous conductor in Russia before the revolution, and afterward a dominant personality in the orchestral concerts of Paris and London. Born in northern Russia in 1874, he attended the Moscow Conservatory, where he made a particular study of the double bass. It was as a virtuoso of this instrument that he became a member of the Moscow Imperial Opera orchestra, and likewise toured Europe. At length he concentrated all his energies upon conducting, organized his first orchestra in Berlin and, in 1909, a far more important one in Moscow. It was here that M. Koussevitzky first extensively revealed the characteristics which brought him success—constructive ability, brilliant leadership and disinterested devotion to the promulgation of the best music, both old and new.

SERMONS FOR SOULS

The sermon that is after a soul is like the master, "filled with compassion." It will have in it what was in Christ's eyes when He looked on Peter with the denials scarce off that poor disciples lips. It will have in it what was in Christ's voice when He stood weeping over Jerusalem, and said, "How often would I have gathered the children together even as a hen gathereth her chickens under her wings, and ye would not."

The severest rebuke will get its chief severity from this deep undertone of compassion and whether it be warning or entreaty, command or invitation, the terror of the law, or the forgiveness of the gospel, the pathos of a suffering and beseeching love will make it clear that if they do not come to Him it is that they have resisted His great love that love that gave His life a ransom that none need perish, but that all might have eternal life.

What are sermons to "the times" compared with sermons to the eternities? Sermons of instruction are priceless, but for eternity it is a word of rescue, a call for repentance, a call to come up higher to look to Christ, to be a new creature, to pass from the old life that shall in the end lead up until the gates shall open to those who shall be found worthy and who have chosen that good part which shall never be taken away. Can the paltry things of this world make up for the loss of a never ending eternity of joy happiness.

IN THE DAYS NEWS

TURIN

American industries have been invited to participate in the exhibition at Turin, Italy, in November, in commemoration of the tenth anniversary of the Italian armistice, and the four hundredth anniversary of Emanuele Filiberto, Duke of Savoy.

"Turin, or Torino, as the city is known to the Italians, is one of the most important industrial centers in Italy," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C. headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"American exhibitors who visit Turin will marvel at the industrial activity of a city without water transportation facilities. No industrial city of a half million population in the United States is without a navigable water course at its front or back door. Turin occupies a fertile plain at the foot of the Alps, 65 miles as the crow flies from Genoa, the nearest seaport, and the Po river bordering the city on the east can accomodate only small row boats and gondolalike pleasure craft.

"Good railroads, that form a network about Turin as a center, keep commerce moving to and from the city. The location of the city near the Italian end of the Mont Cenis tunnel that pierces the Alps, between France and Italy, causes much commerce to flow through it. The tunnel, which is about eight miles long, is on a direct route between northwestern Italy and Paris. The French capital is less than 500 miles from Turin. Before the St. Gothard tunnel was completed, Turin was Italy's chief railroad center but now it bows to Milan.

"Although an internationally known automobile has been manufactured at Turin for two decades, and machinery, leather-working and tanning factories, iron foundries, silk and cotton weaving mills and other industrial plants are turning out a large volume of products daily, Turin, unlike many so-called factory towns, is unusually clean, and unlike many cities of Italy, particularly in the south, unusually modern. Broad, straight streets intersect each other at right angles, frequently opening into piazzas or spacious squares that are surrounded by attractive arcaded buildings, forming unbroken walls four to five stories in height. Some of the piazzas have beautiful gardens, while others are bare save for street-car tracks and electric light poles.

"The Piazza Castello, the hub of Turin, was once within the wall that surrounded ancient Augusta Taurinorum, on whose foundation the Turin of today is built. The walled city was less than ten city blocks square. Now it covers many square miles. Excavations show that the new streets parallel the old.

"The wall has been destroyed but the North Gate, one of the four that pierced it, has been preserved. It is a massive brickfaced structure with two large vehicular and two smaller pedestrian arches. A huge 16-sided tower flanks each end.

"The royal palace, overlooking the royal gardens, near Piazza Castello, is a mute reminder of the days when Turin was capital of the kingdom of Sardinia, and for five years, 1860-65, capital of Italy. The palace contains many statues, historical paintings, frescoes and tapestries. The throne room with its elaborate chandeliers, candelabra and velvet hangings, is one of Turin's show places.

"Works of art are also on display at the Gallery of Modern Art, the Museum of Ancient and Applied Arts, and the Picture Gallery. An interesting display of Egyptian antiquities is preserved in the Museum of Antiquities, including documents, vases, jewelry, food and musical instruments dating back to the 17th century, B. C. The armory adjoining the royal palace contains more than 50 suits of armor and various historic implements of war.

"In the cathedral of Turin there is a piece of linen, which traditions holds is a part of the shroud in which the body of Jesus was wrapped. A copy of Leonardo da Vinci's Last Supper, is displayed in the doorway of the edifice.

"Valentino park, along the Po river, is Turin's Riverside Drive. It has a public garden, a lake, two castles and is beautifully laid out with winding roadways and promenades.

"Mount Caopuccini, across the river, offers a splendid bird's-eye view of Turin. The height of Turin buildings is unusually uniform as viewed from the mountain. Here and there a church dome rises above the house tops but the dome and spire of the Mole Antonelliana, said to be the loftiest walled building in Europe, stands out boldly above all of them. It is but eight feet shorter than the Washington monument."

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Reddy Fox Hears the News

Beware the one who always labors
To find out all about his neighbors.
—Peter Rabbit.

Reddy Fox sat on his doorstep in the Old Pasture. Reddy had been lazy all day. Now he was waiting for the first of the Black Shadows to come creeping out from the Purple Hills. As soon as they appeared he would start out to hunt for something to eat. Mrs. Reddy had not been so lazy. In fact, Mrs. Reddy had been down on the Green meadows and over in the Green Forest. After a while Reddy's keen ears caught the sound of her footsteps as she approached. She came out of the bushes grinning. Reddy grinned back. They understand each other perfectly, do Reddy Fox and Mrs. Reddy.

"I have some news," said Mrs. Reddy

"I have some news," said Mrs. Reddy.

"That's good, my dear, I'm always ready to hear news. What is it?" replied Reddy.

"We have a new neighbor in the Old Pasture," said Mrs. Reddy, and grinned more broadly than ever.

"Do you mean a neighbor who has come to live here?" asked Reddy.

"That is what I understand," said Mrs. Reddy.

"Is it a good neighbor?" inquired Reddy.

Mrs. Reddy chuckled this time. "I'll leave you to judge for yourself," said she.

"All right, my dear," replied Reddy. "Who is it?"

"It is Peter Rabbit," replied Mrs. Reddy, and chuckled again.

Reddy suddenly sat up very straight. "Do you mean to tell me that he has left the dear Old Briar-patch and come up here to live?" he inquired.

"That's what I hear," replied Mrs. Reddy.

"Is little Mrs. Peter with him?" Reddy asked eagerly.

"Mrs. Reddy shook her head. "I believe not," said she. "I hear they have quarreled and separated and that Mrs. Peter is remaining in the dear old Briar-patch."

"How dreadful!" exclaimed Reddy, trying to look shocked.

"What is dreadful, my dear?" asked Mrs. Reddy.

"That Mrs. Peter has chosen to remain in the dear Old Briar-patch," replied Reddy with a grin or mischief. "Do you know where Peter is living in the Old Pasture?" inquired Reddy.

"No," replied Mrs. Reddy. "I heard the news only a short time ago. I hurled straight home to tell you. I do hope the Coyotes have not heard it. We must be very neighborly to Peter. We must be very neighborly indeed. We must take him right in."

"Yes, my dear, we must take him right in," chuckled Reddy, "and the sooner we take him in the better I'll feel. It was very nice of him to come up here to the Old Pasture to live. He couldn't have chosen better. I think the sooner begin being neighborly the better. Now I suggest that you go that way and I'll go this way. We must find out as soon as possible just where Peter Rabbit has made his new home and all the ways of getting to it. My, my, how nice of him to come up here to the Old Pasture. How we shall enjoy him!"

"I hope so," said Mrs. Reddy, "but the first thing is to find out where he is and all about it. So I'm off, my dear, in this direction, while you go in that direction. We will report back here."

Reddy nodded and lightly leaped from his doorstep and disappeared among the bushes. Mrs. Reddy turned and also disappeared. They were on their way to try to be neighborly.

RULES THAT COASTING IS RECKLESS DRIVING

Down grade coasting of commercial motor vehicles, or the operation of such vehicles with the clutch or gears disengaged, is defined as reckless driving by the September bulletin of the state motor vehicle department, which declares that, cases of coasting trucks of the heavy type cannot be punished too severely.

"A good driver, in operating any car," the bulletin says "uses his engine as a brake. The coasting of any motor vehicle is dangerous—that is, to proceed down a grade with the engine disconnected, depending upon the brake alone for control of speed. Such a procedure overtaxes the brake and, if weather conditions are bad, occasions skids.

"It is a temptation for the driver of a large sized commercial motor vehicle who is proceeding down a long hill to go faster than the speed which his engine permits and it is altogether too common nowadays, even though this dangerous practice is understood, to find drivers who disengage the clutch and coast. A man who will do this is unfit to operate a truck and should be discharged by his employer. If he is not discharged and the authorities find him then, recognizing the fact that this offense is probably against the orders of his employer and in any event, not sanctioned by him, the man himself will be severely dealth with. Coasting must stop."

That many owners of large trucks neglect to take into consideration the fatigue and nerve strain on the driver occasioned by long hours of duty is also pointed out by the bulletin. This fact is listed as a cause of many accidents in which commercial vehicles are involved.

A remedy for this situation, which has been adopted by many owners, is the use of two drivers on long trips, one of whom rests while the other drives. "It is false economy," says the bulletin. "Which leads an employer to get along with one man where two are needed. Such situations are now being inquired into by the courts and it is fair to expect that each owner will eventually, both in civil and criminal actions, be obliged to bear his share of responsibility and blame."

Definitions are also given for various types of commercial motor vehicles used for transportation of "personal belongings" and those used strictly for commercial purposes.

The denartment is often asked whether it is proper to carry merchandise in a passenger motor vehicle. "Definitions are broad enough in every case," the bulletin explains "so that where actual business trucking is not engaged in, there is no violations of the law in the carrying of belongings. The term "personal belongings" will include anything which the registrant of a passenger motor vehicle wants to carry, unless it is limited by one for commercial purposes; this is, if a person transports a bag of flour in a passenger car, it does not constitute a commercial use just because the flour is merchandise or freight, but if such a person makes a practice of transporting flour, even if only one bag at a time, for commercial purposes, then the commercial or combination registration might be required."

STRINGING WIRES ACROSS RIVER FOR NEW LINES FROM ELECTRIC PLANT

Good progress is being made in running the electric lines across the Shetucket river from the city gas and electric station on North Main street to the Preston district side of the river and already about half of the 27 wires that will be stretched between the two steel towers are in position.

The tower on the Preston side of the river is at the foot of Rock street, making a 400 foot span across the river. The steel towers are each 60 feet high and are anchored in concrete foundations that run down 20 feet into the earth. The lines of wire sag 14 feet as they stretch between the steel towers, each line giving a pull of 1 1-4 tons. Five tons of OO bare stranded copper wire are required for the 27 lines, which are run in two three-phase circuits and four two-phase circuits, the others being spares. There are six more spaces left to run other city lines if they should ever be required. The three top lines are designated for the use of the Eastern Connecticut Power Co., which may use them in the future and there are three more spaces for additional lines for this company.

When the wires have been strung and connected at the station end and at the Rock street end, it will be possible to cut off the lines on the pole in front of the Bailey property on Burnham square and remove the guy wires over the Bailey property to which George E. Pitcher raised objection and threatented to cut. The court has given the city until December 1 to remove these wires and it is expected that the new tower lines will all be completed before that time.

The scores:

	Oh	Stig	Kulg	Pr	Total
Bowker	22	25	25	25	95

Jordan Motor Cars

The public demands faster automobiles, according to Edward S. Jordan, president of the Jordan Motor Car company. "With thousands of miles of good roads and an ever increasing number of safeguards at curves, hills and cross-roads, it is entirely practical to build faster cars, provided two important factors are borne in mind by automotive engineers. One of these is correct balance, and the other is what is known as balanced steering. If the car is not perfectly balanced, it is not safe to drive it fast, because it won't hold the road when it goes over 40 miles an hour. If the steering is not properly balanced, it is dangerous to drive the car at any speed over 25 miles an hour. Jordan engineers, in developing the new air line eight, worked out the chassis balance to such a fine point that they even balanced the wheels to counteract the weight of the valve stems. This may seem like a trivial thing, but when the car is driven 80 miles an hour, there is no tendency toward vibration, sidesweaying or shimmey. The steering gear that Jordan is now using is of the hour glass worm type, and it is built in this country under English patents. It has been developed to such a fine point and is so perfectly balanced that when you turn the car around a corner, the front wheels come back to a normal position almost unaided by the driver. According to Jordan, it is not necessary to grip the wheel tightly at high speed in order to hold the car on the road.

Traffic authorities everywhere are advocating greater speed if properly safeguarded, and Jordan claims that balanced steering, a balanced chassis, a flexible motor, and effective brakes will eventually be developed by all manufacturers so as to make possible a much more rapid movement of automobile traffic.

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, Oct. 7—(AP)—The Yankee tornado, steadily gathering force and fury in its sweep to the world's baseball championship, swirled about the Pirates today and all but blew them from the series. Behind the almost flawless pitching of Herb Pennock, southpaw star, and with a crushing attack brought to a climax by Babe Ruth's first homer of the series, the American league champions won their third straight game from Pittsburgh's crippled and wobbily crew, 8 to 1, while more than 60,000 howling fans looked on.

The Yankees need only one victory to clinch the series and baseball's 1927 crown. At the pace they travelled today behind Pennock's dazzling twirling, they seem altogether likely to end the battle tomorrow. The Pirates, outclassed so far by a wide margin, must win four straight to win but it would be the biggest kind of a baseball miracle if they did it.

For seven innings today the Pirates were held in the hollow of Pennock's marvelous left hand, bewildered, baffled and impotent before the sharp breaking curves and puzzling change of pace of a veteran who was a cripple, with a badly hurt knee only three days ago. Through this stretch not a Pirate got the semblance of a hit nor did a Corsair foot trod first base safely by any route as the Yankees gave their star brilliant suport.

Traynor Spoils Pennock's Chances

With a no-hit game and a world's series record in sight as the crowd cheered him on, the slender southpaw weakened a bit in the eighth. Twenty-two of the Buccaneers had walked the plank in a row when Pie Traynor, their captain, broke through the infield defense with a single to left and scored the one and only Pirate run on a double by Clyde Barnhart. Pennock was picked for the last hit in the ninth, a scratchy single by Lloyd Waner, but in thus letting the Corsairs down with only three safe blows, the Yankee veteran furnished one of the great world series twirling performances of all time. This was Pennock's fifth series triumph, without a single defeat to mar his wonderful record, thus tying the long stand mark of a great right hander, John Wesley Coombs, who scored four victories for Connie Mack's Athletics in 1910, 1911, and another for Brooklyn in 1916. All of Pennock's victories have been made in a Yankee uniform, two others over the Giants in 1923 and another pair last fall against the Cardinals.

Pennock's performance was all the more remarkable because he had been limping in pain for three days as a result of being hit and severely bruised above the left knee in practice last Tuesday by a line drive from Cedric Durst's bat. It had been regarded as doubtful whether Herb, not overly robust anyway, would recover sufficiently to stand the gaff of a full game. For seven innings today that doubt was completely removed. Although he slipped a trifle in the last two innings, tired perhaps by the strain of his perface pace, there was no substantial let-down. If his stamina had not been put to exertion in the seventh inning rally of the Yankees, as he circled the bases with one of the six runs scored in that frame, Pennock might have had the extra endurance sufficient to have completed a no hit game.

Pennock's mound work added lustree to the Yankee triumph but the American leaguers, out-playing their rivals once more in every department of the game, didn't need any perfect pitching feats to accomplish the downfall of the Bucaneers for the third time in a row.

Ruth Turns the Trick

The Yankee batting avalance, producing two runs in the first inning to give enough margin for victory, swept over the prostrate Pirates in the seventh with a terrific crash, six runs being piled up as Lee Meadows, bespectacled righthander was driven from the mound, and Mike Cvengros, little southpaw, greeted by Ruth's homer with two runners on the paths.

Ruth's smash, a tremendous drive that landed far up in his favorite sector of the right field bleachers, was a fitting final touch to the Yankee victory.

The vast crowd, jamming the big park, had witnessed and cheered Pennock's dazzling work, the flashy defense of the Yankees and the sustained hitting power that had already piled up a commanding lead. But the one big act was missing from the drama until Ruth, with the count 2 and 2, lashed into a slow curve and hoisted it far out of the playing field.

It was the first home run of the series and since it was made by the champion clouter of all it aroused a tremendous din, a swirling shower of papers and a demonstration that continued for several minutes as the Bambino, his face wreathed in smiles, trotted out in front of his own particular crowd—the right field bleacher fans.

Meadows Blows Up

Meadows exploded in this hectic Yankee seventh inning with a report that was even louder than that of the previous two Pirate stars that had been shelled off the mound in two previous days, Ray Kremer and Vic Aldridge. But up until that fateful seventh the veteran and bespectacled Lee came close to holding his own with Pennock.

Off to a bad start in the first inning, when singles by Combs and Koenig, followed by Gehrig's triple, produced two Yankee runs, Meadows settled down to keep close pace with his Yankee pitching rival. As a matter of fact Meadows might have escaped less damage than he did in the first inning, had Hal Rhyne, substituting for the injured George Grantham at second, or Clyde Barnhart fielded a little more smartly.

But after that frame, Meadows held the Yankees to one hit over a five inning stretch. Through the second, third, fourth and fifth, he allowed not the semblance of a safe blow. He had the Yankee sluggers, especially Ruth, Meusel and Lazzeri, bewildered by his slow curves and floaters. While his support was not as good as that behind Pennock, the Pirate pitcher, over this brief stretch, flashed as much, if not more "stuff" than his foe.

Gehrig's double off Meadows in the sixth, the first Yankee hit since the first inning, was wasted but there was no checking the steam roller in the next frame, although some more slow fielding by the Corsairs had as much to do with permitting it to get started as anything else.

Lazzeri started the inning with a single and was safe at second when Meadows threw too late to catch him on Dugan's sacrifice bunt. Durst, batting for Grabowski, advanced both runners when he grounded out to Rhyne and Lazzeri scored when the Pirate second sacker threw too late to the plate on Pennock's roller.

Luck had favored the Yankees thus far but they put on a rousing finish as Combs singled, scoring Dugan, Koenig doubled, tallying Pennock, and Ruth hit his homer, bringing in Combs and Koenig with the last three runs.

Meadows had passed out of the picture after Koenig's double and little Mike Cvengros had anything but an encouraging situation as he faced Ruth. He couldn't keep the ball out of the Babe's home run reach but he did put one belated stopper by getting Gehrig and Meusel on strikes.

Pirates Show Little Improvement

The revised Pirate lineup, with Rhyne put at second in place of Grantham, out with a wrenched side did not show any improvement, either in defense or offense, over its previous two performances. The fielding was again shaky in crucial moments and the hitting, in the face of Pennock's cross-fire, was at low ebb.

In contrast the Yankees scintillated at every turn. They gave Pennock marvelous backing, pulling as hard as the crowd for a perfect pitching performance by the great southpaw.

Joe Dugan, up to his old tricks at third, was especially brilliant. Twice he cut off possible hits, once in the fourth when he speared Paul Waner's line drive and again in the seventh, when he raced in to make a wonderful pickup of Hal Rhyne's perfect bunt and get his man at first with a snap throw by a whisker. Earl Coombs, in center, pulled everything down that came his way while Lazzeri made a remarkable stop over second base and a perfect peg, even though off balance, to retire Spencer in the eighth.

PLAY BY PLAY RETURNS OF SERIES BY MEGAPHONE

As has been the custom for many years The Bulletin will give the public a play by play description of each game of the world's series. A wire direct from the baseball fields in Pittsburgh and New York serves the Bulletin and the action taking place at these fields will be given to Norwich fans by megaphone.

Besides the play by play results there will be descriptive stories by Associated Press sports writers before the game. Carl S. Brandebury will handle the play by play and club house features will be written by E. J. Neil.

The games are scheduled to start at 1:30 o'clock each day except Sunday when the game will begin at 2:01 p. m. The megaphone service will begin about half an hour before game time when pre-game features will be given.

YANKEES 15 TO 1 FAVORITES TO TAKE THE SERIES

NEW YORK, Oct. 7—(AP)—The Yankees' third successive victory over the Pirates today boosted up the odds on the American league champions to win the world's series. Wall street quotations tonight ranged from 10 to 1 to 15 to 1 on New York, with no takers in sight.

Odds on the Yankees to win the fourth game tomorrow were quoted at 6 to 5, but one Wall street firm reported that betting on the game was almost negligible.

PLENTY OF TICKETS FOR WORLD'S SERIES GAME

NEW YORK, Oct. 7—(AP)—Plenty of tickets were to be had at bleachers and grandstands windows, of the Yankee stadium today even after the game had started. From the elevated tracks, however, where one could steal a glimpse of one corner of the stands it seemed that the park was filled to capacity.

A score of scalpers who had guessed wrong were peddling choice seats at box office prices but there were few takers. An army of police who had kept the crowds in order before game time melted away after the game began and only waiting chauffeurs, disillusioned scalpers, empty-handed newsboys and bankrupt fans remained on the sidewalks.

GAME AT RIVERVIEW DIAMOND THIS AFTERNOON

Riverview will clash with the Putnam Silk Sox this afternoon at the Riverview diamond in what is the next to the last game of the series. The Riverview club closes a successful season on Sunday against the Taftville team in the fifth game of the series.

Putnam comes to the State Hospital with a good record behind them and seeking to wind it up in a blaze of glory by hanging a defeat on the Riverview club. The Putnam lineup includes some fast ball players among whom is Lefty Dugas, who played first base for Riverview early in the season. The Putnam management has secured the services of a top notch battery and are confident of giving Riverview a busy afternoon.

Manager Hamel will use either Lefty Dugas or Tony West in the box against the Putnam club. Tillman will do the pitching against Taftville on Sunday.

LOUGHRAN OUTPOINTS M'TIGUE TO WIN LIGHT HEAVYWEIGHT TITLE

NEW YORK, Oct. 7—(AP)—Tommy Loughran, of Philadelphia, tonight lifted the light heavyweight championship from Mike McTigue, getting the judges' decision at the end of 15 rounds. The contest was marked by frequent claims of fouls in the early rounds, but there also was much heavy punching.

Through the entire fight the veteran McTigue carried the fight to Loughran, but Tommy cleverly defended himself and piled up points. He rocked McTigue a number of times with heavy blows to the head and stomach.

In the 14th round McTigue came out stronger than his ten year younger challenger and drove him around the ring with a furious barrage of lefts and rights.

The old warrior put a capsheaf on his fight in the 15th when he was expected to be tired. Mike slashed and banged away until it seemed Loughran could not last the round.

The decision was cheered loudly and there was scarcely a boo as the crowd learned that "Bold" Michael had lost the light heavyweight emblem, the New York boxing commission on him on July 26 after it was vacated by Jack Delaney, of Bridgeport, Conn., who joined the ranks of the heavyweights.

It was McTigue's first fight to defend it. He rallied too late, however, to save the battle. McTigue weighed in at 174 1-2. Loughran had half a pound advantage.

The Preliminaries

Yale Okun, East Side light heavyweight, stopped Earl (Little Boy) Blue of St. Paul, in the 5th round of their scheduled 10 round bout tonight, Blue failing to come out for the tenth. Okun weighed 171. Blue 178.

Blue was in distress from the start. He took a terrible drubbing before his seconds decided to keep him in his corner. He took a count of 9 in the ninth.

Earl Ridgeway, of Union City, N. J., fought a four round draw with Murray Lyton of New York. Ridgeway weighed 126 1-2. Layton 127 1-2.

In the semi-final 10 rounder, James Braddock, of Jersey City, N. J., fought a draw with Joe Monte, of Boston. Braddock weighed 170 1-2 pounds, Monte 176.

The decision was booed. Monte took a count of 9 in the sixth and was in distress in the eighth.

ACADEMY TO PLAY TORRINGTON TODAY

The two foremost Red and Whites of Connecticut high school athletics meet at the Academy campus this afternoon starting at 2:30. These two schools that sport the same bright and giddy colors are none other than our own Academy, and Torrington high, each of which is recognized as way up near the top in all sports in the state.

Today's game is of much importance. It should give a fairly definite view of the local's real self for today they seem to have a much stronger outfit at which to throw their fast traveling backfield and husky linemen than was the case in the opening Chap Tech game last Saturday, where both because of the weak opposition and excessive heat, there was little to get seriously excited over.

Although stopped last week by Bristol the over-state boys are not of the kind to let a thing like this phase them a bit. With Kelly, a 190 pound fullback as the pilot this machine has shown unmistakable signs of strength at many times. Their club tips the beams close onto the same weight as the Academy and with their valuable experience of the last seven or eight days should be just about right to give the locals all they can take care of.

Whereas their lineup is "in" the Academy seems quite a bit unsettled as the sun rises on their second game of what many believe will be most successful grid season of all at the local chool. Several positions will doubtless find new holders when the locals line up for the kickoff this p. m. It is practically certain that Johnny Green's old job at end will find a new boss while Kahn another of the three veterans from last year also may be missing at tackle. Murphy, who showed up well at center the first few days also may not start and Ingalls will probably snap them back. To evidently bolster the line Tommy Vitiano, who has seen much service the past couple years in the backfield has been moved to guard.

From those who were running out the signals Friday afternon it would seem that something like the following will be the starting lineup: Bergbinxo, Taylor or LaCroix, ends; Shea and Pitt, tackles; Mish, Vitiano and Fox, guards; Murphy or Ingalls, center with Jim Kelly and Harry McGlone at the halves, Bill Tirrell at quarter and Capt. Jack Marks at fullback. Even some of the above were limping about yesterday and further changes than those shown may be brought about.

The brand new bleachers on the first base or west side of the campus were put in place Friday and the local field now has more of seating capacity than at any time in its career. Over 2,000 may now be accommodated.

The progress of the world series will be available.

The local game is the only high school tussle in Eastern Connecticut today.

RUTH AND PENNOCK ARE HEROES OF YANKS

By Edward J. Neil,
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 7—(AP)—The great Babe Ruth is satisfied tonight and so is Herb Pennock, slender southpaw ace of the New York Yankees.

The two heroes of the American league champions' third straight victory over the Pirates wrapped an arm about each other's shoulders, forgetful even of the daily battle for the hot water showers and talked the situation over the clubhouse. Around them clustered the rest of the Yankee crew, all more or less heroes in the win that just about wafted the Pirates out of the championship struggle.

"Babe," the lean lefty said, "I thought for a while you were going to let me down. No homer, 'no nothing.' Then bam, right down the middle and the game was in."

"Shoosh," growled the Bambino. "I had to hit a homer. I was sore. No hits yesterday and three foozles today, then Mike Cvengros tossed that curve down the alley. Now I'm satisfied and I wouldn't be surprised if I got another tomorrow."

Grateful to the whole team for the brilliant support that helped him retire the first 22 Pirates to face him without a hit and carry on to a three hit victory, Pennock insisted that every man on the nine share in the plaudits tossed his way.

"The way the gang played was marvelous," Herb announced. "No pitcher ever got better support. I'm mighty grateful."

Modestly, Pennock said that he "mixed them up" today to subdue the Buccaneers and for a time threaten the Pirates with the first no-hit shutout in series history.

"I had good control," he added. "The ball went just where I wanted it. I had good luck too." And the smile that went with the declaration that the ball was obeying his commands and the answering grins on the faces of his teammates indicated that when the veteran southpaw has "good control," a three-hit victory is no surprise.

"I don't believe in pitching inside to one batter, outside to another, or keeping the ball high for one man and low for another," Herb said. "Along with control, just a change of pace, a little speed, a slow one, and a few curves carried me through."

The ball Pie Traynor clouted for a single to notch Pittsburgh's first safety in the eighth inning, was a low curve on the outside, Pennock said. The next batter, Clyde Barnhart, put Pennock in a hole before he doubled off a low fast ball Lloyd Waner's single in the ninth, he said, was a "handle hit."

The rival managers were unanimous in their opinion that the Pirates are in a severe batting slump, caused by the let-down that followed the strain of a final drive to the National league flag.

Donie Bush, refusing to find fault with any man on the team, gave Lee Meadows credit for hurling a marvelous, but unlucky game. He said that Carmen Hill would attempt to hold the Yankees tomorrow with Earl Smith back behind the plate. Donie is confident that the series is by no means over. Miljus will be the Pirate leader's choice to pull the team back almost to even terms with the Yankees if Hill can turn in a victory tomorrow.

Miller Huggins was uncertain of his battery choice for tomorrow, although he announced it would be either Wiley Moore or Waite Hoyt pitching with Pat Collins on the receiving end.

Pulling on his socks in one corner of the Yankee dressing room, "Jumping Joe" Dugan chuckled over the breaks of the game that have given him but few chances and most of them of the most spectacular sort in three contests. In the first game at Pittsburgh Joe leaned into the box seats to catch a foul and today he made the outstanding play of the series to throw Rhyne out at first after a perfect bunt in the seventh.

"I don't get much to do," was Joe's comment, "but what I do sure is hot stuff."

World Series Sidelights

(By the Associated Press)

The Yankee two run rally in the first inning of the third game was helped along by a still shaky Pirate defense, although no errors were chalked up against the Bucs. Koenig's hit was badly handled by Hal Rhyne, making his debut at second base, while Gehrig's triple bobbed around between Barnhart and Lloyd Waner in deep left center before the latter made the throw-in. Only a final relay by Wright kept Gehrig from scoring.

There was a mild demonstration by the Yankees in the fourth against a called ball on Lloyd Waner, who appeared to have tried to bunt. Aided by this decision, Lloyd had three straight balls, but Pennock put the next three over the plate and the Pirate outfielder grounded to Lazzeri.

A fine spear of line drive off Paul Waner's bat by Dugan enabled Pennock to close his fourth straight inning without an enemy foot resting safely on first base; and a neat running catch by Earl Combs off Barnhart had the same effect in the fifth.

Babe Ruth lunged at and missed a slow ball, outside, when he struck out in the fourth. Lazzeri, in the same inning, also missed a slow curve, outside, by a foot as he was fanned by Meadows for the second time.

Meadows had the Yankee sluggers, with the exception of Ruth, baffled by his change of pace, in the first six innings, whiffing Meusel as well as Lazzeri, twice, each with slow curves or floaters.

As Pennock swept through the first seven innings without a Pirate reaching first, the crowd, tense and on edge, cheered wildly with every putout. The Yankees, too, were inspired to sensational fielding stunts behind their twirling ace, reaching a climax in the seventh when Joe Dugan came in fast to grab Rhyne's perfect bunt and throw the runner out on a hair-line decision. Most of the crowd, thought Rhyne was safe but a roar went up when Umpire Ormsby waved him out.

Babe Ruth's homer was his ninth in world series competition and breaks his own record for circuit clouts in the baseball classic. The Bambino registered one in 1921, three in 1923 and four last year. His companion in swat, Lou Gehrig, has not connected for the circuit yet but all four of his hits have been for extra bases. Gehrig has two two doubles and two triples.

TAFTVILLE-RIVERVIEW GAME SUNDAY

The difficulties in the camp of the Martafts have been ironed out and the final game of the Martafts-Riverview series will be played Sunday at the J. B. Martin Co. diamond. Late Thursday night unforseen circumstances arose and it was undecided whether the game would be played at the Martin diamond or not.

That Riverview may have an ace or two up its sleeve is evidenced in the fact that many of the hospital supporters are willing to wager all kinds and sums of money that Riverview will take Sunday's game. The announcement that Manager Troland has secured additional strength from the International league and the Eastern league did not dampen the ardor of the Riverview fans in the least and it is thought that Riverview will appear on the diamond with as strong if not stronger team than Taftville. It is rumored that Johnny Tillman who is slated to pitch the deciding game will bring his own catcher with him. How true this is could not be learned last night.

Manager Troland of the Taftville team announced Friday night that he had made one change in the lineup as announced in Friday's paper. The change is that Eddie Murphy has been re-instated in the lineup and will play first base. Chet Nichols, property of the New York Giants, will do the pitching and Feitag of the Baltimore International league club, will take Eccleston's place on the receiving. Hillis will be again at second with Cecile Krauss at the shortfield position. Tommy Comiskey will be at third. In the outfield will be Gley, Jarvis and Davis

From al reports coming from the camp of the Riverview club the starting lineup will be Tillman p; Belair or Hamel c; Faber 1b; Liberty 2b; Normandin ss; Christy 3b; Mills lf; Moore cf; Dugas rf. Liberty and Christy, both of whom were injured in last week's games are ready for Sunday's game. Christy suffered a wrenched foot while Liberty, it is thought, suffered from a heat attack and overexertion when he made his triple.

The game is called for 2.30 o'clock and there will be radio returns of the world's series game, if the Yanks do not wind up the series today. The radio broadcast will begin at 2 o'clock.

Stealing Butnuts in Vermont

Our butnut grove was five old trees
That stood on top the pastur
Across the brook a mile away
And joining Jim McMaster;
You couldn't see 'em from the house
Which made no end of trouble—
They robbed us spite of stattute laws
And then was mad as hens because
The swagger wasn't double.

Them thieves cared not for man or beast,
They lived on scorn and scorning,
And when we got the first hard freeze
By five the next morning
Our trees was jest as clean and bare
As trees could be. By Gorry!
They must have worked from midnight on
For every butnut nut was gone
And our brick house was sorry.

We knew who 'twas all right enough,
For once we watched and caught 'em;
The same old set that hooked fresh meat
And lived down in the "Bottom";
They always fished on Sunday, too,
And folks that 'tended meeting
They seemed to spite, and yet when sick,
We went and helped 'em jest as quick
And always found 'm eating.

But when the old man died one day,
Of course, they wanted preaching
The same as if he'd owned a pew
And stood for Christian teaching;
The parson, who had missed a ham,
Said yes, with 'parent feeling,
And preached—it made our gooseflesh creep—
On "As ye sow so shall ye reap,"
That balanced off the stealing.

Daniel L. Cady, in Rutland Herald.

Caprice

Priscilla, my Puritan maid, is fair—
Fair with the charm of a dove.
Never a rose in her smoothly brushed hair
Coquets with a fanciful love.
She's honestly sweet in her prim little way,
Not a bit like her sister, Caprice.
Who blithe as a fawn, is so flagrantly gay
In purple and gold and cerise!

One would I choose, and Priscilla, the dear,
Brings visions of comfort and ease.
Caprice is so vivid—so vital—so queer—
With a mood that's akin to a breeze.
With one I would drift on a calm little stream,
Serenity never would cease.
My head is in love with Priscilla, the dove,
But my heart is in love with Caprice!

—Mabel Haughton Collyer.

NOANK

Keith Ebbetts, mate on boat Florence E., with Capt. B. Franke, went out to the Race for a trip at black fishing, Thursday. It was Mate Ebbett's second time at fishing. The fish were biting well when one got on the hook that almost pulled him into the water. He called for Capt. Franke to help him land the monster fish and after 30 minutes of work it was safe aboard the good ship Florence. Mate Ebbetts had read about 9 and 10 pound blackfish, but this one weighed 11 1-4 lbs. the largest one brought into this fishing village this year. This is a record catch for the expert fishermen to try to beat.

Mr. and Mrs. John Johnson of Norwich were recent callers in Noank.

Miss Mary Roberston spent a day in Ledyard this week.

Harry Roberston has gone to Hartford for a few days' visit.

The Saturday Night club went by automobiles with 12 members to attend the chicken pie supper and dance in Ledyard, leaving the waiting room at 6 o'clock to be first in line. But about half way from the church a pig held up traffic and would not get out of the way. For 20 minutes a long line of automobiles kept blowing their horns, to make that pig move, but at last he got to one side of the road and soon was in the woods. The club members got there 30 minutes late, but had a special table for good old Ledyard chicken pie with all the trimmings. After supper they went over to the hall to spend the evening dancing, while Jewett City Ramblers four orchestra played. Prof. Mike August of Preston City called off for the square dances, and eight sets were going at once, while the crowd on the sides enjoyed the sights. A short program was carried out during intermission; four girls from the Day office staff sang several songs. Then Miss Babe did the black bottom with Neil Morrison at the piano, hitting the keys while she stepped on it. The crowd called her back twice. Bernard Carson told about his trip to the West Indies by boat, Miss Helena Lance with Miss Ruth Martin did a cake walk as in the year 1883, the best seen in Ledyard in years. The club returned to the village at a late hour.

The girls held a fire march having been drilled by Lucy Stanton; so in case of fire they will be all trained for it. Foreman Welch of the mill was well pleased and gave his workmen a short talk about doing the drill so quickly.

Have the bull-eye mackerels left the shores of Block Island or gone to Newport? is the question the fishermen ask. Last wek they scooped out about 400 barrels of bull-eyes, but for two days the fleet has been taking only small catches. The Alice N. tied up at Olson's dock Thursday, after having been gone two days getting only 2 barrels of bull-eyes. They think the warm days have sent the fish to a little cooler place. The men claimed it has ben too warm around Block Island. So now the fishing fleet will have to look up another new hiding spot.

Barnum Was Right

Oh, the wind howls 'round my house at night—
Howls with an eerie shriek.
And the ice has formed a whole foot thick,
On the lower meadow creek!

An' the snow an' sleet drive ag'in the panes—
An' the windows rattle—and rattle again;
And I think with a sneese and a shiver
Of a yarn that city chap told—

Of the place where the sunshine shimmers
On palms and oranges, gold;
In the land of eternal sunshine—
On the coast of the Florida Main!

And I vow, by gum, I'll travel—
I'll sell out an' go South, by gee!
No more will wintry strife rule me,
I'll revel in luxury!

My farm is worth five thousand—
My timber five thousand more;
And I'll swap 'em all for a bungalow
On Florida's sunny shore!

Retrospect

I learned how the rain in Virginny
Sweeps down from a leaden sky—
I learned how the "biters" and regular fighters,
Neath Carolina skies!

And I wished on that long, long trek, anon
Learned to wish and wish again—
For a single drink (ye priceless boon!)
From that mountain-fed spring back home!

Mosquitoes were thicker than hornets,
And roaches and bugs galore—
Crawled through the cracks of my "bungalow."
And danced on my cabin floor!

"A steamer right by your very door,
To keep you in touch with the world"
An' the steamer was just an old tramp freight,
That stopped twice a year, or more!

"Rich Jersey milk from a neighboring farm—"
And the cow went dry that year,
Because 'twas so hot the grass dried up,
And cows must have hay, I fear!

"Postoffice, store and village school"
Were in one old ramshackle building;
And were open some days, and others weren't,
Dependin' how the owner was feelin'.

* * * * *

The summer folks howl each season,
And yell about how we stick 'em;
My advice to 'em, now is: "Go south, my friend,
And learn how the real guys pick 'em!"

So I'll stay right here in New Hampshire,
No more wandering for me;
Weigh the good and bad, of my native state,
And it's good enough for me!

Sure Signs

Ephraim's sprucin's up. He's be'n
A widower nigh a year.
He hain't never wore no such clo'es before,
And you might think 'twas kind o' queer—
His featherin' out so. Gracious me!
You'd have to be just as blind
As a two days' kitten not to see
What' Ephraim's got in mind.

He's got a checkered necktie, pink and white; and he pastes his hair,
What little he's got, down over the spot
Where's a powerful strong perfumery smell
When he h'ists his han'kerch' out,
And he's bought kid gloves. 'Taint hard to tell
What Ephraim's thinkin' about.

When Henrietty was livin' he used
To let things slip and slide;
He was terrible slack and close; hung back,
And didn't have no great pride.
He's paintin' the house now, and tearin' down
The old wing, and spendin' free.
And havin' bay-winders put in. Hull town
Knows what his intention be.

He's bought a new buggy he didn't need,
Without any sort of excuse;
He goes round with a smirk, awful chipper and chirk;
He's frisky's a colt broke loose.
And we don't know whether it's Mary Chase
Er the Widow Bedell, er who—
But it's jest as plain as the nose on your face
What Ephraim's goin' to do.

ANSWERS AND QUESTIONS

PICARDY: Your name has been added to the Social Corner list.

Letter in October first Social Corner page, headed, Badly Worn Linoleum, was written by Vera Lynn The name was omited by mistake.

BIRTHDAY GREETINGS

Dear Cornerites:
May the undertakers hate you
And the doctor wish you ill
May you never need a lotion
Or a potion or a pill,
May you live until you're older
Than the mountain in the moon
And your smiles full of wrinkles
As an antiquated prune.

As it is an impossibility for me to send a birthday greeting to each member of the Corner, I struck on this idea of sending this greeting to each member of the Corner whose birthday comes in October, November and December. Am sending this to you to cut out and paste in your Social Corner Cook book. I will send a serviceable birthday present to each member sending me a self addressed stamped envelope.

November Birthday Cake: Can you imagine the effect of a table decorated with chrysanthemums and this beautiful cake? I am going to describe it to you. The November zodiac sign, Sagitarius (the bowman) aids in decorating this very pretty cake. A deep crimson chrysanthemum worked out on a white icing foundation with a ring of zodiac signs around the sides, form the decoration of the November cake.

Tiny tapers surround the whole and a single larger taper. Its end is wrapper in parafin paper and is inserted in the top. To make this cake, take one half cup granulated sugar, one half cup butter, creamed together, one cup milk, three cups pastry flour, four teaspoons baking powder sifted together three times. Add this alternately to the milk with the first mixture until all is used. Then fold in six egg whites beaten stiff and the vanila. Bake in a very large cake pan for 40 minutes in a moderate oven, 375 degrees F. for the first 20 minutes, then at lower heat. Put together with thick white icing.

Here is another cake. Two eggs beaten lightly, till fluffy. Beat in one cup granulated sugar, one half cup flour (sifted.) Next, one half cup flour, sifted with one teaspoon baking powder and lastly one half cup boiling water and one half teaspoon of vanilla. Bake at once in a well heated oven.

Lemon Lotion: Milk of almonds, 1 pint, 1 pint glycerine, 8 ounces tincture of benzoin, 1-2 ounce lemon, juice, 1 teaspoon. Mix, shake well.

TO PREPARE SEA MOSSES

Dear Sisters: Put a small quantity of the dried sea moss into a deep plate filled with water. When it floats out sufficiently, slip a piece of fine paper into the dish, let the moss float onto it; then with a large needle spread out the little fibers as finely as possible, let the water drain gently by holding up one end of the paper. This requires great care that ot does not get disarranged. Lay the paper with the moss on it on a flat surface. Cover the moss with a piece of muslin or linen cloth, and put it under heavy press. In two weeks the cloth may be removed. There is sufficient gluten in the moss to cause it to stick to the paper, but not sufficient to adhere to muslin. For half pressed mosses three or four days will be long enough under press. They can then be easily removed from the paper.

If one wishes to keep weevils out of dried beans please try this method. Place them in the oven and heat them, cool them (be sure they are cold) tie them up in a cloth sack and hang them up.

Some times you notice lard will have a rancid taste. Just slice a raw potato up in it and cook for 15 minutes. Then strain and the lard will be as good and sweet as ever. You can do the same with the grease or fat you fry your doughnuts in, then you can use it for other things.

When pressing black ribbon put it in cold water, straighten it and press immediately with a hot iron.

If you will use a little starch or rice water when you are doing up cretonnes it will take away that flimy look, and they will keep clean much longer.

When you wish to keep a dinner warm, set the plate on top of a pan of boiling water. It will keep it hot and moist and will not crack the plate.

To clean oil cloth that has become stained or disfigured by hot cooking utensils rub it with a slice of raw potato.

To prevent a ladder from slipping, paste pieces of old rubber over each support. This will protect the floors and avert many a fall.

To kindle fires buy cheap candles at 15 cents a dozen, cut them in small pieces and put a few bits among the kindlings. Light them and they will blaze up quickly about 40 fires can be made for 10 or 15 cents.

In making cookies, I roll them all out at one time and then let them dry off (by standing an hour) they not only dry off but they rise to about twice their size.

The proper way to cook rice is one cup of rice to 4 cups of water, put over fire, let come to a boil and boil for 15 minutes. Then set is in your double boiler and cook in the same manner.

When I mix my bread I put it to rise in the same baking dishes I use in the oven when I bake. So when I mix my bread over it takes only a few moments as there is no mixing bread pans.

BACK FROM TRIP TO WEST

Dear Editor and Social Corner Members: This is such a beautiful morning I thought I would write a few lines to the Social Corner. I do not see many letters from Club No. 6 lately, but am looking forward to our next meeting which is to be held in Grange hall, North Stonington. I believe, the place where I was first introduced to the Social Corner. It has been my privilege to spend a month in Detroit, and Howell, Michigan, with a sister and cousin. While there I had some nice long drives to beautiful lakes, for the lakes are to the people there what the ocean is to the people of Rhode Island.

Saw some of the big plants of the Ford industries, and one has to see them to realize their bigness. The more I see of the west the more I realize what a wonderful part of the country it is. Well must not make my letter too long, so close with best wishes for the Social Corner.

GREETINGS FROM HARRY E.

Dear Social Corner: I haven't written in a long time so guess I'll try to again.

Nonesopretty: I'm here, don't be surprised. I always look for your letters and most always find one. Keep it up.

Moses' Wife: I know you but you probably don't remember me. A girl named Dencie introduced us once. You also know a girl I do that lives in Massachusetts whose name is Annie. If I'm not mistaken my sister-in-law was married at your house. She lives in Massachusetts now. I'm going there next week to stay a week.

Cenzi: Am still looking for you and V.

Cherry Blossom: Haven't seen you lately. Why don't you ride down with Mr. H. some day now that he comes everyday? We are going to A's Sunday for a week so don't come this next week unless you want to quarrel with Votami some more. She works in other side now.

Aren't we having lovely fall weather and the trees are putting on their colors. They certainly are beautiful.

Molly Make Believe: I believe I know your daughter F. She used to write to me.

I will close with one of my favorite recipes.

Chocolate Custard: 1 pint milk heated to boiling, 3 1-2 tablespoons grated chocolate, 1 1-4 tablespoons cornstarch, 1-3 cup sugar, 1-2 teaspoon vanilla, 1-2 cup cold milk.

Mix chocolate, cornstarch and sugar, and add cold milk, stirring until smooth. Add this to the boiling milk and cook 15 minutes in a double boiler. Flavor with vanilla and turn into cups or glasses when cold. Sliced bananas improve this.

Best wishes to all.

TWO HUNDRED AT AUNTY NO 1'S PICNIC

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: A little late in writing concerning the picnic of Aunty No. 1, but various duties have claimed my attention up to the present time. The morning ride of Sept. 28th was full of interest as the early signs of autumn were seen which will soon ripen into gorgeous splendor of vivid colorings. Arriving at Aunty No. 1's to attend the annual picnic at her home, Norwich Town, the first noticesble sign was the flag with its starry folds of welcome and soon I saw the Social Corner color of yellow artistically draped at the doors. In Aunty's broad invitation to all, the people saw the spirit of welcome and there assembled 200 people on the spacious lawn. In this gathering most of the Social Corner clubs were represented. Our hostess behind closed doors with many other ladies was arranging for our needs which would come later in the day. Uncle was looking after the welfare of the visitors.

The programme of a social nature was pleasingly carried on through the day as over the gorgeous scene, the golden autumn sun shone warm and bright.

At the approach of the noon hour Dr. Lamb as song leader and all voices present joined in singing Praise God From Whom All Blessing Flow, after which, Rev. A. E. Whitten offered prayer.

Soon the doors opened wide and the waitresses appeared holding a Social Corner menu. In serving and reserving much credit is due to them as they skilfully catered to the wants of the people. Delicious food was served at this time. After a short intermission more greetings were exchanged. We were much pleased to meet two young gentlemen from Detroit and hope they will attend again. It was a pleasing report from Aunty that for 12 consecutive years she had had a pleasant day when her picnic was held. The side attraction was ably demonstrated Mr. B. As some of the people were leaving for home we too fell into line and carried the pleasant memories of a successful day to our home. Hope all present will be at the annual picnic at Aunty's home in 1928.

GUSTA, (Club No. 5.)

CHANGING OVER AN OLD HOME

Dear Social Corner Members: Think I better write a line or some one will be calling me a slacker. I have missed nearly all the picnics or all since our own at Atlantic beach, but, guess our club has been represented at nearly all of them. What fearful hot weather we have been having and the day of the picnic at Aunty No. 1's we were moving into the new ell. We are living in two rooms or rather stowed in and the rest of our furniture is packed away in the other two rooms and two rooms that are finished off in a barn and our hired men are sleeping in another room in the barn. We have had three months of it and I guess it will be three more all right before we can move into the other part as that is just a shell now as all the walls, ceilings, stairs and big chimney have been taken out. If any of you sisters ever make over an old house take my advice and move out before the work is started if there is any possible place to get into.

Connie; You have my sympathy. It was impossible for me to get away to attend the funeral.

By Jingo: I know where you live if I don't know you.

Commuter: I see you did not get disappointed again when you expected G. Was so glad you called, but wasn't I a sight?

I so enjoyed reading of the wonderful trips you, Naomi, Jennie and many others have written about it. For those who cannot go the next best thing is reading about them. Even since Labor day we have planned every week to get away a few days and my good friend Cosmos was willing to keep house for me but, every week some hindrance has come up. So guess my trip will be as usual from pantry to stove over to the sink and back again.

On the 18th of Oct, the third Tuesday Club 6 will start its indoor meeting. The place will be at the Grange hall in North Stonington and Laurette will be the hostess. We shall look for a large attendance. You will hear more about it from the hostess. Now sisters members of Club 6 vacation time is over get out your pen and ink and help fill the Corner page.

GREETINGS FROM NONESOPRETTY

Dear Editor and Friends: Well, folks, didn't we have an ideal day Sunday for our fiddlers' convention? There was some fine music now I can tell you. Hope I can go to the next one Nov. 17.

Kochia: You don't know what you missed by not being there Sunday. Lo will be at you house I suppose sometime after the 18th, but I don't think I can come this fall.

Peggy Alder: How are you? Tired I suppose

Well, I see some of the writers are coming in again. I was glad to see Adam was in last week.

Aries: I was more than pleased with the parcel you sent me. It was very nice of you.

Rural Auntie: Do you suppose Ma of Greene Gables is so busy with those squash pies she cannot get time to write I hope they are not like dried apples. I like good bread, I like good meat or anything that is fit to eat. But of all poor grub beneath the skies. Don't pass me dried apple pies.

Well I hope all the sick ones are feeling better this fine weather.

Azile: I hope you are much better now.

Rural Delivery: Many thanks for your kind remarks.

Best wishes and kind regards to all.

NONESOPRETTY.

GRATEFUL FOR ASSISTANCE

Dear Social Corner Members: I wish to thank all who helped me at the picnic last week, meaning all who help in any way to make it a success, also for the generous gift. I thank you all. I was pleased to see so many present, but I can think of so many that usually attend I missed that day. I was sorry not to see some from Club 3. Let us hope we can all meet next time. I must confess that this time, for the first time, that I did over do. With my other work it was a little too much, so I have been for a few days confined to the house. But am coming along all right.

This letter will have to be short this time for I don't feel able to write much and my brain won't work. All best wishes for the Corner from

SOCIAL CORNER EVENTS

Oct. 12—Club No. 1 meets in chamber of commerce hall, Willimantic.
Oct. 18—Club No. 6 meets in Grange hall, North Stonington.

INTRODUCING SOME NEW FRIENDS

Dear Social Corner: Why not take a stationary tour? You will meet a number of dishes that will be new to you. First we will take England. Our mental picture of an Englishman shows him usually taking tea, and indeed by being an Englishwoman, I think their tea is wildly delightful, delicious and different. I am going to send a recipe I brought from England, one of the most characteristic adjuncts I ever tasted. (This recipe is from the old manuscript rule as made over 225 years ago.) Set a sponge with one pint of sifted flour, one cup warm milk, 1-2 cake of yeast, and 1-2 teaspoon of salt. Let it rise in a warm place until light, then add one-half pound strained honey, one pound currants, 1-2 pound each of candied oranges and lemon peel cut fine, 1-2 ounce each powdered cinnamon and allspice. Beat altogether thoroughly. Roll a sheet of puff paste a little more than an eighth of an inch thick, cut in oval shapes about 4 inches long, putting a teaspoon and 1-4 of mixture in each. When the edges have been pinched together, flatten with a rolling pin and dust with sugar. Bake in a hot oven until brown.

Then stop in Scotland. The thrifty Scot, as you might guess know how to use the left overs.

Sock-a-Leekie: 1 dozen leeks, 1 carrots, 2 stalks celery, 1 fowl, 2 pounds of veal.

Method. Clean and trim the leeks, cut them in pieces about 3-4 inch long. Fry them in butter until a wonderful brown with the celery and carrot.

Boil veal, then take out veal having about 3 pints of stock. Put the trussed fowl in the veal stock then add leeks, carrot etc., Cover and simmer for three hours at which time the soup will be a puree, add salt, pepper and the yolks of 2 eggs, blended with a little of the broth before adding to the soup. It really is at its best when kept a few days and warmed over.

From the upper reaches of the Atlantic, where the Scandinavian fisherman ply their trade, I secured this recipe.

Smothered Fresh Herring: Eight herring, cleaned and washed, wipe dry with cheese cloth. Divide them in halves, (split them down the back bone, remove the bone) roll them in meal, place them closely, skin side down in a hot frying pan with plenty of melted lard. Fry over a moderate fire 15 minutes, turn, fry on the other side. Beat an egg in 1-2 cup of top milk with three tablespoons of chopped chives. Pour this over the fish in the pan and let cook slowly until the egg is stiff. It will have the appearance of a large griddle cake. Turn it out on a plate or platter and slice as if it were a pie. This makes the herring delicious as it is as delicate as milk.

Everyone pronounces my Russian potato cakes a "dream." Peel and grate eight raw potatoes with seasoning of salt and pepper, beat one or two eggs, mix.

Then another way they serve the summer squash. They pick them when 3 or 4 inches long. Wash and cook them in boiling water until tender, taking care the skin is neither broken or scraped. Served with cream sauce these tiny squash are delicious and possess a nutty flavor entirely different or I would say absent from the larger specimen. It is impossible to buy them here in this country, but farmers or people who raise them can partake of this delicate dish.

How to Poach an Egg: First I break an egg in separate dishes to have them ready. Then I oil a skillet (fryings are all right) and when it begins to smoke I put the eggs in with 3 tablespoons of hot water for every egg. Season and put the lid on quickly to hold the steam, as soon as the white is cooked lift the egg out on toasted bread.

HILLSIDE.

BRINGING UP CHILDREN

Dear Corner Sisters: When it comes to bringing up our children I believe too constant training defeats its own object. We are apt to make our children sullen and stubborn by trying to regulate every act of their young lives. In the increasing light of this 20th century we are coming to see the blessedness of individuality. We are beginning to realize that a wise guidance instead of much driving will have more effect in the true development of character.

We often punish, too, for supposed faults, when, perhaps a physical defect something which the child is quite unable to help, is at the bottom of the apparent persistance in wrong doing. What cruelty is often inflicted upon helpless, innocent children in the name of training!

A teacher, M. M. C., of Iona, Iowa, writes of a case of this kind. She says I recently had a pupil who had the habit of winking and rolling his eyes. His mother accompanied him to school the first day and explained if Jimmy was scolded or reprimanded he would immediately start rolling and twisting his eyelids. She said, "I whip him for it is only a habit, and I hope you will do the same. I am so anxious to break him of this habit."

I told her I would pay particular attention to Jimmie, and if I thought it necessary would punish him. After two days of watching and studying Jimmie's ways I found it was more than a mere habit which caused him to wing and roll his eyes.

After much persuasion the parents followed my advice and took the child to an oculist, who advised them to consult a nerve specialist. He found the child to be suffering from a severe nervous disease which disappeared after six months treatment.

He was able to resume his school work and has been completely cured of his disfiguring habit.

One of the many things mothers sometimes forget is to keep promises made their children. Are you who are reading these columns one of that kind? If you are, let your training begin with yourself right here. How can you hope to teach your child the sacredness of the promise if you do not respect your own?

AUNT HET.

MAKE FULL USE OF NEWSPAPERS

Dear Corner Sisters: What institutions newspapers are! Not only do they give us daily news, but they also tell us all sorts of things about history, art, music, drama, literature, biography, the sciences, household affairs, etc. Indeed there is not a subject of interest to man woman and child they do not touch upon. Truly a university in the fullest sense of the word. Yet I wonder how many of us use them as such?

Most of us merely look at the pictures, glance at the headings, possibly give the sports or funny section an extra glance, then throw the paper away. As a matter of fact, every day the paper has articles that are worthy a better fate than the rubbish heap. Yet we turn around, buy expensive books, wade through chapter and chapters, to find about the very things the paper we threw away told us, and told us in a pleasingly concise manner.

We can collect material for, and be the proud possesser of, an enviable library, if we only freely indulge in the "clipping" habit.

The five and ten cent stores have lovely books in which to paste clippings. Some have leathery covers with the word "clippings" on them in gold letters. Then the photograph albums are also excellent for clippings. A set of either of these will make neat books, and a valuable edition to any library.

The material gathered should be carefully classified, one sort of a classification to each book. If there is too much material of one subject for one book, make another classification, and use a book for each phase of the subject.

A minister taught me the value of the clipping habit. He was interested in many things, and was an inveterate clipper. He had a whole shelf of books filled with clippings, all beautifully indexed, and nicely arranged as to titles and subjects. He said his clippings were of greater use to him than his books.

Music has always been a hobby with me. I have collected a set of books on this subject that have been the envy of more than one music student. In fact someone is always borrowing them. These books are nothing but clippings from newspapers and magazines.

Eveline Burr: Enjoyed your letter very much. Hope every sister who read it will turn out and do her "civic" bit.

MT. WACHUSETTS AND BAILEY'S RAVINE

Dear Editor and Corner Sisters: Well every cloud has a silver lining after all, for what wonderful weather we are having after all the rain during the summer.

How fortunate anyone is that can take a tramp in the woods these beautiful days and see nature in all her glory.

We have had some very enjoyable rides this summer. One up to Mt. Wachussett, and believe me it was one never to be forgotten sight.

Going up the steep winding road was enough to take your breath away. (and autos have to have good brakes on their cars to navigate those roads) but oh the beauty and grandure after we reached the top and stepped to the edge of the mountain to look off into the distance, rivers, running like silver threads, through the green fields and valleys, lakes like bowls of water shining and clear and cities and towns here and there with their church spires shining in the sunlight and looking like nothing more than toy villages set out in the fields and woods.

And every thing looked so fresh and green, for like us in Connecticut they had plenty of rain all summer.

They tell me that on a good clear day one can see Boston harbor from the mountain.

I would not have missed that trip for anything and anyone that takes it will never be sorry.

Hibisk: A little bird told me that you live not far from the mountain. You surely live in a beautiful place.

Last Sunday being very hot a relative took me to Bailey's ravine, and when we had climbed the rocks and watched the water running down, I could not help but think, "Well we are back to God's country."

We had just come from the city where it was so sweltering and there it was so cool and peaceful, with only the murmur of the brook and and occasional twitter of the birds.

Any one can not help but feel good to look up at those rocks and trees and we might well say how wonderful is Thy way oh God.

We were not the only ones there though for as we were leaving several more auto parties drove up.

If any of the sisters or brothers either ever have a chance to visit Bailey's ravine don't miss it. It is worth going far to see.

We had a lovely ride and came home thankful for another wonderful day.

Lonesome Pine and Bachelor Maid: You did not know it was Susie that Who Who'd to you.

Guess I've taken more than my share of space, so thanking the editor for my yellow slip and hoping every one is enjoying this heavenly weather. I am the same.

HOW TO MAKE BAYBERRY CANDLES

Dear Editor and Sisters: In looking over the Social Corner page the last few weeks, it seems as though the names of Club No. 6 members are few and far between. Isn't it time we did our bit towards filling the gage?

Zulieka: Was your driver too reckless coming up from Atlantic Beach?

I hope you sick folks are better,

Dorothy Bradford.

Milky Way has been going to tell us about home made fireless cookers all summer but hasn't done it yet and now it is nearly time to have a fire.

E. L. M.: You might tell us of your experience in living in your three room apartment.

And, Skipper, haven't seen you since we were initiated.

After reading Pedestrian's letter about bay-berries, I wonder if some of the ladies would be interested in knowing how to make bayberry candles. First pick the berries; easier said than done, as it takes a good many to make a few candles. This year's crop is the best to use although last year's berries will yield some wax, which isn't worth off by wind and storms, but it takes longer heating to soften the wax. These should be picked over as it strains easier if all sticks and leaves are removed. Also some wax will adhere to them and we cant afford to waste a bit. Place the sorted berries in a wash boiler with plenty of boiling water, so there is no danger of boiling dry. Put on the cover and boil from three to four hours. And don't imagine the odor of those boiling berries is the odor you will get from the finished candles. O! no! While they are cooking get molds ready. I was fortunate enough to have an old fashioned tallow candle mold and had watched an old lady make the tallow candles in one so it made the work much easier. If you have no tin mold a substitute can be made by wrapping heavy, white paper around a candle of the desired size and glue securely. Lay in a hot oven long enough to soften the wax and it will come out of the paper mold readily leaving a coating of wax on the paper so there will be no absorption of the bayberry wax. A disc of paper is placed over the larger end and the edges plaited smoothly and glued to the sides. Now the candle wicking which can be obtained at the hardware store, is threaded alike through the tin or paper mold and a large knot is made in it to prevent it being pulled through. The paper molds will have a frame to hold them upright. The wicking is pulled firmly up through the mold and another knot is tied to hold the strands together. A meat skewer or spike nail is then laid across the holes and the strands are tied over these very firmly but not hard enough to break. Now we are ready for the wax. After boiling the necessary length of time remove from the stove and cool. The wax will form in a cake on the top and can be lifted off into another kettle and reheated. When all melted, strain through a cheese cloth wrung from very hot water. If dry the wax will cool and won't go through. After straining add one part paraffin to the bayberry wax to toughen it. Bayberry wax alone is very brittle. When all melted together pour into the molds and as it cools fill the molds up as the wax shrinks in cooling. To remove from molds the paper may be cut away with a sharp knife while the tin ones need a little boiling water poured over the matter the knots at the bottom have been cut. But pulling gently on the skewer or spike they will all pull out. After filling an eight candle mold I had some wax left that I poured in brownie pans, putting a piece of ribbon while the wax was still melted and made thread wax out of it. Makes excellent ironing wax too. Well, I hope this doesn't get ruled out for being too long. Good luck every one.

WHERE SHOULD 'MUMS BE PLANTED?

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: Thought I would write a few lines as I have not written in some time. Summer has gone and fall is here at last.

The leaves have begun to turn red and yellow and look pretty along the country road. I have picked a few wild grapes in the woods and expect to pick more later.

KITTY LOU: How are you? I am living in the country now, like it better than I did the city.

Can any of the sisters tell me if a chrysanthemum will grow the best where the sun shines or where it is shady? I am trying to grow one and do not seem to have good luck with it.

Here are a few onion recipes. Maybe some of the sisters would like to try some of them sometime.

Emerald Salad: Slice one mild onion and one green pepper very thin, soak in ice water half an hour; then arrange in layers on lettuce leaves. Serve with French dressing, top with a bit of pimento.

Onions Au Gratin: Boil onions as usual, drain and arrange in buttered baking dish. Make white sauce as in previous recipe and pour over onions, sprinkle with grated cheese and soft bread crumbs. Bake 20 minutes.

Color Salad: Drain a small can of grated pineapple. Cut a large mild onion—Spanish or Bermuda—into pieces the size of the pineapple. Combine, place on lettuce leaves and chill. Top with a maraschino cherry and serve after the following dressing has been distributed over each serving. Dressing: Two tablespoons of lemon juice, four tablespoons of oil, one-quarter teaspoon of salt, one-eighth teaspoon of paprika and one tablespoon of parsley coarsely chopped, all thoroughly mixed together. Add oil last.

Best wishes to Social Corner editor and sisters.

RECALLS EARLY DAYS OF THE SOCIAL CORNER

Dear Editor and Social Corner Sisters: What a perfect day today, Oct. 1st has been! I have been up street and did my week end errands. I was very glad to get home where it was cooler.

I had the great pleasure of being able to be present at Aunty No. 1's gathering. I did not make any preparations to go and I surely was not making any preparations to stay away, so when the time arrived to go I just went. I met with some very dear friends and members of other clubs. I had a jolly good time, but I missed so many I am in the habit of meeting at these gatherings. It seemed good to me to see members from Willimantic, Club No. 1, as I am a member of that club.

Club No. 1 was organized at the home of Aunty No. 1, March 1913 in Willimantic with seven members present. The color scheme was decided on that day, "yellow," Aunty No. 1 taught me to make tatting that day. The first flower presented to the first hostess was a yellow chrysanthemum. Married and Happy had the honor of being the first hostess and had the first gathering at her home on the carnoupund, Willimantic. It was on the 12th of October 1913. She called it "discovery" day so those present could find out who was who. I arrived in time to see the others pass by on the other side. Married and Happy is now in a land where there is no pain or sorrow.

J. E. T.: I was so pleased to see you again. What good times we had in the old W. C. T. U. hall. Those cup cakes were fine.

Joan: I have missed you so much.

Scottie: I looked for you.

Sweet William: I was so glad you could be there with Baby Winifred.

Nelly Bly: I was sorry you were not there.

Rose of New England: I missed you on the trolley Wednesday. I went up in a later car.

Arbutus: I am busy house cleaning again and having the rooms done. What a job!

Double Fuschia: How nice of you to send in the names of 14 years ago. I am just about one year younger than the Social Corner. I was an early writer. I have made many dear friends through the Corner. The Social Corner has been the means of bringing together a good many people who perhaps would never have met otherwise. I always feel very free with Corner members. They never set me on the shoulder and say, Hello Sister Ready.

Best wishes to all.

SISTER READY.

ENDORSES ETHELYN'S LETTER

Dear Editor and Social Corner Friends: Today is so beautiful outdoors it makes one feel glad they are living. The leaves are beginning to turn so pretty as you go along the country road, and now and then you will see the birds mostly flying south. I was very glad to see my letter of last week in the Social Corner and I see that I am welcome.

Ethelyn: You certainly had a good piece on Hints to Mothers, for I know what children are. I have seven of my own and they are a great study, and just as you say I believe the foundation of children is deeper than one thinks. We must first see if husband and wife are truly one, in short see if love rules the home.

There is a little short poem I would like to have in on criticism.

Criticism

It's easy enough to pick our flaws
In the work that others have done,
To point out errors that others have made
When your own task you haven't begun,
It's easy enough to fuss and find fault,
When others are doing their best.
To sneer at the little they have achieved,
When you have done nothing but rest.

It's easy enough to cavil and carp
To criticize, scoff and deride,
For few of us ever have done perfect work,
No matter how hard we have tried;
It is easy enough not to speak of the best,
And to dwell all the time on the worst
And perhaps it is proper sometimes to find fault,
But be sure that you've done something first.

MOTHER PRESTON.

THOUSAND ISLAND PICKLE

Dear Social Corner: Just to jog your memory that Club No. 1 is to meet at C. of C. hall in Willimantic Oct. 12. Please bring dishes and something good to eat.

Sisters: Try this pickle and use up your big green cucumbers. Its delicious and easy to make and is called Thousand Island pickle. Four quarts large cucumbers pealed and cut into chunks, 4 onions sliced. 1 large tablespoon salt, 1 quart vinegar, 1 cups sugar, 3 teaspoons tumeric, 4 tablespoons white mustard seed. Cook slowly about 1 hour.

Aunty No. 1: Was more than disappointed in not being able to attend your picnic. Hope you can come to Club No. 1 next week. This is wonderful weather for October and hope it continues. Best wishes for the Corner.

ELIZA JANE, (Sept. 30.)

PLEASED WITH CARDS

Dear Social Corner Friends: What a beautiful October we are now having. The trees and flowers look so pretty everywhere. Sunday I was up to Chic-a-dee's and what a nice time we did have with her. I was sorry I couldn't attend Aunty No. 1's picnic for I know I should have enjoyed it.

I want to thank all the sisters who so kindly remembered me on my birthday—Rebe, Ruthina, Black Eye-Susie, Moonie, Skipper, Pansy, Cute, and Interested Reader. I hope I haven't left anyone out but thanks to all.

E. L. M.: I think I have one from you and many thanks. Ha! Ha! I am rather a good guesser.

Best wishes to all.

TATTING

WRITING WHILE IN THE MOOD

Dear Social Corner: No time like the present so I will go at it while in the mood.

Nice weather and how we enjoy the sun that has been on a backseat the past year. But we can stand all kinds of weather, and what is the use of complaining. Nature knows best.

Mr. Editor: Don't you grow weary reading and correcting our mistakes. We all do our best but we are not all college graduates. I can't kick a ball or row a boat but can spell cat.

I am wondering if the growing generation knows that the first Sunday school was more bitterly attacked than any single radical suggestion of the present day when Roberte Raikes in 1780 gathered the street urchins of Gloucester, England into a Sabbath class, and paid four old women to teach them reading, writing and religion. He was denounced as an enemy to the church.

A Scotch preacher insisted that the Sunday school would destroy family religion. As late as 1820 a Connecticut pastor, discovering a small class huddled in the gallery, chased the darling members out of the church with his cane and branded them as the imps of Satan doing the devils work.

The clergy tried to run it as a lower class affair and it was not until 1830 that Dr. Lyman Beecher took his children into the Sunday school and set an example for people of wealth and culture. The lessons are now more interesting and easier to understand and today there are more people who read the Bible. No book is like the Bible.

I suppose Butterfly is home again from the Mohawk trail, and I hope she had an enjoyable time. But we have here in Connecticut beautiful scenery, lakes, ponds, rivers and mountains, all kinds of minerals even a few gold mines.

Connecticut is one of the beautiful states of the union. I had rather see my own state than any foreign country.

A while ago we went for a ride which took us to the Chase cemetery and I agree with Twice Twenty about the condition it is in. A few dollars and with all the descendants in overalls could soon make it into a splendid place to rest in.

Moses' Wife and Buffalo: I thank you for the pleasant time we had at the last meeting of Club No. 4. In spite of the weather, for it poured fast all day, we all had a delightful time.

I wear both Social Corner pins and only regretted that I had to appear without my badge which I ordered and paid for of Bay State. Where oh where is it? It was last March at Danielson I ordered it. Maybe it has gone where the steam trains have gone.

We welcome all the new writers into the circle. My what a large ring it would make if we took hold of hands and snapped the whip. Glad to hear Ann Tenna is better and able to count cars. You also ordered a badge. Have patience you will get it some time.

Had planned to visit with Club No. 2 but I'll have to wait until next time.

Aries: How do you do? Are your flowers doing well?

Life is a game of chance, a lottery, for it seems that our lives are completely changed by mere trifles. My sympathy to all you who are bereaved and the shut ins, the sick and helpless

How I get whiter, sweeter clothes

from my washing machine

UNTIL I tried Rinso, I never dreamt I could get such white and bright clothes from my washer.

And so easily, too! For now, no matter how soiled the clothes are, I never have to do a bit of hard rubbing, as I used to.

Even the most soiled cuffs, collar bands, hems, rompers, etc., come out so much whiter than ever before. And ordinary stains simply vanish.

Rinso saves money, too. For now I never have to buy bar soaps, chips or powders. Rinso is all I need. It makes our water so soft and sudsy.

I can easily understand why the makers of 30 leading washers endorse Rinso. Just try it next washday!

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Stock prices turned reactionary today in reflection of speculative uneasiness over the record-breaking volume of brokers' loans unfavorable trade news. Operators for the rise succeeded in lifting about a dozen specialties to new high record in early trading, but persistent selling of the leading industrials finally brought about a general reaction. Final quotations disclosed a rather long list of 1 to 8 points declines, with a few running from 8 to 8 points. Total sales again created the 2,000,000 shares mark.

The weekly increase of nearly $50,000,000 in Brokers' loans reported by the federal reserve bank chilled bullish enthusiasm, although the maintenance of the 4 per cent. call money rate in the face of the calling of about $10,000,000 in loans was regarded as a favorable factor. September steel output figures, showing a drop of 17 1-4 per cent. below the same month last year, drew attention to the disappointing character of fall business.

U. S. Steel common, which recently touched a new top at 150 1-2, sold down to 146 1-2, closing just above that figure for a net loss of 1 1-2 points. Crucible held firm, but the other independent steels sold down a point or two.

General Motors (new) contributed about one-sixth of the day's entire volume of business, closing 1 1-8 points lower at 138 7-8 after fluctuating within a range of 3 points. The old stock, which makes its farewell appearance tomorrow, closed a point lower at 276. Packard reacted about a point on realising, but Mack Trucks showed a small gain. New peak prices were established by Abitibi Power, American Power & Light, Bon Ami, Case Threshing, Columbia Carbon, Freeport Texas, Gold Dust, International Match preferred, and Park & Tilford.

Selling of the oils was accompanied by reports of poor third quarter earnings and possible unfavorable dividend developments, Barnsdall A and B, Mid Continent, Phillips and a couple of others touching new 1927 low prices.

In the rail group, Atchison broke 4 points and Baltimore & Ohio, New Haven, Delaware & Hudson, New York Central nad several others sold down a point or more.

Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Commodity markets were also reactionary. Wheat dropped about a cent a bushel on favorable foreign crop weather and a poor export demand. Cotton prices showed only slight recessions, but raw sugar dropped 1.16 of a cent a pound.

Foreign exchanges held fairly steady, with no important changes in rates.

NORWICH MEN SEEKING TO SELL BEER CAUGHT AND FINED IN NEW LONDON

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 7.—Roy MacDonald, 23, a carpenter, residing at Keefe's rooming house, Norwich, and John Bolin, 54, a baker, living at the Shannon building, Norwich, were in the police court this morning charged with violation of the prohibition law, the specific charge being transporting. They were convicted and MacDonald was fined $200 and costs and a fine of $10 was also imposed for failing to have a driver's license. Bolin was fined $50 and costs.

Mac Donald and Bolin, it is believed, were endeavoring to deliver a quantity of beer in this city when arrested, for it was the movements of the automobile they occupied and which carried the beer that attracted the attention of the arresting officers. About 1.30 o'clock the automobile was observed as it entered State street from Main street. The car continued through State street and circled the Soldiers and Sailors' monument, then going through State street and back to Main street. The auto was then driven to John street, to North Bank street and when it appeared again on State street the attention of Acting Sergeant William Graham and Patrolman Arthur Feeley was attracted to the machine. The officers decided to make an investigation. It was apparent that the occupants of the auto were awaiting a favorable opportunity to deliver its contents when not observed by the officers. Graham and Feeley went to the automobile and questioned MacDonald, then inspected the interior of the machine. There they found a large quantity of beer and arrested the pair.

POLICEMAN TAKES CHARGE OF MANCHESTER FLAPPERS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 7.—Anna and Lucy Mattice, 20 and 18 respectively, residing at 165 Oak street, Manchester, were disposed of by judgment being suspended and the girls placed in custody of Policewoman Jane Cassidy. They were sent back to Manchester on a bus when another sister, who had been notified of the arrest of the girls came to New London and provided the sisters with transportation. The girls were observed loitering about State street last night by Patrolman Arthur Feeley and when they made acquaintances through flirtation, they were arrested.

James Burke and Thomas Gorgan, both residing at 77 Lincoln avenue were charged with trespassing. The cases were nolled. Burke and Grogan were arrested yesterday by Sergeant Nelson Smith upon complaint of John Wragg, 367 Jefferson avenue. They entered upon land of Wragg and refused to leave when ordered to do so, claiming that they had been given permission to go there by someone who represented himself in authority to grant them the permission.

The fire department was called out last night for a threatening blaze at the plant of the Raymond & Alexander Lumber company, corner of Howard and Hamilton streets. The fire was discovered by Charles White, watchman and at the time was burning fiercely among a quantity of lumber on the Hamilton street side of the yard. An alarm was rung in from Box 44, in front of the company's office. Deputy Chief Calvin Edmunds and The Niagara Engine company, Allen Hook and Ladder company and the Ockford and Pequot Hose companies responded. One stream of water was all that was necessary to extinguish the fire. The damage was not great.

A dead cat, which had been in the street, corner of Bank and Howard streets three days, was reported by the police to the health department today. An employe of he department disposed of the carcass.

Automobile thieves and crooks who appropriate the contents of cars were unusually active in New London and vicinity last night for autos were reported as having been stolen, while other auto owners notified the police of the theft of articles. Ronald Abernathy, 178 Ocean avenue, parked his Ford coupe on Huntington street, near State street and when he returned to drive to his home two hours later the discovered that the car had been stolen.

A Ford auto, touring type, parked on the Saybrook bridge and which carries Connecticut registration, 26679, was stolen while the driver was away a brief time. Sergeant Bushey, Centerbrook state police, requested the New London police to be on the lookout for it.

Charles Pardise, of North Stonington, notified the New London police that his Ford coupe was stolen and its registration was 3110. This morning the police were notified that an auto had been parked on Meridian street, Groton, the greater part of last night and that it had been stripped of tires, battery antd coils. When the police went to where the auto was parked it was found that it was Pardise's car. Pardise was notified and went to Groton and recovered what was left of the auto.

W. J. Tyron, 11 Methodist street, parked his auto in front of his home for the night and when he went to it this morning he found that several articles had been stolen.

A. E. Andres, 95 Elm street, parked his car on Huntingtun street last night and while he was away from it a thief stole Andrew's driver's license and registration.

KING OF THE BOOTLEGGERS AND OTHERS TAKEN IN RAIDS

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 7—The New London police this afternoon made six arrests of violators of the liquor law, five of the accused being charged specifically with possession and sale, and the other being charged with transportation. All the evidence against the alleged distributors of liquor, it is said, was obtained through United States Coast Guard sailors. Those arrested are Arthur Messer, 31 Summer street; Nora Potter O'Connor, 12 Methodist street; Mrs. Ella Habarek, alias Smith, 97 Truman street; Frank Bruno, 3 Railroad avenue and Jacob Cohen, 9 Pearl street, all charged with possession and actual sale and Carlo Mai, 78 Woodbridge street, charged with transportation. Messer is also charged with carrying a concealed weapon for when he was searched at police headquarters a revolver was found on his person. Messer has long been sought, for he was frequently referred to as being the "king" of the bootleggers and was reputed to be the principal distributing agent in this city. He has been convicted once before of the same charge.

The raids were secretly planned and with the evidence in the hands of the police it was placed before Acting Prosecutor Perry J. Hollandersky with actual sale charged against the gang, warrants for their arrests were issued by the prosecutor. The raids were in charge of Sergeants Samuel Hick and John Cavanaugh and in order to successfully carry out the raiding plans, officers on duty nights were called in for duty. The police swooped down on all of the places raided simultaneously and in all evidence was seized. Most of them included liquor of the home-made brand. Sergeants Hicks and Cavanaugh, Acting Sergeant William Graham and Patrolman Albert Iverson and William Corcoran went to the Messer house and obtaining admission, they conducted a systematic search,believing that a large quantity of various brands of liquor would be found. While a quantity of liquor was seized the amount was not large. Messer was taken to police headquarters and there it was discovered that he was armed.

At the Railroad avenue building, where it is pretended to maintain a club room, Bruno was found and he represented himself to be the proprietor and was arrested. The business is conducted on two floors and both were searched, but only a small quantity of liquor was obtained. The club room has been the rendezvous of sailors principally. This place was raided by Officers John Courtney and Frank Linehan.

At the Pearl street house, Cohen claimed to be in charge, although he is known to be the actual paid employe of the proprietor and as the latter was absent, Cohen was arrested. Only a small amount of liquor was found there. The raiding officers were Patrolmen George Perkins and Carlos Selesnitsky and Motorcycle Patrol Officer Clarence Martin.

At the home of Mrs. O'Conner but a small amount of evidence was obtained. The house was raided by Patrolmen George Cockell, Harry Watterson and Elwood Bailey. Mrs. O'Connor was arrested and fined about three months ago on a similar charge. Mrs. Habarek's home has long been suspected of being a distributor of liquor. The raiding officers found a small quantity of liquor and seized it. The raid there was made by Patrolmen Dennis Murphy, George Perkins and Carlos Selesnitsky. During the progress of a search at the Habarek house, Carlo Mai, bootlegger, entered the house, but he did not know that the raid was on. When he entered he had a gallon container of alcohol which Mrs. Harabek had ordered and which Mai was delivering. When he saw the officers he hastily left the house and started with his alcohol for his automobile, which he had parked almost a block away. Once outside the house Mai started to run for his car, but Patrolman Perkins followed and overtook Mai, arresting him and seizing the alcohol and Mai's automobileas evidence.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Oct. 7.—(AP) — The steady advance of bond prices continued today in the most active market in several weeks. Total transactions totaled well over $14,000,000 more than $1,000,000 of which was centered in a half dozen Italian and German securities. Easy money was still the principal factor in the marqet's strength.

Advancing fractionally, City of Milan 6 1-2s and City of Rome 6 1-2s each sold at 94, the highest figure yet attained, while Italian Kingdom 7s duplicated their previous peak of 99 1-8 for the first time in the current rise.

Buying of domestic bonds was again focused on high grade railroad and public utility bonds. Erie refunding 5s and several of the Erie 4s, Rock Island 4s and 4 1-2s, Chicago and Eastern Illinois 5s and some of the Baltimore and Ohio issues were in the long list of new peaks.

Industrial liens were generally firm with the exception of American Writing Paper 6s, which sold off more than a point.

Treasury 3 3-8s sold freely around 100 17-32s, but a small fraction below their high record, and several other government issues were active. Prices were irregular.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, Oct. 7.—(AP)—Enlarged selling which was associated with the movement of the new spring crop northwest led to lower prices today for wheat. Duluth was said to be offering round lots of wheat to Chicago at close to a workable basis. Predictions of increased arrivals of corn had an additional bear influence.

Wheat closed weak, 1-2 to 1c lower, corn 7-8 to 1 3-8c down, oats unchanged to 1-4c@3-8c off, and provisions unchanged to a rise of 17c.

The fact that better weather than of late was looked for in Canada tended to increase selling pressure in the wheat market, and so likewise did heavy recipts at Minneapolis, Duluth and Winnipeg, much larger than a year ago.

Frosts in parts of Iowa and predictions of frost tonight in other states had only a transient bullish effect on the corn market. There was some selling of corn against purchases of wheat. Oats trade was very small.

Provisions were firmer, tending upward in line with hog values.

Style Show Creates Interest

Tubridy-Weldon's scored another decisive success in opening the fall season for Willimantic and vicinity with its tenth semi-annual style show and promenade. Unseasonably warm weather did not deter the fair sex from taxing the capacity of the firm's establishment to witness this showing of what is smart in fall apparel. Professional New York models disported by the well-dressed woman this season, by thewell-dressed woman this season. Phonographic music was furnished for the promenade and the materials of the garments were described by Mrs. John P. Hersant. Black continues to predominate with brown and its rich mixtures close seconds. Suede velour, broadcloth, chiffon broadcloth and vanise are especially in favour in coats and the pointed wolf, shawl collar lends an attractive touch. Satins, crepes and combinations of georgette and velvet are popular dress materials.

Breed Theater

A picture which has for its theme what is undoubtedly the mightiest love story ever filmed will appear on Sunday at the Breed theater. This picture, Moon of Israel, was shown for the first time at the Roxy theater in New York and played for several weeks at the Cameo theater in that city. The story deals with the love of an Egyptian prince for a Israelite slave-girl. A girl who is willing to give up her people and risk her happiness, merely to be near the man she loves.

The glories and scenes of ancient Egypt were reproduced in detail, and in midst of some ofthe most colossol sets ever filmed the romance between the prince and the slave-girl progresses. Moon of Israel is a film with many climaxes. From the scenes where the toiling Israelites are struggling beneath the lashes of the overseers, through the Ten Plagues, where the fertile plains of Egypt are turned to shambles, to the final thrilling sequence, when the Red Sea rolls back beneath the rod of Moses, only to completely engulf the pursuing Egyptians, there is not a dull moment, and the final scene ofthe picture provides one of the greatest thrills ever shown.

Maria Corda makes a glorious Merapi, Moon of Israel, and Arlette Marchal is perfect as the Princess Naerti. Adelqui Millar as Prince Seti and Henry Mar as Moses deserve great praise, and the whole caast does great credit to the masterly direction of Michael Curtiz.

Palace Theater

You have your last opportunity of seeing the greatest show in the country at the Palace today. The performance will run continuously from 1:30 until 10:30 this evening. You may visit the theater at any time during the afternoon or evening and be assured of seeing a complete show. Five acts of big time vaudeville and each act is a sure fire winner. The feature screen attraction Bebe Daniels and Gertrude "Trudy" Ederle, famous channel swimmer, in "Swith Girl Swim" is positively the best picture Bebe has been seen in many a day. We heartily endorse the show and advise all who can spare the time to see it.

For Sunday night only beginning at seven two big feature pictures will be shown. Priscilla Dean in "Jewels of Desire" a melodramatic sensation, withwitbots of thrilling action and at the same time a romance that will be pleasing to all. The added attraction that of Reed Howes in "The Racing Fool" a fast moving comedy drama of a man who was dared and went through to win the girl of his choice. A very good combination. Commencing Monday for three days another of the famous Palace vaudeville shows will be featured as well as "Cheating Cheaters" with Betty Compson and Kenneth Harlan. The story is of a lot of crooks who try to double cross each other. This story was taken from the stage success, by the same name, that proved a sensation for long runs in the larger cities.

Strand Theatre

Sunday at the Strand there will be two big feature pictures Harry Cary in The Man From Red Gulch A real western story of the days of old, the days of gold, the days of 49. A thrilling romance of the California Sierras. A thrilling picture of the Gold Rush days.

The second feature, The Danger Girl with Priscilla Dean and a capable cast of artistic players is a dramatic, thrilling story of love, intrigue and crime, it has punch and there is not a dull moment throughout the action

Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday nights at 7 and 8:45 p. m., will be shown Shirley Mason in the Rose of The Tenements, a stunning story of New York's East Side.

Last chance today to see Solly Shows, Hits and Bits of Broadway. Don't miss this shown today, it's a scream from start to finish. See those comedians, Pearl & Collins, and the peppy chorus do their stuff, lots of pep and ginger, laughs from start to finish. A good time for all.

Broadway Teatreh

The astonishing success with which "Stark Love" the Paramount picture to be seen at the Broadway theatre for the last times today, has met in its triumphal tour around the country, marks the culmination of fourteen years of intensive effort on the part of Director Karl Brown.

Now thirty years of age, Brown went to work at the age of fourteen as a messenger in the New York Public library. He used to read five books a day. Two years later he worked as a cameraman with the old Kinema Color company. Then he entered the fold of David Wark Griffith, and served for six years as photographer for that master picture maker.

Those who have already seen "Stark Love" say that a remarkable blending of both Griffith-ism and Cruze-ism can be found in it.

Natural drama" will be introduced to Norwich in an advanced state tomorrow night when "Chang" the Siamese jungle picture produced by Ernest B. Schoedsack and Merian C. Cooper begins its four day run at the Broadway.

"They chose an attractive family living in the edge of the jungle for their central characters. Their staple food is rice, they build their bamboo houses on poles to protect themselves from jungle animals, they keep domestic animals and chickens. They are constantly faced with the problem of protecting themselves against the depredations of beasts—tigers, leopards, bears, snakes, elephants. The elephants become their best friends and sources of wealth when trained, but in wild herds they are to be feared.

"We wanted it to stand by itself as a piece of dramatic entertainment. The fact that, in addition to this, it has scenes of great scenic beauty, shows the people untouched by civilization and that there are thrills and laughs in it, leads me to hope that we have accomplished something new in the field of picture production."

DR. JULIANA SHIELDS HASKELL'S ACHIEVEMENTS AT COLUMBIA

"In spite of all that has been done for women by their predecessors, it is still more difficult for them than it is for men." The speaker was Juliana Haskell, Ph. D., of Columbia university, adviser to women students in summer and women graduates in winter, and honorary meber of the Women's Graduate club. The work of the latter organization is inter-related with the duties of the advisory office.

With this introduction a recent issue of the New York Telegraph gives an extended sketch of the notable work performed at Columbia university in New York by a graduate of the Norwich Free Academy who is the only woman graduate to have secured a doctor's degree.

The sketch continues:

The history of the Women's Graduate club is largely an account of how academic rights and recognition was accorded women at Columbia university, we learned. And now that the disabilities are all removed but one—the department of law still presents a closed door to women—the work has settled down to making life comfortable for the women academics. This, in a nutshell, is Dr. Haskell's work.

But hold! Do not think for a moment that the obligations incurred in this position of triple import are few and easy of execution. Far be it from us, after having waited an hour or so in Dr. Haskell's outer office until the wants of one perplexed student after another were satisfied ,to leave any impression of that kind. On the other hand, we came to the conclusion that the performance of the duties, incident to this office, was fraught with many difficulties, requiring the exercise of care, patience, tact, initiative and a wise and genial tolerance, all of which Dr. Haskel, it seems, has in abundance.

Thus we found Dr. Haskell engaged, in her office in Philosophy hall, one bright morning recently. The big desk before her was piled high with letters, manuscripts and other literature, arranged in orderly array, awaiting her attention. With a smile that invited confidence and lighted her charming face, delicately pink in its frame of soft white hair, she bade us enter. Graciously we were waved to a nearby seat.

"Yes, women students may seek my advice on all matters relative to courses of study, finance, health, dress, social and domestic affairs and what not," Dr. Haskell confirmed. These subjects all come under the scope of her work as an officer of the university in an advisory capacity. The office is apointive—Dr. Haskell was chosen for the place in 1919, when she immediately began her work.

Women students arrive in New York fully competent of taking care of themselves, to be sure. Many of them fill high positions in the educational world in various parts of the United States and other countries, she continued. Dr. Haskell's duties, however, remain just the same. What she does not know about the housing situation as it concerns the woman student remains to be learned. She is versed in the merits of every course of study that the university offers, standing ready to assist the perplexed new arrival.

If the student is financially embarrassed, Dr. Haskell is quite equal to that situation also. The unfortunate girl is placed in touch with an employment bureau where she can get a part time position, or she is advised to take advantage of the courtesy offered by the loan department of the Women's Graduate club. Students suffering from any physical ailment may have medical attention free of charge, and a frank unburdening of all personal matters is frequently encouraged.

Social activities are prompted mainly through the Women's Graduate club, which was organized in 1895 by a little group of ten women. A long line of well-known women educators who have preceded Dr. Haskell have perfected this organization, making the present social life possible and wholly enjoyable. The serving of afternoon tea daily in the large and very handsome room, set aside for the use of the women students by the university, is an institution of long standing. It is to Dr. Haskell's credit and foresight, however, that the hour seldom passes without the presence of some celebrity—speaker, educator, artist of the stage, singer, pianist, violinist. A recital or brief lecture or talk may precede the tea hour, after which the students may meet the guest of honor.

Among persons of note whom Dr. Haskell has introduced to the women students in the past year or so are Christopher Morley, Will Durant, Mrs. Atherton, Julia Marlowe, E. H. Sothern, Margaret Anglin, Mrs. Fiske, Anne Shumarker, Margaret Widdemer, Caroline Spurgeon, Madame Mespoulet, Senorita Meazto, Grace Li, daughter of the second president of China; many well-known musicians and others of wide renown.

A recent guest whom Dr. Haskell brought to the summer students and their friends, and who aroused an unusual display of interest and approval, was Pietro Aria, Italy's premier violinist. The young virtuoso played Vitalli's "Ciaconna," Bruch's Concerto in G minor, and a Josef Suk suite, which he first introduced in America and Italy as well. So satisfactory was Mr. Aria's work on this occasion that he won for himself the approbation of "another Kreisler."

In fact, the social activities of the Women's Graduate club are so successful, so enjoyable under the guidance of Dr. Haskell that the arch enemies of the women students have become their staunch supporters.

Professor Brander Mathews, who held out longest against the admission of women to his classes and to their participation in university affairs, has changed completely and is now an honorary member of the Women's Graduate club. Others of equal importance, who fought, bled and died over the matter, are now the powerful advocates of the women academies.

Dr. Haskell is the wife of Dr. H. S. Haskell, assistant of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler as the president of the Carnegie Endowment fund. She is a New Englander by birth, claiming Connecticut as her native state. When but a child, she was sent to Germany by her parents and placed in a noted private schol for girls. After mastering the intermediate subjects, she entered the University of Berlin. Later she did post-graduate work in Heidelberg and Gottingen.

During the world conflict, Dr. Haskell performed a unique service for the United States government in translating letters from the German government to German spies in this country. These messages were written in an invisible ink which dispapeared immediately upon being brought to the surface or made visible. The work was accomplished in special government laboratories in co-operation with Dr. Carter of Harvard and Dr. Bartlett of Pomona, Cal. It was through Dr. Haskell's work that the noted German spy, Baroness Kretschmer, sent to this country to place high explosives on the big transports, was apprehended and captured.

The recent last edition of the Encyclopedia, Brittannica published some articles edited by Dr. Haskell by request of the publishers.

NORWICH TOWN

MISS M. A. McGARRY'S FUNERAL HELD FRIDAY MORNING

The funeral of Miss Mary Ann McGarry was held from her home, 34 Town street, Friday morning at 8:15. In the Sacred Heart church at 9 o'clock, the pastor, Rev. Edward J. Quinn, celebrated a requiem high mass. The musical part of the service was under the direction of Mrs. William A. Murphy. At the offertory, Miss Mary E. Buckley sang De Profundis, and for a waiting hymn, she gave Consolation. As the body was being borne from the church, thechoir sang Nearer, My God, to Thee. There was a large attendance of relatives and friends, and there were beautiful floral pieces. The beasers were Bartholomew Sullivan, Timothy O'Hearn, Joseph Farrell, Michael Murphy, Alexander Kilroy and John Coleman. Burial was in the family plot in St. Mary's cemetery, where the committal service was read by Rev. Father Quinn. Cummings and Ring were in charge of the funeral arrangements.

When motoring to North Madison recently, Mr. and Mrs. Wiliam E. House and Mrs. Elizabeth R. Kinney, of Town street, were accompanied by David Kinney of Tanner avenue. In another car in the same party were Mr. Kinney's sister, Mrs. Lydia Hancock and her family of Lafayette street. The outing was taken to visit familiar places in Madison, where a number of years ago the elder family of Kinneys resided.

Mrs. Mary Gaffney and daughter, Miss Marjory Gaffney, of Danielson, arrived Friday evening, to pass the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin L. Kennedy and Miss Alice H. Kennedy.

Much appreciated by pedestrians, is the new and quite lengthy stretch of cement walk along the entire front of the business conducted by Bernard and Gilman on Town street. Since this new enterprise was constructed, the public has also been greatly benefited at night by numerous electric lights, a great asset to this particular street, which, although it has a number of street lights, is rather dark, except on moonlight nights. Two large spaces have been laid out with cement curbing to be seeded down for grass next spring, when flowers and shrubs will be set out also.

GIVES SAFETY SUGGESTIONS FOR FIRE PREVENTION

Tomorrow marks the beginning of Fire Prevention week which will be observed throughout the country in an endeavor to reduce the number of deaths and injuries and vast property damage caused by fire. Thousands of persons were killed and injured last year and property valued at more than $560,000,000 was destroyed. Ordinary precautions should eliminate much of this loss. For the guidance of the public, the chamber of commerce of the United States offers the following suggestions designed to eliminate fire hazards in the home:

At this time of the year the matter of heating homes for the winter naturally receives consideration. Before the fires are started it is important that careful attention be given to chimneys and flues for if they are neglected the entire home may be destroyed by fire. In 1925 property valued in excess of $21,000,000 was destroyed because of fires which originated in defective chimney sand flues. The larger part of this loss could have been prevented if inspections had been made, soot cleaned out and the necessary repairs made before the heating units were put into operation in the fall.

The use of oils and gasoline can be made safe merely by exercising carefulness in handling them. They cause an annual fire destruction of more than $10,000,000 in property because of carelessness or ignorant use. Many lives are lost through using kerosene or gasoline to start fires in stoves and furnaces. This is a most dangerous practice. Oily mops and rags often cause fires from spontaneous combustion. They should, therefore, be kept in closed metal containers where air cannot reach them.

When properly installed and used there is no safer form of light, heat and power than electricity. But due chiefly to carelessness the annual fire loss attributed to electricity is more than $15,000,000. All wiring and electrical apparatus should be carefully installed by skilled workmen and frequently inspected.

Disorder and untidiness breed fires. Careful attention should be given by the householder to the removal of all rubbish from the cellars, attic and cupboards. Lighted matches and cigar and cigarette butts should be properly disposed of. In 1925 matches and smoking were responsible for $30,000,000 fire loss.

Continuing Sermon Series

On Sunday morning at the Central Baptist church Dr. David A. Pitt will continue his series of sermons on the prophets. His theme this Sunday will be "The Writing Prophets." IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

Fifty years ago this week the republican party carried the town election by a large majority. Mr. Avery received a majority for selectman of 744. The same week a large part of Putnam was destroyed by fire which swept the business section of the town with a loss estimated at $200,000. Interesting extracts taken from the files of The Bulletin of October, 1877 follow:

Monday, Oct. 1, 1877—Chief Engineer Carrier has extended an invitation to Chief Hendricks of New Haven, to be present at the annual parade next Saturday. E. M. Brewster will act as marshal of the day on that occasion.

A special despatch to The Bulletin received yesterday from our regular correspondent in Putnam announces that the business portion of that large and thriving village is completely destroyed, including Bugbee's block, Brown's block, Phillop's block. All of Bugbee street to the railroad on both sides is gone, clear from the public square to Front street. All of the buildings east of the public square are burned except the National bank and new hotel. The fire originated in the basement of the Bugbee block but in what manner is a mystery. The loss is not less than $200,000.

The temperance meeting in Breed hall Saturday evening was fully attended and not lacking in interest. Mr. A. W. Prentice presided. The speakers were Mr. B. W. Tompkins, the Rev. Messers Dana, Montgomery, Chamberlain, Palmer and Blackford, Mr. J. L. Dennison and Mr. Cameron of Greeneville.

Tuesday, Oct. 2, 1877—The election here passed off quietly, although the greatest interest was manifested in the result. The closing of saloons is a regulation new in the history of election days in this state and worked well. The republicans elect their nominees throughout by very large majorities. Mr. Avery gets a majority for selectman of 744. This is nearly the majorities of the other candidates for the leading offices.

Mr. George C. Ripley found himself in a critical position when attempting to cross the Thames in an old rowboat Saturday night to his summer residence on the west side of the river. The boat filled with water before he got across and went down, but fortunately it was shallow at that point and he suffered from nothing more than being obliged to stand in the water for sometime till help could reach him.

The number of pistols made in town during the year is estimated at over 250,000. Orders for weapons are continually increasing and many of the works are running night and day.

Wednesday, Oct. 3, 1877—The expenses of the schools in Greeneville district, including repairs, fuel, etc., for the year ending August 31st, were $9,500.71 of which $5,787.41 were paid as teachers wages. This is a large reduction from the year before when the total was $13,594.29 and the amount paid in teacher's wages, $6,748.50.

The hunters must have quickly taken advantage of the suspension of the game law, which commenced Monday, for most of the markets were quite liberally supplied with partridges, quail and rabbits yesterday.

It is the general opinion that had it not been for the law compelling the closing of the liquor saloons on election day, the city would have gone for no license. The closing of the saloons left the proprietors free to give their whole attention to rallying the license vote.

Chief Houston of the Yonkers, N. Y., fire department, has accepted the invitation to be present at the parade Saturday.

Thursday, Oct. 4, 1977—A large audience gathered at the East Main street M. E. church, yesterday afternoon, to witness the marriage of Mr. William C. Kellogg of Boston, Mass., and formerly pastor of that church, to Miss Emma J. Lewis, eldest daughter of our townsman, Mr. M. R. Lewis. The ceremony was performed by the father of the bridegroom, the Rev. S. G. Kellogg of Hooset, N. H., assisted by the Rev. George C. Morse, pastor of the church.

Many people will learn with deep regret of the death of Mrs. E. H. Rogers, Jr., which took place at Sandy Hill, N. Y., on Monday. Her husband was formerly of this place.

The report of the captain of police for the quarter ending October 1st, shows that 306 tramps have been provided with lodgings. The number of prisoners arrested has been 270.

Friday, Oct. 5, 1877—The services installing Rev. L. T. Chamberlain, pastor of the Broadway Congregational church, take place this evening at half past seven o'clock. The services will be held in the main audience room of the church.

The firemen's parade this year promises to be a much more unusually brilliant demonstration. Quite a number of distinguished personages have been invited to be present and some have already signified their acceptance. The procession will be reviewed by Mayor Osgood and other members of the city government at the City Hall building.

Saturday, Oct. 6, 1877—The hospital department of the United Workers, No. 61 West Thames street, is in immediate need of more pillows and blankets, a shovel, a poker, and three coal-hods. Comfortable chairs are also much needed.

Firemen's Annual Parade—This promises to be a great day with the firemen. For weeks preparations have been going forward for the demonstration and the display is sure to be a fine one. Several prominent men in the fire department of other cities will be present and join the procession.

TO VOTE ON A $400,000,000 TAX REDUCTION PROGRAM

Plan is Being Submitted by the U. S. Chamber of Commerce to Its 1,500 Member Organizations For a Referendum —The Result Will Determine the Policy of the Chamber During Congressional Consideration of Revenue Legislation.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9—(AP)—A $400,000,000 tax reduction program is being submitted by the United States chamber of commerce to its 1,500 member organizations for a referendum vote to determine its policy during congressional consideration of revenue legislation.

The program, as worked out by a special committee, calls for reduction of incorporate income taxes and repeal of federal state and war excise taxes. The recommendations submitted in the referendum are:

"That there be immediate reduction and repeals in federal taxes which, if made effective, are estimated to amount to $400,000,000 in the first full year after the changes are made.

"That the rate of corporate income tax applicable to net income of 1927 should not exceed 10 per cent.

"That congress should provide full opportunity for the joint congressional tax committee to perfect proposals for revision of federal laws and their administration."

A supplemental report dealing with technical and detailed proposals looking toward simplication of the federal taxation system and its adjustment to peace time conditions is being considered by the committee. The total reduction proposed in the referendum, it explains, would amount to not more than $200,000,000 as far as the current fiscal year is concerned.

RUSSELL SCOTT HANGED HIMSELF IN CHICAGO JAIL

CHICAGO, Oct. 9—(AP)—The dramatic career of Russell Scott is ended at last and tonight his body lay in a Chicago mortuary awaiting burial.

Wracked by the vicissitudes and increasingly hopeless three-year old fight to escape the hangman's noose for the murder of Joseph Maurer in a drug store hold-up, Scott hanged himself in his cell at the Cook county jail last night.

No intimation as to why he took his life was left by the 36 year old condemned man, whose career was full of melodrama. His suicide created no disturbance in the jail and was not discovered until a startled jailor saw his lifeless body dangling from the loop of his belt, hitching to the top of his eight-foot cell door.

Cook county prosecutors, who bought the erstwhile actor, writer and promoter of a $30,000,000 bridge project from Detroit to Windsor, Ont., within the shadow of the gallows no less than seven times, said that he had merely done what the law ultimately would have done. But Mrs. Catherine Scott, his wife, and his attorney, William Scott Stewart, said his act only proved their last plea—that he was insane.

"Perhaps his dying that way is better for our children as it takes away at least part of the disgrace from them," his wife said. "I can't understand his act. But it undoubtedly proves he was insane. We held such high hopes for his release after the trial. I always believed he would be free some day. Maybe this is the only way he could realize his freedom."

There will be five main topics for discussion at the conference relating to air commerce regulations; aviation schools; airports, their rating, regulation, administration, and safeguarding; departmental services, by bulletin, maps, airway lighting and weather reporting; testing of aircraft, motors and accessories, and general matters.

WEATHER AGAINST TRANS-ATLANTIC FLIGHT

CURTISS FIELD, N. Y., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Rain, accompanied by a brisk east wind, kept two American women entries for trans-Atlantic flight honors land-locked here today.

Mrs. Frances Grayson's projected flight to Old Orchard, Me., for a hop to Copenhagen, with Wilmer Stultz and Brice Goldsborough, as pilot and navigator, respectively,, was further delayed after an inspection of the runway showed it had become partially flooded from the all-day downpour.

HOW SUN SET HOUSE AFIRE AT SPOKANE, WASH.

SPOKANE, Wash., Oct. 9.—(AP)—A bowl of gold fish set fire to a house here today.

The gold fish bowl acted as a lens, focusing the sun's rays to a single point of impact. The fish were not harmed.

TO HASTEN MURDER TRIAL OF FORMER BOOTLEGGER KING

CINCINNATI, Ohio. Oct. 9.—(AP)—Before the end of another week George Remus, former bootlegger king, whose money-mad dash over life's highways was dramatically climaxed last Thursday by the slaying of his wife, may be making his last stand before a bar of justice.

Remus, whose adventurous career has made him intimate with jails and prisons, is again at the cross roads of the courts. One road of ominous aspect has at its far end the electric chair. Another is the endless trail of life imprisonment. While at the third, if the court so directs, lies freedom.

The speedy trial asked by Remus will be his, barring unforseen difficulties. A grand jury to be impanneled tomorrow, will have the Remus case before it probably Tuesday.

Coroner Fred Swing will conduct an inquest over the body of the estranged wife whom Remus shot fatally after training her through Eden Park while she was on her way to hear divorce proceedings against him.

As indictment will be returned, County Prosecutor Charles P. Taft said, about Thursday or Friday. Remus will be arraigned immediately, he said, and a date set for his trial.

The state will ask the death penalty.

BLIGHTED LOVE DRIVES PRINCESS TO NURSING

BUCHAREST, Oct. 9—(AP)—Her faith in humanity shattered and her hope of happiness in marriage blighted by the desertion of former Crown Prince Carol, the beautiful Princess Helen of Rumania today decided to dedicate her life to Red Cross nursing and reclamation of fallen girls. With encouragement from officials of the Rockefeller foundation,n she established a school for nurses in Bucharest, which she personally supervised and which she formally dedicated today.

There are already twenty-five students in the school, including one American girl. Princess Helen hopes to enlist the interest of the American Red Cross in the institution as she is possessed only of the most slender means of her own to conduct the schol. The princess also inaugurated a home for wayward and destitute girls and dispensaries for sick children and indigent mothers.

To her intimate friends the heart-broken princess confided that her love for Carol is dead and she has too little faith in mankind to remarry. Her family, however, is eager that she shall wed again in order to divert her mind from her present sorrows.

$300,000 FIRE AT THE REVERE BEACH AMUSEMENT PARK

REVERE, Mass., Oct. 9—(AP)—A large section of the amusement park section of Revere beach, was levelled today by a fire believed to have been set to distract police attention from a bootlegger's landing party. The damage was estimated at $300,000.

State and city police tonight were investigating stories told by residents in the Beachmond district that a large cargo of liquor was being landed there at the time the fire was discovered.

For nearly 10 hours, 100 firemen from seven cities, fought to check the spread of the flames to the city proper.

Several hundred occupants of nearby houses vacated their premises, but later were able to return.

Among the amusement places destroyed were the nautical gardens, said to contain the second largest dancing floor in the east, the Pit, housing a variety of entertainment devices, and the Palace of Wonders. Fourteen other establishments were either levelled or badly damaged, the fire covering a stretch of two blocks. The flames were seen along the coast from Marblehead to Boston.

Coolidge to Thwart Raids on Treasury

Only the Major Needs of the Country Will Be Named in President's Budget.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9—(AP)—The recent warning from the white house that President Coolidge intends to hold the purse strings of the government tightly this winter, promises to spell failure to the many local projects brought forward each session by members of congress unless it can be shown that their need is imperative.

From souch disclosures as have been made on behalf of Mr. Coolidge, it appears that only the most urgent local and national projects calling upon funds from the treasury will gain executive approval in order that the largest possible amount of money may be available for reduction of the national debt and a possible reduction of taxation.

The major needs of the country, such as that incurred by the Mississippi flood and related projects, will have a place in the president's budget program but experiments and proposals in general which need government funds will be scrutinized with the greatest care before white house approval is given.

With an estimated surplus in the treasury for next year short of what it has been in recent years and the administration eager to effect a reduction both in the intermediary brackets of the personal income tax and in the corporation tax, Mr. Coolidge is faced with the necessity of watching expenses closely so that in addition to a tax there may be a reduction in the national debt. The president feels that if members of congress cooperate with him to the extent of watching expenditures carefully, there can be a tax reduction but he is known to desire also a substantial cutting down of the debt.

To members of congress who are asking his support of a sectional project necessitating an outlay of money, the president is pointing out that the greatest boon to the people would be a wiping out of the national debt, adding that if this were accomplished the interest now paid on the debt would satisfy nearly every reasonable request for funds for internal improvements that is made in any one year.

AMERICA PROGRESSING IN THE DYE INDUSTRY

WASHINGTON, Oct. 9—(AP)—Continued progress of the American dye and organic chemical industry, was reported today in the tariff commission.

Volstead Now Taking Shot at "Home Brew"

Is of the Opinion That Malt Shop Proprietors Violate Federal Law.

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Andrew Volstead, father of the national prohibition act and now legal advisor of the northwest prohibition unit, has laid the foundation on which federal prohibition agents have opened a war against manufacture of "home brew" for private consumption.

Mr. Volstead shaped a legal weapon which dry agents used to raid two Twin Cities malt shops, the source of supply, they say, for material used in private manufacture of "home brew."

If Mr. Volstead's interpretation of the law, on which the malt shops were raided, survives a court test, S. B. Ouale, northwest prohibition administrator, said dry agents would attempt to close every malt shop in the northwest.

After an investigation, Mr. Volstead announced that in his opinion malt shop proprietors could be arrested under section 18, paragraph two, of the national prohibition act. This paragraph forbids "possession or sale of materials designed for use in manufacturing intoxicating liquor." It provides a penalty of $500.

Mr. Volstead further ruled that should a malt shop proprietor be found guilty under this section of the law, he could also be convicted of a conspiracy to violate the dry act, a charge which carries a penalty of two years' imprisonment.

STOWAWAY GAVE BATTLE TO SHIP'S CREW AND POLICE

BOSTON, Oct. 9.—(AP)—A fighting stowaway who held at bay the crew of the White Star liner Celtic and later part of the Boston police force, was under observation tonight at the Psychopathic hospital with a bump on the head as his only mark of battle. He gave his name as James McGovern of New York and Scotland, and his age as 52.

McGovern said that he came to this country from Scotland nine months ago, but, failing to find work, decided to return to Britain. He stowed away in a second cabin room on the Celtic in New York yesterday, and there, when the ship was four hours out, a room stewart discovered him. The stewart lost the fight that followed, but reinforcements from the crew succeeded in moving the intruder to the sick bay.

With a rusty razor as his only weapon, McGovern stood siege in the sick bay for 20 hours, fighting of all who came near. Finally Captain Gilbert Berry decided to leave the man where he was until the Celtic docked here today, when the harbor police were called in.

Sergeant Jeremiah O'Neil, the first officer, who tackled the stowaway, got a six-inch cut in the thight from the old razor, and another cut in his tunic just above the heart. The police then threw a tear gas bomb into the cabin, but McGovern lay on the floor until the fumes cleared away.

Finally Special State Officer William J. O'Brien charged into the room, and a lucky blow from his club sent the stowaway down for the count.

William Lilliendahl, is to be made by attorneys tomorrow before Chief Justice Luther A. Campbell of the state supreme court.

The 42-year-old widow and her alleged admirer have been in the Atlantic county jail here since the grand jury returned its indictment last Thursday night. Occupying cells on different tiers in the prison, they will face each other when they are arraigned tomorrow for the first time since Dr. Lilliendahl was slain on the Atsion road on September 15. The widow told police her husband had been shot to death by two Negroes who jumped on their automobile for the purpose of robbery.

Counsel for the defendants said tonight they would put up a stiff legal battle for the release of their clients and the prosecution promised equally as strong a fight to prevent it.

PRONOUNCES MUSSOLINI'S ENGLISH AS PERFECT

LONDON, Oct. 9.—(AP)—Mussolini's English is perfect, Sir Rowland Blades, former lord mayor, remarked upon returning to London after a trip which invluded a visit with the Italian premier. In this connection it is related that Viscountess Curzon, the American-born widow of Viscount Curzon, late foreign minister, is responsible for Mussolini's ability to speak English.

When the Italian premier attended the Lausanne conference soon after taking charge of affairs in Rome, he could not speak a word of English.

"You must learn English," Lady Curzone remarked in French to Il Duce.

"I shall," he replied. "Within two months you shall have a letter in English written by me without instructions or assistance. There may be some mistakes in grammar, but I guarantee you shall be able to make it out."

Lady Curzon received the letter in two months to the day.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 9.—(AP)—While the federal columns operating against the Gomez-Almada forces have been reinforced and the situation regarding the main nucleus remains unchanged, small bands, more of bandits than rebels, are profiting by the situation in the country. A civilian guard immediately was organized and is pursuing Barral.

From Pachuca it is reported that J. Basurto at the head of a band of alleged rebels, entered the town of Tepeji in the state of Hidalgo, carried off a payroll of $5,000 of the Tepeji cotton mills, sacked several stores and fled to the mountains before the arrival of troops.

Martinez refused to join the rebellion and protested his loyalty to President Calles when General Gustavo Salinas, former chief of the army aviation department, attempted to induce him to take the field.

General Cervera says the federals are pursuing General Salinas and his followers.

Quiet prevails in the center and border districts of Tamaulipas.

YAQUI INDIANS ARE JOINING MEXICAN REBELS

PHOENIX, Ariz., Oct. 9—(AP)—According to the Arizona Republican General Pedro Medina, reported killed last Thursday along with Alfonso de la Huerta in a battle with federal troops about 60-miles below the international border, is alive and in the field against the federal government at the head of 800 Yaqui Indians.

The Republican says its information came confidentially from sympathisers with the revolutionary cause of the de la Huerta family.

According to the same source the Yaqui chieftains Matui and Mori, with 900 more Indians, have recognized General Medina as their leader and are marching to reinforce him in the neighborhood of Imuriz, scene of Alfonso de la Huerta's death.

Three de la Huerta generals who have been in active rebellion since 1923 when they took the field for Adolfo de la Huerta, a brother of Alfonso and former provisional president, are said to have joined Generals Arturo Gomez and Hector Almada with 2,000 troops in the state of Vera Cruz.

The new rebel general and their forces are given as General de la Vidaltenario, with 500 men, General Jose Alteman, 600 men, and General Luis Cursain, with 900 cavalry. General Alteman formerly was chief of state to General Gomez when the latter was commanding general of the Vera Cruz district.

The same informants state that in the state of Mexico, General Antonio and Jose Azucaha have revolted at the head of 1,500 infantry, cavalry and a section of artillery. Both men are natives of Toluca in the state of Mexico and their deflection is expected to draw with them many of their townsmen and friends throughout the state.

BOMB EXPLOSION IN N. Y. CAUSED FOUR DEATHS

NEW YORK, Oct. 9—(AP)—Another life was added today to the toll of the bomb explosion which wrecked a four-story tenement building in West 35th street, killing four persons outright and injuring 12 others.

The latest victim was Mrs. Anna Kalsilis, 34, whose mother and daughter perished in the blast. She died in Bellevue hospital after the amputation of her leg.

The full personnel of the bomb squad was assigned to the case today after the finding of an unexploded bomb in the basement of the wrecked building prompted detectives to announce that there was no doubt that the tragedy had been caused by the explosion of a high-powered bomb similar to one found intact.

The unexploded bomb, which was opened today by Inspector Robert W. Withers, of the department of combustibles of the fire department, was found to be tightly packed by six and one-half pounds of gelatine dynamite, with a fulminite of mercury detonating cap and wire leads to carry the exploding current. The case of the bomb was a piece of three-inch black iron pipe, 18 inches long, fitted on each end with a screw cap.

NEGRESS THREW GASOLINE, CAUSING TWO DEATHS

NEWARK, N. J., Oct. 9—(AP)—Nancy Davis, 20-year-old Negress, was charged with murder tonight on allegation that she caused the death of Carlton Jones and William Johnson, Negroes, when she threw a pan of gasoline at them today. The liquid caught fire from a cigarette and the two men perished before the flames could be extinguished. Rachel Davis, mother of the girl, received burns which were expected to prove fatal.

The building at 104 Somerset street in which the affair occurred was little damaged by the fire.

Johnson, police said, was the common law husband of the girl. While she was cleaning a dress an argument developed and the gasoline was thrown. Jones was standing in a doorway with Johnson and ran to the basement in an attempt to put out the fire. He died there.

Police at first believed that Jones' body had been burned to conceal a murder but this theory was dissipated with the finding of two Negroes who witnessed the affair.

EISENBERG'S SHOP ROBBED BY CROOKS OF FUSSY TASTES

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, Oct. 9—The third break and robbery within four years at Ben's Toggery Shop, a men's clothing store conducted at 51 Church street by Benjamin Eisenberg, was reported to the police early Saturday morning. Mr. Eisenberg estimates the loss at $600, including some of his best stock.

Entrance into the Eisenberg store in the Clark block, was effected by forcing an iron grate set in concrete and protecting the basement window. The window was opened giving the thieves access to the cellar. A heavy trap door leading from the cellar to the main floor and which was heavily bolted failed to balk the crooks. An axe found in the cellar was used to batter away the boards, releasing the door. The noise caused by this battering was heard by Patrick Murphy, of Murphy Brothers Taxi livery located at the rear of the Clark block. Mr. Murphy sleeps in the garage and as on the previous occasions was first to discover the break and notify Mr. Eisenberg, who in turn called the police.

The police believe that the robbery was committed by the same person who paid a nocturnal visit to the place a year ago. The clothing taken was of corresponding sizes and the same expensive taste was displayed. Although thorough in their work, the crooks were somewhat less reckless in upsetting things this time. The coverings over the stock had been folded back. There was no show of undue haste. Mr. Eisenberg checked off the following articles as missing: Two dozen pair of gentlemen's dress gloves; two dozen men's silk scarfs; six dozen dress shirts, several of silk; five dozen pairs of silk hose; ten or 12 men's suits, sizes 36 and 38 and a quantity of watch chains and scarf pins. An electric light turned on every night in the store had not been tampered with. Mr. Eisenberg's opinion is that the robbery was by local persons having knowledge of the interior of the store. The loot was apparently carried out to an automobile parked in one of the several alleyways in the vicinity or on Temple street, which can be reached by following the rear of the building.

The first robbery was over three years ago. Crooks loaded an automobile with merchandise. A police alarm was sent out and three hours later the thieves were arrested in Providence. There were two young men in the car and they were sentenced to state prison for two years. A little more than a year ago the second break was made and has not yet been solved.

When it was time for the meeting to convene a quorum was lacking and Town Clerk Frank P. Fenton rounded up two members of the police department whom he found in the building. A reporter and two citizens of the unofficial type and four political office holders made up the remainder of the attendance. George E. Gifford was moderator and the warning was read by Town Clerk Fenton. The reports of the town officers were accepted and the selectmen and town treasurer authorized to borrow money on specific accounts to be used to meet current expenses. The appropriations voted are annual and remain the same except for the school appropriation, which was increased by $2,000 this year. The meeting was in session but eight minutes.

Receiving what he termed today an "exaggerated" appeal for fire fighters at the Dimmock estate, on South street, South Coventry, Fire Chief Henry J. Kelley despatched the Reo combination truck to the residence about 7:45 o'clock Saturday night, after receiving permission from Mayor John C. Tracy. When the two firemen manning the truck arrived at the big summer home they failed to find any blaze and were informed that the fire had been a chimney fire which was extinguished in short order. The place is the summer home of Mrs. Henry F. Dimmock who resides in Washington, D. C. At present it is occupied by Count Guiseppi Castalani, son-in-law of Mrs. Dimmock.

A number of hunters who took advantage of the opening of the temporary lifting of the law on the shooting of partridge, woodcock, pheasants and squirrels, Saturday morning found little reward for their ventures. Due to the late season the leaves are too thick to bag the game on flight and heavy rains made treking difcult. Quail, which cannot be legally taken this fall, were found to be quite numerous and very tame, apparently in knowledge of the law's protecting arm. Female pheasants are likewise off the available list. The maximum of a day's hunt as allowed by law is two cock pheasants, three patrridges and five squirrels. The influx of sportsmen into the woods was not without its accompaniment of a number of deputy game wardens out to uphold the law. The bird season closes November 23.

A defect in the block paving on Main street in front of the Heller block was remedied Saturday by laying a foundation of concrete for the surface blocks to prevent the latter from sagging. The defect is the result of digging for the installation of city water and gas connections to a lunch cart recently located opposite the Heller block. The blocks were first replaced without adequate foundation and traffic caused a depression which was becoming dangerous.

THIRD SLATE PROBABLE OF TOWN OFFICE CANDIDATES

(Special to The Bulletin)

WESTERLY, R. I., Oct. 9—That all will not be plain sailing for the Westerly republican town committee's slate of town officers, to be presented at the republican caucus Tuesday night, was evidenced by the talk Saturday and Sunday of a third slate, in addition to one previously proposed by the Westerly fair play committee. The backers of the third slate have been reported as men formerly active in political circles in Westerly who do not take kindly to some of the names appearing on each or both of the other two slates. It is stated that personal visits and telephone conversations have been held in an endeavor to sound their availability as candidates.

The town committee's slate follows: First councilman, James Jolly; second, Farquahar Smith; third, George E. Broughton; fourth, James Naccarato; fifth, Isaac G. Smith; sixth, Rogers E. Trainer; seventh, Joseph Frazier. Officers for first voting district, moderator, Everett A. Kingsley; clerk, John J. Dunn; second voting district, moderator, Lewis Stanton; clerk, Mabel A. Saunders.

The first independent slate proposed was as follows:

Howard W. Swan, Edwin L. Sawyer, Horace E. Burdick, Henry Burk, James Naccarato, Elmer L. Macomber and Frank H. Crandall.

In addition to candidates named on the various slates there are some names of candidates who themselves have been active in soliciting personal political preference.

Joseph T. Grills announces himself as a council candidate and he has had opposition already declared from members of the Italian welfare committee.

The town committee members were apparently almost in accord, with the exception of the nominees for councilman.

Clifford T. Barber, postmaster at Potter Hill, has been suggested and interviewed by several of his friends, without his positive refusal.

John H. Murphy, wholesale paper dealer and brother of former representative, the late Joseph T. Murphy, has been advanced by a prominent party worker as good council timber.

There are rumors of many dark horses who will appear on caucus night. Should there be a contest, for any office, under the Westerly caucus act, adjournment will be taken to next Friday afternoon when the rival candidates will be balloted for, the polls remaining open from 2 to 9.

Persons stealing grapes on Prospect Hill keep the night cop, Elmer Baker busy. The man where the grapes were taken said he would rather give the boys the grapes, for the vines were broken and even his apple trees branches were broken off, so he had to call the cop to drive the boys away. Many grape vines around the village have been raided during the last two weeks.

Howard Brown has gone to New Bedford, Mass., for a few days' visit.

American Legion post No. 55 held a meeting in the room on Pearl street recently, where many ex-service men and members attended. Boy Scout troop No. 17 were guests during the evening. In the election E. Franke was chosen commander, Albert Patterson vice commander; secretary, Neil Morrison; treasurer, Arthur Beery; chaplain, Lester Smith; sergeant-at-arms, Franklin Rathbun. After the meeting George Griswold, a great walker in his day, told the legion men about his long walk from Providence to Philadelphia on a bet of $500 in so many days. He won out. Ted Anderson and Wilford Lamphere put on an act "Briggs and Maggie," Anderson as Maggie and Lamphere as Briggs. They gave the war men a big laugh. Down stairs was a table with Clinton clam chowder, put up by Steward E. Scott. About 50 enjoyed it with Old Mystic marble cake and ice cream. It was a real night for the Boy Scouts troop with the Legionnaires.

The village of Noank is up against it for a dumping ground, where the people can put their garbage have to wait till after dark, take a boat and put the refuse in the water a half mile from shore. Down near the trolley bridge at High street is a big open lot which is Noank's dumping ground. For years there have been signs put up, but still it is the only place in the village to dump anything. On a hot day with a breeze blowing the odor from that lot is bad. Drivers going by have to close windows in their cars, also when the tide is low from the West View river the smell is all over the village. Many times the question is asked "Where are the gas masks?" It is nothing the village people can help. Noank needs a dumping ground so far back from the village where the smell won't hit the inhabitants.

Placards are posted around the village as warning against fire. When hunters are going through woods smoking, after game, they drop a cigarette or a match igniting brush. That may start a bad forest fire. The placards are headed "Careful with fire." Fire prevention week, will be held this week.

HUNTERS OUT SATURDAY IN SPITE OF BAD WEATHER

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 9.—The opening of the hunting season was neither so good nor so bad. Men who disdain a rainstorm when a hunting season opens were afield Saturday morning, with dog and gun, and before the sun was up many hours, though its brilliancy was hidden by cloud banks some of the wild game birds that have thrived and developed in peace during the past ten or eleven months had gone the way that all living things eventually go. Today pheasant, partridge, woodcock and squirrel were among the unaccustomed things on dinner menus in many homes.

Comparatively sparse reports indicate that a considerable number of game birds were taken during Saturday by those willing to brave the discomforts of a trip through wood and dale. Cock pheasants were numbered among the slain, some of these on runs where they had lived for months and where those who came in quest of them were practically certain to find them.

The two days of rain have helped put the cause of the hunters. Leaves, virtually by the ton, have come down to clear the shooting grounds since Saturday morning. The edge will be with the hunters from now on, and game birds that hope to survive the few weeks of the hunting season had better hide up, and stay hidden.

For sale, in the central section of Danielson, modern, nicely appointed, 9-room house, with land, 5 garages; splendid location; good reason for selling. Write "Home" care of The Bulletin, Danielson.—Adv.

MRS. HERBERT HOUSE DIES FROM SUDDEN HEART ATTACK

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 9.—While her attending physician was calling upon her Saturday at her home in Wauregan, Bessie Adella House, 61, wife of Herbert House, became suddenly and violently ill with an attack of heart disease and expired within a few minutes. The family formerly was residents of Danielson.

Several weeks ago Mrs. House fell and broke her knee. She was making due progress toward recovery from this serious injury, when she began to suffer serious heart attacks.

Mrs. House was born in Windham, a daughter of George and Jennie Covell Harris and had lived practically all her life in this country. She leaves her husband and the following sons and daughters: George, of New York; Mrs. Byron Carroll, East Killingly; Mrs. Arthur Richards, Columbia; Chauncey, Versailles; Mrs. Frank Moore, Danielson. Mrs. Joseph Smith of Hanover is a sister, and a brother is Joseph Bentley of New York. There are 17 grand-children and one great-grandchild.

OVER 2,000 AT COMMUNION IN LOCAL CATHOLIC PARISH

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 9.—This morning at the masses at St. James' church, the pastor, Rev. Antheleme Mollard, M. S., told the congregations that 2,000 members of the parish received Holy Communion during the Forty Hours' devotion held a few days ago, an evidence of the devotion of the people of one of the finest parishes in Connecticut.

It is an interesting bit of news that Representative William S. Hunter sends out of Goodyear. Members of the Portuguese club in that community of the town have formed a band, and this group of musicians promises, with their Latin inclination along that line, to develop into one of the finest musical organizations in the town of Killingly.

The Portuguese are not numerous in Killingly outside of Goodyear, where numbers of them came a few years ago to take work in the tire fabric plant that is, so to speak, the mainspring of that village. Settled and content, they have organized their own little social club, and out of this has come a band that Killingly people, of all races and creeds, likely will hear with delight when summer comes again. The bandsmen in this group are having their instruction from a leader who comes regular from Taunton to teach them.

Up to the time this was written, Sunday mid-afternoon, only one motoring accident of any consequence had been reported here as occurring over the week end. However, the single accident referred to sent Frank Papantrea of Providence to the Day Kimball hospital at Putnam for treatment. He had face injuries and his right shoulder was also hurt.

This accident occurred at the top of Stearns hill, near the Gallup farm, on the Danielson-Providence highway, a place where many another car has come to grief. It was of the incidents of the Saturday night traffic through this section and, among other things, did a new Pierce Arrow closed car not a bit of good. Eugene Taft driver of the machine, owned by Frank Parsons of Providence, claimed that he was forced off the road on the dread curve by the glare of the headlights of a machine approaching in the opposite direction. Taft was cut about the face, but not seriously hurt. Parsons, owner of the car, escaped any serious injury.

John Aubrey, a youthful operator of an automobile, whose home is in Dayville will come into the Killingly town court Monday, to answer to a charge that he was under the influence of some intoxicant when the machine he was driving was in collision with another car that had been parked beside the highway and is said to have pulled out to proceed just as the Aubrey car came along Saturday evening.

Observers of the snake-like course an automobile was pursuing through Academy street, Sunday morning, in the very early hours of Sunday morning, the machine skipping poles on one side of the street one second and flirting with trees on the other side immediately afterwards were regaled with a tornado of swearing and cursing when the car eventually hopped on the sidewalk between two trees just a short distance west of the Baptist church. The driver finally extricated the apparently not seriously damaged car from a precarious position and went his way—unknown, and lucky, for the time being.

Mr. and Mrs. Philip Sheridan and daughter, Mary, of Northampton, have been week end guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Witter of Broad street. They returned to their home today, Mrs. Witter accompanying them.

A northeast rainstorm, enduring throughout this day, cut motor traffic through Danielson to the lowest limit reached on a Sunday since last winter.

A meeting of the Girls' Friendly society of St. Aiban's church is scheduled to be held at the Parish house this (Monday) evening.

Rev. Edward S. Condict of Burma, a missionary, was the speaker at Sunday evening's service at the Baptist church.

Threatening weather and rain Saturday and Sunday, spoiled the flying program that so many have come to anticipate as a feature of each week end hereabouts.

Wednesday, Columbus day, will pass without special notice here in Danielson, though the day is widely observed in Connecticut as a holiday.

The first session of the Quinebaug Valley Winter Institute is to be held at the Methodist Episcopal church here Friday evening.

Mrs. Mary Taylor of Webster spent the week end with her sister, Miss Katherine D. Aylward of Academy street.

Brick laying will be started during this week on the new Dowe building and is expected, with favorable weather, to be completed in about three weeks.

At the next meeting of Killingly grange a class will receive the first and second degrees.

Mrs. William Moulin of Dayville is a patient at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam.

Mr. and Mrs. Alphone Quilette of Springfield were visitors with relatives here today. Today (Monday,) Mr. Quilette is to be an attendant at the wedding of one of his sisters in Moosup.

During this week the priests of St. aJmes' parish are to begin the work of taking the annual parish census, which involves a visit to all the homes of parish members and to families resident in the mission area, which includes, Elmville, East Killingly, Killingly Center, South Killingly, Brooklyn, Hampton and parts of the town of Canterbury.

George A. Harper of Springfield was a visitor with friends in Danielson today.

So many leaves came down in a section of Broad street in the rain of Saturday and today that drains were blocked, causing water to back up and partly flood a section of the street.

If the registrations are sufficient, it is planned to open Killingly's night school this week, the sessions, extending through 75 nights, to be held at the high school.

Danielson people who bought tcikets for three World's series games to be played in New York, stand to obtain a rebate for the game scheduled for today, this game never to be played because the Yankee made a straight clean-up of the series through Saturday's victory.

This (Monday) evening the Tatapochon Camp Fire Girls have a weekly meeting scheduled.

With the boat train, north-bound, not arriving here until after 10 o'clock Saturday morning, some hours late, newspaper deliveries, mentioning this before mail deliveries, as might be expected from a newspaper writer, were so delayed as to cause many inquiries as to the reason.

The Benevolent society of Westfield Congregational church has a meeting scheduled to be held in the church parlor Wednesday afternoon.

Legionnaires are discussing, more or less informally, an impression observance of Armistice day in Danielson, Nov. 11.

There is interest here in the coming autumnal meeting of the State Federation of Women's clubs, Oct. 20, with the Woman's club at Cheshire. There likely will be members in attendance from the Killingly Woman's club.

PUTNAM

PEOPLE TO DECIDE MATTER OF SECOND RESERVOIR TANK

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, Oct. 9—There will be a special city meeting Tuesday to vote on the question of whether the city shall order the erection of two steel reservoir tanks for the water plant to be built at once.

At a recent city meeting the water commissioners were authorized to go ahead with the erection of one tank this fall. The commissioners are now ready to award the contract for this at a cost of $60,000, but they say that two tanks, which is a part of the plan agreed upon by the council and the water commissioners, could be built for an additional $30,000, which would mean, they say, a big saving to the city.

At the last meeting of the council, the commissioners laid their recommendations before that body and asked them to call a meeting of the electors to pass on it. By a vote of 4 to 3 the council refused. A petition was then circulated which was signed by about 60 prominent business men, asking that this meeting be called and Tuesday's meeting is the result of that petition.

The special water committee of the council and the water commissioners have been at loggerheads over the proposed improvement for nearly a year. The commissioners at that time tendered their resignations because they were not in accord with the plan proposed by the council. At the request of members of the latter body, they withdrew their resignations on condition that they be allowed to proceed with the improvement plan without interference of the council. This did not end the discussion and the outcome is the meeting for Tuesday.

BARBER-GOODRIDGE WEDDING AT CHRIST CHURCH, POMFRET

(Special to The Bulletin)

PUTNAM, Oct. 9—At Christ church, Pomfret, at noon Saturday, Miss Ethel Gouberneur Goodridge, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Grosvenor Goodridge, of New York and Mashamquet Meadows, Abington, became the bride of Thomas Hunt Barber of Southampton, L. I. The ceremony was performed by Right Rev. Julian Atwood, former bishop of the diocese of Arizona, assisted by Rev. Frank H. Bigelow, rector of Christ church. Miss Goodridge was given in marriage by her father.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Helen Helin Goodridge, as maid of honor. Roger F. Hooper of Boston, was best man. For a while she was at the Norwich State sanatorium but her malady did not yield to treatment. For several days she had been at the point of death.

Alderman Charles Ryan, who has just returned from the convention of the American legion at Paris, the only World War veteran from the Putnam district who made the trip, wil be given a banquet this (Monday) evening by associate members of this post. Mr. Ryan was in several engagements during the World war, was wounded three times and nearly lost his sight as the result of being gassed. If Captain Blake and Lieutenant Davis of the U. S. A. JEWETT CITY

OLD-TIME MULE SPINNER, JOHN DWYER, DIED SATURDAY

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Oct. 9.— John Dwyer died at his home on Hill street, Saturday, after a long period of ill health. Mr. Dwyer was born in Ireland, the son of John and Mary Hallisey. Nearly all his life has been passed in Jewett City. He was a member of Division No. 1, A. O. H. He married Catherine Gallagher, thirty-one years ago. She survives him, with two children, Mrs. Fred Provost of Plainfield and William J. Dwyer of Jewett City. He leaves three grandchildren, Byron and Richard Provost of Hempstead, L. I., and William Dwyer, Jr., of Jewett City.

Mr. Dwyer was one of the last of the one time mule spinners, having been employed in that department 26 consecutive years by the Ashland Cotton Co. Some years ago mule spinning was generally discontinued, totally so, in the mills of Jewett City. Today, frame mule spinning takes the place of the old style mule, with its carriage that moved back and forth on a track fastened to the floor.

The spinner in operating this machine, in order to keep his ends pieced up and thereby gain maximum production in pounds of "cops", used in the shuttle on the loom for cotton weaving, had to walk more than 25 miles on the hard floor every day.

For the second time within a few weeks, a freight wreck between Providence and New London, caused the rerouting of several of the big Shore Line expresses over the local iron during the early hours of Saturday. James Carver, the conductor who was killed, is well known to local railroad employes and yardman. Vice president, Edwin P. Lyon, of New Haven, who issues the statement that Engineman Calvin H. Bragdon disregarded signals set against his advance, thus fixing the responsibility upon him, is a native of Jewett City, and lived for years in the house at the foot of Soule street. (School street then), built by his father, Dwight A. Lyon. It is also recalled that Frank Barrows, a Jewett City native, is at present at the head of the instruction department of the New Haven road. Back in their boyhood days, it was a great fad among many of the local boys to get lists of freight car initials and numbers, taken as the trains went through at top speed. Frank Barrows is remembered well today among the older home town boys as an expert. Hardly ever was the speed of a passing freight so great but that he would secure half of the initials and numbers of the cars as they whisked by.

Occasionally a boy would get a western car and number from some northbound grain express freight like C. C. C. and I. or P. F. W. and C. R. W., then the other boys would crowd around to admire the chap who had actually seen a car from so many miles away. Touching the occasions when necessity demands the dispatching of through trains this way, the mileage from New London to Providence is the same via Plainfield and Jewett City, as it is via Westerly over the main line. The remarkable performance of the railroad is seen in the fact that if the delay is negligible at Providence, a main line train is often routed via Plainfield and arrives on time in the Grand Central Station, New York.

The storm of Sunday, which was on duty all the hours of daylight, appreciably diminished the attendance at the churches. Over the state road, usually kept hot on fair Sundays by the steady procession of traffic, only now and then a passing machine was noted.

TONIGHT'S TOWN MEETING

It is at the annual adjourned town meeting that the voters have an opportunity for indicating to the town officials what they want done and how they want it done during the next 12 months. The town meeting is the time for an open discussion of town affairs, the time for learning about what is proposed under the various estimates and for the voters to give expression to their sentiments. It is therefore a meeting at which there should be a large and representative gathering of the men and women of Norwich that such action as is taken may the better indicate the attitude of the townspeople.

It has probably been learned with interest that the selectmen recommend a lowering of the tax for the strictly town affairs by a half mill. This must be viewed with approval and cannot fail to be attributed to the businesslike administration which the town has been getting for the past several years. In addition there will be the appropriations for the school budget and action upon the many extras which have been sought through petitions.

Among these extras are a number of items which have been acted upon favorably for so many years that they might as well be regarded as fixed expenses as far as provision for them is concerned. They have merited support in the past and they will doubtless get similar support at tonight's meeting. Norwich is indeed fortunate that conditions are such that the expense for these benefits is not much larger than they are.

As for the other extras the town meeting is the place to have their merits explained and to decide whether this is the time to provide them.

When it comes to the appropriation of a sum approximating two thirds of a million it should be recognized by the voters of Norwich that it is not a matter that should be left to a few but should be passed upon by the many. With the meeting displaying its best judgment under a large attendance only those who attend will have ground for criticizing if the action taken is not approved.

ASSOCIATIONS OF SELECTMEN

In Connecticut there are associations of probate judges, mayors, police and fire chiefs, and at times meetings of other officials, for the purpose of exchanging views concerning the administration of their respective offices, the handling of various problems and a general conference upon the best way of meeting certain common difficulties. It is felt that each community has a chance to profit from the experiences of others and that the best way to get in touch with such possibilities is through hearing what the others have accomplished and seeing what they have done.

What seems a highly commendable step in this direction is the county organization of selectmen in some of the Massachusetts counties. These associations meet "to perfect and preserve local units of self government, to seek by joint study and action the solution of problems affecting the towns and to act in concert in support of or in opposition to legislative measures that may be beneficial or inimical to the interests of some or all of the towns."

There isn't a county, in all probability, where most of the towns are not brought face to face with identical situations, or so similar that they could be solved in the same way. It is possible that the selectmen of one town might learn what those of the next town do in such circumstances, whether it would apply in his case or not, but with all of them seeking the best possible solution it can be readily understood that the best solution could be obtained if all or most of the boards of selectmen discussed such matters occasionally. It might not be the selectmen of the next town who have the best method of meeting certain situations. It may be the board in the far end of the county, but through such an association new and valuable light could easily be thrown upon town business and an insight gained into better methods, even if no real problem existed.

HARNESSING THE MISSISSIPPI

In connection with the recent statement made by President Coolidge concerning the work of the Red Cross for the relief of distress following the Mississippi river flood, it has been said that "it must not happen again."

The idea of this is that we have received a sufficient disclosure of the havoc that can be caused by the failure of past efforts to control the flood waters of the great river and as a result of that lesson it is time to take action looking to the doing of whatever is necessary to accomplish control in the future for the prevention of a repetition.

It is to be realized that should conditions be right for another flood next year there is nothing that can be done in the meantime that will insure prevention. That region would be obliged to suffer the consequences. Whatever is going to be undertaken in the way of flood prevention must of necessity cover a period of years. It will be impossible to accomplish the whole job in a twinkling. That of course means that while both money and time, in large amount, are going to be needed, the sooner action can be taken upon the recommendations of the engineers, who have been studying the problem, the quicker there will be assurance that there will be no more devastating floods.

The common desire is, of course, that there be no more such losses as over 250 drownings and the flooding of 700,000 homes. Such losses have served to show that greater efforts need to be employed and if they are begun right away it will mean that such preventive work as the various outlays are expected to accomplish will be effective that much earlier. Such a tremendous outlay as will be required to accomplish the prevention of Mississippi flood disasters cannot be expended in a short time if it is going to be done wisely and well. It will take time to carry out such projects as will be recommended for the undertaking will be a huge one, far in excess of anything that has thus far been attempted for the accomplishment of that same object in that region. Early and favorable action will be needed to see that it does not happen again, and even then it might not be wise to attempt to guarantee that the elements will remain harnessed.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK

By all means let there be heed given to the recommendation of the governor in his proclamation designating today, Monday, October 10 as Fire Prevention day that thoughtful attention be given on that day in our schools, our places of employment, our homes and through the press to the study and teaching of fire prevention.

Here is certainly a matter which may well be impressed upon the school children, but they are by no means the only ones who can and should give thought and attention to the prevention of fires. It is a subject which concerns every individual. There's a part which all can play at some time or other in this undertaking. It is not a matter which can be left to a few and accomplishe anything.

All we need to know is that the great big majority of the fires in this country each day, each month and each year could be prevented, that the huge losses that are suffered are due in a large degree to carelessness and that through the application of each, preventive measures the annual ashheap of this nation could be greatly reduced.

It is a goal worth striving for. It means not only a prevention of property loss but the prevention of thousands of deaths. It is not only Fire Prevention Day in Connecticut but Fire Prevention week throughout the country. Because of the concentration of thought upon such a desirable objective many communities report fireless weeks in past years. If that is possible for one week it is possible for many more of the 52 in the year, and it is quite as desirable that fire prevention should become a confirmed habit as it is that a test of its benefits should be tested for a day or a week. Keep down the fires that mean so much waste.

IMPOSING TARIFFS

While there are bulls made in this country in regard to the tariff situation between the United States and France, the idea which prevails across the water relative to the tariff indicates a failure to understand this country. The idea, which is being held in certain quarters in France, that this country is trying to prevent France from raising its tariffs, when this country is one of the strong believers in a protective tariff, fails to do justice to the situation.

There is no question but what France has a perfect right to do as it pleases in regard to tariffs, but what this country takes exception to is the way in which it imposes a low tariff to some countries and a high tariff to the United States upon the same articles. In other words it discriminates between countries. No sooner does it arrange for the lowering of tariffs to Germany than it raises them to goods imported from this country, and it is the claim of the United States that all should be treated alike.

When we impose new tariffs, whether they are increased or decreased, they apply alike to all the countries. We do not select a certain country and say it must pay a higher tariff than another. Such is regarded as unjust, and it is that injustice which this country is protesting about. Our policy is not to place high tariffs against countries which place high tariffs against us, but to treat all alike in that respect. The duty is placed upon different goods and it affects all countries exporting them here, and it affects them alike as far as the duty is concerned. We believe it to be the only fair play.

WOMAN IN LIFE AND IN THE KITCHEN

SUGGESTIONS FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

A plant stand will be useful on the porch.

A colored table cloth may be used for luncheon.

Spanish whiting will remove paint from window panes.

To have good coffee it must be stored in airtight jars.

White of egg spread over a burn will give instant relief.

When stewing very sour fruits, a pinch of salt will help to sweeten them.

Greasy cooking vessels can be cleansed easily if you will add a bit of soda to the dishwater.

Wring a fresh piece of cheese cloth out of vinegar and wrap around cheese to prevent it getting sale.

Iced, strained, tomato juice makes an excellent variation for starting breakfast in lieu of the usual glass of orange juice.

To prevent a plate from slipping when you set it on ice in the refrigerator, place an ordinary fruit jar rubber under it.

If you want to boil eggs that are slightly cracked, put a little salt in the water and it will prevent the insides from cooking out.

A garment may be thoroughly steamed by hanging it in a tightly closed bathroom, after opening a hot water faucet.

Vegetables which may be stored for winter use include beets, turnips, carrots, sweet potatoes, winter squash and pumpkins.

Beef to be good, should be fine grained and well streaked with fat. The lean should be red and the fat creamy white and firm.

When the bloom of the calla lily begins to fade, cut it off as low as possible and new flowers will shoot up beside the old stalk.

Fruits are richest in pectin just before they are fully ripe. That is why they will jell better if half of the fruit used is under ripe.

MAKE KITCHEN ATTRACTIVE

Any woman who does her own work is entitled to an attractive kitchen. It is not easy to keep up such an interest day in and day out when the kitchen floor is so hard and unyielding that to stand or walk on it quickly tires one out; or when the floor is a drab and shappy affair that is an eyesore because it always looks dirty no matter how often it is cleaned. Nor is it easy to be cheerful and light hearted doing one's work in a kitchen that is lifeless, colorless, or all one color—all white, for example.

More time is spent in the kitchen than in any other room—and the happiness of the whole family is made or marred by the mood of the home-maker. It is a simple matter these days for any woman, no matter how limited her means, to have the satisfaction of working in a clean and sanitary, bright and cheerful kitchen. It calls only for choosing and blending colors. The expense is negligible.

A resilient comfortable floor, easy to care for, must be the first consideration. The use of linoleum in kitchens—where constant traffic and the most severe tests of washing have proved conclusively its value—has become a necessity in guarding the happiness of the homemaker. Inlaid linoleum gives that lasting satisfaction that can come only through the choice of quality, a good pattern and pleasing colors. Solid color, clean-cut tile patterns are always appropriate.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

Gum arabic applied to a burn will stop the pain almost immediately.

To remove tartar from teeth rub with lemon juice, then rinse with warm water.

One or two rubber mats in the sick room will do away with the noise of crockery, medicine bottles and glasses.

In winter it is especially important that any water used on the skin of the face or the body generally should be soft water. If the bath water is hard and alkaline it can be softened by the addition of borax or a little household ammonia or—more luxuriously—by delightfully scented crystals. Another device for softening water is a little cheesecloth bag filled with ordinary dry oatmeal. This is especially nice for the face and hands. Always make sure that the skin is thoroughly dried with a soft towel.

MAGAZINE BASKET

An ingenious woman describes how she salvaged a worn-out market basket and make it into a useful and ornamental article. "Had a high, narrow market basket, the ends of which were broken, so I cut them off. This left the sides and handle intact. Purchased a yard of rose colored oilcloth. Cut off a strip and wound it around the handle. Then covered the inside and outside with oilcloth.

By leaving the ends open this made a nice magazine basket for the porch. One could stencil a design on the outside if desired. The oilcloth is waterproof and keeps papers and magazines dry.

MANY USES FOR LINOLEUM

Kitchen and other tables with worn and cracked tops may be reconditioned by covering them with linoleum. If painted, varnished or shellacked, the linoleum makes a smooth, durable top.

Chair seats, says Popular Science Monthly, may be renewed likewise. Linoleum will serve, too, for backing shelves and picture frames. Disks cut from linoleum will serve for hot and cold platters, dishes and flower pots. Shoe soles, waste paper baskets and sewing baskets are other possibilities.

SUMMER COTTAGE "CELLAR"

A satisfactory cellar for a summer cottage may be made by digging a hole large enough to set a 24-inch sewer pipe into. Stones or brick may be set at the bottom, and if this "cellar" is kept covered, butter and milk will keep nicely.

WILL NOT WARP

Wooden washtubs, buckets and wine barrels should not be left empty for any length of time or they will dry out, warp and finally fall apart. Cover the bottoms with about two inches of water and this will prevent shrinkage and drying out.

REMOVING THE CAKE

When taking cakes to parties and picnics, place in a box and under cake place several long tapes for the purpose of taking the cake out and not disturb icing.

DICTATES OF FASHION

A necklace in the new longer length is made of large crystal bears separated with jade rondules.

Smart little hats for early fall are close turbans of velvet in the new colors, which are intricately stitched in metal thread.

The coat of flaring hiplength and the skirt with side godets of a travel ensemble are made of dark green kashavelline, a new fabric.

The new color for stockings tends toward a deep sunburn tone that matches the complexion gained by long hours spent on the beach.

Amongtha new bags none is smarter or more interesting than a pouch affair of velvet or suede which has a monogram done in Chinese lettering.

Among the outstanding features of the new fashions is the extensive use of transparent velvet. It is especially attractive when used in combination with georgette and satin.

To carry with the autumn tailleur are new bags of soft antelope skin beautifully ornamented with delicate Beauvais embroidery in subtle colors.

Dainty little dressing coats of quilted crepe de chine or taffeta in pastel colors making an ideal gift for the tiny person who has almost everything.

Remember a V neckline lengthens, thins and sharpens your face and neck. If you are inclined to be too slender or your features piquant to the point of sharpness, avoid it.

Both suits as well as frocks and coats show a new diagonal line in the front that is smart and extremely flattering. It is bound to influence all fashions of the coming winter.

Several pieces of new lingerie are made of printed georgette in small rather prim flower designs. The material is usually pretty and launders beautifully.

An excellent coat for boarding-school or college girls is a straight, well tailored model of the new small patterned tweed, lined with dyed coney and collared with Australian opossum.

There can be no wiser choice in a frock for every day general wear than one of the new two or three piece jersey knit costumes which come in such effective color combinations.

NEW HAT BOXES

Very amusing and decorative boxes in which to carry hats when traveling or to keep them at home are painted by a famous artist and signed with his name. The designs are quaint and the colors gay and attractive.

THE NEW SCARFS

The new scarfs for sport wear are large squares with painted designs in a squared effect that is distinctly different from anything done before. The design is rather conservative and formal though very gay in color.

PLEATED RUFFLES

Pleated ruffles arranged in V-shaped pairs on the skirt of a print or crepe satin frock are taking the place of many of the merely plain ruffles. These ruffles give a bit of graceful formality to the town frock which is worn late in the season on the streets without a coat. They are sometimes put on in a diagonal line from a widened belt to the hemline.

LAUNDRY HINTS

Starch clothes wrong side out. Leave them wrong side out until they are sprinkled.

There's one sure way to tell whether a fabric will wash. Take a sample home and wash it under real laundering conditions.

To take the color out of a cotton dress after it has become somewhat faded, boil the dress in cream of tartar water. A perfectly white dress results.

The wax-coated boxes in which butter is packed make splendid polishers for soiled irons. And the beautiful part of it is one can have a brand-new one each ironing day.

To insure perfect cleanliness in clothes, always scrub soiled spots, such as cuffs and collars with a small brush and suds before laundering.

To whiten handkerchiefs, put them into a pan or kettle, grate a small amount of any laundry soap, fill the kettle with cold water, put it on and let come to a boil. Take from the stove, rinse in two clean waters without bluing. No rubbing is required.

THE ICE CARD

A substantial and neat icecard holder can be made very quickly. Take two cast-off girdle stays, fasten the center of each to two consecutive spindles of the porch railing with netting staples, then fasten the bottom of each one, leaving the upper half loose. Slip ice card under these and it is sure to stay.

TO CAN MINT

Half fill a fruit jar with well-washed mint leaves, then fill the jar to the brim with pure fruit vinegar, diluted if too strong. Dry the mint leaves very carefully and put them away in tightly sealed jars, covering them with a paper bag so as to exclude the light as much as possible. When ready to be used in sauces, strain off one cupful of the vinegar and steep a few of the dried mint leaves in it just long enough for them to curl. Sweeten to taste and serve.

LYE HOMINY

Lye hominy is made by soaking the whole grain in water that contains lye until the hulls are loosened or softened, then washing the hulled grains in clear water and boiling them. Lye hominy has a distinctive flavor which many enjoy and is used in the same ways as are other coarse hominy.

GAS STOVE BURNERS

To clean burners on a gas stove, take them out of their sockets and brush off all loose dirt. Boil for half an hour in a solution of washing soda made by adding one-half pound of soda to each gallon of water. Rinse and wipe dry, then put back in place and light the gas to finish drying.

CORCERNING WOMEN

Taking care of a home is the only career for which native girls in India are prepared.

A school for the training of women detectives has been opened in London by a retired Scotland Yard official.

Several women of the peasant class are members of the national body entrusted with making the laws for soviet Russia.

A blind woman in London is employed in assembling the parts of electric motors, in which work she is an expert.

Berlin has a number of women taxi drivers, who make a good living and are well satisfied with their work.

The famous Newdigate prize for English verse at Oxford university has been won for the first time by a woman—Miss Gertrude E. Trevelyan. The prize has been in competition for more than 100 years.

Young women dressed in Colonial costume now serve as guides to point out the important relics in historic Old North church, Boston, in the belfry of which the Paul Revere signal lanterns were displayed.

POPULAR SCREENS

Three-fold screens are coming into popularity again. The smartest ones are neutral colored with quaint prints decorating them.

RAW CAULIFLOWER

An appetizing salad may be made by slicing raw cauliflower on romaine and serving with French dressing in which stuffed olives have been chopped.

RECIPES

Butterscotch Rolls: Take 2 cups sifted flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 tablespoons shortening, 7-8 cup milk or water, 3 tablespoons shortening, 3 tablespoons sugar, 1-2 teaspoon cinnamon.

Sift flour, baking powder and salt. Work in shortening, stir in liquid to make a soft dough. Toss onto slightly floured board. Roll out to 1-4 inch in thickness and spread with shortening. Sprinkle with sugar and cinnamon which have been mixed together. Roll like jelly-roll, cut in one-inch pieces and place in baking pan which has spread with 2 tablespoons shortening and 4 tablespoon brown sugar. Bake in a medium hot oven 20 to 25 minutes.

Fruit Salad: Cut up small chunks of bananas, oranges, apples, one pineapple, grape fruit, berries in season, arrange in individual glass dishes. Scatter halfs of maraschino cherries on top. Add French dressing and serve cold. At formal dinners, serve dish on larger glass dish covered with chipped ice.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

When the conservatives of Canada met in national convention at Winnipeg today to choose a leader and possibly to frame a platform one of the central figures in the convention will be Arthur Meighen, the former premier, who may again be chosen to lead his party. While he is a native of Ontario and received his education at the University of Toronto, Mr. Meighen has spent virtually his whole life in the west. When, in 1920, he succeeded Mr. Borden in the premiership he had the distinction of being the first western man chosen to that high office. Previously he had had a long career in parliament as a representative of one of the Manitoba constituencies and had served as solicitor-general of Canada and as minister of the interior. He sponsored the compulsory military service act and carried it through the house of commons in 1917.

YOUR HEALTH

DON'T NEGLECT A CHILD'S LIMP

By V. A. Funk, M. D., F. A. C. S., Vincennes, Ind.

Member Gorgas Memorial

If a child limps, even though it be very slightly, the cause should be determined at once. It must never be dismissed as a trivial matter. It is so easy to think a protracted limp is caused by rheumatism. Countless errors are continually being made by careless parents in attributing a limp in a child to some cause until the disease causing the limp has converted the little patient into a hopeless cripple.

Children do not limp from rheumatism longer than a few days. When the limp is protracted for a week or longer, it is a warning that something very serious may follow. In a large percentage of cases the cause of the limp is due to muscular rigidity consequent on an inflammatory bone disease. This is true irrespective of the presence or absence of pain as expressed by the child. The bone disease may be a beginning of tuberculosis of the spine, hip, knee, or any other bone or joint of the entire body. If these cases are taken to a physician in time practically all of them can be cured, but if allowed to proceed untreated, the use of that portion of the body will be lost, unsightly deformities will develop, sinuses which will perhaps give trouble the remainder of the patient's life rapidly occur, and even death may follow.

An intermittent limping is very rare, but is a most important symptom. It is due to an obstructive interference of the circulation of the leg, caused by prematurely thickened arteries. This is frequently due to congenital syphilis, and a blood test should be made in such cases. If the reaction is positive, the physician will know immediately the kind of treatment that child should have.

A waddling may be noticed when the baby begins to walk. That is a symptom of rickets, which means that the child is undernourished. It may have had plenty of food but not the right kind. If the child's diet is corrected and if it gets plenty of sunlight, it will very rapidly and most surely get well. Your doctor will know what the baby needs.

Some of the waddling children, however, have dislocated hips. It may be on one or both sides. They have perhaps been dislocated all the life of the child, but not detected until the child begins to walk. These little patients must have x-ray plates taken in order to show, beyond a doubt, what the condition is.

Some children have a stumbling gait and are awkward. This condition is most noticeable when they run, because there occurs a spastic contraction of the muscles of the calves of the legs. The child generally walks with a shortened step, the knees somewhat bent and the feet everted. These children all have flat feet. The time to correct this deformity is while those feet are growing and developing. They should not be taken to a shoe store and have ill-fitting arches put in their shoes. They should be put into the hands of a physician.

Have the little ones treated when the disease is beginning, before a permanent damage has been done, and you will avoid much regret, self-censure and heartache when they are old enough to learn and realize too late what might have been done for them.

THREE MEN WERE KILLED AFTER WILD RIDE

GARY, Ind., Oct. 9.—(AP)—Three men were dead today and two seriously injured after a wild ride down Broadway, Gary's principal business thoroughfare.

THREE NEW YORKERS UNHURT WHEN CAR FALLS INTO BROOK

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 9—Three persons crawled out of a Hudson coach, overturned in a brook at the foot of Hall's hill, South Killingly, just before five o'clock Sunday afternoon to be numbered among those who have miraculously escaped serious injuries in automobile accidents. None of the occupants of the wrecked car which overturned was more than slightly injured. They were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Keane, of 563 Amsterdam avenue, New York, and Mr. Keane's sister, Miss Mary Keane. They were on their way from Boston to New York, after attendance the past week at Brockton fair.

Watching a wrecking crew working to retrieve his overturned car from the brook in which water was rushing down after two days of rain, Mr. Keane said he had been coming down the steep hill out of South Killingly following another machine when, the driver ahead suddenly applied his brakes in the wet and slippery going. Keane, driving a car with four-wheel brakes, said that he put his foot on his brake and then his emergency and the car immediately went out of control, knocked the end off a state road fence, plunged off the highway and across a bit of greensward, rolled over and splashed into the brook. The top was torn from the car and it was otherwise damaged. Mr. Keane escaped without a scratch and his wife and sister received only minor injuries. In the past, fatal accidents have occurred at the place where the Keane machine was wrecked. As darkness came on motorists who gathered about the location of the accident were hunting along the course of the raging brook for two pocketbooks the women of the machine had lost as the car overturned in the water. The Keane party spent tonight at an inn in Danielson and plan to proceed to New York Monday.

PICTURE AND ADDRESS FOR Y. SUNDAY SERVICE

The 4 o'clock service at the local Y. M. C. A., Sunday was well attended for a rainy afternoon. The service was held in the gymnasium and after the opening part consisting of singing, scripture reading and prayer, and a vocal solo by Hugh Kinder, the moving picture titled Napoleon and Josephine was shown in eight reels, and the lesson of the picture story was very impressive. George R. Butts, Jr., was operator with his splendid machines, and the pictures were exceedingly clear from beginning to end. Between the reels, Secretary Edwin Hill gave a brief talk in which he emphasized the fact that Napoleon was the personification of ambition, but that his ambition was wrongly directed, like many a person in our day. It's very desirable to be ambitious, but we should be sure that our ambitions are rightly directed. A man has an ambition to become rich, and he sees nothing else in life but money; he gets the money, but if that is all he has, his lot is pathetic. On the other hand, the ambition of a mother that her child might be true and noble and pure is the right kind of an ambition. Columbus had a worth while ambition and we are today enjoying the fruits of his ambition. Lindbergh had a definite ambition and he conquered the air, and arrived in France safely, and today he is a world hero. Jesus had a great ambition, indeed it was a passion, and it was that boys and girls and men and women should be true in character and life; he went all the way to the cross, and we call this act his Passion. I hope that his great desire as shown in his ambition and passion will be satisfied in all of us here today.

UNITED WORKERS' HOME EXCEEDINGLY BUSY PLACE

Officials of the United Workers make the following statement about the United Workers' House, which is one branch of the activities of this organization which benefits from the district visitation appeal:

As for the United Workers' House, volumes might be written, but suffice it to say that here at No. 9 Washington Square stands the Work Shop of the United Workers, with every one of its 14 rooms in use, providing accommodations for all the varied activities which are centered here.

On the second floor are the rooms of the public health nursing department, with two rooms and bath reserved for the caretaker, who lives in the building.

On the main floor are the offices of the family welfare department, and class rooms for the club work, which includes cooking and sewing classes. Committee meetings and clinics are held here, and the executive board meets once a month, or oftener, to listen to reports of the various branches of work and transact the general business of the association.

On the lower floor, the only available room remaining, has been converted into a thrift shop, where articles of wearing apparel are sold at a nominal price.

As we sum up the different lines of work and take inventory of the equipment necessary to carry it on, we are reminded of those old lines from The Hoosier Schoolmaster: "And still they gazed, and still the wonder grew that one small head could carry all he knew." And we gaze at our house, and we also, wonder, how so much can be accomplished under one small roof. For the work continues to expand, but the house seems to have reached the limit of its capacity, and the wear and tear of its years of service, shows more and more plainly as time goes on, and its upkeep is more of a problem.

However, the United Workers and their house have worked together, hand in hand, so long and faithfully, we know that such a union, based as it is on faith, hope and charity for all, can never fail to have the support of the community which it lives to serve.

The last two named were picked up by the police outside the house and Shea had the charge of theft added to the other count against him when the Gurley woman claimed he had grabbed up a $5 bill before he left the place.

White Leghorn Approaching Record

At the close of the 11th month in the Storrs laying contest, it looks very much as though a White Leghorn pullet owned by the Hollywood poultry farm of Woodinville, Wash., will lay 300 or more eggs in the 51 weeks of competition. Up to and including Sept. 30, this pullet produced 297 eggs, and in October she has 23 days in which to produce the three eggs necessary to bring her record up to the 300 marks. If this Hollywood Leghorn does lay 300 eggs this year, she will be the first representative of her breed to make such a record in 16 years of laying trials at Storrs. Only three birds up to this year have succeeded in making the 300-egg class, and they included a Rhode Island Red, White Wyandotte and Barred Plymouth Rock.

YOUNG WOMEN MAY KEEP WELL

By Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Here is Proof

St. Paul, Minn.—"Here is a little advice I would like to have you put in the papers," Mrs. Jack Lorberter of 704 Dellwood Place wrote to the Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Company. "If young women want to keep their health and strength for the next thirty years of their lives, it is best to start in right now and take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I have tried the Compound myself and received fine results." In describing her condition before taking the Compound, she writes, "I was afraid in my own house in broad daylight. I used to lock the doors and pull down the shades so that nobody could see me." One day a booklet advertising the Vegetable Compound was left on her porch and she read it through. In so doing, she found a letter from a woman whose condition was similar to her own. "I bought the Vegetable Compound," Mrs. Lorberter continued, "and have had fine results. The condition I was in made me a burden to my husband. Now I ask "How is housekeeping?" and he says, "It is just like being in Heaven!"

TEN RECORDS BROKEN AND FIVE OTHERS ARE TIED IN RECENT WORLD'S SERIES

(By Alan J. Gould, Associated Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK, Oct. 9—(AP)—The 1927 world's series has passed quickly into baseball history with ten records smashed and five others tied chiefly through the batting prowess of Babe Ruth, the "makings" of a stormy controversy in the Bush-Cuyler-Dreyfuss situation and increased prestige for the victorious New York Yankees.

The speedy ending of the series, equalling the record set by the Boston Braves in winning four straight games in 1914, prevented the battle from smashing records for attendance and gate receipts, although the figure for the third game at the Yankee stadium, did set up a new high "gate" of $209,665 for a single contest, while the players' pool also is the greatest on record.

It was the first time in five years that the series has failed to be a million-dollar affair. The total receipts, $783,217, however, were more than $50,000 in excess of the total for the first four games of the 1926 series, which set the high mark for seven games of $1,207,864. Thus, the turnstiles in the battle just closed clicked at a record pace as far as they went.

The rival club owners, as a result of the series brevity, must refund close to $350,000 to ticket holders who purchased the pasteboards in Pittsburgh as well as New York in three game strips. The refund for what would have been the fifth game here will be more than $200,000 while $150,000 will be refunded to purchasers of tickets for a sixth game at Forbes field.

Although the American league champions won two of the four games, the first and last, more on Pirate mistakes than on their skill, the series left no question of Yankee supremacy. Taking the series as a whole, the expensive cast piloted by Miller Huggins, outplayed, outhit, outpitched and outmarted the National league champions. The Pirates unquestionably were in a bad slump all the way through, suffering a reaction from their hard pennant fight, but they were up against a team that had everything.

The Yankees outbatted their rivals .379 to .223 and, on the averages, outfielded them, .981 to .962.

Babe Ruth's bat smashed eight of the ten records broken and tied another to clinch for him probably a stronger claim than any other player to the individual hero role of the series.

No series is complete without its hero, but there are more difficulties than usual in making the 1927 selection. No player stood out as did Grover Cleveland Alexander on the pitching hill last year.

Herb Pennock, holding the Pirates hitless for seven innings, and to only three safe blows altogether in the third game, was the pitching hero. "Jumping Joe" Dugan turned in the most sensational fielding performances. The Yankee third sacker had comparatively few chances but nearly all were spectacular. His running pickup and throw on Rhyne's bunt in the third game was the defense gem of the series.

Taking the series as a whole, however, Ruth's bat was the most consistently prominent feature, figuring in all four victories. The Babe's three singles upset the Pirates in the first game, his sacrifice fly tallied a run in the second, his first homer furnished the climax to the Yankee barrage in the third battle and his second home run kept the Yankees from possible defeat in the fourth game.

Ruth drove in more runs than any other player. Seven and accounted for the only two circuit clouts of the series. He was a constant threat at the plate and handled his position in the field faultlessly. The Babe was outscored by Combs, Koenig and Lloyd Waner, besides being outbatted by Koenig, who led both club's regulars with a figure of .500, but the big slugger was more of a decisive factor than any of these stars.

But for his lapses in the field, Lloyd Waner might have rivalled Ruth as a stellar figure. The younger Waner, playing his first series, performed brilliantly at bat and on the bases, excelling his more famous brother, Paul. Although less spectacular, Clyde Barnhart, Pirate left fielder, had the biggest Pirate punch at the plate, driving in four of his team's ten runs.

Here is a tabulation of the record performances produced in the series:

Miscellaneous

1—Yankees tied Braves' record of winning in four straight games.

2—Third game set mark in receipts, $209,665, breaking old record of $201,828, made last year at Yankee stadium.

3—Both teams tied record for fewest assists, five, in second game.

4—Lou Gehrig, Yankee first baseman, tied record for most triples in one series, two.

5—Herb Pennock, Yankee southpaw, tied record of most victories, five, and no defeats in series competition, formerly held alone by Jack Coombs.

6—Players' pool, $399,440.67, broke former high mark, $372,200.51, set in 1926.

PIRATES RETURN TO PITTSBURGH DOWNCAST

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 9—(AP)—Downtast over their crushing defeat at the hands of the New York Yankees in the world's series, the Pittsburgh Pirates returned home today.

In strong contrast to the tumultuous scenes that followed their dramatic victory over Washington in the deciding game of the 1925 series, the Pirates found few fans at the station to welcome them home this morning.

Manager Donie Bush had no comment to make on the four straight defeats his charges had suffered.

The National league champions were to meet tomorrow to fix each man's share of the losing team's portion of the series' players' pool.

Meanwhile, Pirate fandom waited vainly for a decision in the case revolving about the benching of Kiki Cuyler, star outfielder, during the greater part of the playing season and throughout the entire world's series. Already the chief topic of discussion among the fans, greater attention was focused on the case today because of the statement Cuyler gave to the Associated Press in New York last night.

Detailing his side of the controversy, Cuyler, hero of the 1925 series, said the "whole thing is a mystery to me," and that any explanation would have to come from his employers.

Manager Bush refused to comment on Cuyler's statement and added that if there was anything new in Cuyler's status he knew nothing of it. Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the club, was in New York, and was not expected to return until tomorrow morning. Cuyler himself maintained silence today.

"I would rather not say," was his reply to every question.

There were strong reports, however, that Dreyfuss, Bush and Cuyler would meet after the players' conference tomorrow and that a decision would be reached then. Cuyler believed he has played his last game in a Pirate uniform.

"Not because I don't want to play in that uniform," he explained, "but because my employers, I understand, have other plans."

RUTH'S BATTING AVERAGES FOR 8 SERIES IS .275

NEW YORK Oct. 9—(AP)—Babe Ruth's batting mark of .400 for the 1927 world's series, including nine record performances, boosted his all-time series mark to .275 from .253. The Babe has figured in eight championship conflicts, but it has only been in his last three that he has successfully lived down his earlier days as a series "bust".

The Bambino did not begin to figure as a regular in the baseball classic until he joined the Yankees, serving only as a pinch hitter or pitcher with the Red Sox in his first three title tests.

His complete batting record follows:

DREYFUS DENIES CLUB AND CUYLER ARE FOR SALE

NEW YORK, Oct. 9—(AP)—The Pittsburgh club has not yet considered any propositions for the sale of Hazen (Kiki) Cuyler, the chief figure in baseball's current controversy, nor has it been decided definitely that Cuyler is to be traded to another National league club, according to Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the Pirates.

Mr. Dreyfuss denied that he had negotiated with Jack Hendricks, manager of the Cincinnati Reds for a sale or trade involving Cuyler. He also took occasion to deny rumors that he would sell the Pittsburgh club to Louis Wentz, Oklahoma oil man.

"Wentz made an offer for the club several weeks ago," Dreyfuss said. "The offer was refused. I did not want to sell the club and I have no idea of selling it now."

EACH YANK GETS $5,702 AS HIS SHARE

NEW YORK, Oct. 9—(AP)—Each regular member of the world's champions will receive $5,702 as his share of the world series profits, it was announced tonight. Manager Miller Huggins, Charley O'Leary, assistant manager, and Art Fletcher, the coach, also were voted full shares.

Don Miller, a young college pitcher who joined the team late in the summer, was voted a half share. "Doc" Woods, the team's trainer, will get a three quarters share, as will Mark Roth, the road secretary.

Phil Schenck, ground keeper, was given $750, and his assistants $250 each.

PURDUE MUST BE CONSIDERED AS CONTENDER

CHICAGO, Oct. 9—(AP)—Western conference teams came through their second games of the season Saturday with increased hopes for the real championship contenders, among which Purdue must now be included.

The scrapping Boilermakers, lacking the aid of their brilliant captain, Cotton Wilcox, uncovered one of the gridiron stars of the day in the first victory ever scored over Harvard by a conference eleven, 19-0.

Ralph Welch, of Whitesboro, Tex., a 188 pound halfback made his collegiate football debut with such an astounding performance against the Crimson, that eastern experts at once placed him alongside their immortals.

The Purdue performance makes a fifth in the list of the teams expected to fight it out for the Big Ten title, as the other four, Minnesota, Michigan, Northwestern and Ohio all scored satisfactory victories. The Iowa team proved for Ohio an even more stubborn foe than Coach Kack Wilce of the Buckeye expected, but the powerful Ohio back field eventually pushed over a 13 to 6 victory.

The Michigan eleven, which showed some hesitation in its drive a week ago, was held to three touchdowns by Michigan State.

Once tied, Northwestern cut loose with a reserve power that carried them to a 13-6 victory over Utah.

Illinois, rated so far as an outside possibility in the championship race, flattened Butler 58 to 0 with Coach Zuppke's best fullback, Humbert, quarantined against scarlet fever.

Wisconsin raised its chances for the coming Michigan game to fairly even terms, by its second impressive victory, over Kansas 26 to 6.

AGGIES LOSE TO MAINE BY A SINGLE POINT

STORRS, Ct., Oct. 9—The Connecticut Aggies lost their important football game Saturday to the University of Maine by one point and this victory point was awarded the visitors after the first touchdown of the game, that came in the first period when the Nutmeg Aggies were penalized one point for being offside as the attempt for goal was made. The kick for the extra point failed, but the Aggie offside gave Maine the extra point. The game of Saturday was one of the hardest fought contests played here in years, the final score being: University of Maine 14, Connecticut Aggies 13. Both teams put up an exceptional defense, but the defenses were broken twice for touchdowns.

Capt Nanigan, Beakes and Buzzell were the best ground gainers for the visitors, while Eddy, Williams and Flydel performed equally as well as their opponents. The local team scored both of its touchdowns in the final period. During the entire game each team used only two substitute players.

WATERBURY GOLFERS WIN STATE TEAM CHAMPIONSHIP

NEW BRITAIN, Oct. 9—(AP)—Playing steadily through the chilling winds and driving rain over the Shuttle Meadow course this afternoon, the Waterbury Country club golf team defeated the team of the Hartford Golf club in the state team match finals, 15 to 5.

The Waterbury team, led by F. K. English, the 1927 Connecticut amateur champion, won every one of the foursome matches in the morning, engineering a lead of 7 to 0 before lunch time.

In the afternoon twosomes Waterbury scored eight points against Hartford's five. The only Hartford man to score three points against his opponent was M. S. Little, who defeated Durfee, of Waterbury, 3 to 0. Summary:

Foursomes:

MYLES LANE TAKES LEAD IN POINT SCORING

NEW YORK, Oct. 9—(AP)—Myles Lane, of Melrose, Mass., hard running Dartmouth halfback, took the lead in the race for individual football scoring honors in the east when he rolled up three touchdowns against Allegheny Saturday. Two of his latest touchdowns came in the short space of a single minute. Lane's total of 55 points in three games to date is an average of 17 2-3 points a game.

Captain Johnny Roepke, of Penn State who led a week ago, dropped a bit when he made only one point in his team's unexpected defeat by Bucknell. "Smilling Jack" Connor of New York university held his own in third place, and Balderstone, of Cornell shot into second place by making 26 points against Richmond.

WRIGHT ARRESTED ON RECKLESS DRIVING CHARGE

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Oct. 9—(AP)—Glenn Wright, crack shortstop of the Pittsburgh Pirates, was arrested on a reckless driving charge today after his car collided with another machine. Wright was unhurt. Melvin Morgan, 32, driver of the other machine, was slightly injured. Wright and Morgan posted forfeits for a hearing.

TWO MAJOR UPSETS IN EASTERN COLLEGIATE FOOTBALL ON SATURDAY

NEW YORK, Oct. 5—(AP)—The early mathematical edge which eastern football teams established two weeks ago with the opening of inter-sectional rivalry was almost completely erased by the two major upsets last Saturday. The 19-0 defeat of Harvard by Purdue and the 14-10 triumph of Georgia over Yale.

Harvard appeared slow and ponderous against the western conference team and aside from the work of Joe Crosby in the backfield, the Crimson offered nothing against the fine running attack of the Boilermakers. Harvard's lateral passes were wholly ineffective whereas the versatile offense of Purdue kept the ball under the shadow of the Harvard goal almost all of the time. Georgia downed Yale on aggressiveness and the ability to carry on a successful forward pass attack. Costly fumbles and poor generalship by Yale were quickly converted into bulldog opportunities.

These two defeats furnished the chief upsets in the east and this week's schedule showing any number of games of major importance, is expected to furnish the hardest tests of the season to date for ranking favorites.

The chief attraction will be the meeting between the Navy and Notre Dame at Baltimore. The middies have another powerful outfit in the field. Its 35-6 win over Drake university is indicative of all around strength, for the Iowans were highly regarded.

Yale will have to buckle down for the Brown game at New Haven. The "Iron Men" lost their first game since the 1925 season when they tumbled before Penn Saturday but they are expected to put up a tough fight this week. They met a great team at Philadelphia, one that looked every inch a winner in one of the hardest schedules on record.

Princeton after a 42-0 victory over Lehigh, makes ready for invasion of Washington and Lee. The southerners trimmed Drake university Saturday and Duke the week previous had bowled over Boston college.

Harvard will take on Holy Cross in an attempt to atone for the 19-14 beating at the hands of that team last season. Army meets Davis Elkins at West Point and will attempt to perfect a defense which allowed Marquette to score 12 points Saturday while the cadets were putting across three touchdowns. Dartmouth engages Temple of Philadelphia, at Hanover. Penn meets an old rival in Penn State at Philadelphia. Georgetown clashes with Syracuse in the latter's camp. Lafayette, who scored its 16th successive victory when it beat Rutgers, 56-0, goes to Morgantown for a game with West Virginia. Rutgers takes on George Washington at New Brunswick.

Colgate comes to New York for a game with Columbia. Fordham plays the powerful New York university eleven, coached by Chick Meehan, at the Yankee stadium. The Pittsburgh Panthers invade the middle west for a game with Drake at Des Moines. Washington and Jefferson plays Carnegie Tech at Pittsburgh. Swarthmore opposes Lehigh at Bethlehem and Cornell has an open date.

There were several striking individual performances among last Saturday's games, especially, those marked by large scores, but the all-around work of the Scull brothers for Pennsylvania one in the backfield and the other at an end, was perhaps the feature of them all. Paul, the backfield star, scored all his team's points while his brother, Folmus at end played a bangup defensive game.

Gibby Welch, Pittsburgh captain, who took a kickoff on his own goal line and dashed through the entire West Virginia team for a touchdown, contributed the longest run of the day.

ACADEMY WINS FROM TORRINGTON HIGH ELEVEN BY ONE POINT MARGIN

Seven arms were responsible for all the scoring in the Academy's 7-6 win over Torington at the campus Saturday and strangely enough, the big part of these arms were of Torrington players.

Three arms were used up by the Academy in the closing moments of the first half when Harry McGlone, using his trusty left wing, tossed a 25 yard pass to Johnny Greene over the goal line. Johnny used all of two arms to snag this pass as he staggered across the double lines.

Three more arms come into the story with the Torrington touchdown which was scored about midway in the final quarter when Kelly, Torrington's rugged fullback-captain, who bothered the locals all afternoon, tossed a 20 yard pass to Draginnitis from near the Norwich 40 yard mark and the latter sprinted the remaining distance to the score. The try for point after touchdown was blocked.

But the most important arm was that of a Torrington lineman that was thrust offside when Jim Kelly of the locals was making an attempt to dropkick an extra point into his team's score. He missed but what proved the deciding point was given the locals because of this offside.

The game itself was one of the loosest, yet exciting exhibitions of fotball, that has been seen in these parts for some little time. The locals contributed much more than their share of the misplays but a fine stand in the last period when four times they threw the invading host back from their ten yard line made a handful of fans forget their misdeeds of the earlier moments and set them cheering wildly for Capt. Jack Marks and his gang.

After they had scored Torrington took on new life and during the closing five minutes a reckless yet very, very dangerous aerial attack kept Torrington surging on towards the N. F. A. goal. The ratio of success on these tosses was about one out of four but this one was most always good for a long gain.

Fine play by Jim Kelly and Jack Marks featured this lost hectic period and it is to them that the locals owethanks that the N. F. A. winning streak is still intact.

After a lively first quarter during which the locals held the whip hand even to the extant of going across Torrington's set of white lines only to have a touchdown called back because of an offside in the Academy ranks, the locals finally got down to business and scored in the last part of the second quarter.

When the quarter began, play was near midfield with their chances of scoring seeming not so near. But once again they started one of those drives that had been featuring their work in the first quarter and with Harry McGlone contributing some neat dashes got down around the 25 yard line. After a couple unsuccessful passes with the subsequent penalty McGlone suddenly let loose a heave far to his left in the general direction of the goal line almost in front of the posts. Johnny Greene set sail for it as he had done many times before only to end without success. Closely trailed by two Torrington backs he dashed across the line, staggered a bit, took the pass over his shoulder, juggled it a bit and then fell flat on his face with the ball tucked among two sinewy arms.

As related before, Jim Kelly's dropkick did not connect but the extra point was awarded because of an offside in the Torrington ranks.

Torrington received after this, completed one neat forward then lost the ball on downs as the half ended.

In the third quarter the Academy fought their way down to Torrington's eight yard line within a few minutes, only to have Torington intercept a pass, and go the length of the field on seven plays. The final was a 20 yard toss and 20 yard run for the score. A feature of this offensive by the visitors was a 25 yard gain on one of those well executed "flat" laterals. Another, a fake forward, was good for a long gain, these two plays bewildering the Academy defense. The try for extra point by dropkick fell about five yards short of its mark.

Jim Kelly received the kickoff and turned in one more of his stellar plays with a 30 yard runback that placed the oval on Torrington's 40 yard stripe. McGlone tossed a 20 yard pass to Kelly right off the reel but a couple more passes and the same number of land plays did nothing but lose for the Academy the ball on downs on the 25 yard mark. Torrington got a first down right off the bat on line smashes and a forward pass gave them some more yardage to put the ball down on the Academy's 32 yard line. But the Aacdemy then intercepted one of these tosses only to have a rather poor pass back to Vitiano roll about 15-yards further back before "Vit" landed on the pigskin. The Academy kicked, Tirrell getting off a poor boot that went not much over 15 yards and when the received signalled for a fair catch and was mauled up the 15 yard penalty brought the ball right down to the Norwich 20 yard mark.

A pass was intercepted and run back to the 25 yard stripe after which the Academy moved out a bit only to fumble. Torrington came back with the help of a neat Kelly thrown forward pass to Benvenuti. Torrington got down in dangerous land again before another pass was intercepted and the ball sent back, this time on a much better punt by Tirrell. Torrington started down again but lost the ball on the 12 yard stripe, when the game ended.

Although they won, the Aacdemy did not show to the best advantage. There are plenty of bits of their work about which to find fault if one is disposed that way. There are plenty of spots in their ability to hold the ball both on the forwards and on running plays while their tackling, although not real bad, still is not of the very best kind.

Two quite serious mishaps befell local players during the game. Johnny Greene, who was not expected to play in view of the fact that he had not been in uniform all week because of an injured arm but who started and played quite a nice game at right end, was rendered unconscious in the closing minutes of the fray when, in attempting to tackle Benvenuti on a punt he dove into the later's knee. He was removed to the sidelines but it was quite a few minutes before he was finally revived. The other injury came to "Led" Pitt, who on the first play of the game, got his hand twisted up in some way and it was stated after the game that a small bone had been broken. He continued all through the tilt but will now probably be out for about three weeks. The Academy used but two subs throughout the game.

Westerly comes here Friday and according to reports strings are out for a practice game with Plainfield also this week.

WILD PITCH GIVES YANKS WORLD'S SERIES CHAMPIONSHIP

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, Oct. 9—(AP)—The last stand of a dazed and battered crew of Pittsburgh Pirates came to an inglorious climax Saturday when a wild pitch by Long John Miljus in the ninth inning, with two out and the bases full, gave the New York Yankees the best end of a 4-3 score and the world's championship with a record-equalling streak of four successive triumphs.

Miljus made a gift of the fourth and final game to the American league champions, spoiling a courageous comeback by the Buccaneers and wrecking an otherwise sensational relief pitching performance.

Relieving the bespect acled Carmen Hill after the Yankee defense had chacked to help the Pirates tie the score and offset the lead provided by Babe Ruth's second home run, Miljus had curved his way two-thirds of the distance to heroic heights when weakened, heaving a wild one past Johnny Gooch that enabled Earle Combs to race acros the plate with the winning run.

It was an anti-climax to an otherwise thrilling stand, for Miljus, seeing the bases filled with none out, had risen to brilliant heights to fan two of the heaviest Yankee sluggers, Lou Gehrig and Bob Meusel.

The crowd of close to 60,000, knowing that the outcome of a world's series hinged on every pitch, was nervously excited as Tony Lazzeri strode to the plate.

There was a feeling that Miljus with two thirds of the danger past, would get out of the hole he had dug for himself by passing Combs, permitting a hit by Koenig, advancing both with a wild pitch and then purposely walking Ruth. With Lazzeri at bat, there arose in the minds of onlookers a parallel situation in the final game of the series a year ago when Tony was fanned by Alexander with the bases full.

This time, as a year ago, Lazzeri cut a wicked drive that went foul in the left field stands. Then a ball, but the next pitch, getting out of control, flew wide of the plate. Gooch made a lunge for it but it only ticked his glove and bounced back to the stands as Combs sped in standing up, with the winning run. The score:

POETRY

He Understandeth All

When my life is overshadowed by some confronting ill,
And the darkness deepens 'round me, as sorrows surge and thrill,
I uplift my trembling fancy to know if God is near,
And the loving glance He gives me allays my every fear,
For He understandeth all.

When, amid the day's engagements, my spirit flutters wild,
As with life I grow impatient, like some precocious child,
Whose young, eager soul desireth to try the greater task,
I'm constrained that hour for comfort His aid to gently ask,
Since He understandeth all.

When my plans are all defeated, and hope gives up its seat,
And, discouraged with my losses, I pause to think and rest,
And see all the imperfection of love in what I've done,
Then I marvel in my sorrow how I've grieved the Holy One,
Yet he understandeth all.

Though the way by which He leads me winds through the valley drear,
Where the birds are never singing their songs

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

WEEKLY BUSINESS REVIEW

NEW YORK, Oct. 9.—(AP)—The expected fall revival of American business was still tardy in getting under way as last week drew to a close. Some slight acceleration was noted here and there, but in the main, industry appeared to be little changed from its condition of the preceding week.

Slightly better demand for railway supplies, especially steel rails, and an improvement of the inquiry by impressment manufacturers for steel bars were among the encouraging developments. The steel bars were among the encouraging developments. The steel industry was operating around 65 per cent. of capacity, a nominal gain over the previous period, but the rate was still considerably short of a year ago. Steel prices were steady.

Settlement of bituminous coal strikes in Illinois and Indiana created a more comfortable feeling in the fuel industry, but the warm weather of recent days was a retarding influence on coal demand. Fuel prices showed little change.

The motor trade continued to mark time, awaiting the appearance of announced new models. A slight falling off was indicated in operations, which were well behind last year.

Despite the seasonal movement of grain, revenue freight loadings continued to lag behind the corresponding time of 1926, although maintaining a slight upward curve for the present year, above 1,100,000 cars. Grain marketing and threshing was slowed down considerably in some sections by unfavorable weather, while rains retarded the corn crop in many sections of the prairie belt.

Mail order and chain store sales maintained their upward trend, although merchandising was unfavorably affected in some quarters by weather conditions, which also brought depression to the textile trade.

Building activities were little changed, still behind last year's figures. The decrease for the first 9 months is estimated around 10 per cent. Property damage in the St. Louis storm was placed at about $50,000,000, creating a brisk demand there for building materials, as well as labor.

Commodity prices showed few and mixed changes, stiffening being noted in coffee, beeves, hogs and wool, and decreases in corn, oats, cotton, steel scrap and tin. Food prices tended slightly upward.

Credit conditions showed little change aside from some day-to-day irregularity in the call loan rate time money and commercial paper quotations held steady.

Bank clearings again surpassed the figures of the preceding week, as well as the corresponding period of 1926. It is significant, however, that the gain is virtually all accounted for by the New York clearing house figures, indicating that the large turn over of bank funds was in a large measure due to the active trading in securities of this market. September trading in stocks on the New York stock exchange was about 40 per cent. greater than last year. Clearings in New York established a new high record for this season, partly in reflection of large interest and dividend payments in September. Whereas the increase here was estimated at 11 per cent., the gain in the other principal financial centers was less than 1 per cent.

GROTON MAN TELLS IN NEW LONDON OF BRIDGE HOLD-UP AND ROBBERY

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 9—Morris F. Rowe, of Broad street, Groton, went to police headquarters at 2 o'clock this morning and said he had been held up and robbed of $20. Rowe claimed that while he was walking across the Thames river highway bridge he had been accosted by a stranger, who attacked him, finally pinning him to one of the guard rails where Rowe was tied with a wire. The holdup man then rifled Rowe's clothing, taking the money. Acting Sergeant William Graham and Patrolmen Frank Philopena and Braxton Hill went to Riverside park, to which place, Rowe said the holdup man had gone, and made a search of the park, but no one was found there.

CONDUCTOR CARVER'S BODY BROUGHT FROM PROVIDENCE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 9—The body of James Carver, about 40, of 481 Williams street, New York New Haven & Hartford railroad conductor, who was almost instantly killed in a train wreck at Providence Saturday morning, was brought to New London Saturday and taken to the residence of his family. Mr. Carver is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Michael Carver, of Berkley avenue, his wife and three children and leaves also several brothers and sisters. He had been in the freight service of the railroad about 20 years. Benjamin Jordan, fireman on the locomotive that crashed into the two switch engines that were forced against the motionless freight train of which Carver was conductor, was also injured. He has suffered lacerations and bruises and possible internal injuries. His injuries were treated at a Providence hospital and he was then brought to his home, 108 Squire street, in this city. Jordan is a son-in-law of Patrolman and Mrs. William Manice, of Williams street.

SIX BOOTLEGGERS FINED AFTER A SERIES OF RAIDS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 9—The five men and a woman arrested by the police Friday afternoon charged with violation of the liquor law, in a series of raids carefully planned after evidence against them had been obtained by two United States Coast Guard stool pigeons, were fined in the police court Saturday. Arthur Messer, 31 Summer street, was given the most severe penalty, for he was fined $200 and costs on each of two counts. Another charge of carrying a concealed weapon was thrown out. When arrested Messer had a 38-calibre revolver in his possession. He was charged with actual sale and keeping with intent to sell.

Frank Bruno, employed at a club room at 3 Railroad avenue, was fined $200 and costs; Jacob Cohen, employed at the club room 5 Pearl street, was fined $200 and costs; Mrs. Nora Potter O'Connor, 12 Methodist street, was fined $200 and costs; Mrs. Ella Habarek, alias Smith, 97 Truman street, was fined $200 and costs. Carlo Main, 78 Woodbridge street, charged with transporting and who was arrested when he went to the Habarek home to make a delivery of a gallon of alcohol while the raid was in progress, was fined $200 and costs. Jordan Manning, colored, proprietor of a dive at 16 John street, was arrested Saturday morning charged with violation of the liquor law and was fined $200 and costs. His house was visited by the raiders Friday, but Manning was not at home, so his arrest was not accomplished until Saturday when Acting Sergeant William Graham and Motorcycle Officer Clarence Martin took Manning into custody.

Peter Brounver, 148 Gardner avenue, was arrested Saturday night by Patrolman Carlos Selesnitsky charged with violation of the city's ordinances in parking his automobile on the west side of Bank street. He will be in the police court Monday.

KENYON HOUSE, WATERFORD, IS DESTROYED BY FIRE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, Oct. 9—Fire completely destroyed the house owned by Arthur Kenyon, River road, Waterford and occupied by George Holmes and family, together with its contents, Saturday morning. The family of Holmes were compelled to leave the house, having little or no opportunity to save any of the furnishings or their personal effects. The fire was discovered at 3 o'clock by a member of the family, who detected the odor of smoke and found that the house was ablaze. The other members of the family were aroused and by the time that they had snatched some clothing and gotten out the house was a mass of flames. A telephone message was sent to the quarters of the Waterford fire department, but by the time that the firemen arrived the house was doomed. The firemen, being unable to save the house, directed their attention to the Dr. Johnson cottage, next adjoining the Kenyon house for sparks were leaping high in the air and some of them dropped on the cottage. A bucket brigade was formed and water was taken from a well on the Johnson property. When the supply of water in the well was exhausted the firemen carried water from a nearby brook to the Johnson cottage, which was saved. How the fire originated is not known.

John Wowrochuck, Alex Chaplinski and Basil Karazewski, all of 5 Moore court were in the police court Saturday on charges of breach of the peace. Their respective cases were continued a month and the men placed in the custody of Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield. Wowrochuck, Chaplinski and Karazewski engaged in a fight at their home Friday night and the police were summoned, Patrolmen George Laboue, Lawrence Fardy and Edward Riordan responding. Chaplinski and Karazewski bore evidence of the fight and with Wowrochuck were brought to police headquarters and locked up. The police made a partial search for liquor at the house, finding a small keg of home-made whiskey in a shed. Neither Wowrochuck, Chaplinski or Karazewski would admit ownership of the liquor and neither could its ownership be established. The officers then started to make a search of the house, but they were frustrated in their effort to find liquor by the wife of one of the men, who demanded that the officers show a search warrant or refrain from exceeding their authority in making a search without a warrant to do so. The officers discontinued their search and attempted to obtain a warrant but were not successful for there was no evidence that liquor was stored in the house.

The Willimantic police informed the police of this city Saturday noon that Ben's Toggery store, Willimantic, had been burglarized Friday night and that much plunder, consisting of haberdashery, jewelry and leather goods had been stolen. A description of the loot was furnished the New London police.

Felix Miglascio, 175 Bayonet street, a peddler, was selling his wares on Huntington street Saturday and while his team was motionless, a Reo truck struck it, and the crash caused damage to the team. The driver of the truck did not stop to ascertain the extent of the damage occasioned, but drove away. Maglascio made complaint to the police, but he was unable to supply the registration of the colliding truck.

John J. Leitkowsky, 22 Lincoln avenue, was arrested Saturday by Motorcycle Officer Clarence Martin charged with reckless driving Friday by Isadore Rogovin, 177 North Bank street. Leitkowsky will be in the police court Monday.

Joseph J. Gronberg, a soldier and a member of the 192nd band, Fort Wright, was arrested Saturday night by Patrolman William Manice charged with intoxication and breach of the peace. He will be presented in the police court Monday. Gronberg went to the Capitol theatre, where he was refused admission by Ticket Collector James Lyman, because Gronberg was drunk. The soldier and theatre employe engaged in a verbal tilt. Officer Manice took a hand in the debate when he caused Gronberg's money to be refunded. Gronberg then refused to leave the theatre lobby and declared that Manice could not put him out unless the officer was a better man than the soldier. Gronberg was quickly landed in a cell at police headquarters and on being locked up admitted that the officer was the best man.

Peter Beaudet, of Willimantic, was arrested at 4 o'clock this morning by Patrolman Louis Wheeler when the officer found Beaudet roaming about the street intoxicated and in danger of harm befalling him. Beaudet was locked up, but later in the day he was placed aboard a trolley car for Willimantic.

Fred Brown, 8 Schoolhouse lane, and Laura Fulford Floyd, 49, colored, of 18 Stoney Hill, were arrested Saturday night by Patrolman Lawrence Fardy charged with intoxication and breach of the peace. The man and woman were on Potter street and engaged in a heated argument when Officer Fardy approached. Just before the officer reached the couple, Brown seized several stones and hurled them at police headquarters, but no damage was occasioned. The man and woman were locked up and will be presented in the police court Monday.

Besides the several arrests made Saturday night 12 other arrests were made on charges of simple intoxication, which would indicate that in spite of the numerous raids made by the police of places where liquor has been sold there are yet many stores and houses where it is not a difficult matter to obtain strong drink.

The funeral of Harvey M. Manwaring was held at his residence at Oswegatchie, Waterford, Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock and was attended by a large assemblage of mourners, including many from New London. Thomas, 49 Franklin street and was attended by many mourners. The services were conducted by Rev. Chester H. Howe. Relatives acted as bearers. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

Earl M. G. Adams, 39, 44 Connecticut avenue, died at the Mitchell ward of Lawrence-Memorial hospital Friday from pneumonia, having been ill but a few days. He is survived by his wife and seven children, the eldest 11 and the youngest six months. Mr. Adams was employed by the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad as fireman and he was a member of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen.

Dr. R. W. Whitcomb, of Stamford, son of Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Whitcomb, of 24 Squire street, and Miss Winifred L. Manice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Manice, of Groton, were married Thursday night by Rev. William J. Fox at the rectory of Sacred Heart church, Groton. William Minick, of Washington, D. C., was best man and Miss Laura Coml, of Groton, attended the bride. Dr. and Mrs. Whitcomb are on an automobile trip to Canada and Niagara Falls and upon its termination they will reside in Stamford. Dr. Whitcomb is a graduate of Bulkeley High school, Brown university and University of Maryland. Mrs. Whitcomb is a graduate from Chapman Technical high school and for three years was in the office of the New London Ship and Engine company.

The graduating exercises of the Joseph Lawrence Training School for Nurses, Lawrence-Memorial hospital, when held Friday evening in the auditorium of Plant hall, State street, were witnessed by a majority of the physicians of this city and vicinity, together with their wives or members of their family, besides many relatives and friends of the graduates. Frederick W. Mercer presided and Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ, invoked the divine blessing on the gathering. George S. Palmer delivered an address in which he congratulated the nurses upon having chosen the vocation of nursing and having attained such proficiency in their studies. He referred to the great humane calling of a nurse and gave them sound advice. The diplomas were presented by Mr. Mercer and the presentation of school pins and companion cases, together with the awarding of the scholarships, was by Mrs. Nicholas M. Pond, president of the Woman's auxiliary. At the close of the exercises, a reception was held at the hospital, where the nurses and their friends enjoyed dancing two hours and where refreshments were served. The class includes Miss Anna Kiely, New London; Miss Doris Nash, Westerly; Miss Catherine Desmond, New London; Miss Kathleen Cardet, Poquonoc; Miss Frances Gardner, Brockton, Mass.; Miss Carol Kane, Norwich; Miss Gladys Lecanova, Westerly; Miss Dorothy Dedrick, New London, Miss Winifred Poppe, Groton; Mrs. Catherine Drury, Jamestown, R. I.; Miss Margaret McLaughlin, Fisherville, Mass.; Miss Annie Hanson, New London and Miss Doris Briggs, Willimantic.

S. R. Yerrington, 77 Church street, Norwich, went to police headquarters this afternoon and asked for assistance in recovering his automobile, which was stolen in Norwich last night. The automobile is a Chevrolet coupe, 1924 model.

E. A. Fuller, submarine base, reported at police headquarters today that he had lost his pocketbook which contained among other valuables his auto registration, driver's license and navy discharge papers.

Sixteen cases are assigned for hearing in the police court tomorrow morning and in practically all of them drink is involved. None of them is of a serious nature. Of these cases, one is that of a local cobbler, who has been arrested 28 times for intoxication. He was but recently discharged from the county jail and from indications he will return there tomorrow. Another is a farm and steamboat worker, who has been arrested 18 times, all for intoxication. He is 73 and with age creeping over him he does not appear to be able to withstand the temptation of strong drink.

An automobile truck from the western part of the state was driven to a filling station on Bank street this afternoon and there a supply of fuel was being placed in the tank when some careless person lighted a match. This ignited the fumes, with the result that the supply of gasoline caught, and caused a huge flame to issue from the tank, igniting the woodwork. The blaze became so fierce that an alarm was sent in from Box 42, corner of Bank and Howard streets. Chief Thomas Shipman and the Niagara Engine company, Allen Hook and Ladder company and Ockford and Pequot Hose companies responded. The fire was quickly subdued, but considerable damage resulted.

Albert Waffords, 16, 12 Kelton street, Taunton, Mass., was arrested at the Union station Friday night by Special Agent Swanson, of the New Haven railroad. The youth was detained at police headquarters for the night and yesterday he was turned over to Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield, who saw to it that the boy returned home.

Breed Theater

Some of the most overpowering scenes from Bible history are presented and glorified in FBO's "Moon of Israel," which opened a four day engagement at the Breed theater last night. No pains were spared to make the story as impressive as possible and the scenes are well worthy of the immensity of the theme. In the scenes where the Children of Israel are fleeing from the pursuing Egyptians over 30 thousand extras were used in addition to the regular featured players. A thousand metal chariots thundered over the plains in pursuit, supported by three thousand wild riding horsemen, mounted on speeding Arabian horses.

Thousands of tons of masonry and mechanical devices were transported across the desert, and huge ruins were built so that scenes might be photographed in the actual places where the incident took place. Michael Curtiz, who directed the film, is a master with the camera, and the resulting scenes are more than thrilling in their vastness and grandeur.

The story is taken from the novel by Sir H. Rider Haggard and the titles of the film are also from his pen. A great cast is headed by Maria Corda, Arlette Marchal, Adelqui Millar and Henry Mar.

The film, which is released by FBO, had its premiere at the Roxy theater where it was received with great praise.

SAVED SKELLY RESIDENCE FROM DESTRUCTION BY FIRE SUNDAY

Shortly before four o'clock Sunday afternoon a bungalow on the Norwich-New London highway, just over the city line in Thamesville, owned by John Tomarovick and occupied by Augustus C. Skelly, was saved from destruction by fire. Mr. and Mrs. Skelly left the house about 3:30 and during their absence a spark set fire to the wood box, near the kitchen stove.

The fire was discovered in time to prevent its spreading. The door was forced and Mr. Skelly, notified of the fire, hurried back to the house. Mr. Skelly and others held the fire in check while an automobilist rushed to Engine No. 6, Thamesville, notifying them and asking help. Engine No. 6 responded as did the deputy chief's car. A water line was quickly laid but was not needed as the flames were squelched with two small chemical tanks.

The fire was confined to the room in which it originated.

The flames had burned through the baseboard and through the partition and were about to break through into the attic when the firemen arrived.

CHURCH FEDERAL COUNCIL SEEKS HIGHWAY SAFETY

The Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America has adopted an official resolution calling the attention of Christian ministers to the constantly increasing loss of human life caused by recklessness and selfishness on the street and highway, the American Road Builders' association states.

The resolution urges that the laws be of commensurate severity and that their enforcement be strict, and as more important, that pastors take appropriate opportunity to urge upon the people of their communities a unified effort to secure voluntary restraint and considerateness both upon the part of pedestrians and drivers.

Some 25,000 ministers have been appealed to directly by the American Road Builders' association in order to secure cooperation in its present highway safety campaign.

"Highway safety is a problem of the Sunday school, because it is a moral problem. The use of courtesy and caution on the streets and highways will greatly reduce the killing of 7,000 children each year. This courtesy and caution may be partially brought about through appeals in the Sunday schools of the United States."

Gladue was driving an old 1917 Buick Friday night and collided with a Dodge coupe owned and driven by Alfred Duhamel, of No. 65 Asylum street, on West Main street near Central wharf.

Mr. Duhamel was somewhat reluctant to press the charges against Gladue and this was taken into consideration by the court in ordering a nolle. Accused stated that four of his children attend school and that he uses the machine to take them to school and also for odd jobs.

RICKETSON SHARES CREDIT FOR AIRCRAFT FABRIC

Sensational flights by American aviators and the consequent great interest in aviation has brought out the fact that a New Englander originated the cotton fabric, which has been an important development in the construction of aircraft, now flying across oceans.

E. D. Walen, who in 1917 was connected with the U. S. bureau of standards, proved cotton to be superior to linen for airplane wing covering, and averted a shortage of aircraft fabric during the period this country was in the World war. Linen was so scarce at the time that the initial order of one of the allies for the cotton fabric was 4,000,000 yards.

Mr. Walen, now assistant agent of the Pacific Mills, Lawrence, in a report on development of airplane cloth furnished at the request of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, tells of the difficulties encountered in the perfection of the fabric. Great credit, he declares, is due the American cotton manufacturers, particularly, Frank B. Ricketson, assistant treasurer, Ponemah Mills, Taftville; A. R. Pierce, superintendent of Pierce Manufacturing company; Charles M. Holmes, treasurer, Holmes Manufacturing company, and John L. Burton, agent, Nashawena Mills, all of New Bedford and John Skinner, then of West Boylston Mills, Easthampton, Mass., and now treasurer of Harmony Mills, Cohoes, New York.

Men who knew cotton fabrics were placed in responsible positions, and this did more to bring the aircraft fabric problem to a practical reality, than any other thing, according to Mr. Walen.

"The introduction of the Liberty motor upset the whole aircraft world and as far as fabrics were concerned it was soon found that no fabric could stay on the slip stream of a plane powered with a Liberty motor," says Mr. Walen in his report. "Up to that time the fabric had been laced on by means of linen cords, which now snapped very quickly. Special apparatus was made, which duplicated these vibrations and cotton cords were designed which stood up without any sign of weakening or failure. It then happened that the cords tore through the cotton cloth and a special cord tape was designed, upon which the lacing cords could rest. The result was very satisfactory and gave great impetus to the theory that an airplane wing covering should be considered as made up of the cloth and the means of attaching the cloth to the wings.

"Working on the theory that the yarns should be placed where the stress occupied, a new airplane cloth was developed, which, with its method of attaching was very much lighter and very much stronger so far as flying was concerned, than any which had heretofore been suggested. This cloth, known as '3.5 Airplane Cloth' was unusual in that it had 88 ends of single 60's war pand 92 picks of 2-ply 60's mercerized filling. The tearing resistance of this cloth was very good since no matter where or how a puncture appeared, the tear was bound to be held by the heavy filing thread and would run only to the nearest reinforcing cord tape, which effectively stopped it. It not only had a high tearing resistance but it had the added feature of controlling a tear without danger of losing the wing covering. The other cloths were made to have only a high tear resistance and a tear would continue, when there was force enough, up the cloth."

Through the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers, federal officials are now determining the mills which would be capable of making satisfactory aircraft cloth in an emergency. Some of the manufacturers have proposed that inasmuch as especially trained weavers are required for this type of fabric that the government and the mills cooperate to keep a few weavers working on this type of material throughout the year. This, the manufacturers believe, could easily be done if both the army and navy would estimate their needs each year and then allocate contracts to the mills equipped for making aircraft cloth. In this manner, they declare, the government would have a skeleton organization which could be readily increased in size sufficiently to meet any and all emergencies as the trained weavers could instruct other groups.

DIVORCE FROM HUSBAND NOW IN WETHERSFIELD

Nina Corwin Wilson, cashier at the Mohican hotel, New London, was given a divorce Friday and change of name to Nina Corwin, from Frederick E. Wilson, now serving a sentence of from three to nine years in the state prison at Wethersfield for the theft of an automobile. The decree was granted by Judge Allyn L. Brown in the superior court at its calendar session in New London on the ground of adultery, after Detective Sergeant Peter B. Gavitt of the Hartford police related his story of the capture of Wilson, whom he found at a rooming house one night with another woman who claimed to be his wife.

The detective sergeant said that Wilson was "a bad man," had a record of 17 arrests, one of which involved the shooting of a detective in Pennsylvania, the detective, however, living. He said that Wilson married a choir singer in Boston and then married another woman before the singer finally received a divorce. The couple was married Sept. 6, 1923.

BEGAN TRIAL OF SUIT OVER PROPERTY TRANSFER

The $5,000 damage suit brought by Lawrence Thompson of Center Groton against Lizzie L. Sheldon of the same place was partially tried in the superior court at New London Friday before Judge Allyn L. Brown.

Thompson claims to have entered into an agreement and paid $1 on the purchase of the Colver homestead and a store from the defendant on Nov. 12, 1926, but alleges that on Feb. 10, 1927, when he tendered her $5,500 as per agreement she refused to accept it or to give him a deed to the land. He seeks to have the land vested in him and $5,000 damages. The defendant makes a general denial of the allegations.

EXTENSIVE MOVEMENTS OF TROOPS CONTINUE IN MEX.

Trains Are Bringing Into Mexico City Soldiers From Various Parts of the Country—Heavy Reinforcements Are Joining the Field Forces to Complete the Surrounding Movement of the Rebels Now in the Mountains—Rebels Under General Gomez Remain Hidden in the Mountainous Section of the State of Vera Cruz.

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Air, land and water forces of the Mexican government are being concentrated in an effort to bottle up the rebels under Generals Gomez and Almada in the ragged mountain country of the Perote region, state of Vera Cruz, where they are hidden, to prevent them from reaching the seacoast and escaping from Mexico.

The Federal strategy seeks to drive in upon the rebels from every direction by greatly superior forces and destroy them by aerial bombardment. The authorities at every Mexican port and the officers in command of all the ships of the Mexican navy have been ordered to exercise the utmost vigilance, so that if Gomez and Almada do succeed in reaching the coast, their escape shall be cut off.

In the meantime heavy reinforcements are joining the field forces to complete the surrounding movement of the rebels now in the mountains. Simultaneously the air forces are scouting in all directions in an effort to locate and destroy, or bomb, the rebels into submission.

Extensive troop movements continue, trains are bringing into Mexico City soldiers from various parts of the country. Some are remaining in the capital, in readiness to use wherever needed; others are being dispatched to Vera Cruz, with their ultimate destination the fastnesses where Gomez and Almada and their men have sought refuge. Unofficially it is estimated that 5,000 federal troops are at the present time moving toward Perote.

If this and previous unofficial estimates are correct, it means that the government will soon have 15,000 troops engaged in the movement against the two chief leaders in the revolt.

Official information still places the Gomez-Almada forces at a maximum of 1,500 or 2,000 men. Presidential headquarters is of the opinion that they number considerably les than this. The forces are believed to be divided in small groups, constantly shifting about in the wild mountainous country, where it will be exceedingly difficult to locate them.

Colonel Luis Felipe Cruz, second in command of the 29th cavalry, was killed in a recent engagement when loyal troops under his command came into action against rebel units at Teotihuacan, near Mexico City. The rebels had left the capital Sunday night to join Gomez in Vera Cruz, and the loyal troops gave pursuit.

Federals defeated a small group of rebels commanded by Melitan Cid, a former officer of the local militia, near Santa Rosa, state of Vera Cruz. This group was attempting to join the revolutionary movement. Cid escaped, but is believed to have been wounded. Two of his fellowers were captured.

Press dispatches from Villa Hermosa, in Tabasco, say that travelers from Chiapas report the arrest of 15 more prominent politicans of that state charged with complicity in the revolt. Previous dispatches had reported many arrests in that state, and quoted officials as declaring that the revolutionary attempt in Chiapas was abortive.

From Puebla comes word that federal troops captured former General Frederico Cordova, suspected of connection with the revolution. It was added, however, that "after representations in his favor, Cordova was released."

REPORT OF BATTLE IN THE STATE OF VERA CRUZ

NOGALES, Ariz., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Official advices tonight to the Nogales Herald reported a major battle between federals and revolutionists under Arnulfo Gomez in the state of Vera Cruz, within 22 miles of the city of Vera Cruz. The federals claimed victory. No details were given.

WHOLESALE EXECUTIONS BY MEXICAN GOVERNMENT

NOAGLES, Ariz., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Mexico's newest revolution entered its second week today, paced step by step by the rattle of government firing squads mowing down its leaders.

General Paulino Fontes, once director of the Mexican National railways under President Carranza and fifteen of his friends last night stood with their backs to a wall near Jalapa, state of Vera Cruz, and died for their opposition to the regime of President Calles and his program of another presidential term for Alvaro Obregon.

How many have taken their last look at sunlight over the shining gun barrels of government firing squads in the last seven days is not known definitely, but the list of known executions shows sixteen generals and 43 others as victims.

While the fires of revolution flare more or less spasmodically in a number of central and southern state of Mexico, the State of Sonora, an old hotbed of revolt, remains remarkably calm.

Two reasons are given for the unwanted peace of Sonora, which lies just across the border from Arizona. One is the iron grip kept on the state by General Pablo E. Macias, military commandant.

The other is the fact that the Yaqui Indians, keystone of many a Sonora revolt, apparently are not on the warpath this time.

FLED FROM MEXICO TO ESCAPE BEING MURDERED

EL PASO, Tex., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Accusation of wholesale slayings to enforce power "by panic" were buried at the Calles regime in Mexico today by Gen. G. A. Salinas, former minister of aviation for the Mexican government.

General Salinas, now a political refugee in the United States, said he and his family had fled from Mexico to escape being murdered. Reports from Mexico City said General Salinas with a band of rebels was sought by federal troops near Matamoros.

Prisons in Mexico City, he said, were filled, and the general charged that the disturbance in Mexico was provoked by Calles and Obregon to establish an excute their political opponents.

General Salinas, here to attend a banquet in honor of Capt. Emilo Carranzo, "The Lindbergh of Mexico," his nephew, had just returned from a hurried visit to Laredo and the Mexican territory imediately across from the border city where he gathered several relatives, including his wife and four children, to return to the United States.

He said that in the event he remains in the United States, he probably would establish connections with an aircraft company. He built the plane in which Capt. Carranza made his recent non-stop flight from Mexico City to Juarez.

ANNOUNCE DEFEAT OF GOMEZ-ALMADA REBELS

MEXICO CITY, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The government announces that the Gomez-Almada rebels have been decisively defeated and routed by the federal troops in a six hour battle, and that the revolution is ended.

Presidential headquarters announced that 3,000 federals, under General Escobar routed about 1,000 rebels under Gomez and Almada Sunday afternoon Ayahualulco, in the Perote region, Vera Cruz state. Six hundred rebels were captured and probably fifty rebels were killed and a hundred wounded.

The battle between the federals and rebels began at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon and continued fiercely until 8 o'clock in the evening. By that time Gomez and Almada were in flight and their followers were either captured, dead or well scattered. With the rebel casualties estimated at 150, of whom 50 were killed, there is no information thus far made public as to the federal casualties.

PRODUCTION PROSPECTS OF CROPS INCREASED

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10.—(AP)—crop production prospects for this year were increased by the unusually hot weather during the first three weeks in September, causing a marked change from the very unpromising prospects of the early summer, the department of agriculture said today in summarizing its October crop report.

Corn improved to the extend of 146,876,000 bushels, bringing the indicated crop this year to 2,603,437,000 bushels, or about 43,000,000 bushels less than last year.

Spring wheat also improved, a gain of 5,646,000 bushels being shown in the crop now indicated, which is 313,471,000 bushels. That is 105,000,000 bushels more than harvested last year.

With winter wheat harvest of 552,767,000 bushels this year, the country's combined wheat crop will total 866,538,000 bushels, about 33,000,000 bushels more than last year.

COURT AWARDS BOY TO WILLIAM KUNSTLER

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The ten year old boy claimed by Miss Mary Diniscia, of East Orange, N. J., and William Kunstler, New York diamond importer, today was awarded to Mrs. Kunstler by supreme Court Justice Valente.

Miss Diniscia procured a writ of habeas corpus to obtain custody of the boy, whom she claimed was her illegitimate son by John Laudonia, Long Branch, N. J., builder. Laudonia denied he was the father of the boy. Mr. Kunstler testified Henry was his son, and that the boy's mother died two years ago.

Justice Valente dismissed the writ after hearing both claimants. He said it was his impression that Miss Diniscia had made an honest mistake in identity.

ALABAMA PROCEEDING AGAINST FLOGGING

LUVERNE, Ala., Oct. 10—(AP)—Crenshaw county, Ala., today began to look into the question of whether the rule of the mask and the lash or law and order should govern the country.

Headed by Charlie C. McCall, attorney-general of Alabama, an array of legal talent today began the task of presenting before a special grand jury evidence gathered in more than a score of floggings in the county in the last two years. The first of 125 witnesses were called this afternoon and from them the attorney-general hopes to get information to justify 99 or more indictments.

Among the prominent men who have been subpoenaed are James Esdale, grand dragon of the Ku Klux Klan in Alabama; George H. Thlopen, state superintendent of insurance, and Louis McArdory of Birmingham, former Jefferson county official.

Circuit Judge A. E. Gamble, who is presiding, charged th gerand jurors to "clean house."

Judge Gamble held up the rule of the mask and lash as a "cancer eating into the firm flesh" of the well being of Greenshaw county, and urged that the jury "use the knife" in dealing with those suspected of complicity in the whippings.

"Greenshaw county stands, indicated as one of the most lawless counties in the state, and as one whos citizens do not enjoy undisturbed their constitutional rights to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness," Judge Gamble told the jury.

"I do not know whether these outrages were committed with the sanction of the Ku Klux Klan, but it is the duty of the officers of this organization to come forward and aid the officers of the law in seeking out and bringing to justice the perpetrators of these outrages."

CONFIDENCE MEN GOT $63,000 FROM BANK MESSENGERS

NEW YORK, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Posing as messengers from other Wall street firms, confidence men today obtained $63,000 in bonds from two houses in the financial district by asking for the securities, police were informed tonight.

Both robberies occurred between 1 and 1.30 o'clock, the thieves working with some apparent knowledge of the schedules of the messengers whom they impersonated. The victims were Ernst & Company, brokers, and the First National corporation, a subsidiary of the First National Bank of Boston. It is now known whether the same man or different men perpetrated both robberies.

Two delivery clerks for Ernst & Company said that shortly after a messenger from Holiday & Company had delivered a package of securities a man called at the wicket and asked for a bundle of bonds to be taken to the Holliday house. He was given $30,000 in United States Steel bonds and $7,000 in Interborough Rapid Transit company bonds. When Holiday's genuine runner appeared the theft was discovered.

At the First National corporation the thief, claiming to be a messenger for West & Company, even provided delivery clerks with a list of the wanted securities. The list tallied with the First National corporation's consignment and various bonds of a value of $26,000 were given to him. West & Company's messenger arrived shortly afterwards.

DECISION REACHED THAT RUSSELL SCOTT WAS INSANE

CHICAGO, Oct. 10—(AP)—A coroner's jury hastily recruited from wayfarers in the cheap lodging house district, decided in an hour today that Russell Scott was insane, an issue over which learned lawyers and alienists had fought for three years while the life of Scott, erstwhile Canadian financier who turned robber and killer, hung in the balance.

Scott, who hanged himself with his belt in his cell in the Cook county jail Saturday night, committed suicide while insane, the jury decided, thereby giving to Scott in death a victory for which he fought three years in life. Five times Scott, who with his brother killed a drug clerk in a holdup, stood in the shadow of the gallows and when he took his life, he was awaiting a new sanity hearing.

Crazed Negro Killed One Man, Wounded 11

Had Barricaded Himself in a House at Birmingham, Ala.—Finally Shot.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Barricaded in his home near the downtown section here, Charles Pinkard, a crazed Negro, killed a deputy sheriff and wounded 11 officers and bystanders here late today. [illegible] Clothesman Woody [illegible] climbed to an adjoining [illegible] opening fire at close range [illegible] wounded him.

Pinkard [illegible] Deputy Sheriff Sam W[illegible] when the officer went to his [illegible] to investigate an alleged attack [illegible] Pinkard on George Kirkhoff, white, a city health inspector.

The Negro suddenly became insane, it was said, when Kirkoff went to inspect a soft drink stand he operated. Kirkhoff was injured when he attempted to quiet Pinkard.

Standing off all attempts to capture him for two hours, Pinkard made his last stand when he rushed to a window to check the flank attack by Sandefer from an adjoining roof. Several shots were exchanged, and then Sandefer called down, "I got him, men."

Police rushed into the house to find the Negro dead, his body riddled with machine gun and pistol fire.

The scene of the battle, in the section made famous by Octavus Roy Cohen, drew a crowd of hundreds from the business section, which rushed through police lines and into the fire from both officers and Pinkard. Three spectators were wounded.

Attempts to rout the Negro with tear gas and fire were unsuccessful. While members of the riot squad drew his fire, others rushed the house from an opposite direction and set fire to it, but it burned for a moment and then died out. Pinkard rushed to a window in time to wound one officer who dalled to get out of range.

Another attempt to burn the stronghold was made when an armored police car was driven to the side of the house and tear gas bombs rained in through the windows. But Pinkard was on the watch and when the squad bearing torches came within range, poured a volley down on them. Officers said the tear gas appeared to have little effect on him.

Police had difficulty in removing the body from the house through a crowd of several thousand which swarmed the street and into the yard. Few of those wounded were believed to have suffered seriously, and all but two or three were released from hospitals after having their founds dressed.

BLAME $300,000 FIRE ON CARELESS WOMAN SMOKER

BOSTON, Oct. 10—(AP)—Blame for the $300,000 fire which swept part of the Revere beach amusement section yesterday was shifted today by state investigators from bootleggers seeking to cover rum landing operations to some careless woman smoker.

State Fire Inspector Edward J. Horrigan in a verbal report to the state fire marshal's office, expressed the opinion that the fire started from a carelessly discarded cigarette in the women's rest room of the Nautical Gardens dance hall.

Previously reports from the Beachmont section concerning unusual activity of motor boats and trucks in the vicinity gave rise to the opinion that rum runners started the fire to distract the attention of any early risers and the police of the district.

ACTIVITIES OF "GOODWILL" LEGION PARTY IN LONDON

LONDON, Oct. 10—(AP)—The American Legion "goodwill party" took part in a whirl of activities today which began this morning with a chat with King George and Queen Mary and ended tonight with a banquet to the British Legionnaires who have been the American's hosts. Between their call at Buckingham palace this morning and the fraewell dinner this evening, the legionnaires were luncheon guests of Sir Rowland Blades, lord mayor of London, and the sheriffs of London in the Fifteenth Century Guild hall where such receptions to Americans have been infrequent and then only included men like Presidents Grant, Roosevelt and Wilson.

Retiring National Commander Howard P. Savage sat on Sir Rowland's right and Alanson B. Houghton, American ambassador, sat on the lord mayor's left. Sir Austen Chamberlain, British foreign minister, Viscount Eave, Lords Reading and Desborough and General Sir Ian Hamilton occupied seats of honor.

The legionnaires spent the afternoon in sightseeing the party will end its six days stay here tomorrow when the legionnaires depart for Southampton to board the Leviathan.

At the reception of the Americans by the king and queen, Ambassador Houghton presented Commander Savage to their majesties, Commander Savage then presenting the members of the party. The king and queen shook hands with each individual, which is rather rare when their majesties receive delegations.

NATIVE BORN CHINESE BARRED FROM MISS. SCHOOLS

JACKSON, Miss., Oct. 10—(AP)—Native born Chinese were barred from White schools in Mississippi by a ruling handed down by the Mississippi supreme court today.

A court ruling in the case of W. F. Bond, state superintendent of education against Joe Tit Jung, an adult, and Joe Tin Lun, a minor, said that friction, disorder and general unhappiness, would be occasioned if efforts were made to associate the Caucasian race with the colored race in Mississippi schools.

The court defined as colored any race other than Caucasian, and held that it would be necessary for Joe Tin Lun to enroll in a Negro school. In making the ruling, the supreme court reversed the finding of a Coanoma county circuit court which would have required the state superintendent and teachers of the Dublin consolidated schools to permit the Chinese pupil to enroll.

COURT ORDERS TEAPOT DOME NAVAL OIL RESERVE RETURNED TO THE U. S. GOV'T

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10—(AP)—The supreme court's cancellation of leases to naval oil lands in Wyoming held by the Sinclair interests will bring the government more than $5,000,000 in money and property.

The largest item is $3,000,000 representing proceeds from sale of oil from the reserve from the time receivers were appointed in 1924 until Oct. 1 last. It now is held by A. E. Watts of New York, vice president of Sinclair's Consolidated Oil company and Captain H. A. Stuart, U. S. N., the receivers.

Of that sum, approximately $480,000 would normally have been paid to the government as royalties, in addition to royalties of $343,373 on earnings of $2,220,000 before the receivership.

The court decision returns to the government two oil tanks at Portsmouth, N. H., with a 300,000 barrel capacity, built at an estimated cost of $1,090,000 and 27 tanks which have been built on the Wyoming reserve.

Sixty three oil producing and ten dry wells have been drilled in the leased area and twelve gas wells have been closed. The cost of each well was said at the navy department to be $40,000. Since the receivership however, only two wells have been drilled, both for offset purposes.

Secretary Wilbur declared today that the policy of the department in the Teapot case would be to preserve as much oil as possible in the ground.

U. S. HAS NO OBJECTION TO FRANCE REFUNDING LOAN

French Ambassador at Washington Has Been Officially Informed That the American Government Would Not Obstruct American Bankers Interested in Refunding the $100,000,000 Eight Per Cent. Loan of 1920—Announcement Preceded Delivery of American Tariff Note to the French Foreign Office.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 10—(AP)—Formal announcement was made today by the state department that the French ambassador here had been officially informed that the American government would have no objection to the refunding of the $100,000,000 eight per cent. loan of 1920 made to the French government by American bankers.

Coincidentally, it was announced that the American charge of Paris had been instructed to deliver to the French foreign office the American reply to the last French tariff note in which France is asked to restore the minimum duties on American imports pending the negotiation of a general commercial treaty.

Delivery of the note was held up pending a final decision on the administration's attitude on the loan refunding proposal, which recently was urged anew by the Paris government. It was the belief of some cabinet officers, at least, that a favorable decision on this proposition would contribute to more friendly Franco-American relations.

Objection to the refunding plan had been raised by Chairman Borah, of the senate foreign relations committee, and others. After conferences with Secretaries Kellogg and Hoover, however, Senator Borah withdrew his objection in this instance, explaining that while he was opposed to such loans in principal pending a settlement of the French debt, he would not press the point in this case because of the importance to the country generally of the tariff negotiations. In its announcement that it would act favorably on the refunding of the $100,000,000 loan, when requested to do so by the American bankers at interest, the state department said "this refunding transaction involves no advance of new money to France." The refunding is sought so that France can have the benefit of a much lower interest rate now prevailing in the New York market.

Besides urging restoration of the minimum French duties, the American note invites the French government to point out instances of tariff administration about which it has complained and also agrees to a review of plant quarantines provided France will make a like review of its own plant regulations and quarantines affecting American imports.

MRS. LILLIENDAHL AND BEACH ARE DENIED BOND

MAYS LANDING, N. J., Oct. 10—(AP)—Mrs. Margaret T. Lillendahl, and Willis Beach, her reputed admirer, jointly charged with the murder of the woman's husband, Dr. A. William Lillendahl, today were refused their release from jail on bond after they had pleaded not guilty to slaying the elderly retired physician.

Facing each other for the first time since a few days after the killing on September 15, they heard supreme court Justice Luther A. Campbell set November 28, for the beginning of their trial.

Neither spoke or noticed the other in the short time they were in the crowded court room.

Mrs. Lillendahl appeared very serious and nervously clasped her hands during the proceedings, while Beach came into the court room in almost jovial humor.

Dr. Lillendahl, whose age has been variously given from 65 to 72, was killed as he was motoring with his wife, who is 42. She says they were attacked by two Negroes who jumped on their automobile on a lonely road near Hammonton, shot the physician three times and then robbed him.

GOAT FIGURES IN SHOW IN BROADWAY, NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Oct. 10—(AP)—A goat made its debut as an actor tonight for the first time in Broadway's variegated history.

Wearing whiskers more real than those commonly seen on actors, "Billy," chewing his cud, drags his Negro master across the stage in a soap box wagon in the new play, "Porgy," a dramatization of the novel by Dubose Heyward, produced for the first time tonight by the Theater guild.

Amusing tales of "Billy's" misdoings during rehearsals are told by some of the 53 Harlem Negroes in the cast of "Porgy." "Billy" takes acting none too pleasantly at times, and several times has jumped the traces of his soap-box wagon and played havoc with footlights, and enlightening diet.

There is one talk told of how "Billy's" appetite, whetted by a realistic pastoral scene, became so furious that he tried to lunch off imitation grass and trees and strong hands were required to save the scenery.

HIS HOME ON FIRE AS HE WROTE ON FIRE PREVENTION

ST. ALBANS, Vt., Oct. 10—(AP)—Milton R. Vail's ideas on fire prevention underwent a slight revision when the fire department was called to his own home today. Mr. Vail, editor of the St. Albans Messenger, was sitting at his desk, calmly writing an editorial commending the objects of fire prevention week.

"'An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure' in most things" he had just written, "but in the case of fire, prevention is worth 99 per cent."

After the firemen had put out the blaze in a mattress in his home he returned to his desk and added this post script to his editorial:

"Of course there are at times unpreventable fires, but the percentage is almost negligible."

Y., for the killing of a boy, went on trial here today for the murder of Stella Pomikala of Lawrence at Salisbury Beach on June 5 last.

Court records for Massachusetts were broken when a jury was chosen in one hour and 15 minutes from a panel of 102 men and District Attorney William G. Clark launched into the state's description of how Miss Pomikala was choked to death on the beach when she went for a night stroll from the photographer's shop where she was employed.

The state proposed to show, District Attorney Clark said, that Taylor was employed in the vicinity from June 3 to 5 and that on the day of the murder he visited a drug store at the beach and bought a pair of colored goggles similar to a pair found beside the girl's body the next morning.

Miss Pomikala went for her walk about 7.30 p. m. Taylor left on the same direction sometime later and late in the evening was seen returning without the goggles he had been wearing.

A. F. OF L. DENOUNCES POLICE POWER OF PENNSYLVANIA

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 10—(AP)—Notice was served on the state of Pennsylvania today that the American Federation of Labor intends mobilizing its political power in that state to oppose what was termed indiscriminate delegation of police powers to "thugs and gunmen" during the coal miners' strike. "I cannot conceive of such conditions existing anywhere except in the boss-ridden state of Pennsylvania," Green said. "I hereby serve solemn notice on that state that unionized labor proposes to mobilize its political strength and by means of the ballot drive from office those officials who have debauched their authority by conferring police power on corporations."

She was Miss Hilda Berard, who was appointed acting city clerk and treasurer to fill the unexpired term of James S. Donahue, Jr., resigned. He had resided in this city for the past 30 years. Surviving him is his wife, Mrs. Lucy Noel Pratt and several cousins residing in Massachusetts. Mr. Pratt held a wide reputation two decades ago as a driver of racing horses on the several half-mile tracks of New England. He was a noted roque player and participated in several tournaments of the National Roque association held in Norwich. He was caretaker of the local roque courts until the Willimantic Roque club dissolved some five years ago. Mr. Pratt was a traveling salesman for many years up to some 15 years ago when he and several others were injured in a railroad crash in the Hoosic Tunnel. He sustained a shock in this accident and had never fully recovered.

A Buick coach driven by Representative A. Linn Weatherhead of this city was badly damaged at Montville Sunday evening when it dropped into an open culvert after the driver had veered to one side to avoid a car on which the driver was replacing a tire. A wrecking car was called from Norwich to haul the machine away.

A male companion of the driver was injured and he received treatment from a physician. White was arraigned in the Stafford borough court this morning on a charge of reckless driving. NOANK

The Crushers football team played the West Mystic Bull Dogs eleven at Williams field Saturday afternoon before about 25 fans, for the field was wet and the day was rainy, but both captains said they would play the game. When Referee A. Brocky's whistle was heard for the game to start West Mystic team received the ball on the kick-off by Capt. George Deveau, halfback, then West Mystic made a march down the field and got on the 10-yard line. The ball slipped from the hands of Wilbur, fullback. The Crushers went up to the middle of the field when Right Halfback Bracsci got the wrong signal and a West Mystic player fell on the ball. It was a battle of mud for all the players were covered. The score at the end of the first half was a tie; each had 7 points. The light team from West Mystic made a strong bid for the game and was using the forward pass, but could not gain much for the Crushers were too heavy and lost the ball on downs. The fans saw a good game of football for such a wet day. Big Mike Passi fumbled the ball and Light Horse Fitzgerald picked it up and made a long run of 30 yards for a touchdown, dodging about seven men that were in his way. The next game will be played in West Mystic. Referee, Brocky; scorer, De Blaise.

Metam MacGrath spent the week end with friends in New York.

Saturday the rain did not keep the hunters away from the wild birds and squirrels, but the leaves are still so thick that it is hard to see game. A good bird dog will chase them so a hunter with a keen eye can land his Sunday dinner. Frank Chesebro made a good day of it, getting a plump pheasant. He shot at another one but it got away from the dog for the brush was thick. The outlook for the season seems to be plenty of wild game.

Thieves are busy at the shore front in the village. One local fisherman went down to the dock early in the morning to go out to the fishing ground and found around $400 worth of fishing stuff taken, including two large nets, rope and tackles, broom and even the draw-bucket. His cabin was locked, or he thought that they might have taken the engine away with them. Several boats had something taken. The fishermen fear that they may have to put a lock on the paint that is on the sides of the boats. Each year the shore thieves pay a visit to the village. From now on a close watch will be kept by the fishermen to see if they can catch the dishonest prowlers.

DANIELSON

BURLINGHAM PROPERTY SOLD TO BROOKLYN SAVINGS BANK

(Special to The Bulletin)

DANIELSON, Oct. 10.—An improvement as substantial, and more beautifying, than any one recalls in Danielson in a long term of years was forecasted today when announcement was made by the Brooklyn Savings bank of the purchase from Attorney Arthur G. Bill of what for several generations has been known as the Burlingham property at the corner of Main and Academy street. The purchase of this property is the first step in the bank's plans to erect a building of its own, something that will be done during 1928.

Structures on the Burlingham property are to be removed in their entirety, leaving a large plat of land on which the new bank will stand, well back from the street and allowing for awns at the front, rear and both sides. The purchase agreement includes an arrangement under which all tenants now occupying the property will have vacated prior to March 1, next, and soon after that date, as plans now are, clearing of the site will begin, to allow of the construction of the new bank during the spring and summer of next year.

It now develops that the Brooklyn Savings bank has been negotiating for the purchase from Attorney Bill of the Burlingham property for weeks. This financial institution, founded in Brooklyn in 1872, and doing business here for more than a decade, has grown in strength and resources with such rapidity during the past few years that it requires more adequate banking quarters than it at present enjoys. For a year or more the officials of the bank have had the construction of a new building in mind and have given the subject very careful consideration. Their selection of the site they now have purchased is the result of this.

While no plans for the new bank have been drawn nor any particular type decided upon, a building committee has been appointed to go into these details. The new banking house likely will be occupied exclusively by the bank. Substantial construction, beauty and convenience will be three predominant considerations in deciding upon plans.

It is promised that this new bank, located next to the public library, which is next to the Westfield Congregational church, will contribute to the making of a setting such as few towns the size of Danielson in all New England can beat. It is not difficult for one familiar with that particular section of the borough to visualize this group of fine buildings surrounded by velvety green lawns extending all the way from Academy to Reynolds street, along Main, and then, across Reynolds street, the verdant reaches of Davis park.

Not even an official of the bank is prepared to say today with any degree of accuracy just what the new bank building will cost, but it is regarded as very probable that it will be well in excess of $100,000.

The buildings that will have to be removed to clear the location for the new bank include a two-story frame building occupied for business purposes on the street level floor and by apartments above and the old Burlingham homestead, adjoining the Public library property. The site the bank has purchased has a frontage of about 93 feet on Main street and 148 on the Academy street side, extending back nearly to School street. The location is regarded as ideal and will lend itself readily to the development of an especially attractive banking house.

J. A. Atwood is president of the Brooklyn Savings bank, F. A. Jacobs, vice president and Sidney W. Ford secretary-treasurer.

That years are fleeting is again proved to mind by the fact that the civic federation is entering upon its 15th year of service in Danielson. This remarkable organization is outstanding in its achievements in the interest of public health. Few realize that in all of the years of its existence the splendid service it has given has been maintained by purely voluntary contributions of money. The public is quite familiar with its success in maintaining a visiting nurse service, with its free chest clinics at the health station in the town hall building every month. Among its innumerable friends are scores of people who have personally benefited through its services. Each year, in the fall, the federation has a Tag day, and this year has selected November 5, as the date. The hope has been expressed that this effort will produce at least $500 next month, a figure that has been nearly attained in previous campaigns of this sort.

After a long illness, Miss Mary E. Hill, who would have been 65 years of age had she lived until next Sunday, died late last night at her home on Broad street. Miss Hill was a daughter of Joshua and Mercyette Hill and was born in the town of Plainfield. She spent all of her life in that town and in Danielson. Miss Hill leaves a sister, Mrs. Byron Baton, and a niece, Mrs. Horatio Walker, both of Providence.

There was only one case for the Killingly town court to consider this morning, Judge W. Fenner Woodward presiding, this having to do with a violation of the motor vehicle regulations.

A red fox came to town this morning, victim of the unerring aim of Game Warden Gurdon E. Whitney, one of the best known of the fox hunters of the country. This is the first fox reported hereabouts this fall.

Because the number of registrations was not sufficient to warrant the expense of having an evening school here during the fall and winter, the registrants, about 35 of them, have been notified from the office of Supt. W. E. Parker that there will be no such school this year.

Chief McFarland's warning that fast driving through the business section would bring penalties has had the effect of slowing down the speed at which many have been dashing about.

The Danielson Rotary club is taking a lively interest in the affairs of the Killingly High school football squad, which will play again this season on the Quinebaug grounds.

Current events were discussed this afternoon when members of the Ladies' Reading circle held their first meeting of the season with Mrs. Elliott E. Allen of Main street.

INGROWN NAIL

Turns Right Out Itself

A few drops of "Outgro" in the crevice of the ingrowing nail reduces inflammation and pain and so toughens the tender, sensitive skin underneath the toe nail, that it can not penetrate the flesh, and the nail turns naturally outward almost over night.

"Outgro" is a harmless antiseptic manufactured for chiropodists. However, anyone can buy from the drug store a tiny bottle containing directions.

JEWETT CITY

LISBON SPECIAL ELECTION GIVES MELL, D, A MAJORITY

(Special to The Bulletin)

JEWETT CITY, Oct. 10—In the old town house at Lisbon today, there was a town meeting and then some. Rev. William J. Reynolds, was moderator, and called the meeting to order, declaring the polls open to decide the tie election of last Monday, when Earl Palmer, rep., and Frank Mell, dem., ran even Steven, for the office of treasurer of the town of Lisbon. A total of 216 votes cast, showed 116 for Mell, and was so declared by the moderator. In the election of October 3d, 209 votes were cast, this count indicating that seven more people visited the polls to settle the tie, than were at the regular town meeting, which gives evidence of some scouring around the hills.

Both Mr. Mell and Mr. Palmer are estimable young men. Of the 169 towns in Connecticut only a negligible percent divide their treasurer and clerk. Mr. Mell is now town clerk and treasurer of the town of Lisbon, one of the very few towns in the state, that is practically out of debt. In fact, its outstanding liabilities will be retired in 1936, without the levying of the usual sinking fund tax.

The first south-bound flock of geese was reported from F. H. Gilbert's Monday. After dark Sunday night a flock estimated to be 50 or more, passed over his home on the east state road.

No especial demonstration marked fire prevention day in the borough, yet Fire Marshal G. H. Prior and Fire Chief L. E. Boucher, are always on record as being alive to any safeguard touching the hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of property situated within the precincts under their protection. Both men are equally keen that no flagrant infraction of the borough's fire laws shall be allowed to exist.

Warnings are issued to keep all chimneys clean and to see that no collections of inflammable material be allowed to accumulate. Insurance reports and fire loss records stand to show that as the direct result of fire fighting efficiency, and cooperation in the matter of preventative regulations, this town's fire loss is exceedingly low.

The figures show $16,550 in 1925, and $6,915 in 1926. This year so far there is only an estimated loss of $5,000.

Thirty years ago next Thanksgiving, George A. Haskell, Patrick B. Driscoll, W. H. Bennett, F. E. Olds, F. C. Whiting and E. H. Hiscox, went over to Beach pond for a day's fishing through the ice. During the day Russell M. Brown and Lafayette F. Kinney, came over in Lafe's old buckboard. After getting lost in the big woods that border the east boundary of the pond, they finally found the party, along late in the afternoon, arriving just in time to sit in on the great iron kettle of fish chowder which had been prepared by Messrs Olds and Driscoll. Considering the merry party, only three are alive today: Olds, Whiting and Hiscox. During the late afternoon, a young man came swinging down the pond on skates. Joining the party he gave his name as Dave Kenyon, and said that he lived over the mountain beyond the pond, and that his father was a charcoal burner. No more homely and crude affair had ever been seen by the Jewett City fishermen than the skates which the lad had fastened to the soles of his heavy cow-hide boots, by means of several yards of clothes line and lath cord. The runners extended far out beyond the toes of his old boots, and were turned up in fancy curves, but when it came to bringing these contrivances he wore into play, he certainly was a master. No fancy Canadian ice king ever had anything on that coal burner's shoe. Wonderful speed he made on the pond, returning in long swinging strokes, as though skates and man were a moving figure on glass. Down at the end of the pond near a small island, choosing a smooth place, he shot out like an arrow from a bow twisting and turning up and down. When he had finished, there upon the hard eaten ice, sprang out the name David Kenyon, done in letters twelve feet high. Presently Driscoll's chowder was announced, and Dave being invited, allowed as how he would show them how to eat, and he it said this due to his credit—he knew all about it. Barring a few clinkers and a fish bone or two, those still surviving of that party have never eaten such chowder since.

Dave declared that in all his 18 years of life, he had never seen a passenger train. Once, he said, he had seen freight cars of Hope Valley, but never those in which people ride. Passing strange this seemed, as the party recalled the six trains that run through Jewett City every week day. Times have changed and herein is the rub. Children are being born hereabouts now-day, who as they grow to be straight lads and lassies, will not see on all passenger train, even as the Beach pond boy, unless their journey out of town to accomplish it. For there is no such animal here now.

At the Boardman sale in Griswold Monday, among the articles struck off without reserve to the highest bidder were a number of antiques, including vases, old furniture and ornaments dating from another age. Buyers were there from New York and Boston, with many nearby bidders. Ancient chairs ran up to $35 while Colonial vases and crockery reached the mark of $18 to $20 a piece. It is said by people present that some of the finest true antiques values to be met with anywhere in the state, were secured by the enthusiastic buyers from distant points.

RADIO REGULATION

When radio is discussed there are millions interested, indirectly if not directly. They reach from coast to coast and border to border in this country, but they also reach beyond the borders into both Canada and Mexico, for radio is not a respecter of boundaries except as regulated.

Thus when the representatives of Canada, Mexico and Cuba met with the federal radio commission at Washington it meant that listeners-in in almost all of North America were much concerned as to the results of the conference.

The radio commission is engaged in the difficult task of establishing regulations that will overcome those unsatisfactory conditions which developed following the ending of federal control. That control was in the interest of better conditions and chaos developed quite as quickly as was predicted, as soon as that was checked. The commission has been able through the many changes made to greatly improve conditions and eliminate interference. It doesn't claim that the task has been completed but there is a betterment that all will admit.

But while progress is being made there is a feeling on the part of Canada, Mexico and Cuba that they should be allowed more channels for broadcasting. Of the existing 96 channels six are assigned to Canada at the present time. Canada would like to have 12 and Mexico and Cuba want channels of their own, not possessed at the present time.

The countries are all so situated that regulation in this country involves them all to a certain extent. Interference seems certain unless such regulation is accomplished and as may be appreciated such regulation is not the easiest thing in the world when it is realized that more stations than can be accommodated want to broadcast in this country. Thus the outcome of the conference is going to be awaited with keen interest by those who are interested in radio and keeping of interference to a minimum.

FARM FIRES

It is just the right time for the appeal which has been made by Secretary Jardine of the department of agriculture for the prevention of farm fires. Such prevention should be applied of course in all possible directions, and it cannot fail to be apparent that there is quite as great need for it on the farms as elsewhere.

When we stop to realize that fires on farms and in rural communities last year took a toll approximately of 3500 lives and damaged or destroyed property to a value of $150,000,000, which latter loss also involved the destruction of food supplies and the curtailment or suspension of gainful occupation, it is a matter that is entitled to more consideration than it has been getting in the past.

Fire losses, no matter where they occur, are always deplorable, but it is always more so when it is realized they are needless and could be prevented. Lightning, defective chimneys, careless use of matches and smoking, combustible roofs, spontaneous combustion, careless use and storage of gasoline and kerosene and faulty wiring are the chief causes offarm fires.

There is much that every farmer can do in the way of prevention, but not all the farm losses are suffered through the destruction of dwellings and other buildings. There is also that large loss which piles up through the destruction of standing timber, and it is not solely the farmer who is a menace to such woodland.

This is the season of the year when the hunters are abroad. There is a large responsibility resting upon their shoulders to see that their acts are not the cause of the destruction of another's property. Prevention here has a big opportunity. Care with firebrands is necessary and it is so important that the danger should be anticipated and guarded against. Because it involves someone else's investment is all the more reason for seeing that the trespasser is not the innocent or intentional cause of fire and the consequences which invariably follow. Form the habit of fire prevention and keep it in practice at all times.

BALKAN TROUBLES

Restlessness in the Balkans is again indicated and that is one section of the world which has always been able to stir up trouble quickly and effectively whenever desired.

The assassination of Brigadier General Kovachevitch of the Jugoslav army may be followed by the summary punishment of the guilty ones and the incident closed. It is possible, however, that it will mean the application of the match to the fuel in such a way as to spread a war cloud over that region. The Balkans have always been considered as in a smouldering state, ready to be fanned into flame, and no better excuse could be desired that the killing of such a prominent military leader to bring that about now.

Rumors have been frequent concerning unrest in that region. The general who has been killed has been a hard worker in behalf of peace, so that when he is eliminated and consideration is given to the method employed it would appear that there is the best kind of a situation being shaped for serious trouble.

Responsibility for the threatening developments are laid at the feet of Bulgarian irregulars and much depends upon the manner in which Bulgaria meets the demands of Jugoslavia in dealing with those responsible. Unquestionably the purpose of the trouble makers is to bring about a war. Whether they succeed will depend upon further developments, although that region is even now ready to spring into conflict despite the efforts which have been put forth in behalf of peace. Conditions there are decidedly uncertain with more countries than the two involved by the assassination with their ears close to the ground and their eyes glued upon the others.

The serious difficulty in connection with the latest trouble is that Bulgaria is more or less suspected of being responsible for the acts of the irregulars. Whether it can remove such suspicions and satisfy Jugoslavia in the present situation is the point on which hinges peace or conflict in that region. nd if two countries come to grips there's no telling how many others may become involved.

GETTING EMERGENCY FUNDS

When Senator McKellar of Tennessee made his appeal to the president concerning the repair of the broken levees through the Mississippi valley, he was told that it was believed funds could be found which would make possible the early completion of that work. Early repair of the levees is desirable to prevent the Mississippi from rushing through those crevasses in case of high water during the next few months and again damaging the countryside.

In keeping with the confident expression by President Coolidge is the statement by Budget Director Lord to the effect that funds have been found which will make possible the completion of this work early in November. Certain funds which it was thought could be applied were found not available under the law, but others can be used and the river commission has been notified to that effect.

Closing up the 225 crevasses will be done in such a manner as to meet any ordinary high water. More work to make them permanent will be required, but the repairs will meet the situation for the time being.

When congress assembles in December, it can be expected to make provision for this particular work. That will mean reimbursing such sources as the temporary financial assistance was secured from and making such additional appropriation as may be required to reconstruct the levee systems in accordance with expert recommendations for the permanent safeguarding of that region.

Finding a legal source of money for this work not only overcomes the necessity of establishing a bad precedent, but indicates the desirability of considering the wisdom of making certain funds available for use in case of serious emergencies.

ELECTION SUPERVISION

Senator Borah, as chairman of the foreign relations committee, has been much interested in the American marines stationed in Nicaragua for the protection of American lives and property. He has been aware, of course, that it was the purpose of this government to supervise the next election in that republic and when he made inquiry concerning the extent of that service he was informed that that supervision included complete direction from registration to counting the vote.

Secretary Kellogg declares that it is the purpose of this government to see that the voters of Nicaragua are given a full and free opportunity to vote in accordance with the dictates of their conscience. That is of course as it should be, but not always as it is.

There could be no half way measures undertaken in the supervision of the election and expect them to be successful. It will be no easy job to find out who are entitled to vote and who are not, but it must be done for it is time to demonstrate the value of a free ballot box and to show that voting is not governed by armed representatives of any particular faction.

There will be sure to be criticism whatever the outcome, but when it is shown that every possible provision has been made for safeguarding the election and giving all entitled to vote a chance to do so, there can be no sincere complaint concerning the outcome. It will be nearly a year before Nicaragua's election is held but preparations are probably being made none too soon.

EDITORIAL NOTES

This is the season of the year when nature isn't alone in its activity with new colors.

The man on the corner says: Some people seem to think that generosity simply applies to the use of the other fellow's money.

It is taking Trotzky quite a while to become disillusioned about soviet Russia and the change from the days when he was in greater control.

The police chief who says "Shoot a burglar first and investigate afterward" may be all right except when the "burglar" proves to be father getting home late.

From the big increase in suspensions last week for driving autos while under the influence of liquor it wouldn't appear that the penalty was correcting the dangerous practice.

Burglars in Fall River knocked the combination off an unlocked safe and thereby locked it. Burglars should always try the door before doing anything that would interfere with their plans.

DINNING WITH THE BOSS

"Something tells me, Felicia," said Jack, as he held his wife's coat for her, "that when the boss sees you in that for-get-me-not blue frock, just matching your eyes, he will be moved to give your hard-working husband a rise, so that you can always dress so becomingly. Where did you get that outfit?"

"I made it, Jack, out of the lining of your mother's old opera cape which she gave me to make over for Nancy-girl. Isn't it lucky that evening wraps used to be so voluminous? I've worked myself almost to a frazzle trying to get it done for tonight's momentous dinner party. I'm glad you like it, dear. It doesn't look so very home-made does it?"

"Homemade!" Why, it looks just as if it came from the Rue de la Paix, my dear. All I'm afraid of is that Mrs. Aleshire will be jealous, and tell her husband that you're an extravagant little hussy."

Felicia laughed a bit tremulously. She knew that Jack felt that this dinner at his employer's would make or mar his future. Never before had they been asked within the sacred portals, and when they did enter in after trudging twice around the block in order to arrive at the exact instant designated in the invitation, their outward calm covered considerable inward perturbation.

A gracious welcome and cordial introduction to other guests reassured them, and all went well during the hors-d'oeuvre and soup courses. Then the butler set a baronial roast of beef before Mr. Aleshire, who attacked it fiercely, "as if," remarked Jack later, "he were bayoneting an enemy."

"I always like to carve my own meats," Mr. Aleshire explained, brandishing the long, sharp blade in the air. "How do you like yours?" he turned to Felicia, who had the honor of sitting next to him. "Medium?"

With a mighty stroke he thrust the knife at the roast, and a shower of juicy bits of beef landed on the front of Felicia's dress. The knife had slipped, but undaunted he made another lunge and another shower followed. He was apparently quite unconscious of the havoc he had wrought and Jack seemed to be the only one at the long table who saw what had happened. But Felicia knew that soon every one would see the greasy marks of the double disaster. Sore bit her lip to keep back the tears of mortification over the lamentable appearance of her once pretty gown.

"Of course they all think I'm disgustingly messy," she thought to herself bitterly, but with outward composure she responded gayly to the pleasant sallies of the man across the table, whom she identified as the junior member of the Aleshire firm.

The approval in Jack's eyes as the party left the dining room gave her courage to carry on at bridge, and with iron fortitude she refrained from even glancing down at the bespattered "for-get-me-not" silk. Not by word or gesture would she call attention to her host's carelessness, if she died for it!

"She doesn't seem to realize what a sight she is," murmured one of the guests to her feminine opponent at bridge, in a tone not too low for the sharp ears of Felicia at the next table. She raised her cards quickly to cover the hot color which flushed her face, and made a daring bid with perfect nonchalance.

It was not until she and Jack—the only ones to leave the party on foot—were walking away from the hated scene of her discomfiture, that she gave way to her feelings.

"Wasn't it just—just terrible?" she sobbed. "And when you—you remember how you—how you talked—talked about my dress looking—looking so Rue da la Paixish and everything, and then—and then my being a perfect sight the whole evening, and everybody thinking—thinking I couldn't eat without spilling greasy food all over myself, and we had hoped so—oh!"

Jack drew her to him and said tenderly, "Just listen to what I have to tell you. Mrs. Aleshire caught me alone in the hall and told me that I had a heroine for a wife, and that she had the worst carver in the world for a husband, and that I was to give you her love, and that she and Mr. Aleshire want us to come to Sunday night supper quite informally and bring Nancy-girl, and that they have something to tell us!" He paused for breath, then added, "Now, sweetheart, laugh that off!"

"Oh, Jack!" Felicia was crying contentedly on the shabby sleeve of his overcoat.—Exchange.

YOUR HEALTH

INDIGESTION MAY BE WARNING OF SERIOUS AILMENT

By Charles D. Lockwood, M. D., Pasadena, Calif.
Member Gorgas Memorial

Recognition of the early symptoms of disease and their correct interpretation is called diagnosis and constitutes the highest art in medicine.

Self diagnosis is a dangerous habit for persons to form. The practice of deciding what an ailment is and of undertaking its treatment without proper medical guidance leads to many tragedies. Induced by plausibly written advertisements and encouraged by friends who have had similar ailments, many people will undertake the treatment of their awn disease and often sacrifice the most propitious time for the successful management of the ailment. Persons who would not attempt to repair a piece of machinery or to conduct a serious business enterprise will unhesitatingly commit their health to advertising quacks, to cultists, or to half-trained men posing as doctors and discover only too late that they have wasted both opportunity and money.

Self diagnosis and treatment are often the result of a desire to be economical, but in the long run they prove to be expensive experiments. Skilled physicians have patients consult them after a trial of many unproven methods when their money is exhausted and their health so far undermined that little can be done for them. Most people are led to the use of patent medicines and advertised remedies by the false interpretation of their symptoms.

Most diseases begin insidiously with mild symptoms common to many diseases. For example, indigestion or stomach trouble is induced by a long series of diseases ranging from the most insignificant to the most serious, and only the finest discrimination by a skilled observer can properly evaluate these early symptoms. Diseases such as ulcer of the stomach, gall bladder disease, appendicitis, intestinal poisoning, tuberculosis, kidney disease, cancer, heart disease, and diseases of the female organs may first show themselves in the form of so-called indigestion. It is obvious that only one familiar with the various manifestations of disease can hope to interpret these symptoms and discover their origin. The absurdity of undertaking their treatment without discovering the source of the reflex disturbance of the stomach must be clear to every thinking person.

The early signs of cancer furnish a guide to the recognition of this dread disease at a time when in many instances it is easily curable by a minor operator. Likewise, the early symptoms of tuberculosis, so often interpreted as bronchitis or a simple cold, are signboards to the physician which point the way to sure and early cure.

Dr. William Cuno, who is mentioned for the post of German ambassador to the United States, served as German chancellor during a critical period in the early days of the republic. As general manager of the Hamburg-American lines he has become widely known both inside and outside Germany. He was born in Thuringia in 1876 and was educated at Berlin and Heidelberg universities. For a number of years he practiced law in Berlin. During the World war he was an economic and financial adviser to the German government. Several years ago he visited the United States to confer with American shipping interests. Although not a man of brilliant intellect, or extraordinary talents, Dr. Cuno has a high degree of personal charm, and a personality that has won him many friends.

Stories That Recall Others

Look in the Bible

Mary, age five, was visiting her grandmother's who prides herself on correct pronunciation. One day while grandmother was away a neighbor dropped in. Mary attempted to entertain the visitor with bits of home affairs. She said: "Grandmother talks so funny; she says ap-ricots for a-pricots, so I just told her to go look in the Bible."

Asleep in Church

Mr. and Mrs. X. and Mrs. Y. were attending a church other than their own, and as the minister finished with his sermon he followed with a prayer. Mrs. X. and Mrs. Y. did not notice the change, and on looking around, Mrs. X. said to Mrs. Y., "Look, almost everyone is asleep." Mrs. X. nudged her husband to awaken him. It was then she realized the mistake.

JOHN P. BARSTOW

(From Norwich Bulletin, Oct. 4, 1898)

The death of the Hon. John P. Barstow occurred at his home on Huntington Place at 11:15 o'clock Tuesday morning. He had been seriously ill for several months, within a few days has failed rapidly. His death removes one of the oldest business men in this city, where he has always had the respect and good will of his associates in business, and the love of his intimate friends.

Mr. Barstow was born in Augusta, Maine, in November, 1822 and removed to this state in 1840, going to Canterbury as associate with his uncle, Isaac Backus, Esq., in the manufacture of stoves. In 1846 they came to this city, where the firm name became Backus and Barstow, and opened a handsome store near the present location of Breed opera house. This was destroyed by fire, and the firm moved to the building on Water street, where the business has since been located.

Colonel Edwin Palmer became a partner after Mr. Backus had left the firm, and the business name became Barstow and Palmer. In 1876 Frank H. Smith and George S. Byles were taken into partnership by Mr. Barstow, who was then conducting the business alone. As J. P. Barstow and company the firm has continued until the death of the senior partner.

Mr. Barstow was representative to the legislature in 1880 and 1881 and was at one time alderman in the court of common council. He was one of the founders of the Storrs Agricultural college and a trustee of the Middletown Industrial school. He was a director of the Chelsea Savings bank.

Mr Barstow was a member of the Broadway Congregational church, always active in the promotion of the society's interest, a prompt and generous contributor to church enterprise and charity, and a worker for the moral and religious advancement of the people. He believed firmly in temperance and for years has contributed money and his personal services for the cause of temperance. He was one of the organizers of the City Mission and has since continued in that helpful position.

Mr. Barstow was married in 1850 to Miss Sharpe of Pomfret, and his wife and daughter, Miss Mattie Barstow, survive him. Mrs. J. N. Huntington and Mrs. John Backus are his sisters.

FIRE PREVENTION WEEK SLOGANS

Forestall fire—carefulness will do it.

Don't let familiarity breed contempt—with gasoline.

An ounce of prevention is worth a ton of ashes.

Defective chimneys and flues are channels of disaster.

Unnecessary accumulation of waste is negligence. Prevent fires!

Watch where the sparks park.

Make every day a Fire Prevention day.

If practice brings perfection, let's practice Fire Prevention.

Never give a spark the benefit of the doubt.

Don't smoke yourself out of a job.

Every cigarette smoker is a potential fireburg.

To prevent a fire is better than to lament one.

Matches plus children equals fires.

Never neglect your iron, to disconnect.

Fight fire hazards, and you'll fight fewer fires!

Can the ashes, for safety's sake!

Home or elsewhere, use fire with care!

Clean your furnace pipes and flue. Be safe from fire the winter through.

Mary had a little fault,
With matches she would play.
Until she learned some safety rules
And now she keeps away.

IN DAY'S NEWS

KUMAMOTO

"Kumamoto, hard hit by a recent Japanese typhoon, is in a section of Japan that has longest had contacts with the western world," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"It is on Kyushu, the southernmost of the larger Japanese islands, and only 50 miles from Nagasaki, chief city and port of the south. Kumamoto is not a coast city, but lies less than 10 miles inland in an extensive plain. Its population numbers between 60,000 and 70,000, and it is thus comparable in size to Lincoln, Nebraska; Mobile, Alabama, and Altoona, Pennsylvania.

"Kumamoto is not old as eastern cities go. It was founded about 1599 by a famous overseas warrior of Japan who built a great castle on his return from a campaign in Korea. Within half a century the town that sprang up near the stronghold became one of the largest and most prosperous cities of Kyushu. The ruins of the huge castle, parts in good repair, stand today and constitute one of the most famous of such structures in the islands. Massive walls and buttresses are scattered about in a setting of ancient pines. Here and there a turret rises; but the chief towers were burned during a civil war.

"The city is one of the leading provincial towns of Japan, far different from metropolitan Tokyo and industrial Osaka. Life moves along more quietly than in the large cities Old families maintain their seats there and many customs of the past linger.

"Kumamoto has known other natural outbursts than the recent typhoon. Twenty miles to the east lies Asosan, reputed to be the largest volcanic crater in the world. On more than one occasion ashes from the volcano have fallen in Kumamoto. The vast elliptical crater is an ancient one, 17 miles across from north to south, and 10 from east to west. The active volcano is in a cone rising within the old crater. More than 30,00 people inhabit villages and small towns on the floor of the ancient crater despite the steam vents, geysers, and lava pits that exist near-by.

"Japan's first contact with Europe was the island of Kyushu in 1530 when the Portuguese arrived. Nagasaki became their headquarters, and their influence rapidly spread over Kyushu. Christianity took especial hold in this island, and the converts at one time numbered more than 100,000.

"Almost within sight of Kumamoto, on the peninsula of Shimabara, took place in 1637 one of the most tragic incidents in the history of Christian missionary activity. The rulers of Japan had ordered the supression of Christianity. The Christians resisted and 30,000 of them assembled on the Shimabara peninsula. After a siege of three months they were all put to the sword. Christianity was wiped out in the island, and Japan began her period of isolation from the west which was to be brought to an end by Commodore Perry in 1853."

Charles E. Hughes was the first Baptist ever to run for the presidency of the United States and Warren G. Harding was the first of that denomination to be elected to the office.

Breakfasts That "Stand By" You

Quaker Oats Urged Widely by Authorities

FOREMOST educators, editors as well as leading business institutions like General Electric Company, now are widely urging breakfasts that "stand by" as an important aid to success.

That's because it is now known that over 70% of the day's important work, in offices, stores, etc., falls into the four morning hours—the hours from 8:30 to 12:30.

In most American schools, including Princeton, Yale, most State Universities and some 2,000 grade schools throughout the country, 80% of the important classes are held before luncheon.

Thus, largely on expert advice, millions now start days with Quaker Oats—food that "stands by" one through the morning.

Excellently balanced in protein, carbohydrates, minerals and the important Vitamine B, this delicious food is ideal for banishing listless mornings.

Today get Quick Quaker that cooks in 2½ to 5 minutes or regular Quaker Oats at grocer's.

Drop "Freezone" on that old, bothsome corn. Instantly it stops aching; then shortly you lift that sore, touchy corn right off with your fingers. You'll laugh, really! It is so easy and doesn't hurt one bit! It works like a charm, every time.

A tiny bottle of "Freezone" costs only a few cents at any drug store, and is sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, corn between the toes and callouses—Try it!

TO CLOSE BRIDGE SUNDAY DURING REPAIR WORK

The Thames river highway bridge at New London will be closed to vehicular traffic for about six hours beginning at 5 o'clock next Sunday morning while a new jack is being installed on the north end of the short draw. It was announced Monday by A. R. Collier, superintendent of bridges.

Due to the leaks which have developed in the present jack, large quantities of oil have been flowing into the river for the past few months until the consumption of oil has run into comparatively high figures. The jack is used to raise the short draw of the bridge from the solid part, which was cut from the east side of the draw and attached solidly to the west span of the bridge to permit opening when the new railroad bridge was built. The jack has a pressure of 5,500 pounds.

A large force of men will start work on the replacement of the jack at 5 o'clock Sunday morning and continue work until the job is completed. It is expected that the bridge will be open for traffic in less than six hours, but this depends on conditions found after the work starts. The bridge will not be closed to pedestrian traffic.
